ANGRY IKE SHUNS MR. K NOTE

DERANGED WOMAN MOVES FAST

Stabs Race Aide

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Negro leader who urges his race to practice nonviolent resistance to segregation, was stabbed by a Negro woman in a Harlem store Saturday. He barely escaped instant death.

The woman, whom police described as apparently mentally deranged, struck King in the left chest with a letter-opener as he was autographing copies of his recent book. The blade came extremely close to his aorta, a vital blood vessel near the heart.

He was taken to Harlem Hospital with the weapon still in his chest, and at first was described as in critical condition.

* * * *

HOWEVER, Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, who rushed to the hospital as soon as he got word of the attack quoted King as saying: "I'm going to be all right—don't worry."

Soon afterward King underwent what doctors described as delicate surgery to remove the weapon from his chest. King came out of the operating room after four hours and 20 minutes. Gov. Harriman, who left the hospital before the operation was completed, said doctors had assured him that King would recover.

A crowd of about 200 persons remained outside the hospital entrance during the evening.

* * * *

IMMEDIATELY AFTER the attack, a patrolman arrested King's assailant, Mrs. Izola Ware Curry, as she was trying to get into a taxicab outside the store. A passerby quoted her as shouting, "I've been after him for six years. I'm glad I done it."

Detectives said she apparently was a mental case, and had a loaded pistol concealed in the front of her dress.

King, a leader of the successful 1956 Negro bus boycott in Montgomery, Ala., was autographing copies of his book, "Stride Toward Freedom," for a long line of customers in Blumstein's department store on W. 125th St. when he was attacked.

A woman store employe who was helping him said the stabbing "happened so fast it was incredible."

* * * *

SHE SAID A WOMAN came up to her and asked, "Is this Martin Luther King?" and she replied: "Yes, it is."

The employe said the woman immediately stabbed King.

Police said Mrs. Curry, 42, told them she came here from Florida about two months ago and has visited New York periodically in the past. She said she was born in Adrian, Ga.

Police said Mrs. Curry had not been drinking and that she was not a user of narcotics. They said she told them she had been "persecuted by people for the past four years."

Plea Issued for Return of TB Patients

Hospital Officials Fearful They May Spread Disease

Health authorities Saturday issued a plea to 23 tuberculosis patients who walked out of a hospital in a huff because they face a transfer from Long Beach.

Report to public health officials and stay out of public restaurants and bars, pleaded Harry Du Chene, director of Long Beach General Hospital.

The walk-aways could spread TB, he warned.

They left "against medical advice" in protest of plans to transfer 125 patients to Olive View Sanitarium in the San Fernando Valley. A caravan of ambulances will leave General Hospital Monday morning.

* * * *

NINE PATIENTS started the mutiny Friday morning and eight others joined the walkout by Friday evening. Six others bolted the hospital Saturday, including one who is classed as a "deserter" because he didn't take time to check out.

Du Chene said three of the walk-aways are positive carriers of TB and other patients who walked away could become positive carriers later.

Of the three positive carriers, two reported Saturday for care under isolation at Harbor General Hospital. Hospital officials urged the third positive carrier to place himself under care again before friends and relatives contract TB.

One patient predicted the "walkout" will spread today when visitors come.

* * * *

A SPECIFIC hospital cannot force a patient to stay against his will, but a TB carrier who refuses to be placed in isolation is subject to arrest, authorities said.

The walk-away patients said they want to stay in the Long Beach area. Some also objected to the standards of care at Olive View, though Du Chene replied that Olive View also is run by a county staff.

"Some patients would object even if you transferred them to the country club," he said.

The County Department of Charities made the decision last Thursday to transfer the Long Beach patients.

Olive View, which handles only TB cases, has 150 extra beds. The transfer is part of a program to fill the county's pressing need for more general medical facilities, Du Chene said. All 417 beds at Long Beach General Hospital may be cleared of TB patients eventually, he added.

Calls Threat Unacceptable and Abusive

First Time Russ Letter Rejected by White House

NEWPORT, R. I. (UPI) — President Eisenhower angrily rejected Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's latest message on Formosa Saturday and sent it back unanswered.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said that, as far as State Department officials could recall, this was the first time a Soviet communication ever had been rejected.

Eisenhower issued a special statement at the vacation White House denouncing a letter received at the American embassy in Moscow Friday. He labeled the Soviet premier's latest charges as "unacceptable" and termed the letter "abusive" and full of "inadmissable threat."

* * * *

THE WHITE HOUSE said Richard M. Davis, U. S. charge d'affaires in Moscow, has been instructed to return the Khrushchev message to the Soviet government in Moscow this morning.

In a second statement accompanying his announcement of rejection of the Khrushchev letter, Eisenhower said the United States considers the Russian viewpoint "grotesque and dangerous."

Khrushchev's note to Eisenhower was one of the sharpest he has yet written to the President. He said the Chinese Communists would drive U. S. forces out of the Formosa area unless they leave voluntarily and promptly, and he warned again that American resistance to the Communists would mean another world war.

Khrushchev also demanded that the Nationalist-held offshore islands be turned over to Red China and said that neither the Soviet Union nor Red China would be "frightened" by American "atomic blackmail."

* * * *

AMONG Khrushchev's statements which were regarded as being of a personally abusive or insulting nature was one accusing Eisenhower of a whitewash of U. S. policy toward Formosa.

"To whitewash the aggressive actions of the United States," Khrushchev said in discussing a letter he received from Eisenhower Sept. 12, "your message

Sunny and Cooler on Tap Today

The long, hot summer waned today with fog and smog on the meteorological horizon.

Sunny, cooler temperatures were forecast for Long Beach and vicinity today and Monday, but weathermen promised repeats of heavy night and morning fog that reduced visibility to zero along the coast Saturday.

No smog was forecast for this area, but the possibility the noxious pall will put in repeat performances elsewhere in Los Angeles County loomed.

Although today is generally considered the last day of summer solar adjustments in autumnal equinox places the end of summer officially at 5 a.m. Tuesday.

40 Witnesses

LONDON (UPI) — There was no lack of qualified witnesses when the driver of a double decker bus made a wrong turn and sheared off the top of his vehicle on a low railroad bridge. Aboard were 40 policemen, members of a choir en route to a performance. Four were slightly injured.

WORK, SWEAT AND $$

On Once a Barren Isle, a City Stands

By LOU JOBST

SAN CLEMENTE ISLAND—If you scoured this barren, wind-swept Channel isle from tip to tip you'd have trouble scraping together enough material to build a lean-to.

But, Uncle Sam needed a jet air base remote from Southern California's population centers—and this mountainous island, seaward haven of a tiny Air Force radar station, Navy shore bombardment range and 15,000 wild goats, was picked.

Thus started one of the most remarkable construction operations in California history.

* * * *

THE NAVY gave Chad-JV Co., a Long Beach area firm, $6,300,000 and 450 days to do the job.

Chad's task:

Bring enough material and equipment ashore to move 8,000,000 cubic yards of soil and rock, build a runway 13,000 feet long, acres of hangar and apron areas and sustain 250 workers in primitive surroundings for more than a year with everything from steam shovels to ice cubes.

Getting to work on the "impossible" meant disposing of the "difficult" first.

Chad organized an amphibious operation and airlift on a scope that should set the Marine Corps and Air Force to blinking in admiration.

* * * *

A CONTINENTAL base or staging area was established adjacent to the Navy's landing at Seal Beach and a fleet including four 280-ton barges from the Garvin Tow Boat Co. of Terminal Island, 14 and 40 passenger speed boats was mustered.

At Long Beach Municipal Airport a DC3 transport was chartered along with a bevy of amphibious planes of Avalon Air Transport.

The planes were used to transport the island's workers to the mainland every two weeks for a two-day leave and for emergencies and inspection trips.

The land-based DC3 was held for use when the field was ready and during good weather, and the amphibians at other times.

The difficulty out of the way, Chad plunged into the problem of establishing a base on

NEARLY BURIED ALIVE

Paramount Boy Scouts Rescue Three Youngsters

A Paramount Boy Scout troop Saturday rescued three youngsters buried alive when the walls of a pipeline ditch caved in on them.

The cave-in occurred in an excavation near Virginia Ave. and Jefferson St., Paramount.

The three boys—Dennis Childress, 7, his brother, John, 11, both of 15349 S. Virginia Ave., and a pal, Jerry Barnes, 11, of 15523 S. Virginia Ave.—were burrowing tunnels into the walls of the ditch when the walls along a 30-foot section collapsed.

* * * *

MUFFLED SCREAMS of "Help! Help!" brought Scoutmaster R. E. Stitt, 38, of 15503 S. Virginia Ave., and 10 scouts of Troop 660 who were attending a meeting at Stitt's home. A neighbor of Stitt's, Chris Diaz, 34, of 15507 S. Virginia Ave., also rushed to the scene.

The scouts could make out the forms of but two boys in the hole.

The Barnes youth was trapped in a crouched position under a huge mound of earthen chunks. John, also pinned to the trench floor, had his head free.

The rescuers leaped into the pit and clawed John Childress and the Barnes youth free.

Unknown to the rescuers was the fact that Dennis was completely covered by a huge half-ton chunk of clay. His face buried in the fine silt, he was suffocating.

* * * *

JOHN POINTED to the huge hunk of earth, indicating his brother was beneath it.

Diaz and Stitt seized a long wooden plank lying across the ditch and leaped into the trench. With the scouts using the plank as a lever, Diaz and Stitt wrestled the earthen boulder off the nearly unconscious boy.

Stitt administered artificial respiration until a County Fire Department rescue team arrived at the location with a resuscitator.

The 7-year-old was taken to Ramona Hospital in Bellflower where his condition is described as good. Neither of the other two was hurt.

* * * *

SHERIFF'S DEPUTIES said Dennis was not hurt, but apparently had gotten dust into his lungs.

The excavation had been cut a block's length to Virginia Ave. by the E. C. Losch Co. Friday. The company intended to connect the pipeline to a water main at the intersection Monday and then close the pit.

The elder Childress brother told officers that a number of neighborhood children had been playing in the ditch, but at the time of the accident only he and the other two victims were in it.

A Losch Co. crew of workmen was brought to the scene Saturday evening to clear the ditch as a precautionary measure that no other children were caught beneath the tons of rubble.

Frantic Call at Sea Rushes Boats to Aid of Man—but Too Late

A frantic radio message from a woman aboard a private yacht Saturday night sent Coast Guard vessels and private boats racing across darkened seas to the aid of a drowning man . . . but too late.

The victim, identified by the Coast Guard as Herb Clowers, 35, owner of the Ocean View Garage at Huntington Beach, was pronounced dead on arrival at Seaside Hospital shortly before midnight.

* * * *

WITH GIANT flares streaking into the skies, rescue boats located the yacht Ghost at 10:15 p.m.—an hour after a frantic call for help was flashed into the craft's radio by a passenger, Anna Pierson, 6251 Fullerton Ave., Buena Park, the Coast Guard said. The boat was found about three miles off Oil Island by a Coast Guard vessel and Clowers transported as fast as possible to shore.

The woman had sobbed into the radio transmitter that her companions aboard the Ghost were holding a drowning man above the water but were unable to pull him aboard.

* * * *

COAST GUARD officials reported those on the boat said Clowers, a passenger, had gone for a swim about 9:25 p.m. and had gotten into difficulties. Because of his weight, those aboard the craft were not able to pull him to safety.

Those on the yacht in addition to the woman and the drowned man were Donald Strasburg of Los Angeles, owner of the craft; and Lloyd York, 17072 A St., Huntington Beach, according to the Coast Guard.

Watch It, Folks; Change Clock NEXT Sunday

California gets a lost hour back next Sunday when the switch from Daylight Savings Time back to Pacific Standard Time goes into effect.

There are two ways of swinging the hands of the clock back.

The first is to wait until 2 a.m. on Sunday, Sept. 28 and turn the hand back to 1 a.m. The other way is to go to bed Saturday night, and at that time just move the hand back an hour.

School Plan Seen Illegal

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., (AP)—Sixty-one Little Rock attorneys, included the son of Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark), have signed a public statement declaring their belief that Little Rock's closed high school cannot legally be opened on a private segregated basis.

The statement is in the form of a paid advertisement which will appear in Monday's editions of the Arkansas Gazette and Arkansas Democrat. The text was released to the press Saturday.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus closed four of Little Rock's high schools in a move to resist integration.

FAUBUS WANTS the school board to turn over the school to private operations so they could be reopened on a segregated basis.

A Sept. 27 referendum has been called to let voters decide whether schools shall be integrated or segregated.

The statement said that in the attorneys' opinion, "existing public school facilities of this district cannot be legally operated with any public funds as segregated private schools and, consequently . . . the real issue before the voters of the district . . . will be whether we shall open our schools under the court-approved plan of limited integration or close them althogether."

This was a reference to an integration program which Sept. 12 was upheld by the Supreme Court.

L.A.C. Says:

What Kind of World

What kind of world will the infants of today live in when they reach middle age? That is the question that should concern parents if they read the United Nations estimates of world population 40 years from now. There has never been a greater problem facing the future leaders of a world which will have more than twice as many people than there are at present.

In all the thousands of years before 1950 there were never more than 2.5 billion people at one time. It took that long to reach that figure. But in the next 50 years there will be more than 6.3 billion people. From there on the population will increase at ever greater speed. This is because fewer babies die in infancy. More grow to adulthood and produce more babies. The experts have no answer to the problem. They say it is hard to believe this will happen—something will happen to slow down the increase—but what?

The worry in the past has been that there would not be enough food for such an increase. Now the experts say the problem will be one of having enough earth above water on which so many people can live. Projecting their worries into 600 years ahead they estimate that there would be one person for each square yard of earth. That takes in the Arctic wastes, the deserts and the mountain tops.

Few of us worry about what will happen 600 years ahead. But what happens 40 years ahead concerns everyone who expects to be alive at that time. In 1950 the United States and Canada had a population of 20 to a square mile. It is estimated this will be increased to only 36 in the year 2000. By comparison Japan had 582 to a square mile in 1950 and will have 989 in 2000.

In 1950 all of Asia had 1.4 billion people, or about 58 per cent of world population. It is estimated this will increase to 3.9 billion or 63 per cent of world population in 2000. It gives an idea of why the future of the world is dependent upon finding some method of feeding and living with the overwhelming population of the presently backward countries.

The United Nations study estimates that the greatest percentage increase will be in South America, including Mexico. The increase will be from the 165 million in 1950 to 593 million in the year 2000—an increase of 263 per cent. By contrast the increase in Europe is estimated at only 65 per cent and the United States at 85 per cent.

With such increases around the world it is almost certain there will be a greatly changed economic and social system 40 years from now. No one living can foresee what it will be. But millions of children now living will experience it. We may assume they will meet it as the older generation has met the changes of the last century. But with the population increases gaining such momentum the new changes may be much more drastic than anything seen before. It makes you wonder, and worry a bit, about the kind of world your children and grandchildren will live in when they reach your age.—L.A.C.

May Raps Knowland on 'Pamphlet'

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Democratic congressional nominee Harry S. May charged Saturday "Sen. Knowland and his disciples have failed to disavow the evil services of right-wing bigot Joseph Kamp, who is being introduced to the California electorate via Mrs. Knowland."

May, seeking the 18th District (Long Beach-Lakewood-Signal Hill) seat of Rep. Craig Hosmer, said he worked in the Chicago office of the Anti-Defamation League at the time of one of pamphleteer Kamp's arrests.

"It is significant," May said, "that in view of their losing battle, Republicans of the Knowland stripe are now using fringe elements and American-style Fascists to prop up their faltering campaign. The hiring of Joseph Kamp, convicted seditionist and Nazi propagandist, by Mrs. Knowland proves the desperation and low morale of the crusaders within Republican ranks.

* * * *

"KNOWLAND, himself, has sidestepped any direct answer as to his responsibility for his wife's action. But the fact remains that Kamp's hate-mongering pamphlets are being distributed on a big scale in an attempt to hurt Pat Brown in his race for the governorship of California..

"But it is also significant that none of the other Republicans running for re-election in this state have publicly dissociated themselves from this latest attempt on the part of Mr. Knowland to disseminate poison-pen propaganda."

* * * *

BERT BETTS, Democratic nominee for state treasurer, in a talk here Saturday answered Gov. Goodwin Knight's charge that Betts is not qualified for the office.

The incumbent was appointed by Knight, Betts said, "and the fact that the governor is reduced to sniping at me as one whose only qualifications for office are that 'he has six [illegible], is an accountant, was a bomber pilot in World War [illegible] shows that the Republicans are on the defensive."

Betts, a CPA, told party workers at a luncheon meeting in Hody's Restaurant that he feels "a fiscal background is vital to the office of state treasurer. In my firm we are constantly counsellig with businessmen and thus have the kind of fiscal background which can serve the state well in the enormous fiscal problems which it faces."

* * * *

REALTORS BACK KNOWLAND

Ten past presidents of the Long Beach Board of Realtors, two past national directors of the National Real Estate Assn., one city councilman and "many of the leading real estate brokers in Lakewood, Signal Hill and Long Beach" have pledged their support for Sen. Knowland's campaign for Governor.

The real estate committee said it has arranged for use of an electronic secretary to "offer every voter an opportunity to hear Sen. Knowland in his own words give his platform on the right-to-work bill. Just dial HE 6-2363."

The committee said, "This is more than a party issue—freedom of choice should be maintained in real estate at all costs. This is not a closed committee. The present members are Lewis Reese, Marshall Stone, Reg Dupuy, Lloyd Leedom, Glen Gerken, Lewis K. Cox, Morris Holmquist, Tenny Moore, Barbara Moss, Max Livoni, Gus Swanson, H. Hershell Hart, Arnold Berg, H. A. Murray and Verne Morrill, chairman."

DEMO CHAIRMAN TO TALK

William H. Rosenthal, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, will be the speaker at the Democratic Luncheon Club meeting Tuesday noon in the Wilton Hotel.

Joseph M. Kennick, Democratic nominee for the 44th Assembly District and luncheon program, said Rosenthal would discuss, "Why the Democrats Will Win in November in California."

DOLLARS MEET PLANNED

The 44th Assembly District (west Long Beach) Democratic Club will meet at 8 p.m. Monday at 4120 Long Beach Blvd. to receive materials and plan its Dollars for Democrats campaign.

Atty. Mervin Glow, campaign chairman, will preside. Club President Ed Penn said all interested Democrats are invited.

* * * *

ALAN CRANSTON

Alan Cranston, Democratic nominee for State Controller, told the Monterey Park Democratic Club "good government would best be served by the election of a Governor and State Controller of the same political party." Then he noted that he is supporting Pat Brown but that the GOP incumbent Controller Robert C. Kirkwood has failed to endorse Sen. Knowland for Governor.

HERB KLOCKSIEM

Assemblyman Herb Klocksiem, 44th District (west Long Beach), said he has written Newton B. Drury, chief of the State Division of Beaches and Parks, protesting the closure of Doheny State Park to trailer use.

Noting the growing popularity of trailers, Klocksiem appealed to the division to "give serious consideration to opening at least a fair portion of Bolsa Chico Beach in Orange County for the use of trailers when this wonderful beach is ready for the enjoyment of the public."

PAT HILLINGS

President Eisenhower has endorsed the candidacy of Congressman Pat Hillings for California Attorney General, Hillings three state co-chairmen announced.

The President's letter to Hillings said, in part: "It is my earnest hope that you have overwhelming success in your campaign for the high office of Attorney General of the State of California. Once you are elected, I know the people of California will be gratified by your service in that capacity as they and I have been by your services to all America in the United States Congress."

Uneasy Truce Between Poland Cardinal, Reds

Formerly Lauded by Communists, He's Under Fire

By COLIN FROST

WARSAW (AP) — The second floor window of the house on Honey St. opened wide and a black-clad figure walked smiling on to the balcony.

A silent crowd knelt on the lawn below. Poland's Cardinal Wyszynski was back in Warsaw after three years of enforced confinement and it seemed that Communists and Catholics would try to get along.

This was October, 1956, with Poland in ferment and Hungary ablaze. Wyszynski, preaching a message of work and hope, kept Poland quiet—and the Communists praised him for it.

Now less than two years later, this left-of-center primate is under fire again, pictured by the Communist press as leading an illegal anti-state political campaign.

* * * *

WYSZYNSKI WAS in the same two-story house on Honey St. when at 2 p.m. last July 21 plainclothesmen from a provincial prosecutor's office walked into the Hall of Knights at Jasna Gora Monastery and into the private corridors beyond.

As soon as he heard of the raid and the fight between police and pilgrims that followed, the cardinal drove the 140 miles to the monastery.

From the monastery he issued his call for continual prayer to answer the mounting anti-religious press campaign that followed the raid.

* * * *

FROM THE MONASTERY the prosecutor's men took hundreds of mimeographed copies of the cardinal's recent sermons.

To those accustomed to the freedom of speech of the West, the sermons look innocent enough. To the Poles, whose home press is heavily censored, they were dynamite.

It is clear that the cardinal thought carefully before publishing. Legal experts were called in to probe the censorship law. They reported it riddled with loopholes.

Every one of the booklets carried the imprint: "Issued by order of the primate of Poland." Thus the cardinal took all responsibility and was ready to answer for it if need be.

The root cause of Communist displeasure with the once-praised cardinal lies in the church's campaign for moral regeneration of the nation before the 1,000th anniversary of Polish christendom in 1966.

* * * *

TO PRESS THIS campaign, he has called "sectional" pilgrimages to Jasna Gora—teachers, writers, students, railroadmen, mother, nurses and so on.

His sermons to these groups —the sermons which he had reprinted—pulled no punches.

To the students, he said:

"They gave you privileges as the reward for bending your brains beneath the yoke. The young said: We want truth. And instead they received propaganda.

"Now a new attack is launched from the side of morals. The youth which could not be won by artificial truth is tempted now by moral laxity."

While the cardinal seeks to lead a national renaissance, the Communists say he is leading an organized attack on their power.

An uneasy truce currently hangs between the two factions.

Poland and the world watch anxiously to see whether that truce can survive the newest Communist fire.

The Once-Mighty Big Top Now Only Memories, Decay

By GENE PLOWDEN

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Every now and then a proud but confused old peacock pokes his head above the weeds and utters a raucous cry. It sounds like: "Help! Help! Help!"

The cry echos through silent buildings, paint-peeled railroad cars and deserted kraals on a desolate 200-acre tract about five miles southeast of town.

The buildings, cars, kraals and weeds are the remains of what was once the famed winter quarters of the big top, the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus.

The big top deserted its winter quarters in 1956 when, for economic reasons, it became a compact streamlined show, playing fair grounds and auditoriums, traveling mostly by auto and on the road all but two weeks of the year.

* * * *

FOR A CIRCUS fan, a visit to the hallowed winter quarters would be a melancholy journey into the past, particularly in the spring when it was a beehive of activity as the circus readied itself for the road.

Now the gates are locked. The property is guarded by a watchman and two vicious dogs. Few strangers are admitted to the premises that once attracted tourists by the thousands.

Long lines of what used to be glistening silver coaches, stock and flat cars rusting and rotting, sit on tracks hidden by weeds and tall grass.

Cavernous buildings are filled with tractors, trucks, trailers, poles and canvas, fast decaying. In a corner stands the high-wheeled old Rolls Royce, built especially for the late John Ringling in 1923 for $20,000.

The big menagerie barn where rows of cages once held lions, tigers, leopards, panthers, monkeys and birds is empty now save for some circus wagons and a cage of porcupines.

* * * *

THE GREAT kraals where 40 elephants munched hay and begged for peanuts are empty. And so are the pits where the hippopotami and sea cows used to lie at ease.

The pines, once strung with rigging on which aerialists trained, stand ragged alone. And school is out for the baby elephants, who used to be coaxed to mount pedestals in a kraal lined with blocks of ABC's.

Footsteps echo emptily in the office behind the old press car, where John Ringling North signed with a flourish the 1947 papers that gave him 51 per cent of the circus and put him in command.

On these acres John Ringling proudly laid out his circus' winter quarters more than 30 years ago, bringing the whole enterprise down from Bridgeport, Conn.

Today's edition of the circus has no trains, tents, menagerie or midway. In fact, the program is more like that offered by the five Ringling brothers when they first went on the road with their "Carnival of Fun" in 1882.

Some equipment has been sold and the animals have found homes in zoos and parks. The last of the elephants and bears left here late in August.

Will there be a resurrection? Maybe.

Minority stockholders, headed by Mrs. Hester Ringling Sanford and her son, Stuart G. Lancaster, are working toward that end.

Mrs. Sanford is the adughter of the late Charles Ringling, one of the founding brothers. She and Lancaster recently resigned from the board of directors.

Opinion is sharply divided as to whether the circus can be brought back under canvas and built up to something approaching its former glory.

* * * *

LAST JULY 16 on the second anniversary of the passing of the big top, Mrs. Sanford issued an appeal "to all the young in heart." Her ideal, she said, is to bring back the circus and restore it to its former magnitude and universal appeal, under canvas.

Some claim the circus currently is in better financial condition than it has been in years and will show a profit this season.

Others are skeptical at such claims and say the circus is only a "glorified girlie show" or a "Broadway production" entirely unlike the old time show with its thrills and smells and excitement.

Lancaster says financial help is assured, once plans are formulated and the organization is set up.

"All we need to put the show back on its feet is the Ringling name and the Madison Square Garden contracts," said Lancaster.

Actually, these are the principal assets of the circus that once traveled aboard 100 railroad cars, spread 18 acres of canvas, employed 1,500 persons and played 200 cities a season.

Mrs. Sanford's appeal brought letters from more than 500 persons in 38 states, she said. They came from old circus performers, from grownups and children, from whole families and organizations. Some even offered financial aid.

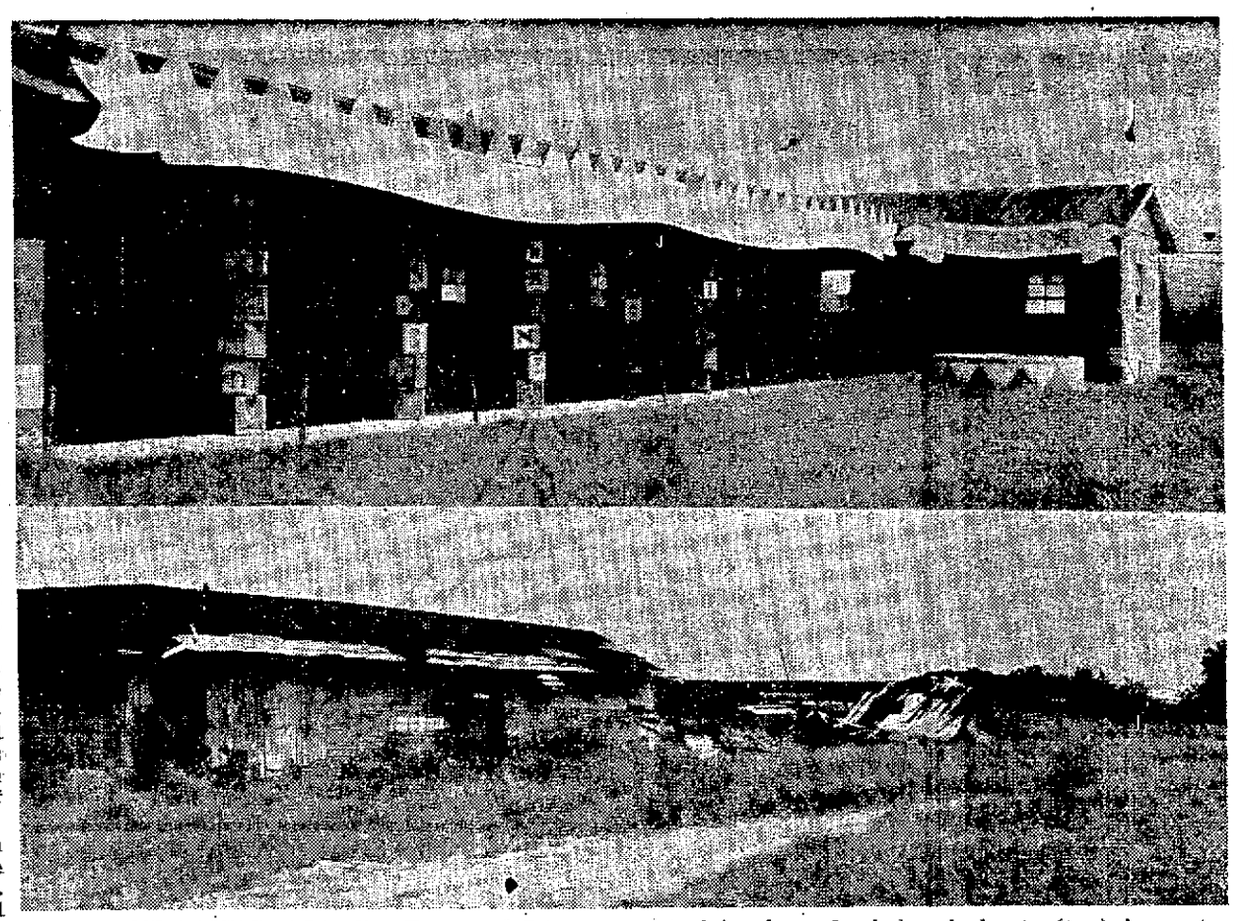

The Rev. E. S. Sullivan, national chaplain of the Circus Fans of America, wrote that "to the general public, the circus world does rise and fall with the fortunes—or misfortunes—of the former greatest show on earth."

* * * *

A MAN IN Sheboygan, Wis., offered "to contribute what I can financially," and a 13-year-old boy in Plainville, Conn., wrote "Thank you very much for trying to bring the good old circus back, and if you need me, I would do everything in my power to help you."

Perhaps the best sentiment of all was expressed by a couple from Birchwood, Wis., who wrote:

"By all means available, please bring back the circus in all its glory, for the joys of the little ones as well as for those that have outgrown childhood, but still have that everlasting desire to thrill at the sight of the real Americana: The Circus."

Quesada Eyed for Air Agency

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower will appoint his personal adviser on aviation matters, Lt. Gen. Elwood R. (Pete) Quesada, to be administrator of the new Federal Aviation Agency, authoritative sources said Saturday.

He also will name James T. Pyle, head of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, deputy administrator.

The appointments will be announced soon, perhaps next week.

* * * *

THE NEW AGENCY, created by Congress earlier this year in a drive to make civilian and military flyig safer, will supplant the CAA and the Airways Modernization Board.

Quesada, a retired Air Force general, heads both the Modernnization Board and the President's Air Coordinating Committee.

Congress established the FAA in the wake of two collisions between civilian airliners and military jets that took 60 lives.

The staff of the new agency will include both civilian and military aviation experts to permit more centralized control over commercial, military and private flying.

* * * *

THE FAA also will assume some functions now assigned to the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB), principally writing safety rules and standards.

Quesada, 54, enlisted in the Army as a private in 1924. After graduating from flying school he was commissioned a second lieutenant and in 1951 retired with the rank of lieutenant general.

During World War II he commanded Joint Task Force Three in the Pacific, which detonated the world's first hydrogen bomb.

Pyle, who will be 45 in November, has been Civil Aeronautics administrator since December 1956. During World War II he served in the Pacific as an operations officer with the Naval Air Transport Service and was discharged with the rank of lieutenant (j.g.).

* * * *

IN 1953 HE was appointed special assistant to the assistant secretary of the Navy for Air. He became deputy CAA administrator in March 1956.

As boss of the FAA, Quesada will draw a salary of $22,500, as against the $20,500 he gets now as chairman of the Airways Modernization Board. Pyle will continue to draw $20,500 a year.

Blind Man Guided by Talking Cane

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A talking cane guided a blind man on a walk through a downtown park Saturday.

"Drop off! Drop off! Drop off!" warned the cane as M. A. McCollom of Topeka approached some steps.

The recorded voice came from a small box attached to the cane. The box is full of electronics equipment that can detect obstacles in a blind person's path and voice the appropriate warning. On level ground the device remains silent.

* * * *

McCOLLOM, connected with the Kansas Department of Social Welfare, said the machine was a "work bench model" that can be refined.

"Our immediate goal is to redesign it into a box to fit in the pocket and a pen-size capsule on the cane with no connecting wires," he explained. "A bone conduction transducer worn behind the ear will talk to the user."

Some day, McCollom said, the device may replace the Seeing Eye dog.

Garages Damaged

Adjacent garages belonging to Gerald Coyle, 3108 Roxanne Ave., and Norlyn S. Dull, 3102 Roxanne Ave., were partially destroyed by fire Saturday.

ADMITS BEING LANDLUBBER

Yacht Races Puzzle Ike ---Heads for Golf Course

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP) — President Eisenhower, a self-confessed landlubber, took a bewildered look at the start of the America's Cup races Saturday — and then headed full steam ahead for the golf course.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower with a party of friends and high naval officials watched from the super-destroyer Mitscher as this country's Columbia and Britain's Sceptre sailed past the starting buoy.

Eisenhower peered through binoculars frequently and asked a number of questions about the race, but he never quite lost a slight air of puzzlement.

"What do you make of this, Mr. President?" he was asked by a newsman.

* * * *

EISENHOWER threw up his hands and replied: "What do I know about it. You at least lived on a lake (Michigan). I grew up in Kansas."

The President left his luncheon table in the admiral's quarters to see the start of the race at 12:30 p.m. He continued to watch from a vantage point behind the forward turret for 35 minutes.

He appeared to enjoy his four-hour deep sea cruise even if the sight of two sloops appearing to move at snail's pace from 1,000 yards away failed to enthrall him.

And, like everybody else, he was impressed by the sight of some 1,000 boats and ships of almost every imaginable type hovering on the edge of the race course.

* * * *

"THEY'VE GOT every kind of craft that floats except a birchbark canoe," he commented at one point.

Still there was no doubt that the President's mind was more on golf than on boat racing.

At one point he spotted Norman Palmer, the pro at the Newport Country Club, aboard the Mitscher on a lower deck.

Leaning over a guard rail, Eisenhower called to Palmer to get to the golf course as quickly as possible on docking back at Newport, because he intended to get in a mid-afternoon round.

And he did, too.

After watching Columbia and Sceptre under way for a bit more than a half hour, Eisenhower decided he had had enoguh and gave the word to head for home. The Mitscher's skipper, Cmdr. Donald C. Plate, must have sensed the President was in a hurry to golf.

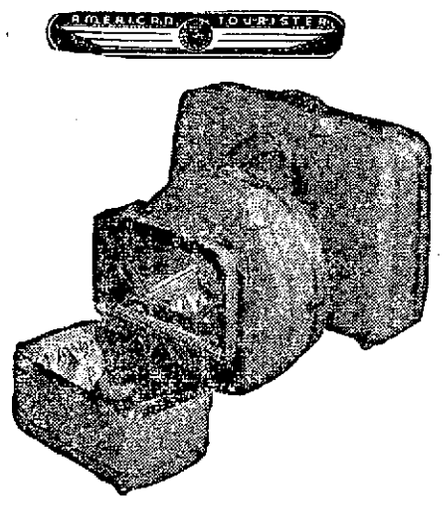

* * * *

THE DESTROYER raced back to port at up to 27 knots, as compared with leisurely 8 to 15 knots on the way out.

On board the Eisenhowers were entertained by a bluejacket band which played "Rule Britannia" for Sceptre at the start of the race and "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean" for the U.S. defender.

Navy Builds Mammoth Jet Base, Complete City on Barren Isle

the isle. A dock and landing were built in the Northwest Harbor just beneath the 181-foot high work site, and four-wheeled amphibious tractors brought ashore for the unloading of thousand of tons of supplies and material.

* * * *

CHADVILLE, a city complete in every detail, rose first from the material landings, and a pumping station was constructed to lift sea water up a sheer cliff. The water is being used at the rate of 100,000 gallongs daily to compact soil and rock used on the air strip.

Fresh water became a pressing problem, San Clemente's scattered stores were so poor that they could not be used for mixing concrete, let alone human consumption.

Chad solved the problem by bringing fresh water ashore as ballast on the thrice weekly barge voyages. Each barge could carry between 20,000 and 60,000 gallons.

It had taken 81 trips by the barge fleet before the island was ready to receive the first workers.

Then the faster boats and aircraft were brought into service to carry hastily needed material and perishable foodstuffs the 48 miles from Long Beach.

Typical is the twice weekly delivery of enough food to prepare Chadville's average of 5,600 meals weekly.

An oil tanker was chartered to bring ashore every three weeks the 100,000 gallons of diesel, 16,000 gallons of gasoline and 100 barrels of oil needed to keep the earth moving machines operating on three-shift-a-day basis.

* * * *

THE SYSTEM'S success depended upon rapid, accurate communication and Chad established radio stations at Seal Beach and on the island. A mobile unit was installed in a truck so that radio messages could be carried instantaneously to any spot on the far-flung work site. To minimize air time and assure accuracy all radio calls are taped.

Then the hills and dales of the island tip and a tiny satellite atoll became a fruitive, night and day beehive of roaring equipment as men and machines blasted out 475,000 cubic yards of rock moved and graded millions of tons of material along specially planned routes.

The routes were picked so that it takes but 8½ minutes for an earth moving machine to roar from pickup to dump, time being of the essence.

Life on a desert isle isn't as desirable as its literary-decribed counterpart, but the workers, mostly recruited from the Long Beach area, find the pay envelope rewarding.

The men receive free room and board, overtime pay, but must contribute toward their air transportation. To provide entertainment a recreation hall which doubles as a beer parlor was built and television sets provided.

* * * *

OFF-DUTY WORKERS are welcome at the Navy's small base at Wilson Cove, six miles from the field, where other recreation including skindiving and motion pictures is available.

The climate, not loneliness, is the biggest bother.

"It can rain like h--- on the mainland, and we'll be smothering in heat—or the fog will clamp down like a wet curtain on the job site while the remainder of the island will be clear as a bell," explained general superintendent Bob Reif.

Hypnotism by Phone Approved

LONDON, (UPI) — Henry Blythe Saturday won permission to set up a hypnosis-by-telephone service. The first of its kind in Britain.

Permission was granted by the post office which operates the state-owned telephone system.

Blythe said he would charge patients $9 for a six minute session. He estimated it would take three six-minute sessions to make a smoker quit smoking, cure fingernail-biters, and convince fat people to diet.

* * * *

Blythe said he would send his "subjects" a photograph to put beside their telephone during treatments. He said he would tell them to "hold tight to the receiver and concentrate on the eyes of my photograph."

"It is a very penetrating closeup I had specially taken," he said. "Then I make my strong positive suggestions that they don't want to smoke, they have no desire to smoke, they will lose all liking for cigarettes."

U.S. Tests New Way to Combat Enemy Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP)—Indications that flash radiation from a nuclear missile killer may spike the charge in an enemy hydrogen weapon is now being assembled from two recent atomic tests.

The research experiments, which are yielding a quantity of other valuable information, were conducted at Johnston Island in the mid-Pacific last month. They were aimed at finding out basic facts needed in developing an antimissile missile under the Army's Zeus project.

Preliminary data are now available from technical recordings of the explosions, which were set off in the fringes of space, but much more detailed findings are still to come, it was learned Saturday.

* * * *

WEAPONEERS of the Atomic Energy Commission and the Army made the tests by mounting atomic charges atop Army Redstone missiles. The Redstone, now being delivered to regular units of the Army, is designed only as a surface-to-surface ballistic bombardment missile. But because of its reliability, the Redstone was used to detonate atomic charges at the highest altitude ever reported.

The first of the two shots sent the missile to an altitude of about 60 miles. It is understood this missile failed to follow exactly the planned path and did not leave its vertical ascent to veer into a trajectory. Thus the explosion occurred at a somewhat higher altitude than was planned and at a point almost directly above the island launching site.

The second test worked out as planned, with the Redstone bending into a high trajectory and detonating the atomic warhead at about 40 miles altitude.

* * * *

WHILE THESE altitudes are far below the height at which interception of enemy ballistic missiles would be expected, scientists are able to use the data to estimate conditions farther out in space.

The weaponeers are reported to have found indications that the instantaneous radiation which occurs in an atomic explosion may neutralize much or all of the effectiveness of the nuclear charge in a soaring missile. If this proves so, it would mean that even though an enemy missile continued on to its target its hydrogen warhead might not explode.

* * * *

A SECONDARY powerful result of atomic blast in space is heat. With no air to set up an insulating medium and retard the path of thermal radiation, the searing heat waves from an atomic explosion reach out much farther and hotter than they would down in the atmosphere.

Least effective of nuclear explosion in space, the tests are expected to show, is blast. Thus, on the basis of these first tentative experiments, the chance of actually destroying a hydrogen-headed missile in flight seems less than of neutralizing its nuclear charge.

Raft Lehi Successful in Crossing

HONOLULU (AP) — The Raft Lehi IV was sighted and taken in tow six miles northeast of Maui Island Saturday—successful in its attempt to drift to Hawaii from the U.S. mainland.

The raft and its three-man crew had been unreported for 69 days.

It began drifting from Redondo Beach, Calif., July 14. Aboard were its persistent skipper, Devere Baker of Petaluma, Calif., and Crawford Hartley and Lou Eckhman.

The raft first was sighted by the pilot of a light plane.

Medicare Plan May Be Revised

Medicare, a civilian medical care program for dependents of servicemen that has been in force for 18 months, may be revised.

Congressman Craig Hosmer said Saturday a "new procedure" probably will be announced soon, but not until all military services can comment on the revised program.

Medicare provides servicemen's dependents with civilian hospitalization and care by civilian physicians. Hosmer said the new plan basically will involve certification by a serviceman's command that government facilities are not available before civilian treatment is authorized.

BERLIN (UPI) — East German Premier Otto Grotewohl, in a speech made public Saturday, rejected western proposals to reunify Germay by free elections as "completely unreal."

He said the Communist system in East Germany would not be allowed to be swept away by ballots.

PET DOG FOUND IN WILDS

Student Feared Dead on Hike

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP)—Finding of a long missing Illinois student's pet dog Queen wild and suspicious after her ordeal in the freezing wilderness forced searchers Saturday to admit doubt that Lawrence E. Prange is alive.

The 20-year-old Lake Villa, State University has not been heard from since Sept. 10.

He packed into northwestern Montana's Swan Lake-Mission Mountain country, some of the wildest in the United States, to scout for Rocky Mountain goats.

* * * *

QUEEN WILDLY eluded her would-be rescuers when she was spotted on the northwest side of Lindberg Lake, about three miles from the searched area of the snow-covered rocky cuts or signs that Queen had been in contact with any grizzly bear or other animals. Her trail pack was missing.

Only Prange's 20-year-old girl friend, Susan Heck, of Westfield, N. J., was able to calm Queen enough to be allowed to be taken back to the Crystal Lake base camp, setup for the search. She and Prange are wildlife technology students at Montana State University, Missoula.

Queen was taken atop Goat Mountain in hopes that she would somehow show the way to Prange.

* * * *

HOWEVER, officials of the Forestt Service, which has smokejumpers and rangers among the searchers, openly expressed doubt for the first time that Prange was alive. They reasoned that Queen would not have left him if he was alive.

Prange, a Missoula pool lifeguard the past summer, had been in similar country before and had two rifles in his packs. He has made his home alone in an old cabin in a canyon above Montana State University.

Doubt was expressed whether he had dressed warmly enough for the recent overnight low temperatures in the 20s at the 7,000 foot elevations.

* * * *

THERE WAS no ready answer available as to how Queen got free of her pack outfit.

Prange's stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Prange, of Lake Villa, Ill., were in the search area. They flew to Missoula.

Citizens of Lake Villa started a collection to help pay search expenses. The first money, reported to be $100, reached Missoula Saturday.

The parents of Prange's girlfriend telephoned Missoula from Norway, where they have been touring, for information of the manhunt's progress.

Convict Girl in Slaying of Officer

AUBURN, Maine (UPI) — Sandra Knowlton, 14 was convicted of manslaughter Saturday in the fatal shooting of a policeman.

Theattractive schoolgirl cried "Oh!" and burst into sobs when jury foreman Willard N. Harris announced the verdict of the eight women and four men. Sandra had been tried for murder, facing a possible life sentence.

Superior Court Justice James R. Archibald announced he would sentence the Lewiston girl "in a couple of days," probably Monday. The manslaughter conviction can bring Sandra 20 years in prison, with a possibility of parole after eight years.

* * * *

THE VERDICT was a partial victory for Defense Atty. Aloysius F. Martin who argued the killing of Lewiston Policeman Paul J. Simard, 32, was not murder.

Simard, the father of two small girls, who was shot between the eyes as he attempted to persuade Sandra to return home. She had run away after a family argument.

Martin said Sandra had run away because her father, millhand Everett Knowlton, had beat her and had tried to force his attention on her.

Hong Kong Bars U.S. Warships

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—British Hong Kong now is off limits to all U. S. Navy ships except for one transport standing by to evacuate the U. S. consulate in the event of hostilities in the Far East, Navy officers said Saturday.

They reported U. S. warships started cancelling their customary Hong Kong visits as soon as the present Formosa crisis began. It could not be learned whether it was at the request of British authorities.

Solon Charges Hoffa Employs 'The Fix, Cheat, Steal and Lie'

Has No Respect for Law, Order, M'Clelland Adds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark) said Saturday the immediate resignation or removal of James R. Hoffa as president of the scandal tarred teamsters union would serve the cause of decent unionism.

He pictured Hoffa as an arrogant advocate of the fix, the cheat, the lie, and as a menace to the country — a corruption center in the union.

McClellan's written statement was entered as the final chapter in the official record of testimony his Senate Rackets Investigating Committee had received concerning Hoffa and his lieutenants.

* * * *

THE HEARINGS ended Thursday — just ahead of meetings next week in which a federal court-appointed board of monitors is to consider a move to oust Hoffa on corruption charges.

In his statement McClellan said that "Mr. Hoffa evidenced complete lack of respect for human integrity and a defiant attitude toward the government itself" in testifying at the rackets hearings.

He said Hoffa seems to believe there is nothing that cannot be fixed.

"Always around him for the protection of himself and his hoodlum friends is a staff of a dozen highly paid attorneys, costing the union hundreds of thousands of dollars each year," the committee chairman said.

"His moral standards appear to countenance the cheat, the lie, the steal, and violence to gain his ends."

McClellan said there is substantial evidence that Hoffa lied under oath in testifying about his financial relations with an Indianapolis businessman-lawyer, Dave Probstein, who vanished mysteriously after having trouble with the teamsters and is presumed to have been slain.

'Some Not Meant to Be'; Divorce for Sammy Davis

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Singer Loray White revealed Saturday she would divorce entertainer Sammy Davis Jr., after a marriage of only nine months.

"I guess some guys are meant to be married and some not," declared the diminutive Davis, a top-drawer stage, nightclub and record performer.

Attorney Jerry Giesler confirmed Mrs. Davis had retained him and that the divorce probably would be filed "within the next two weeks."

Meanwhile, Giesler said an attempt would be made to arrange a settlement. He said he already has conferred with Davis' attorney, Sidney Korshak, of Chicago.

LORAY AND DAVIS were married in Las Vegas last January.

"Our marriage hasn't been very good from the start," she said. "I think we might as well end it for both Sammy's sake and my own."

Davis said he didn't mean to indicate he wasn't meant for marriage. "But it's just that I have too much of a career right now.

"When you have a family, it should come first and your career second. Loray's a wonderful girl, but I just didn't have time to do the thousand and one things that a married and family man should do."

He added: "It's better now before children come."

Davis currently is making his first major bid for movie stardom in "Porgy and Bess," in which he portrays "Sportin' Life."

* * * *

MRS. DAIS said she wanted a "quiet" divorce.

Loray said she "may not have been a big shot when Sammy married me, but I was making $300 a week in Las Vegas."

Mrs. Davis said she had a six-year-old child from a previous marriage she had to support.

Geisler said Mrs. Davis would file suit either in Los Angeles, or "if a reasonable settlement can be arranged, she is willing to bring the action in Las Vegas."

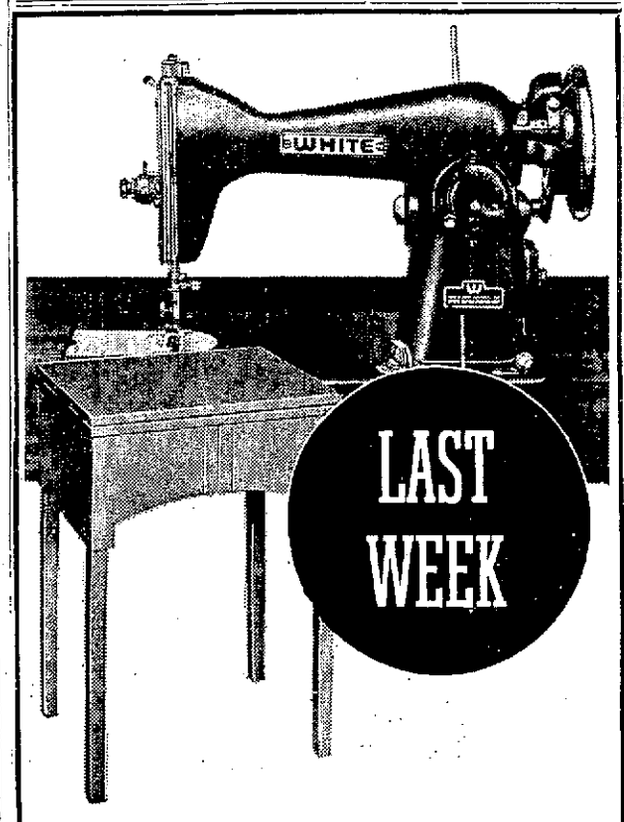

U.S., Canada Air Defense Put to Test

WASHINGTON (AP)—The vast air defense system of the United States and Canada was put to an unannounced test Saturday as jet bombers of the Strategic Air Command made sudden strikes at prime targets in the two countries.

The North American Air Defense Command confirmed reports, first made by Canadian sources at St. Hubert, Quebec, that the test was underway.

The command said that "all units of the air defense system, including elements of augmentation forces, are participating" in the test labelled "top hat."

In addition to the regular Air Force jet interceptor planes, the U. S. Air National Guard was taking a hand at attempting to locate and theoretically shoot down attacking bombers coming in on key targets from various directions.

Ike Angrily Rejects Khrushchev's Letter

utterly distorts the actual state of affairs and draws a picture which has nothing in common with the realities."

At another point Khrushchev assailed both the President and Dulles. In a sentence which struck some observers as patronizing, the Soviet premier said that when Eisenhower was elected president "Soviet statesmen pinned great hopes upon you."

"However," Khrushchev wrote, "the policy you are now pursuing as president has largely undermined these good feelings and to an even greater degree strengthens our belief that the 'brink of war' policy of Mr. Dulles in fact is unseparable from your name, is associated with it."

* * * *

EISENHOWER conferred by telephone with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in Washington Sat. afternoon after the President returned from viewing the opening of the America's cup races. Later he played golf.

Then the White House issued two statements, one rejecting the Khrushchev note and the other commenting on its contents.

In rejecting the Khrushchev message, the White House said:

"This communication is replete with false accusations; it is couched in language that is abusive and intemperate; it indulges in personalities; it contains inadmissible threats.

"All of this renders the communication unacceptable under established international practice. Accordingly, it has been rejected, and the United States charge d'affaires in Moscow has been instructed to return the communication to the Soviet government."

* * * *

THE WHITE HOUSE statement on the Khrushchev message noted that it dealt with the serious situation that has developed in the Formosa area since the Chinese Communists began their armed attack on the nationalists Aug. 23.

It noted also that Khrushchev had demanded that the U. S. fleet and other armed forces should "go home" at once under threat of "expulsion."

To this, the White House retorted:

"It is tragic that Soviet military despotism should support the use of force to achieve expansionist ends."

* * * *

EISENHOWER said the United Nations charter requires its members to settle their differences peacefully and that the U. S. not only is prepared to do that but is trying to do so in ambassadorial talks at Warsaw, Poland.

"But it is not easy to negotiate under such threats as the Soviet Union now makes," the White House said. "We deeply deplore the use of such threats.

"The United States considers the Soviet viewpoint to be grotesque and dangerous. Indeed, only in an 'upside down' world could it be argued that it is 'aggression' when the United States cooperates with a friendly government purely for defense, but that it is 'peace' for the Soviet Union to pledge its support to the Chinese Communist regime in its effort to acquire by armed force territory over which it has never exercised authority."

With MALCOLM EPLEY

LAST SUNDAY, there was reported here a mystery, briefly summed up like this:

Several unidentified truck crews—men in white uniforms with miner-type lamps on their hats — were performing strange operations on the Pacific Electric's Newport Line right-of-way in Long Beach. The crews worked at night, told nobody anything. They stuck wires in the ground, tied ribbons to weeds, and did other odd things.

P. E. officials disclaimed knowledge of this affair, and other sources were equally dry when asked about it.

I left for Texas at midweek, asking my pals around here and around town to find out what they could while I was away. The notes I found on my desk when I returned weren't completely conclusive, but they're interesting.

HERE'S ONE from a trusted reporter:

"They struck again!

"Monday night and early Tuesday morning, the lantern-hatted men probed near the P. E. right-of-way near Seventh St. and Ximeno. Clue supplied by nearby resident, John D. Lucas.

"Lucas said men potting around with yellow plastic tape, tying pieces to clumps of weeds and making yellow marks on railroad tracks He checked registration of one of the trucks and found it belonged to Continental Oil Co. of Oklahoma. I checked Continental people here.

"They don't know anything of any Oklahoma crew working here but admitted it could well be a geological research unit from Oklahoma and they wouldn't necessarily tell their local offices they are working in the vicinity.

One Continental man said a crew matching the description of the 'mysterious workmen' was out there from Oklahoma a year ago. He said they take some kind of seismographic readings — trying to chart earth faults and that sort of thing—and that they must work during the quietest hours because vibrations from traffic, etc., fouled up their seismographic equipment.

"From all of this, I can make only one deduction: Our mysterious workmen must be oil seekers from Oklahoma."

THAT'S about the most conclusive report I have. Here's another note from a reliable reporter:

"Night of Sept. 16 three trucks were parked on P. E. roadway between Park and Ximeno. Had apparently just changed to California license plates because plate envelopes were on ground. Trucks have heavy, unusual equipment, apparently electrical in nature. No markings.

"At least one (probably all) registered to Continental Oil Co., Ponca City, Okla.

"Men worked some sort of survey in middle of night. They put up yellow ribbon markers about every 100 yards and yellow chalk mark (X's) on tracks next to ribbon markers. Trucks remained locked during day. Gone that night.

"Neighborhood guesses: Trying find new oil pockets . . . surveying earth structure for freeway . . . Studying for subsidence effects."

THE best conclusion seems to be that this is a Continental Oil Co. seismic survey operation. We'll leave it at that until new evidence comes in.

Incidentally, an oil man tells me that the type of information these fellows may be compiling is a closer guarded secret among oil interests than anything the Defense Dept. has.

They just don't talk.

But their mysterious activities sure have the town talking. And I've heard from some who have observed this nocturnal goings-on and are convinced we've been invaded by men from outer space.

Conviction in L.B. Bookie Case Reversed

By DON MADDOCK

Conviction of a San Pedro man on bookmaking charges has been reversed because of "misconduct or irregularity" by two jurors in giving false answers to questions asked them while a panel was being chosen.

Second District Court of Appeal ordered a new trial for Joseph Castaldia, 49, of 467 W. 11th St., on charges he took horse race bets on Beacon St. in January, 1957.

(Castaldia now faces two trials. He was arrested again last week on bookmaking counts.)

Castaldia's attorneys, Kenneth W. Gale and David A. Fall, appealed the conviction partially on the basis of several affidavits.

One was by a bus driver, who said a juror (Angela R. Kennedy) told him "she had no respect for bookmakers and that she wished they would throw the book at all of them" and that "the defendant in the case, on which she was then presently sitting as a juror, didn't have a chance — that the jury was going to throw the book at him."

The juror, during preliminary questioning, swore she would consider the case solely on the evidence and felt she could keep a free and open mind until all evidence was in.

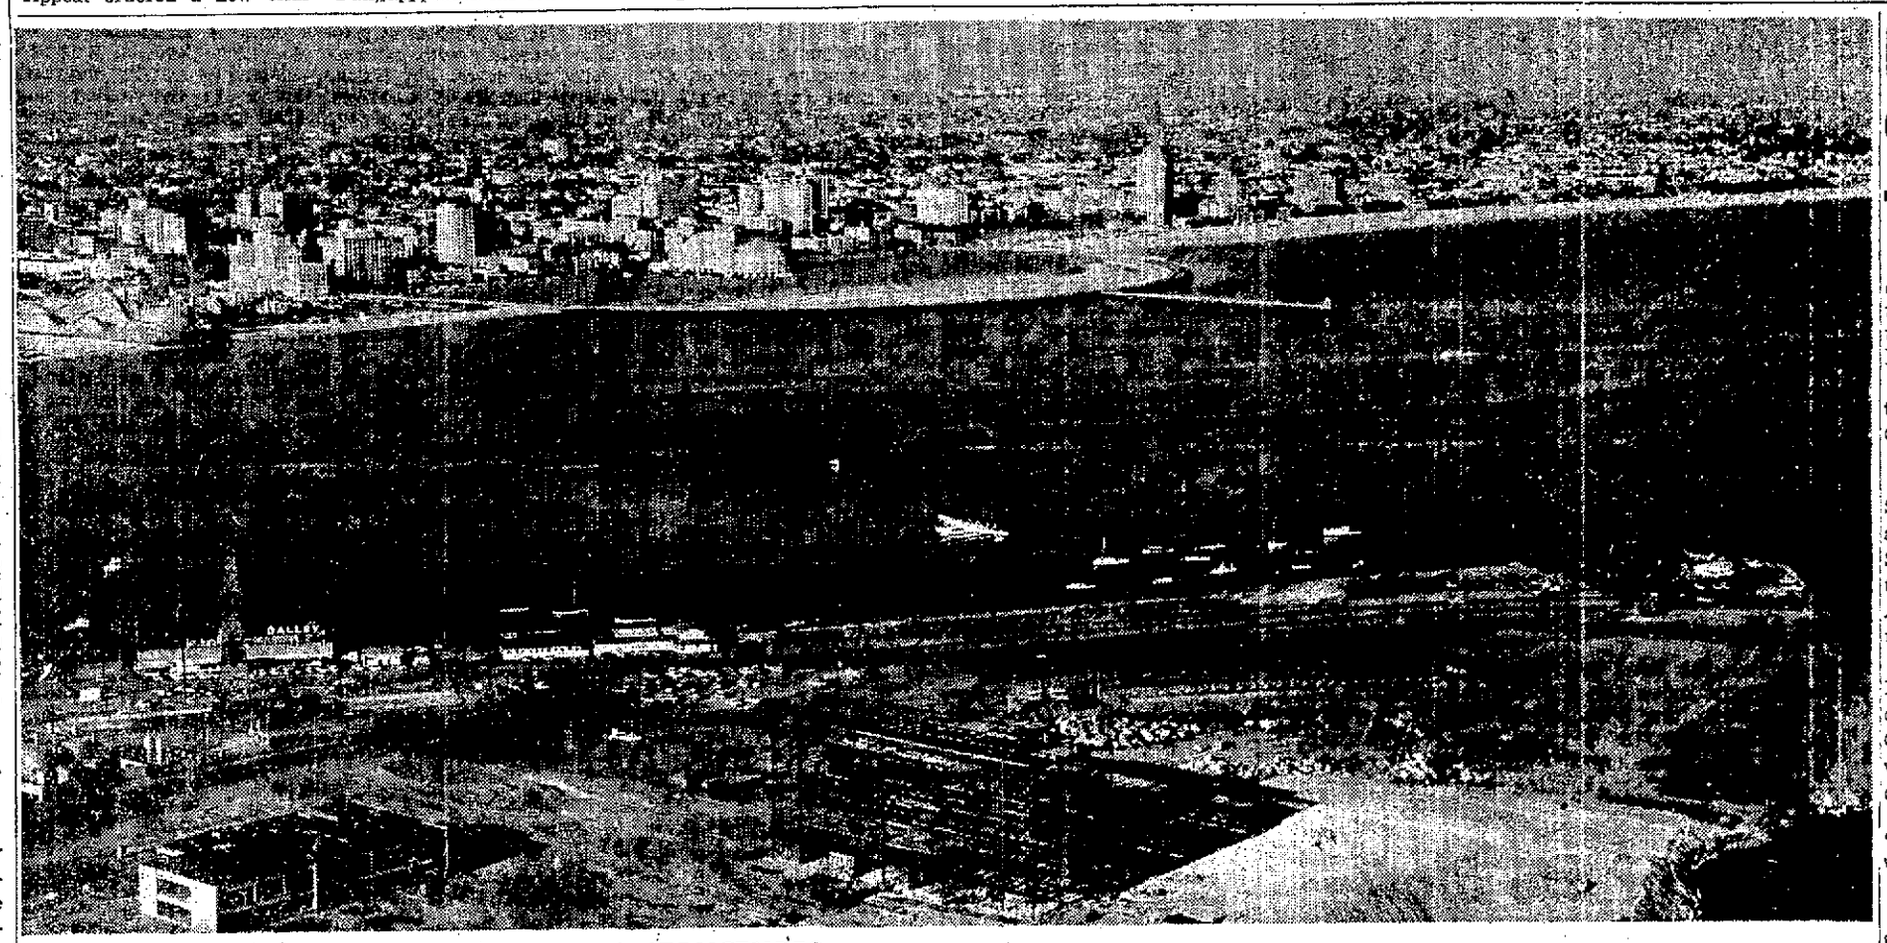

Another affidavit, by a panel member, said the jury foreman (James Russell) told it he could explain about bookmaking "for he had in fact lost his house to a bookmaker."

As a general rule, appeals courts will not reverse a verdict because jurors later impeach it.

The reason, Second District Court held, is that "public policy requires that sanctity and stability of judicial determinations shall not be subject to the evidence of jurors who may be tampered with."

But, the court added, "the fact that a juror is disqualified by circumstances which, if known, would have given the right to challenge for cause, but which . . . were not disclosed by the juror's untrue answers may be considered to outweigh the reason for the rule. . . ."

"On consideration of the entire record we cannot say that in the absence of the misconduct complained of, a different verdict would have been improbable. Consequently, the misconduct constitutes a miscarriage of justice. . . ."

Longpre's Case Set for Court

Japanese district prosecutors Saturday ended their preliminary investigation of Airman 3/C Peter E. Longpre of Lakewood.

The case is expected to go the Urava District Family Court on Thursday.

* * * *

LONGPRE, 19, of 5533 Pierce St., is being tried for killing a Japanese music student on Sept. 7 as the student rode through the U. S. Johnson Air Force Base on a passenger train.

Japanese prosecutor Kakujiro Ebihara, who met Friday with officers of the Tokyo Higher Court, indicated that Longpre will probably be charged with death."

A final decision on the charge "gross negligence leading to will be made Wednesday.

* * * *

DURING the five-day investigation prosecutors quizzed Longpre, five Japanese civilians and 15 U. S. military men who were passengers on the train on which the student was killed.

DOVEY SUPPORTS BAN

Police Chief Jabs Needle in Tattooers

Municipal Judge Kenneth E. Sutherland has gained an ally in Police Chief William H. Dovey in a move to abolish tattooing here.

Reporting to City Manager Sam E. Vickers, Dovey said he favors an ordinance "doing away with tattooing entirely—and if not this, then that it shall be unlawful for anyone under the age of 21 years to be tattooed." The present age limit is 18.

The chief cited a report by Capt. Lorin Q. Martin of the detective bureau listing six arrests during the past year for tattooing persons under age. Martin also said the tattooers, of whom six are licensed by the city, argue frequently among themselves over customers and locations in the amusement area.

* * * *

ANOTHER REPORT by Lt. R. M. Wadt to Capt. E. R. Anderson of the vice bureau pointed out it is possible to get infection from unclean tattoo needles. One such instance came to light recently when a young man came to the bureau to complain of swelling on his arm, the report said.

"In talking to older Navy men and other persons who have tattoos, it seems to be the consensus that they wish they had never been tattooed," Lt. Wadt added. "It is a costly process to have a tattoo removed.

"It seems to be a gesture on the part of a young person to show how old or how big he is. When he gets a little older, in many instances his attitude changes."

* * * *

THE REPORT NOTED that "girls of a certain class" whose "morals are questionable" may on occasion be seen getting a tattoo.

Judge Sutherland's proposed ban is pending before the City Council's ordinance committee.

Bakery Price Hike Laid to Pay Boosts

Southern California bakeries Saturday blamed recent wage boosts and the increased cost of baking supplies for a 2-cent increase in the price of bread.

Housewives pay 27 cents for the standard one-pound loaf, 33 cents for the 1½-pound loaf under a new pricing system which went into effect last week.

'Jobs for Long Beach' Backed by Builders Exchange Here

Support for Propositions S and T—the "Jobs for Long Beach" program—was voted unanimously this week by the board of directors of the Long Beach Builders Exchange.

The Builders Exchange, which acts as a clearing house for the local construction industry, has a membership of 220 construction firms employing in excess of 5,000 persons.

This endorsement brought to 80 the number of organizations which have offered their backing to the program. More than 25,000 individuals have given their endorsements.

* * * *

JULES BRADY, president, and C. C. Stovall, executive secretary of the Builders Exchange, stated their organization considers S and T vital to the future progress and welfare of Long Beach.

S and T are proposals designed to expand the Long Beach economy through municipal facelifting projects that will increase the city's ability to compete in the convention and tourist fields.

"This program," Stovall said, "will put Long Beach in the major leagues as a tourist and convention city. Long Beach's construction industry, like other local industries, will get a shot in the arm.

* * * *

"THE PROGRAM is bound to mean more commercial buildings, more new homes, and a general facelifting of many existing structures.

"We are for the program because it will be good for our business, and because it will be good for all of Long Beach. In my book, S and T stands for 'Sound Thinkers.'"

Stovall added: "The local construction industry will endorse." He will head a "Jobs for Long Beach" committee within the Exchange for the purpose of providing information for members about the program.

The Exchange was "host" to a meeting of trade association, industrial relations, and civic representatives who assembled to discuss S and T.

OTHER NEW endorsements this week by organizations were given by the Catholic Welfare Bureau, the Bachelorettes, Realtors' Wives, Hotel and Restaurant Workers Union Local No. 681, Laborers and Plaster Tenders Local No. 507, Temple Sinai Sisterhood, South Coast Chapter of California Employee Agencies Associated, Young Women's Christian Assn., Long Beach Retail Furniture Assn., Long Beach Beautiful, Long Beach Navy Shipyard Metal Trades Council, Young Matrons of Temple Israel Sisterhood, Recovery Service Club, Delta Kappa Gamma-Beta Iota Chapter, Auxiliary to the Children's Memorial Hospital at Seaside, Faculty Club of Long Beach City College, Long Beach Symphony Guild, Armed Services YMCA Committee of Management, Executives' Secretaries Inc., Long Beach Chapter, Douglas Long Beach Management Club, Long Beach Council of Churches, UAW No. 148 (Douglas Aircraft), Long Beach Women's Casting Club, Widows of World War I, Inc., Long Beach Federation of Teachers-AFT — Local 1263 AFL-CIO, Margaret Ives Business and Professional Women's Club, North Long Beach Assembly of God Church, Life Underwriters Assn. of Long Beach, Printing Trades Assn., North Long Beach Commercial Club, Metropolitan Board of YMCA, and Associated Property Owners of Long Beach.

S and T to Be Explained

"Jobs for Long Beach" will be explained to the annual meeting of the Long Beach Civic League Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Woman's City Club, 1309 E. 3rd St. The public is invited.

A committee headed by attorney Dan Farnham will discuss the "Jobs for Long Beach" project, which will appear on the Nov. 4 general election ballot as Propositions "S" and "T."

The meeting also will hear a panel discussion on state propositions on the Nov. 4 ballot. Panel members will be John W. Wilson, former principal of Jordan High School; Frederic Millerd, local attorney; Dr. J. C. Lien of Long Beach State College; and Don F. Pratt of Sears, Roebuck and Co.

Eugene Tincher will install new Civic League officers, and Clyde G. Roseberry will discuss "Moral Subsidence" as the reason for delay in getting an anti-subsidence program under way. President N. L. McLaughlin will preside.

DISCUSS PROPOSITIONS ON 'JOBS'

Propositions S and T ("Jobs for Long Beach") were the subject this week at a special meeting of representatives of local business trade associations, the State Department of Industrial Relations, and the city. Here, members of the group discuss endorsements for the program. Seated, left to right: Carl Burg, field representative and executive secretary for the Harbor Area Chapter of the Painting and Decorating Contractors of America; Jules Brady, president of the Long Beach Builders Exchange; C. C. Stovall, executive secretary of the Long Beach Builders Exchange; D. J. Daniel Jr., representing the Architects Assn. of Long Beach; C. F. Watson, Plumbers Assn. of Long Beach, and Gordon Johnson, the National Society of Professional Engineers, Long Beach Chapter. Standing, left to right: Bob Irvin, public relations counsel; B. Hartman, National Electrical Contractors Assn., Harbor Division; J. W. Glover, apprenticeship consultant, California Department of Industrial Relations; Jack Wright, president of the American Assn. of Engineers, Long Beach, and Roy A. Gaudlitz, executive manager, Associated Plumbing Contractors, Long Beach.

Pair Injured in Cycle Spill

A motorcyclist and his passenger were injured Saturday when they were thrown from their two-wheeler in a field near Artesia St. and the Flood Control.

Driver Philip J. Bandringa, 17, of 8129 Compton Blvd., Paramount, was treated at Seaside Memorial Hospital for a broken collarbone. He told police his cycle went out from under him when the front wheel hit a large chunk of concrete.

Passenger Melvin B. Lewis, 18, of the same Compton Blvd. address suffered rib injuries.

SULPHUR, Okla. (AP) — A crackdown on Murray County bootleggers suffered a setback early Saturday when thieves broke into the sheriff's vault here and carted off 88 cases of whisky.

Boys Clubs Branches to Reopen

The four branches of the Boys Clubs of Long Beach reopen Monday.

Branches at 1585 Chestnut Ave., 1205 Freeman Ave., 1835 W. Willard St. and 5160 Veranda Ave. were closed for two weeks for repairs and renovations.

Biggest project was the completion of kitchen facilities at the Willard facility.

Clubs will be open to all boys between 7 and 18 from 3 to 5:30 p.m., 6:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday.

Fall Injures Boy

Edward E. Shumaker, 15, of 1463 Pine Ave., suffered a broken left collarbone when he fell from his bike in the 1700 block of Pine Ave., police reported. He was taken to Seaside Memorial Hospital.

New Case in Negro Housing

Three new incidents have flared in the Bixby Knolls controversy over a Negro physician's home, a spokesman for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People charged Saturday.

Edward Grieve, NAACP publicity director here, said the latest developments in the Terry case include:

1. Two men in business suits who mounted a telephone pole outside Terry's office, presumably to tap his phone. (They were not phone company employes, Dr. Terry said the phone company told him.)

2. A letter circulated to Bixby Knolls residents which attempted to link the movement of Negroes into a white neighborhood to a Communist plot. It asked residents to jot down the license number of any Negro motorists who visit homes in the neighborhood.

3. Seven white juveniles lurked behind the shrubbery of the Terry Home, peeped into windows, stared defiantly at Mrs. Terry, and scrambled off finally when friends of the Terry family arrived to search the yard.

LOONY, LIVELY AND LOUD

'Happiest Millionaire' Thin Stuff

Anthony J. Drexel Biddle may or may not have been the happiest millionaire, but judging from his portrait as presented in "The Happiest Millionaire," Kyle Crichton's play about him, he was certainly one of the looniest, liveliest, and loudest.

No man to stop and think, apparently, Mr. Biddle solved or failed to solve his problems by direct action. The play is about one of the problems.

Despite the vigor of its central character, however, the show never does quite get off the ground. No matter how much the actors move about the stage, they can't conceal the fact that the play is pretty thin stuff, often lacking in the dramatic tension necessary even for successful comedy.

* * * *

IN VIEW OF this limitation, the production of the play which opened at the Community Playhouse this weekend is especially remarkable. Director and cast together have nicely emphasized the theatrically effective aspects of the material, and have played down its weaknesses.

Chiefly responsible for its success are four of the players. Marvin Cloyd is Mr. Biddle, and though he does not appear as supple or tough as Mr. Biddle claims to be, he is still able to show us a genuine eccentric with authenticity and force. Mr. Biddle asserts that life must be lived to the hilt 24 hours every day, and Mr. Cloyd works hard and successfully to get the idea across. He makes Mrs. Biddle not a very complicated man but a tremendously busy one.

Mr. Biddle is only a millionaire. Mrs. Benjamin Duke, with whom he comes into conflict over the marriage of his daughter, is a millionaire 90 times over. She is not, however, 90 times happier. As played by Alvette Kay she is just as effective, though, and the source of some of the best humor in the play.

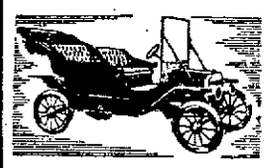

* * * *

DIANA LEYMAN is the daughter, Cordelia. Better adapted by training and preference to the boxing ring than to the finishing school, she has a hard time cutting the strong family ties her father has established. Miss Leyman conveys her dilemma with all the right nuances. She displays a lethal right cross, too. In the end, she marries Angier Duke, of course.

Musician? Go Blow Your Horn at LBSC

Can you toodle a tuba or blast with a sax?

Do you like to step out high, wide and handsome?

Contact the music department of Long Beach State College.

Charles Payne, director of the first 49er marching band now in process of organization, needs tunesmiths and comely majorettes.

"We have 100 brand spanking new uniforms and instruments—$8,000 worth of equipment," Payne states.

"Now all we need is musicians, preferably those with organizational backgrounds."

"We're scheduled to participate in five football game halftime shows, and as many major band parades as possible including such worthies as the All-Western Band Review and possibly the Tournament of Roses parade."

"Band may be taken for one unit of credit or without," states Dr. Lawrence Peterson, head of the music department. "The group will rehearse from 11-12:30 on Mondays and Wednesdays," he adds.

Payne, who doubles in brass as director of the Long Beach Municipal Band, has two drum majors, Harold Hansen and Larry Scott, set to lead.

Vacant are 100 uniforms.

Buchinski in his Superior Court petition claims that the barber, Salvatore Papa, made a deep cut on his ear with a straight razor as he trimmed up after the haircut last May 1.

Fleeing Soviet Officer Slain

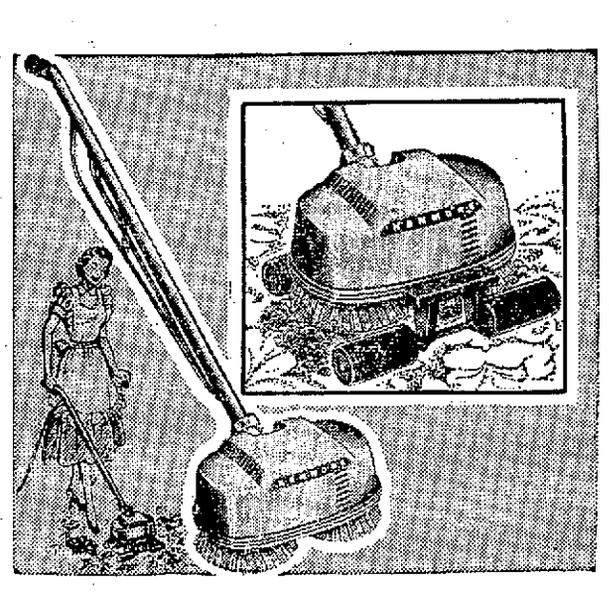

BERLIN (UPI) — A Soviet lieutenant was shot and killed by four Red army MPs Friday night at an East Berlin train station while trying to escape to the West, the Berlin newspaper Bild Zeitung said Saturday.

The newspaper said the MPs opened fire when the lieutenant ignored orders to halt at the Schoeneweide station on the elevated railway which runs into West Berlin. It said the officer was trying to catch a train heading west.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Lebanon Premier Flees to Turkey

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—Outgoing pro-Western premier Sami Es Solh was flown out of Lebanon to Turkey aboard a U.S. Navy plane Saturday in a cloak-and-dagger operation which indicated possible concern for his life.

His staunch defense of President Camille Chamoun's pro-Western policies had made Solh the target of five recent assassination attempts. His departure plans were so secret that his brother and sister were not informed until after his plane took off.

Solh already has signed a declaration resigning his cabinet. It will be presented to Chamoun on Monday. On Wedesday, Maj. Gen. Fuad Chehab will succeed Chamoun as president of Lebanon.

Episcopal Bishop Dies

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Rt. Rev. Karl Morgan Block, 72, bishop of the Episcopal Church Diocese of California, collapsed Saturday while reading an ordination service for three deacons in Grace Cathedral and died moments later.

Bishop Block stopped in his reading, turned to Bishop Henry H. Shires, and asked, "Bishop, will you continue?"

Bishop Block was helped into the nearby sacristy of Grace Cathedral. Dr. Robert Livingston, a priest who also is a doctor, attended him. Canon Richard Byfield read the last rites of the church. When he finished, Dr. Livingston pronounced Bishop Block dead.

Boy Admits Beating Girl

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI)—A 14-year-old boy blurted out to police Saturday that "I suddenly got the urge" to bludgeon a 9-year-old girl who was found lying in a street half nude, burned and battered to unconsciousness.

"I don't know why, I don't know why," the boy sobbed repeatedly after admitting he hit pretty, long-haired Theresa McHugh with a rock during a stroll through a park.

The boy, who was not identified, denied setting fire to Theresa, who suffered isolated second degree burns on her back, chest, arms and head. Several of her teeth were knocked out. She also had a deep gash over her left eye and multiple bruises on the left side of her face.

Dope Hospitalizes Beckett

LOS ANGELES (CNS)—Former child actor Scotty Beckett, 28, was rushed to the hospital early Saturday in a coma which doctors said was induced by narcotics or sleeping pills and was unconscious for about five hours.

A General Hospital spokesman said Beckett regained consciousness and was able to sit up in his bed and talk at about 10 a.m. The spokesman would not report anything said by the patient.

Russ Oust Reporter

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Foreign Ministry Saturday ordered Associated Press Correspondent Roy Essoyan, 39, expelled from the Soviet Union on charges of violating press censorship. Essoyan, an American citizen, has been stationed in Moscow since Dec. 11, 1955.

Negro Expelled

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—An unidentified Negro student was expelled Saturday from the intergrated New Orleans branch of Louisiana State University for carrying a six-inch knife on the campus.

Ike's Visit Perks Sales of Pumpkins

LITTLE COMPTON, R.I. (AP)—Mrs. Edward M. Medeiros, 26, the housewife who didn't recognize President Eisenhower when he stopped at her vegetable stand the other day, is getting a little tired of being kidded about her experience, but it certainly has perked up the pumpkin sales.

When the President paid his surprise visit to the stand last Wednesday, he asked her how many pumpkins it took to make a pie.

* * * *

"THAT DEPENDS on how big a pie you want," she answered, a remark that broke up the presidential party.

Mrs. Medeiros defends herself by saying that the President was wearing glasses, had his hat pulled low on his face, and, after all, what was more improbable than the President of the United States stopping at a little vegetable stand to buy pumpkins?

The visit has certainly spurred pumpkin sales. Up to the President's visit Mrs. Medeiros hadn't sold a dozen pumpkins all season. Since then she's sold hundreds.

Nurses to Meet

Officers will be elected and Dr. Robert Schaeffer will speak on recovery-room care at the meeting of the Long Beach Association of Operating Room Nurses at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Torrance Memorial Hospital, 1425 Engracio St., Torrance.

New Discovery for Hard-of-Hearing

To all readers of the Independent Press-Telegram the Diagnostic Office will give the first treatment for only $3.00.

According to the Basic Diagnostic Office it is now possible for many people who are hard of hearing to regain all or part of their hearing loss.

So many have told us, "We have tried everything and we are so discouraged that we hesitate to try anything else." Once they try this new and proved method they are overjoyed. Just like magic, in many cases they are able to hear without their hearing aid after the first treatment.

The treatment is simple, it consists of three steps, and takes about 45 minutes, if the hearing loss is due to a nerve condition a special treatment is given; if the loss is due to catarrh a different treatment is given; if it is a bone condition, the Tympanic Oscillations treatment is given.

According to Basic Diagnostic, 70% of all hard of hearing people will be helped by this method. We believe it is as great a discovery as insulin was for diabetes.

We are so sure that we can help you that we will give you the first treatment, including an ear examination for only $3.00 providing you bring in this ad within 10 days from today.

Admits Slaying Serge Rubinstein

BALTIMORE (AP) — A man quoted by the FBI as saying he had killed New York millionaire Serge Rubinstein in 1955 was arrested here Saturday night.

The arrest came after Baltimore police were alerted by radio to pick up a man named Turck. The FBI said a man using that name had telephoned its Washington headquarters saying he had killed Rubinstein.

Moments later two traffic patrolmen entered an East Baltimore restaurant and arrested at gunpoint a man in a telephone booth. He was booked at police headquarters as Leo Turck, 31-year-old seaman from New York.

RUBINSTEIN was found strangled Jan. 27, 1955, in his palatial mansion on New York's Fifth Ave. His body was found gagged and trussed on a bedroom floor. The medical examiner ruled that he had been strangled manually.

The FBI in Washington reported that the man had telephoned FBI headquarters there about 11:15 p.m. and said he was the man who had killed Rubinstein.

An alert was relayed to the Baltimore police. The arrest followed.

Africa Areas Set Freedom Movement

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI)—Twenty-one political leaders of five British territories in Africa have formed a "Pan-African Freedom Movement of East and Central Africa."

The native leaders of Uganda, Tanganyika, Nyasaland, Kenya and Zanzibar said they would combat imperialism and "coordinate non-violent nationalist efforts." They said they wanted to establish democracy and self - government throughout Africa.

Beaumont Flooded by Rains

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Deluges of more than a foot of rain in the last 24 hours left much of Beaumont, Tex., paralyzed Saturday night.

A fire was reported in one of the inundated areas but fire equipment could not reach the blaze because of high water, the Beaumont Enterprise reported shortly after 9 p.m. (CST).

Automobile traffic in the city on the Gulf Coast of southeast Texas is virtually impossible, the Enterprise said.

More than five inches of rain fell between 5:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m.

The downpours flooded Hawthorne Place and Borley Heights in northern Beaumont, and a Negro section near a hospital.

The reported fire was in Hawthorne Place, a new residential area. About 50 homes were flooded in Hawthorne Place.

A number of families moved from the Negro section. No injuries were reported, but damage in Beaumont was feared to be heavy.

Heavy rains also fell at nearby Orange and Port Arthur.

RUBS HIM WRONG WAY

Semi-Nude Bath Photo Irks 'Anatomy' Author-Judge

ISHPEMING, Mich. (UPI) —The "Anatomy of a Judge" succeeded the fictional "Anatomy of a Murder" as a best seller Saturday. And the judge, who owns one and wrote the other, doesn't like it one bit.

State Supreme Court Judge John D. Voelker, author of the best-seller novel "Anatomy of a Murder" protested against Time magazine printing a picture of him languishing "semi nude" in a Finnish bath. The picture, besides being circulated in the magazine, also hit the newspaper pages following the judge's anguished protest.

In a letter to the editors of Time, Judge Voelker said "you have literally stripped me in public and have forced upon me, a justice of the Supreme Court, the highly distasteful and undignified task of publicly defending myself"

Only last week Judge Voelker was in the headlines for his eloquently-worded Supreme Court ruling defending the rights of nudism. He wrote the majority opinion that the arrest of four nudists at a nudist colony near Battle Creek two years ago was illegal.

It was that opinion that prompted Time to print the picture of the Judge in the Finnish bath. The picture was one of a series made by Life photographers in connection with the judge's book which he wrote under a pen-name, Robert Traver.

In his letter to Time, Judge Voelker wrote "you have deceived your readers; you have portrayed me as a tasteless, witless and publicity hungry exhibitionist; you have callously brought needless heartache and shame to other innocent people; you have cheapened and degraded a serious court decision in a serious case; and you have done a vast disservice to any fair public concept of the dignity and responsibility of our courts and the earnest, hard-working men who sit on them."

NATIONALISTS SINK RED GUNBOAT

Big Naval Clash Off China Coast

TAIPEI, Formosa (Sunday) (AP)—Nationalist Chinese warships sank one Red Chinese gunboat and damaged another early today in a clash off the coast of Communist China, the Nationalist Defense Ministry said.

Spokesmen said the naval action began at 3:05 a.m. near the mouth of the Min River, which leads to the once bustling port of Foochow. The port city is the capital of Fukien Province.

No other details were disclosed.

Communist artillery units meanwhile kept up their assault on the Quemoy Islands, ministry spokesman reported. They said in the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. Sunday, the Reds had fired 8,918 rounds against the island outposts.

* * * *

A NATIONALIST convoy ran the Communist blockade of Quemoy Saturday for the seventh straight day and unloaded supplies under heavy Red gunfire.

Nationalist spokesmen said a planeload of medical supplies also reached the island.

Officials at Nationalist military headquarters refused to say how many landing ships made it to the shell-raked beach of the offshore islands.

LONDON (AP) — Communist China's Foreign Minister Chen Yi declared Saturday "no force on earth can stop" his country from reoccupying the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

In a statement broadcast by Peiping radio, he accused U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles of making "perverted statements" in his address to the U. N. General Assembly Thursday.

Chen Yi said the Chinese Nationalists, supported by American forces, have been using Quemoy and Matsu for military activities against the Communist mainland.

"The facts show that so long as Quemoy and Matsu are not recovered, the immediate threat to our mainland and coastal areas will not be lifted," he said. "The punitive military operations taken by the Chinese people against Chiang Kai-shek's troops entrenched on Quemoy and Matsu are therefore completely proper and necessary."

* * * *

CHEN YI PLACED the blame for the current tension in the Formosa strait squarely on the United States—and reiterated Red China's demand for the withdrawal of U. S. forces from the Formosa area.

His statement seemed to rule out any hopes the Peiping regime might agree to a cease-fire to reduce tension there.

"There is no fighting between China and the United States," Chen Yi said, "so the question of a so-called cease-fire does not arise at all."

The foreign minister said the crisis will remain as long as U. S. ships and troops stay in the area.

He argued that the Peiping regime always has shown willingness to negotiate the Formosa dispute with the United States through peaceful negotiations "without resorting to the threat or use of force."

But, he said, sober-minded people agree that Quemoy, Matsu and other coastal islands belong to Red China — "only such aggression-maniacs as Dulles refuse to do so."

Rivers Winner in Alaska Voting

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—Ralph Rivers, 55, Fairbanks attorney, won the Democratic nomination for U. S. representative in Alaska's Aug. 26 primary by 630 votes, official returns showed Saturday.

Rivers got 17,790 votes to 17,160 for Raymond E. Plummer of Anchorage in the only contest not decided definitely by unofficial returns.

DEFIES SUPREME COURT

'No Integration!' Says Governor of Virginia

By ROGER GREENE

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Virginia's embattled Gov. J. Lindsay Almond shrugged wearily.

"We might have to take it between the eyes," he said.

And for a moment he seemed to concede a lost cause.

Taken at face value, his words appeared to mean that prosegregation southern leaders, ranged in defiance against the Supreme Court of the United States, are confronted by nearly hopeless odds in their struggle to preserve age-old racial barriers.

* * * *

"WHAT CAN we do in the face of overwhelming power?" he asked. "We are under the power, the coercive power, of the federal court."

But the 60-year-old governor was emphatic on two points:

1. He is not yet ready to surrender, or to permit even token integration in Virginia.

2. Nor does he plan to resurrect the misty banner of the old Confederacy, as some hotheads have urged.

"If federal troops are sent into Virginia," he said, "they will patrol empty schoolhouses."

That is the keystone of Almond's strategy: Close any school threatened with court-ordered integration. If successful, it may set the pattern for the entire south in the battle over segregation.

Cast in the role of Virginia's counterpart to Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas, Almond presents a study in contrasts:

As a judge in Roanoke he once acquitted a Negro who had moved into a white neighborhood and killed a 16-year-old white boy for throwing rocks through the windows, yet he has emerged as the champion of Virginia's die-hard segregationists.

ON THE STUMP, he is a thundering fire-and-brimstone orator of the old school, shaking his leonine head until his white locks fly in all directions . . . a master of metaphor who leaves his audience limp with high-charged emotional appeals. In private, he is the epitome of courtly restraint.

Finally, he has pledged "no surrender" in a tension-fraught situation which resembles, in some aspects, the pre-secession atmosphere of a century ago.

In an interview here in the old capital of the Confederacy, Almond candidly discussed every aspect of the dispute.

What is the future for Negroes in Virginia, he was asked, in view of his adamant stand on racial issues? Should they go north?

"I couldn't advocate that any Negro leave the state unless he finds a climate and conditions better elsewhere, though many are going to Washington, D. C., to live," he said.

Q. How long can Virginia defend its segregation policy against the federal courts?

A. We have run the gamut of legal maneuvers. Now the question is whether Virginians want to run integrated schools. We say they can't do it—an overwhelming majority of our people won't accept it.

Q. What happens if you close the schools?

A. The curse of it is that the blow falls on Negroes and poor whites who can't afford to educate their children privately.

Q. Is there any law that says the State must provide free public education?

A. The Virginia Constitution says the State must provide "an efficient system of education throughout the commonwealth."

Q. Then how could you close the schools? There's a gimmick in there, isn't there?

A. You might call it that. The General Assembly has defined an "efficient" system as one in which the races are not mixed.

Q. Have you received any reports of Negroes and whites arming?

A. No, but we are alert.

Q. What about the Ku Klux Klan? Is there any sign of its revival in Virginia?

A. We don't want the Klan. It has a reputation for secrecy, violence and extremism. Virginia is not fertile soil for the spread of Klanism.

Q. How does 1958 compare with 1858, three years before the outbreak of the Civil War?

A. There is no feeling in the south now that would compare with the feeling before the Civil War. The bitterness of the Reconstruction ERA is practically gone.

Q. Is there any danger that extremists might touch off a conflagration that could get out of the control of level-headed leaders?

A. The situation might become so deep-seated and hard-ened to such an extent that—well, it will have to be carefully watched. I see no immediate danger, however.

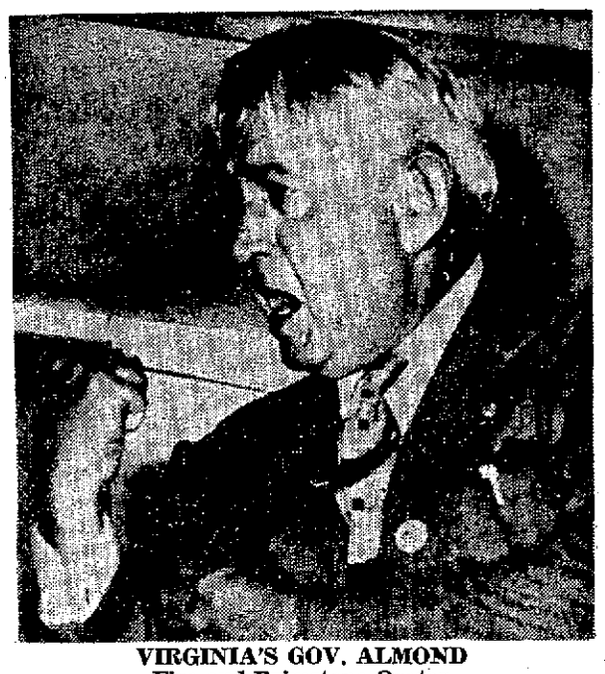

Almond contends that the high tribunal has usurped the power of Congress to enact the nation's laws. The court, he says, has no business "spearheading social and economic evolution."

As for racial mixing in the schools, he says it would mean "an era, possibly eons, of illiteracy."

He has assailed the Eisenhower administration's Civil Rights program, enacted in part by Congress last year, as an attempt to impose "civil wrongs . . . shockingly punitive . . . aimed directly and insultingly at the south."

If Almond at times gives the impression of a man trapped in a giant pressure cooker, his calm, unhurried voice belies any sign of tension.

Critics on both sides in the bitter dispute are puzzled as to just how far Almond would go, if pushed.

MANILA, P. I. (UPI)—William D. Miller, manager of the United Press International Bureau in Manila, was unanimously elected president of the Overseas Press Club here last night.

Control of Auto Smog Possible—But Not Yet

DETROIT (UPI) — Smog-causing automotive exhaust fumes can be controlled but it may be a long time before the gadgets needed to do the job appear on the standard production automobile.

The first break through the smog barrier was a device to control exhaust fumes of the small vehicles used in factories and warehouses.

Catalytic action was used to neutralize the hydrocarbons in the exhaust of the small vehicles.

But compared with the task of developing a device to control exhaust fumes from standard automobiles, the neutralization of hydrocarbons in the fumes for the small vehicles was simple.

These small vehicles burn unleaded gasoline.

Those who are working on the problem say it is much easier to remove the hydrocarbons from unleaded gasoline than it is to remove them from the fumes of gasoline needed in the high-compression engines of today's cars.

For a time, it was believed it was impossible to remove hydrocarbons from the fumes of leaded gasoline through a catalytic process.

But researchers have proven that false.

They have developed a complete package device which effectively used a catalyst to remove from exhaust fumes all the hydrocarbons which are believed to cause smog.

One of the groups working on the problem reported last year on development of a catalyst material which appeared to perform well in the presence of leaded gasoline. Work was continued at a rapid pace on the practical application problems involved in using this catalyst with modern production automobiles.

Strike Shutters Tile Firm Here

A strike shut down Mastic Tile Co.'s west coast manufacturing center here today.

Executive vice president Harry G. Hachmeister said of the midnight strike by 275 workers of International Chemical Workers Local 1:

* * * *

"I SEE ABSOLUTELY no hope of settlement unless the union alters its unreasonable demands."

Hachmeister, refusing to discuss the issues of the labor-management dispute over the telephone, said wages were not a part of the present disagreement.

Asked whether he anticipated a long strike, Hachmeister replied: "It's too soon to tell. But we'll be closed down until the union makes a satisfactory demand.

* * * *

"THEIR DEMANDS are so unreasonable, we have unfair labor action pending with the National Labor Relations Board."

Mastic, at 3340 E. Artesia, is one of the nation's three biggest producers of tile materials. Hachmeister said the strike had caught the firm during its peak season—the late summer and early fall months.

He said it would take a few hours to secure the plant for a prolonged shut-down.

J. P. Moorse, L.B. Pioneer, Dead at 75

John P. Moorse, 75, pioneer North Long Beach land developer, died Friday in his home, 1535 E. First St.

A native of Belgium, he was one of the first subdividers and land developers in the city's northern sections.

Rosary will be recited at 7:30 p.m. today in Mottell's & Peek Mortuary. Requiem mass will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday in St. Anthony's Church.

Mr. Moorse was prominent in the Gov. Peter Burnett General Assembly, St. Anthony's Catholic Church and was a 4th degree Knight of Columbus in Long Beach Council 987.

He is survived by his wife, Jennie; daughter, Mrs. Marine Soukup; brother, Harry; sisters, Mrs. Lizzie Bolton, Mrs. Sophia Clayes and Mrs. Isabella De Sutter; three grandchildren.

Infant Girl Smothered

An 8-week-old baby Paramount baby smothered Saturday night when she apparently rolled over into a crack between two twin beds.

Patricia Ann Denton was pronounced dead on arrival at Ramona Hospital after being rushed there by sheriff's deputies who sped her there from her home at 15707 Caldora St.

The parents, Clinton, 26, and his wife, Freda, 25, told officers they had put the child on top of one of twin beds in their bedroom because the baby was suffering from the heat in her bassinet.

About 30 minutes later they returned to the room to find the child lying face down between the two beds which had been pushed together.

HOSMER MEETS AREA LEADERS

Discussing Long Beach potentials and problems with Congressman Craig Hosmer (center) at a dinner at the home of publisher Herman H. Ridder Saturday were (from left) Supervisor Frank Bonelli; Rear Adm. Victor Long, commander Mine Force, Fifth Fleet, and senior officer afloat of the area; Rep. Hosmer; Supervisor Burton P. Chase; and Rear Adm. Walter Price, commander of the Long Beach Naval Base. (Staff Photo by Don Webster).

Hosmer Tells Vital U.S. Role in 'Atoms for Peace'

By JIM DOUTHIT

America's participation in the recent Geneva international conference on peaceful uses of atomic energy may prove to be one of the most important events of our lifetime, according to Rep. Craig Hosmer (R-Calif).

Hosmer, at a Saturday night dinner in the home of Publisher Herman H. Ridder told reporters the significance of the Geneva "Atoms for Peace" conference has been overlooked among this month's Formosa and Middle East headlines.

* * * *

THE TWO-WEEK meeting of 21 nations, which began Sept. 1 and saw the U. S. and Britain pledge a lifting of the secrecy lid on all non-military uses of the atom, gave both the U. S. and Russia significant glimpses of each other's progress.

American policy may now turn toward more emphasis on harnessing the atom to commerce and industry as a result of the meeting, Hosmer said.

"In this field Southern California has a significant lead on the rest of the nation," the 18th District congressman said.

"Both Atomics International and General Atomics, Southern California firms, are leaders in the field."

"The Southland is in the Nuclear Age with both feet and we have every hope of becoming the center of atomic progress for peace."

* * * *

THE GENEVA conference, Hosmer said, may remove some of America's fear of Soviet atomic progress.

The Long Beach-Lakewood representative in Congress attended the conference as an advisor to the U. S. delegation. Before his election to Congress he was an employe of the Atomic Energy Commission.

"The U. S. exhibit at the conference was so far ahead of anything the Russians were able to show that it made them look silly in the eyes of the scientific world," Hosmer said.

Russian exhibits, designed as were the American displays to show off their atomic superiority, proved only that their pretensions to "gigantic and tremendous scientific advances" were not completely true, Hosmer said.

* * * *

THE U. S. position on nuclear testing is fundamentally sound, Hosmer said.

"Of this I am even more convinced after seeing the respective abilities of Russia and America demonstrated at Geneva," he said.

Sharing of atomic knowledge for purposes of advancing the scientific knowledge of the world and development of a better way of life for all peoples garners the U. S. a great deal of good will from all nations, Hosmer said.

The U. S. is exporting atomic knowledge in an unusual example of foreign aid, the Congressman said.

Hosmer is seeking his fourth term in Congress.

MOTHER, FATHER APART

Baby Drowns in Pond

ANAHEIM—A 10-month-old infant being cared for by his grandparents while his teenage mother was attempting a reconciliation with her husband drowned in a fish pond near here Saturday.

Marcus Frederick Cook was found face down in about 10 inches of water in the backyard of the grandparents home at 9892 Harle St., sheriff's deputies said.

* * * *

FIRE DEPARTMENT rescue units from Anaheim and Stanton attempted for 45 minutes to revive life in the body of the youngster before he was pronounced dead.

The grandfather, Walter Sphanky, told officers the child had been in the house earlier. The infant apparently crawled out the back door, across the yard and fell into the small pond before he was discovered.

MODERN LINE—OLD IDEAS
Norwegian Vessels Carry Tradition

Figureheads Still Grace Prows of Olsen's Ships

By LEE CRAIG

One of man's ancient traditions of the sea—dating back to thousands of years before Christ—is kept alive today in commercial shipping by a famous Norwegian seafaring family.

The Fred Olsen Line of Norway, established in 1873 by the great-grandfather of the present operator, is the only commercial line calling at Los Angeles Harbor to carry figureheads on the prows of its ships.

* * * *

CHINESE sailors, long before the birth of Christ, painted eyes on the bows of their vessels so the ships could see in fog or darkness.

The custom gradually evolved into use of figures, reaching its peak in the last century in the days of the great clipper ships. When sailing vessels gave way to steamers, the tradition was lost.

The Olsen firm—one of Norway's largest—revived the figurehead custom in 1936. Now, more than 50 Olsen ships are adorned with figures created by Norway's finest sculptors.

* * * *

THESE VESSELS, when they are in port, are among the harbor's top attractions for visitors.

The figureheads are mostly of mythical or historical figures—Neptune, early explorers, knights in armor. Many are of women, carved in the magnificent proportions appreciated by Norwegians.

Chris Christiansen, manager of the line's local office, feels that the figureheads restore some of the sentiment of days long gone, when ships were personalities as distinctive as their owners.

"We're not ashamed of trying to bring back a bit of the romance of the sea," he said. "These traditions are part of our lives."

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFS

Scouting Program to Be Expanded

The first annual Navy Summer Scout Program which ended Aug. 31 was so successful that plans are being made to expand it next year, Capt. Robert S. Clark, commander of the Long Beach Naval Station, said Saturday.

Two hundred Boy Scouts from the Long Beach-Los Angeles area participated in the summer program, Clark said. Each group of boys spent two days at the station, sleeping in their own barracks and eating chow in the station mess hall.

A report on the state convention of the California Council for Retarded Children will be made at 7:30 p.m. Thursday when the Long Beach Exceptional Children's Foundation meets at 4519 E. Stearns St.

The Columbus, Kan., picnic will be today in Bixby Park.

A Yom Kippur Night Dance will be held at 9 p.m. Wednesday at the Lakewood Jewish Community Congregation Building, 6440 Del Amo Blvd.

Milton S. Arthur and Walter L. Scott, both of Long Beach, will be in Atlantic City, N. J., Monday through Friday for the 40th National Recreation Congress. Arthur will deliver a speech. Scott will appear on a panel.

Pac. Coast University Law School Sets Registration

The Law School of Pacific Coast University in Long Beach will conduct registration Sept. 25-27 at 236 Newport Ave.

Classes of the university are Friday evenings at Woodrow Wilson High School. They begin Oct. 1, and lead to the degrees of Bachelor of Laws and Master of Laws.

* * * *

THE SCHEDULE this year includes classes on taxation. The faculty is made up of local attorneys and members of the District Attorney's office.

Cases and materials selected by Dean Griswold of the Harvard Law School and the Commerce Clearing House Tax Course will be the basic teaching materials, according to Dr. Carl H. Manson, dean.

All California bar examination subjects are offered in the curriculum, Manson said.

2 New Approaches in Chest Campaign

Two new approaches to conduct of the United Neighbors Community Chest campaign have been instituted this year, campaign chairman James G. Craig Jr. reported Saturday.

One is the "firm beneficiary study" completed by the Community Welfare Council.

The other is a "company executive plan" through which more than 120 firms have asked from 1 to 10 of their executives to work on the campaign.

* * * *

CRAIG SAID the "beneficiary study" was made to combat the erroneous belief of some firms that their employes —because they are employed and receiving good pay—do not use Community Chest agency services.

"Actually, Chest services are not used just by those in low income groups," Craig pointed out.

"Since a great proportion of those receiving direct help are children in youth groups and agencies doing preventive work, it is a misconception to think all Chest services are charity."

The new "company executive plan" has placed the drive on a very business-like basis.

* * * *

"EACH MAN assigned by his firm's top manager to work on the drive will be given five prospects," Craig said. "This plan has the endorsement of leading civic leaders as the most progressive step made to obtain a thorough and fast drive."

As divisions begin kick-off meetings, quotas for all 12 divisions have been announced to total the $953,953 campaign goal.

Individual division goals will be: Advance gifts, $156,000; division, $25,000; residential, $94,953; professional, $29,000; government and education, $78,000; retail, $43,000; financial, $44,000; commercial, $20,000; oil, $84,000; industrial, $104,000; Lakewood, $28,000; downtown, $8,000.

* * * *

IT IS EXPECTED that the share of AID funds given the Chest will amount to $240,000.

Ask Traffic Control System for Downtown

Recommendations for a master traffic control system for the downtown area will be submitted to the city within 60 days by DeLeuw, Cather & Co., consultants who began a survey for that purpose last May.

The nationally - recognized firm has filed a preliminary report indicating substantial progress toward development of a plan for handling greatly increased traffic volume anticipated for next year with the southerly extension of the Long Beach Freeway and the completion of the 9th St. Bridge.

* * * *

FIELD STUDIES of traffic flow for normal and peak periods were completed in the period from May through July, and traffic flow maps are now in preparation.

In addition the consultants are reviewing the experience of other cities in the use of master control systems and have witnessed demonstrations of some of the newer products. No cost estimates are yet available, but these will be submitted with the final report, the traffic engineers said.

City of Hope Dinner Set

A benefit dinner for the City of Hope is planned by the local Goodfellowship Club at 7 p.m. on Nov. 2 in the Wilton Hotel.

The City of Hope, Duarte, is a medical and research center for tuberculosis, heart disease and cancer.

The Goodfellowship Club, headed by Saul Friedman, president, has 90 men and women members. Included in its support of the institution is hospital maintenance of a bed costing $5,000 yearly.

Harold Haupt, club chairman for the benefit dinner, reports the $4 tickets are available from any member.

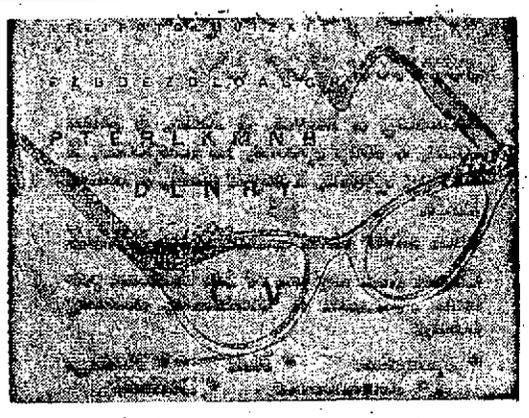

A varied program of entertainment by Hollywood personalities is planned.

CHILDREN DELIGHTED

Gifts Sent Overseas Bring Warm 'Thanks'

Last spring 3,000 Junior Red Cross gift boxes were sent by school children of Long Beach and immediate area to children in foreign hospitals and schools.

The boxes contained a variety of gifts such as toothbrushes, toothpaste, combs, fingernail files, sewing kits, crayons, compasses, marbles, tops, jacks.

A fervent thank-you letter for 57 of the boxes has just come from the patients and staff of the Tuberculosis Hospital, Bitapaka, Rabaul, New Guinea. Sister M. Regia, M.S.C., wrote the letter, received by Don Medley, director of school and college activities, Long Beach Chapter, American Red Cross, and the volunteer chairman, Mrs. Earl Vertrees.

* * * *

IT WAS ACCOMPANIED by individual thank-you letters to givers from the Bellflower Christian school, and the Mark Twain, Lafayette, Bixby, Poly High, St. Anthony's High and Jefferson schools of Long Beach.

Wrote Sister Regia: "Some weeks ago Miss Pia Maria Leitao of the Junior Red Cross of Rabaul brought 57 gift boxes for the children of our hospital. The native children were delighted and thanked in their own languages; but most of them are too small and unable to write in English. Some of the nurses and the clerk who help in the office answered for them. Even some of the nurses cannot write in their own language, because they had no schooling in their villages during the recent war; but they know some English and Pidgin. Those who wrote are all natives from different areas: Tolai, Manus, Talasea and Lihir.

". . . Many natives are considered 'children' from the time they are born till they marry; so they go to school when possible until they marry, and are considered fairly well educated if they can read and reckon . . .

* * * *

"THIS HOSPITAL is in an area where the children run naked until they are about 6 years.

"Please thank everybody for us, especially those from whose schools and classes our boxes came. Many from Bellflower Christian School; others from Mark Twain School, Lafayette School, Bixby School, Polytechnic High School, St. Anthony's High School and Jefferson Junior High School.

"Some of you may know the missionary, Rev. Father Anthony Gendusa of Long Beach. He just returned to us after a vacation in America; and said I should say 'Hello' to his neighbors."

Big Odds Produced Bigger Winnings

Only a few years ago, the most optimistic physician or pharmacist would have given you tremendous odds against there ever being winning drugs like those on our prescription shelves today.

They had good reason for those big odds. The odds against finding one effective antibiotic were 100,000 to 1. Yet in spite of such odds, 9 out of 10 prescriptions that you can buy today are for drugs that weren't available a dozen years ago. That's not unusual. 14,000 possibilities had to be narrowed down to 3 or 4 drugs of value against malaria. Of the thousands of suites and pain relievers studied, only a handful have been found useful. And so on and on. Big odds, but bigger winnings.

WHY ARE THE LABOR BOSSES SO AFRAID OF PROPOSITION #18?

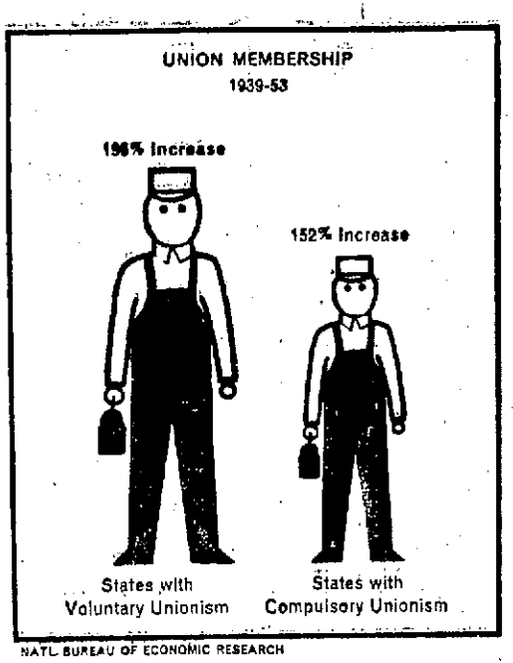

1 Voluntary Unionism hasn't hurt Wages, Prosperity, Job Opportunities or Union Membership in the 18 states that have such laws. On the contrary!

U.S. BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS

1 Paychecks Got Bigger

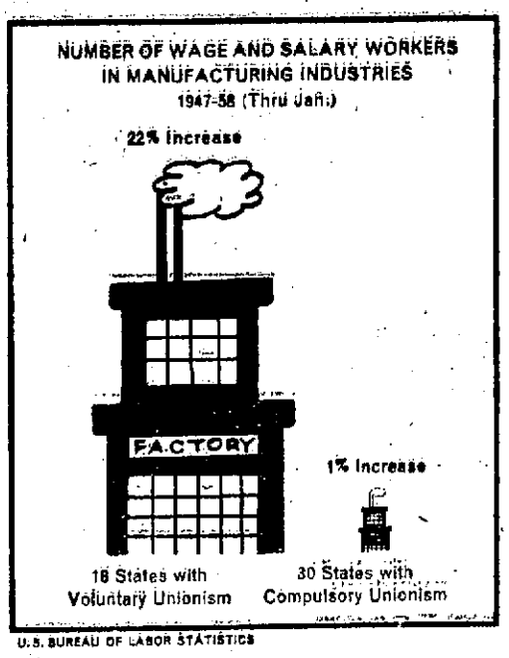

Hourly wages of factory production workers showed a greater percentage increase in the 18 states that have Voluntary Unionism than in the 30 states that have Compulsory Unionism.

NATL. BUREAU OF ECONOMIC RESEARCH

2 Union Membership went UP

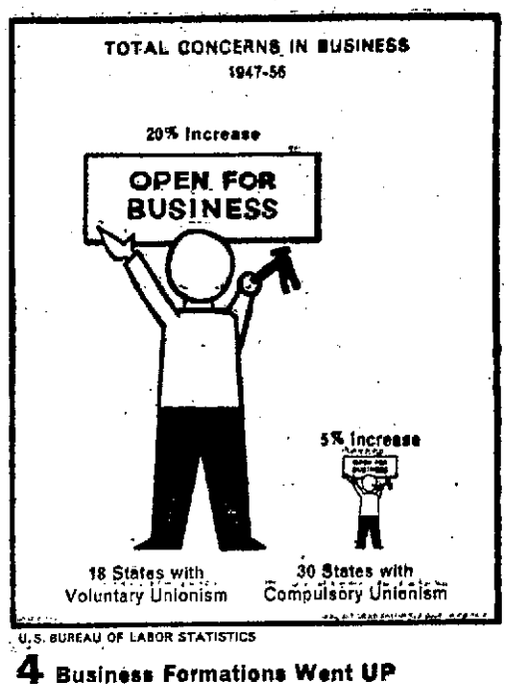

Look at the record! Unions increased membership much faster in the states that have Voluntary Unionism. (As a matter of fact, the Labor Bosses know this.)

U.S. BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS

3 Jobs Went UP

The record in the 18 states with Voluntary Unionism shows a much faster increase in jobs than in the 30 states with Compulsory Unionism.

U.S. BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS

4 Business Formations Went UP

Voluntary Unionism attracts new businesses—creates new jobs.*

*Lt. Gov. Crawford F. Parker of Indiana reports that inquiries from industries interested in locating in Indiana doubled the first year after that state passed its Voluntary Unionism law (1957). And they're coming in at 4 times as great a rate this year.

2 Nor does the Measure itself attempt IN ANY WAY to dictate how Unions should conduct their affairs.

Read it yourself. Here is the ENTIRE TEXT of Proposition #18, word for word, just as it will appear in the law if it is passed. You won't find a single thing in it that threatens the existence of any union...or interferes with the way a union does business. The purpose of Proposition #18 is single, simple and clear— to give wage earners the right to join or not to join a union as they see fit. That and nothing more:

The people of the State of California do enact as follows: A new Section 1-A is hereby added to Article I of the Constitution of the State of California to read:

Section 1-A.

1 All men should be free to elect voluntarily whether to join or not to join a labor organization. The principle of voluntary unionism provides a safeguard against the abuses which result from monopoly control of employment.

2 It is hereby declared to be the public policy of California that the right of persons to work shall not be denied or abridged on account of membership or nonmembership in any labor organization.

3 Any agreement or combination between any employer and any labor organization whereby persons not members of such labor organization shall be denied the right to work for the employer, or whereby such membership is made a condition of employment or continuation of employment by such employer, is hereby declared to be against public policy.

4 No person shall be required by an employer to become or remain a member of any labor organization as a condition of employment or continuation of employment by such employer.

5 No person shall be required by an employer to abstain or refrain from membership in any labor organization as a condition of employment or continuation of employment.

6 No employer shall require any person, as a condition of employment or continuation of employment, to pay any dues, fees or other charges of any kind to any labor organization.

7 No person, firm, association, corporation or labor organization shall cause or attempt to cause any employer to violate any of the provisions of this Section.

8 Any person who may be denied employment or be deprived of continuation of his employment in violation of paragraphs (4), (5) or (6) or of one or more of such paragraphs shall be entitled to recover from such employer and from any other person, firm, corporation, association or labor organization acting in concert with such employer, by appropriate action in the courts of this State, such damages as he may have sustained by reason of such denial or deprivation of employment, together with reasonable attorney fees.

9 Any employer, person, firm, association, corporation or labor organization injured as a result of any violation or threatened violation of any provision of this Section or threatened with any such violation shall be entitled to injunctive relief against any and all violators or persons threatening violation, and also to recover from such violator or violators, or person or persons, any and all damages of any character resulting from such violations or threatened violations. Such remedies shall be independent of and in addition to the remedies prescribed in other provisions of this Section.

10 The provisions of this Section shall not apply to any lawful contract in force on the effective date hereof but they shall apply in all respects to contracts entered into thereafter and to any renewal or extension of any existing contract.

11 Nothing in this Section shall be construed to deny the right of an employee to be represented in collective bargaining by a labor organization.

12 The provisions of this Section shall be self-executing but legislation not in conflict herewith may be enacted to facilitate its operation.

13 As used herein, "labor organization" means any organization of any kind, or any agency or employee representation committee or plan, in which employees participate and which exists for the purpose, in whole or in part, of dealing with employers concerning grievances, labor disputes, wages, rates of pay, hours of employment, or conditions of work.

14 If any of the provisions hereof, or the application of such provision to any person or circumstance, shall be held invalid, the remainder of this Section, or the application of such provision to persons or circumstances other than those as to which it is held invalid, shall not be affected thereby.

3 Why then are the Labor Bosses so bitter in their opposition?

Are they afraid that "Right-to-Work" will put them "Back-to-Work"—force them to justify their activities to their rank-and-file union membership?

Are they afraid that democracy in unions will put a curb on corruption, rigged elections, racketeering, violence and "taxation without representation"?

Are they afraid that Voluntary Unionism will make it impossible for them to silence a union member who asks too many embarrassing questions at union meetings—by forcing his employer to fire him?

Are they afraid that Voluntary Unionism will make it possible for the captive membership of a corrupt or Communistic union to walk out in a body and join an honest, patriotic union?

Are they afraid their uncles, aunts, cousins and nephews will get tossed off the union payrolls?

4 Think it over. We believe you'll decide there can only be one explanation:

Proposition #18 doesn't directly affect the activities of the Labor Bosses. There's nothing in the law that even touches on these matters.

But proposition #18 will make it possible for the rank-and-file union membership to affect those activities.

Voluntary Unionism will restore democracy in unions: It will give back to the individual union member his strongest single weapon of protest—the "right to strike" against corrupt, unfair or inefficient union practices by quitting or threatening to quit the union.

That doesn't mean he will quit in most cases. (The record in other states proves that.) But it does mean he will be able to demand good union leadership—or else.

And people who are in a position to say "—or else" usually get what they ask for.

So the next time you see or hear a piece of Labor Boss propaganda you might remember this. Any Labor Boss who is afraid of Proposition #18 must be afraid of his own union members. There isn't anything else in the whole situation to fear.

Community Chest Is Not 'Charity'

AS THE United Neighbors Community Chest campaign gets underway in this area, campaign workers face a number of familiar obstacles.

Among these obstacles is the persistent but erroneous belief that Community Chest is basically an instrument of charity.

* * * *

WORKERS COLLECTING FUNDS for the Chest repeatedly run into the statement:

"No collection is necessary among the employees of our company. They have jobs with good wages and don't need charity."

Or: "I prefer to give my charity direct."

Actually, Community Chest is the name of the organization in which 31 separate health, welfare, community and youth agencies join in a single campaign for funds with which to carry out their individual functions. Over 50 percent of the funds contributed to Community Chest go into youth services such as those provided by Boys Clubs, Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, and Girl Scouts. The remainder goes to services connected with health, family relationships, and transiency. These things are not "charity" but recreational and social services.

* * * *

THERE ARE FEW, IF INDEED ANY, business firms that can say their employes do not benefit from Chest activities.

Firms and individuals who discourage collections on the belief that the Chest is "charity" are simply mistaken, and their mistake robs the Chest agencies of some of their ability to perform effectively.

We suspect, however, that in some cases the "charity" retort is simply another rationalization on the part of those who don't want to give, regardless of the cause.

* * * *

FRANKLY, WE DON'T KNOW what can be done about that kind of bad citizenship.

After all, in this country there's no law which says a man has to do his share in his community. It's up to him.

BOB HOUSER

Knight Sounds Like Cyrano as He Challenges Them All

ROTE CAN build legends.

Constant reminders in this political year that Gov. Goodwin J. Knight is a "terrific campaigner" leave one vaguely impressed that he must be.

But it took his performance last Thursday night in L. A.'s Biltmore Bowl to convince me that fires banked in tenure can flare again.

HOUSER

Setting aside the senatorial virtues which Gov. Knight, Republican, or Clair Engle, Democrat, may have as they wage their campaigns for the seat which Sen. William Knowland vacates, Knight's Thursday performance deserves review.

He was a nose-truncated Cyrano as he paraphrased Cyrano's exuberant bravado, "Bring me giants" (to fight), saying instead, "I say bring me more congressional opponents!"

Whereas the movie version of Cyrano excused his enthusiasm because of prospect of success with Roxanne, Gov. Knight was wooing the body politic. It's been a bi-partisan contention of some stature, since the primary, that this romance would go unrequited Nov. 4.

* * * *

BUT, ON WITH THE PLAY. The Governor, his own lovely Roxanne (Virginia) at his side, delivered a stirring, half-hour bombast in tones ranging from whisper to shout and unspoiled by a defective P. A. system.

Engle is guilty, he said, of fraudulent, cheap, deceitful campaigning. (What few newsmen were present pricked their ears because Goodie has thrown out his prepared text and was improvising.)

He attacked Engle for posing as an Air Force jet pilot in the Korean conflict in a photograph "taken in Washington, D. C., in a borrowed flying suit."

Knight said Engle's "U. S. Senator Engle, Democrat" billboards are "fraudulently deceiving the people into believing he is an incumbent senator." This is important, the Governor said, "because there are two million new people in the state since I was last a candidate."

"If he does this in campaigning," asked Knight, "How will he misrepresent his voting record?" Then Knight shouted, "I'll make him tell!"

* * * *

ENGLE SAID ON TV two weeks ago that only 22 per cent of the people of California know who he is, Knight charged, "but in the next seven weeks I propose to make sure that he is well known.

"Also, I'll prove to you conclusively that Engle votes have cost Southern California one million acre-feet of water per year because of his support of the Glen Canyon Dam.

"The floods that almost wiped out San Joaquin County in 1955 would not have happened if there had been a Hogan Dam, which Engle blocked with his votes for 14 years," Knight declared, then asked his audience, "You think I won't get some votes in San Joaquin County?"

* * * *

THE GOVERNOR DENIED the state is "broke" as charged, and asserted he transferred $150 million from the general to the water fund "which is in the state vaults tonight."

Knight closed in oratorical crescendo, declaiming, "You may have doubted if this candidate (Knight) could survive. I tell you you are sitting in a campaign that is going to win! You may have thought the old boy has lost his steam — don't you believe it! This challenges me; this I love; this I want. I say, "Bring me more Congressional opponents!"

* * * *

KNIGHT ATTACKED ENGLE'S "absenteeism between Aug. 8-23, when there was vital business in Congress. Wait till I tell the voters of Chico and Redding that the domestic stabilization bill lost in Congress while my opponent was campaigning, attacking the medical profession and Eisenhower."

Praising the independents as "a wonderful, stand-up bunch of guys," Gov. Knight said, "I play ball with the boys on my team because of loyalty which, next to courage and virtue is without price of rubies."

("And as I end the refrain — thrust home.")

DREW PEARSON

Without Incident Georgians Attend Integrated Theater

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Drew Pearson is on vacation. Today's column is written by an assistant, Tom McNamara.)

WASHINGTON — A musical drama called "The Crowning Experience" played for four months recently at the Tower Theater in Atlanta, Ga. The cast was integrated; so were the audiences, totalling more than 40,000 people, who witnessed the performances. Yet there wasn't a single "incident" inside or outside the theater.

Police were struck not so much by the orderliness as by the friendliness of the throngs of white and colored spectators. A newspaperman said, "This is what the Communists boasted never could happen in the South." Commented U. S. Sen. Herman Talmadge of Georgia, "amazing."

* * * *

HOWEVER, behind what happened in Georgia is an even more amazing story of how dedicated people from all walks of life are organizing to find a solution to a problem that our political leaders have been unable to resolve —the explosive challenge of Little Rock.

The movement is called moral rearmament. Its formula is human understanding, nothing else. But its impact is being felt all over the world, particularly in the Far East where Communist propagandists denounce the movement with almost the same vehemence they give to American "imperialism."

Moral rearmament relies chiefly on the drama to foster good will between all races and religions. Its pulpit is the stage. The play, "The Crowning Experience," censures Negroes as well as white people for racial strife. Nonetheless, it drew the greatest audience in Washington history—80,000 people—during an integrated run at the National Theater here, following the Atlanta performances.

Among the spectators were Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson, House GOP Leader Joseph Martin, Democratic Rep. John Blatnik of Minnesota, and numerous other members of Congress. Martin was so impressed by the play that he drove back the next evening with several colleagues who wished to see it.

SEN. TALMADGE
He Was Amazed

Even such a confirmed segregationist as Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas has shown an interest in the "human understanding" crusade. Faubus was present at a Little Rock showing of a moral rearmament film called "Freedom" about the racial struggle in Africa. Later he was asked for his opinion of it by Rajmohan Gandhi, 23-year-old grandson of Mahatma Gandhi, India's famed "passive resistance" leader.

"This film exemplifies the only spirit that will save mankind," replied Faubus. "I am grateful that it has come from Africa."

NOTE—Moral rearmament leaders would like to see the governor's enthusiasm backed up with some action.

CAPITAL CAPERS

Capital Reverts to Topic A—Politics

By Walter T. Ridder, Robert E. Lee and William W. Broom

WASHINGTON — Now that the American League baseball franchise here seems at least temporarily safe, the chatter in the capital has reverted to the normal Topic A—politics.

Two congressional committees, eschewing pre-election vacations, are holding frequent hearings and turning out grist for the campaign mills. Candidates of both parties are making the pilgrimage to their respective national committee headquarters to bone up on the party line and star in brief productions for radio and television use. Public opinion polls are being studied, and conclusions drawn therefrom, with the diligence of the senior class boning up for final exams.

MEADE ALCORN
Target: Left Wing

Even the serious problems of national and international import — school segregation, the Warsaw talks with Red China and the Formosa Straits crisis — are discussed widely in terms of their political significance.

* * * *

MEANWHILE, new and old techniques of campaigning are vying for favor with the candidates. With campaign funds flowing like glue in many states, many politicians are taking a second look at TV and deciding to invest fewer of their scarce dollars in the relatively new medium. Radio, accordingly, is regaining primary popularity in many circles.

Coattail riding, as ever, is being widely practiced and one candidate in neighboring Maryland is achieving the ultimate in this time-tested technique. The billboards advertising his candidacy announce merely: "Don SYMINGTON — A Name You Know." Presumably he is riding the coattails of Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri who used to live in Baltimore, Md. The coattail rider doesn't even bother to tell the casual viewer of the billboard what party he represents.

* * * *

REPUBLICAN STRATEGY, at least on the national level, seems so far to be to train the oratorical guns on the old familiar targets. GOP Chairman Meade Alcorn rarely makes a speech without a sarcastic reference to those he identifies as "left-wing leaders" who "exercise effective control of the Democratic party." Harry Truman seems to have made his escape from the target zone but Sens. Hubert Humphrey (Minn.) and Wayne Morse (Ore.), Gov. Soapy Williams of Michigan and United Auto Workers President Walter Reuther are still sharply silhouetted in Alcorn's sights.

Delayed reports from the Maine election of two weeks ago, moreover, have it that the GOP there tried to block Democratic Gov. Muskie's election to the Senate by solemnly warning that Muskie would become a member of the "Morse-Humphrey bloc" in Washington.

* * * *

MEANWHILE, THE DEMOCRATS can't make up their collective party mind whether they're for or against administration action in supporting Chiang Kai-Shek. For the first time in many years of association, Truman and the man he called "the best secretary of state in history," Dean Acheson, are in public disagreement. Acheson has lambasted the Eisenhower-Dulles approach while his former chief has warmly defended it. Other Democrats are lining up on both sides while some, for the time being, are on the fence.

* * * *

THE DISTINCTION of introducing the last of 20,604 measures submitted in the 85th Congress went to Rep. Charles S. Gubser (R-Calif). Charlie squeaked under the wire on adjournment day with a concurrent resolution expressing the sense of Congress "That the United States in its international relations should maintain its traditional policy in opposition to colonialism and Communist imperialism." It was referred to the Foreign Affairs Committee.

Erstwhile Farmer Prefers the City

FOGGY BOTTOM, D. C. —

Having given it a try for a year, as of today, my bride and I have decided the city is a great invention. It is meant to be lived in.

We'll not be going back to the country, and those skunks under the front porch, soon again.

What we did a year ago was move from our beaten-up acres in Virginia to a bright and sunny cooperative apartment we bought in the Potomac Plaza, a new building here by the Potomac River in what used to be the toughest section of Washington.

* * * *

WE KEPT our farm (renting it to some city folks who wanted to give the rural life a try) on the theory that maybe we'd return eventually to the chiggers, the busted-down power mowers, the water pump and the hired man, who never was there when we needed him.

Not one crisis have we had since we moved back to civilization. This has cut down the subject matter for my columns but I think we'll live longer.

* * * *

BIG LAWNS we've got around the apartment, and particularly do I enjoy watching somebody else mow them. Sometimes I give him some advice, based on my own involuntary eminence as a power mower expert, but I haven't touched a monkey wrench since I came to town.

For the first time in a decade my fingernails are clean. There's no paint, axle grease, bug poison, window putty, patching plaster, or slave for sick cows beneath 'em. My callouses have almost disappeared.

My Hilda is enjoying city life, too. She wears dresses now and high heels, instead of overalls and boots. She's given up dusting the house, because there is no dust.

The windows are sealed year 'round, night and day, and a gentle breeze of washed, dehumidified and cooled (or warmed) air wafts through our establishment constantly. Smells, including the good ones, disappear instantly. Must admit I miss the odor of a cake baking, but on hot and muggy nights it has been a joy not having my fingers stick together.

I haven't mentioned it to her, but I do believe my bride may be carrying this luxury a litle far. No matter how hot the night may be without, she flicks down the lever on the wall. This causes cool air to gush through her bedroom — and she sleeps under her electric banket turned up to medium. Should they read this, I fear our old neighbors in McLean, Va., still battling mildew, will hate her.

MY FLOWERS FOR YOU

I like to give you flowers, dear. . . A beautiful bouquet. . . . And if I could afford it, I . . . Would order some each day. . . Enough to fill your vases all . . . With every fragrance sweet. . . And then a thousand more, my love, . . To strew before your feet. . . . I do not have the means to buy . . . The smallest flower mart. . . But I do have and offer you . . . The blossoms in my heart. . . The flower of devotion and . . . The bloom of loyalty. . . And one forget-me-not to crown . . . Each happy memory . . . These are my humble tokens of . . . The love I have for you. . . These are my promises, dear one . . . To make your dreams come true.

Letters Praise L.A.C. Column

TO THE EDITOR:

Many thanks for LAC's splendid column, "The Forgotten Ones."

It took courage to write as he did, and I for one deeply appreciate it.

I am nearly 72 years of age and know there are many injustices under the present pension system.

(I worked a good part of my life, but not under Social Security.)

JESSIE STONE

A SPLENDID column. Many elderly citizens never had an opportunity to pay into Social Security and therefore have no pension or support at age 65. Pension systems and social security laws must be broadened to avoid unfairness.

C. E. LAY
233 E. Willow St.,
Long Beach

A GOOD article. Why should a man at 77 receive the short end when many persons much younger are wealthy and getting large social security payments?

Paper's Subsidence Stand Commended

TO THE EDITOR:

The officers and members of this labor organization wish to take the opportunity to express our feeling towards the Independent, Press-Telegram for its fine cooperation and its stand on subsidence, a condition that jeopardizes the entire community of Long Beach.

The majority of the membership of our group are employed at the Long Beach Naval Shipyard on Terminal Island, the center of subsidence problem, and the fact that these people's jobs and livelihood are vitally affected by this problem makes it a major issue for our group. We feel that the very existence of the Long Beach Naval Shipyard will be at stake depending on the success of the water injection program.

* * * *

IT IS TRAGIC that not more of the citizens of this city are aware of the seriousness of this problem. The stand and interest that your newspaper has taken on this matter and the interest to the community is to be commended by many groups, we believe. Keep up the good work in keeping the public informed in the latest developments on this matter and we will end up vicorious.

Shorter Political Campaigns Urged

TO THE EDITOR:

Now that the registration lists for the fall election are closed, may I suggest the following which I believe will be of great help to voters:

Publish a complete outline of the various propositions that will be on the ballot.

From now on, individuals and groups will be quoted for and against proposition number "so and so" and the reader, not having access to the subject matter, frequently does not have any detailed knowledge of the proposition, and have no way of judging the merits or demerits of the argument.

* * * *

ANOTHER thing. Complaints have been noted recently of the high cost of running for office. One thing that could reduce that cost materially, reduce the wear and tear on the electorate by so many campaign activities, and also spare the candidates considerable wear and tear, is to reduce the length of time between primaries and election. In these days of rapid communication and transportation, the electors can easily get all of the information about candidates in a very short time.

E. E. BULLARD
3228 Bellflower Blvd.,
Long Beach 8

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This newspaper will, as usual, have thorough pre-election coverage, and we plan a roundup of propositions similar to that suggested by Mr. Bullard.)

What Others Are Saying—

I believe a clear-cut, strong statement on the part of the United States that any (Red Chinese) attack on our (Nationalist Chinese) territory violates our mutual security would do more good than anything else to keep the peace.

—Madame Chiang Kai-shek.

LETTER OF THE WEEK

A Sickening Scene

TO THE EDITOR:

Thursday night I witnessed the most pitiful and sickening scene of my life, an automobile accident on Lakewood Blvd. in which one person was killed and nine others injured.

* * * *

SIX OF THE PERSONS involved were children. One died, and the others were hurt. For those who witnessed the screams and wailings of these young and twisted and broken bodies, this was no ordinary accident. The pleas and cries of agony of a small child are not easily forgotten. As I watched this tragic scene, I could not help thinking: What if these were my children?

* * * *

WHAT KIND OF PEOPLE are we to produce powerful, streamlined automobiles, making them larger and faster — and more lethal — every year and then permit irresponsible individuals to get in them and menace the lives of innocent children?

What kind of people are we that we must maim and endanger the lives of young children in order to save a few precious minutes?

One more question: Was five minutes saved Thursday night?

NEW OFFICE FOR LOCAL BUSINESS

$400 MO. GUAR.

We have immediate need for 8 clean-cut, neat-appearing aggressive men with various backgrounds, who know that their last job has led them nowhere & promised no future.

Many times a person gets tired of the "same old rountine," & wonders if there is a job available where a sincere, aggressive man can really make a future for himself. If you are presently dissatisfied, there are 3 things you can do:

1.—Change your location.
2.—Change your occupation.
3.—Change yourself.

In most instances, you should only change your occupation. To help you decide what work you are best suited for, we offer you:

UNBIASED SCIENTIFIC APTITUDE TESTING PLAN

which is absolutely free which we welcome you to take advantage of. This will tell us whether you possess the fundamental qualities to success with the Scott-Fetzer Co. We start our men at $400 per mo. guarantee + a bonus plan. Pay increases rapidly as you learn the work.

5148 ATLANTIC AVE.

It doesn't matter what your past work has been if you qualify. All we ask is that you will study & learn as you will be selected thru an UNBIASED SCIENTIFIC APTITUDE TEST, WHICH will tell whether you possess the fundamental ability necessary for success in our electrical industry. You will enjoy taking this test. It is free, and upon completion you will be given an interview. Our work is not hard and we are not the type of company to stand over a man and drive him. We do, however, expect an honest day's work for an honest day's pay. Must have car.

Your earnings can start from $80-$150 week. Start immediately.

IMPORTANT DISTRIBUTORSHIP OPEN. New Travelette merchandising system now available for first time in this area. Unique, compact display counter features over 40 nationally advertised necessity items used by individuals of all ages. All items tremendous sellers. Our Travelette display counters are placed on a contract basis in motels, hotels, airports, bus terminals, service stations, truck stops, hospital lobbies, etc. This is not a vending operation. The merchandising units are operated by the owner or attendant who sells items displayed on an exclusive basis. We assign our distributor an agreed number of accounts which is approved by you. Each account should net you a minimum of $10.00 per week, or over $400.00 per month. Your future income and expansion is tremendous and unlimited. Ideal for husband and wife, or can be operated along with present position to start. Inventory hours can be arranged at your convenience as it requires about one hour every fifteen days per account to inventory and replace stock. To qualify you must be honest, reliable, own a serviceable car and have a minimum of $2200.00 cash for inventory and supplies which is secured in writing by us that all merchandise is guaranteed to sell 100% or we replace at your convenience. Written guarantee that you will make money or we will buy your distributorship back. Hathaway's guarantees to establish your accounts at their expense. If you have the desire to expand to the $15,000 to $25,000 bracket per year, and a safe, sure business with a minimum investment to get started, then act now and write for consideration of personal interview giving name, address, age, phone number and complete resume. Write to Hathaway's Wholesale Division, 645 Haywood Road, West Asheville, N. C.

PANTHERS STUN UCLA, 27-6

'Pitt Could be Nation's Best' Says Dickerson

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

"We played a disappointing game, but don't judge us too harshly. We might have been playing the best team in the country."

Making the post-game comment was George Dickerson, UCLA's new head football coach who received a dismal baptism of fire when his heavily-favored Bruins were smothered by a rip-snorting Pittsburgh club, 27-6, Saturday in the Coliseum.

"I knew before the game this Pittsburgh club was much better than the team that visited the Coliseum against SC last year, so I had to laugh at the odds favoring us," sighed the exhausted and sweat-soaked Bruin chief.

DICKERSON RAVED about Pitt's blocking line, fast backs and quarterbacks.

"I've never seen a line block in an opening game like those guys did out there today," continued Dickerson. "Even Red Sanders' best teams didn't look as good on opening day as Pitt did today. Their two quarterbacks called beautiful games, too.

"I'm quite disappointed in our performance,, but I can't help but feel we looked so bad because Pitt was so good."

Dickerson, though reluctant to single out any Bruins he thought performed with merit, did say he "enjoyed" the work of soph tailback Bill Kilmer and the defensive play of tackle Bill Leeka.

"Overall, though, our line play was way below par," concluded Dickerson, not a man of many words. "If we don't improve that phase of our game, at least, we'll be blown out of the Illinois stadium next week."

MORE GENEROUS WITH his conversation was Pitt coach John Michelosen. He hinted UCLA was weaker than he had anticipated, but quickly covered up with this comment:

"UCLA was playing under obvious handicaps. No team can lose its coach one month and rebound too quickly under another man. UCLA will settle down and win some ball games, count on that."

Getting down to business, Michelosen lauded his quarbacks, Ivan (The Terrible) Toncic and Bill Kaliden.

"They called outstanding games, throwing just enough passes to break up our running game," he remarked. "I think we've got the best quarterback duo in college ranks today in Toncic and Kaliden.

"OUR TWO LINES played magnificiently, too. The center of our first line—Guzik (John), Crafton (Don) and Michaels (Ed)—is positively great. Those boys showed that today. I was worried about my second team line, but it looked almost as good as the first unit.

"It was a wonderful feeling to see that second line hold up so well under this terrific heat."

Michelosen said the heat, as expected, wore down his visiting Easterners.

"Those kids of mine were miserable out there. I don't suppose it was much better for UCLA, but that Coliseum blast furnace is really rough on us—or any visitors. I was afraid some of the boys would collapse in that heat, but I alternated my units as often as the rules allowed so nobody would get too exhausted," he continued.

Michelosen pointed out also that he was happy with the way his linemen held up UCLA's All-American nominee, Dick Wallen, at the line of scrimmage.

"We had to stop Wallen from getting free for passes, because that kid's dynamite. When we slowed him up at the scrimmage line, we stopped a very potent threat."

* * * *

A FINAL THING which pleased Michelosen was the way his newly-installed offense functioned.

"We weren't used to the 'T' so I was afraid we might mess up our attack for a couple of games until we had it down pat," he pointed out. "But give all the credit to Toncic and Kaliden. They were our champions out there today."

Bruins Sad on Offense

By DAVE LEWIS

There is no substitute for winning . . . or for Red Sanders.

The Bruins of UCLA discovered that the hard way here Saturday as they absorbed a crunching 27-6 defeat at the hands of a hard-knocking University of Pittsburgh squad in their '58 opener before 30,578 smog-bound fans.

It was the Uclan's first opening-game defeat since 1951.

The inspiration and defensive genius of Sanders, and the fiery spirit, sharp blocking and crisp tackling that marked his squads were all missing as the Bruins turned in one of their most lackadaisical performances in many, many years.

However, things are not as dark as they may look at this point. The Bruins still can look forward to a creditable season in their own "league" since Pittsburgh is bound to earn more and more respect as being one of the nation's toughest collegiate elevens as the season progresses.

AND THE ONE bright spot—if there is one—in the humiliating defeat is that the men who bore the brunt of the work load will be round for the full season. Many of the seven "five-game" seniors who were supposed to "carry" the Bruins during the first half of the season were conspicuous by their absence during most of the game after being freely pushed around in the opening minutes of play.

The senior-studded forward wall, rated one of the most powerful in the West, was no match for the rugged Pitt forwards, who ripped the Bruin line to shreds with their fierce charge that opened gaping holes for the hard-running Panther backs.

Effectively mixing in deadly aerial strikes with their punishing ground game, the Panthers rolled up a net yardage total of 324 yards—an unusually high figure against UCLA defenses in recent years.

MEANWHILE, the Bruins gained but 178 yards, only 41 in the second half. And 60 of that total came on their lone scoring advance in the waning seconds of the initial half.

Although outplayed all the way, the Bruins trailed by only a 12-6 count and were still very much "alive" until the final couple of minutes of the third quarter when the Panthers boomed into position for Norton Seaman's field goal from the 14-yard line that made the score 15-6.

Pitt moved out to a 6-0 lead in the first four minutes with a jolting 71-yard drive in 10 plays and boosted it to 12-0 at the outset of the second quarter when quarterback Ivan Toncic raced 55 yards with an intercepted pass before the Bruins were able to record their lone score just six seconds before the half drew to a close.

Trying desperately to get something going in the fading seconds of the half, tailback Bill Kilmer, highly-rated transfer from Citrus J. C., rolled out to his right away from a wave of Pitt tacklers and unleashed a 58-yard aerial strike to right half Marv Luster, who finally was tripped on the two-yard line.

BUT THE BRUINS were not to be denied and at 14:54 of the second quarter, Kilmer, on an "option," faked a pass and then cut inside left end for the touchdown. Kirk Wilson's kick for the extra point was blocked by end Mike Ditka.

Pitt came back in the third period with the field goal and then struck for two more touchdowns in the final five minutes of the game as the remnants of the once-proud Bruin defense collapsed.

The Panthers, at least, were thankful for their 21-point victory margin due to a complete breakdown of their "conversion machine."

Seaman, Toncic and Marty Baracca all missed kicks for extra points, while after the second Pitt touchdown in the second period, Toncic attempted to pass for two points after faking a kick, but Jim Steffen broke it up by intercepting.

The Panthers served warning of what was to come in the opening minutes with their initial touchdown drive.

Toncic got it rolling with a 12-yard pass to Jim Zanos, while halfback Joe Scisly kept it going in high gear with successive drives of 10, 4 and 11 yards up the middle to set the stage for Toncic's 28-yard pass to end Art Gob that carried to the two-yard line. Toncic "sneaked" over from the one two plays later for the TD.

AFTER THE BRUINS fought off another brief Panther move later in the first period, they seemed to be coming to life as the second quarter opened when disaster struck.

Don Long's pass down the middle was picked off by Toncic who raced 55 yards to a touchdown at 4:18 to send the Pitt lead soaring to 12 points.

The Bruins didn't record a serious scoring threat at any time during the game other than their touchdown six seconds before the half that left the score 12-6 at the intermission.

The Panthers finally cracked things wide open late in the third quarter when they mounted a 69-yard march to the Bruin seven to get in position for Seaman's field goal from the 14 at 14:46. Johnny Flara's 12-yard run and quarterback Bill Kaliden's 18 and 15-yard passes to Ditka and Ron Delfine were the key plays in the advance.

Wilhelm No-Hits Yanks

BALTIMORE (AP)—The American League champion New York Yankees went without a hit or run Saturday against the knuckle balls tossed by 35-year-old Hoyt Wilhelm of the Baltimore Orioles, who won 1-0 on a homer by catcher Gus Triandos.

Only two Yankees reached base, both on walks, as they swung futilely at Wilhelm's dancing pitches in a drizzle of rain. Eight times, Yankees went down on strikes.

The homer in the seventh inning by Triandos was his 30th of the season. He is tied with Yogi Berra of the Yankees for hitting the most in one year by a catcher.

Wilhelm's no-hit, no-run performance was the second in the maor baseball leagues this year. Jim Bunning of Detroit did it on July 20 in beating Boston 3-0.

Don Larsen, pitcher of a perfect world series game in 1956, started for the Yankees and for six innings he was almost as invincible as Wilhelm.

A bunt single in the first inning by Bob Boyd was the only Oriole hit off Larsen. Two other Orioles reached base on a walk and an error by Bill Skowron.

Bobby Shantz went to the mound for the Yankees and Triandos, a former Yankee, sent his fourth pitch sailing over the 410-foot sign on the center field fence.

That was all Wilhelm needed.

However, while Hank Bauer was at the plate with two out in the ninth for New York, one solitary figure in the Baltimore dressing room paced back and forth as the Yankee rightfielder bunted foul, missed the next one by a mile, then lifted a soft fly to second baseman Billy Gardner.

Oriole manager Paul Richards wheeled when he heard 11,000 cheers swell into one roar.

"Did he do it? Did he?" Richards had spent the last inning in the dressing room, unable to watch. He said the tension was too great.

Triandos said Wilhelm threw practically nothing but knucklers.

Nine out of 10? someone asked.

"More than that," Gus replied. "Just nothin' but knucklers. Boy, it was hoppin' ".

Wilhelm said he didn't start feeling the pressure until after Triandos hit his homer in the seventh.

"Then it did start to get

COUGARS CRUSH STANFORD

PULLMAN (UPI) — Powerful Washington State College, with aerial wizard Bob Newman paving the way, rolled to an easy 40-6 football victory over outmanned Stanford Saturday in the season opener.

Newman, the nation's total offense leader last season, uncorked two scoring passes to spark his club to Washington State's most lopsided victory in history between the two schools.

Washington State's alert defense cashed in two early fumbles for touchdowns and rolled through the air and on the ground for scores in every period.

Stanford was able to move only against the Washington State reserves, and the Indians only touchdown came on a fumble recovered in the State end zone.

Washington State recovered the opening kickoff as halfback Jim Byer fumbled on the Stanford 24. Six plays later, State halfback Bill Steiger plunged for the touchdown from three yards out. A Newman pass added a two-point conversion.

Another recovered fumble moments later on the Stanford 41 resulted in another Washington State touchdown in only five plays. The drive featured a fourth down, 17-yard pass from Newman to flanker Don Ellingsen.

Newman plunged over early in the second period after a 42-yard drive starting when Steiger intercepted a pass on the Stanford 42.

Then, against State's reserves, Stanford marched for 35 to the Cougar goal where an intercepted pass halted the drive. But the Indians hit the scoreboard on the next play when sub quarterback Dave Wilson fumbled and Stanford tackle Bill Burkland recovered in the end zone.

Wilson got the touchdown back within seconds when, from his 28, he passed to end

Hivner Leads Huskies Over Plucky Spartans

SEATTLE (UPI)—Bob Hivner and Mike McCluskey scored a pair of second half touchdowns Saturday as the University of Washington defeated a plucky San Jose State team 14-6 before 28,000 fans in the first football game ever played between the two schools.

Hivner sparked the Huskies' first scoring drive which covered 62 yards in eight plays. Hivner, a former star quarterback at Compton Junior College, hit McCluskey with a 36-yard pass, completed another pass to Bruce Clardidge on the Spartan 12 and then carried the ball three times to finally score from 4 yards out.

* * * *

McCLUSKEY'S touchdown came right after second string quarterback Bob Schloredt intercepted a San Jose pass and returned it 42 yards to the Spartan six yard line. McCluskey broke over left guard on the next play and scored.

San Jose State's score came early in the fourth period when quarterback Mike Jones passed eight yards to Dave Hurlburt.

Sports Merry-Go-Round

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

PORTRAIT OF A DISENCHANTED COACH:

Tommy Prothro, wan and weary, collapsed into a chair in the Oregon State dressing room. The hour was well past 11 p.m. and most members of the interrogating press had vanished.

The Beaver coach displaced his glasses, rubbed his closed eyes and whispered in an almost unintelligible voice:

"I can't believe it. I just can't believe it. I saw what happened out there, yet I still cannot believe my eyes. I was so shocked I actually pinched myself to see if I was dreaming.

"You know, one of those nightmares that plague a person from time to time. For a second, I wondered if I was dreaming. No such luck.

"This IS my best team in the four years I've been at Oregon State. I drooled all summer over this team and how it would win so big for me in Los Angeles. And look at what happened to it!"

Look at what happened to it is right! I was pulverized by a vastly under-rated SC squad, 21-0, and at no time was a threat. If one didn't know Prothro and realize the wonders he has done for the football club from Corvallis, one would think this Beaver team could be one of the all-time busts in Pacific Coast annals.

SC was tremendous, but Oregon State was putrid. The Beavers not only lost, but they created a most penetrating odor in defeat. How this almost identical club could shape an 8-2 record last season and look so futile Friday night is one of the mysteries of collegiate football.

Paul Lowe, Earnel Durden and Company could not be as pitiful as demonstrated Friday night. Their performance must be chalked up to that intangible factor called an "off-night."

It was more than that for Prothro, however. It was complete disenchantment. The man was broken-hearted.

"How do you explain a thing like this?" he queried. ". . . my best team, my very best team!"

PORTRAIT OF AN ENCHANTED COACH:

"I'm a cornball from Iowa, but no matter how corny this sounds, I mean it from the depths of my heart: If I lose every other game this season, I'll still consider this 1958 football season a success. Tonight's victory was the most perfect, the most satisfying thing that ever has happened to me.

"No matter what my team does this year—if we win 'em all or lose 'em all—this moment right now has to be the highlight of my 1958 season."

The self-styled "cornball" was SC's thrilled young coach, Don Clark. He was deliriously happy and din't care who knew it.

"I tried to be a good loser last season—and the Lord knows with our 1-9 record, I got plenty of practice—but I didn't like it. Everyone was extremely nice to me and I'm appreciative, but everywhere I went after the '57 season I could tell everybody felt sorry for me.

"I hate that, but I had to hide my feelings. Now, I'm hiding nothing. I'm happy as a kid with a new bike. Those kids of mine were wonderful. I don't know if they played over their heads or not, but I honestly think they could have beaten Notre Dame or Ohio State tonight.

"But, the way they won—with basic, yet intelligent football—is the most satisfying thing in the world for a football coach. Who knows why a team is so different one year from the next? I taught the boys the same fundamentals last season, but we wound up the butts of winter banquet jokes.

It's wonderful to win like this."

A PRE-DAWN VIGNETTE:

"You're the third Hollingworth I've called and I hope you're the right one. Are you the guy who wrote that the only way SC would win is for somebody to toss a bomb in Oregon State's dressing room?"

We admitted our statement to Saturday's pre-dawn telephone intruder. "Well, what happened, buddy, what happened?" cackled the voice.

Someone must have tossed a bomb into the Beaver quarters, because the shambles that represented Oregon State wasn't much of a football squad.

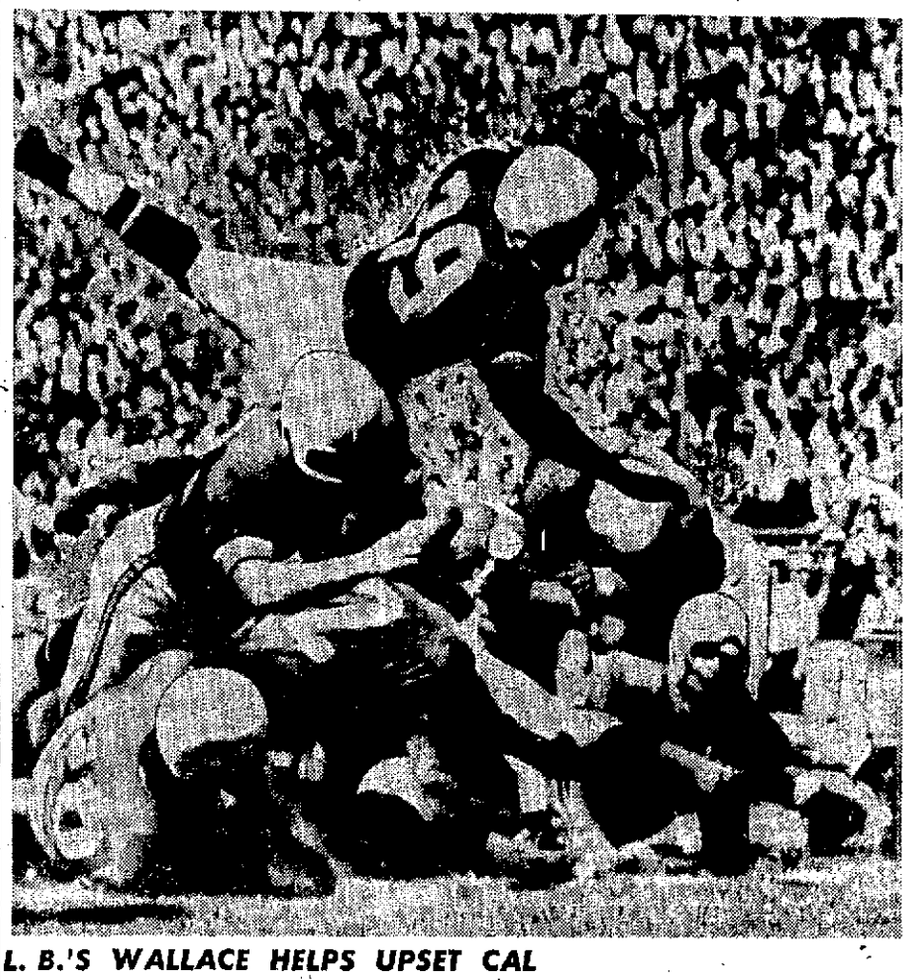

Impressive as Troy was Friday night, part of the victory must be attributed to Oregon's ineptness. (And the next dawn patrol telephone interrogator gets a fat receiver in his ear!)

QUOTING THE CRITICS (or just how good are the 1958 Men of Troy):

. . . "They were so good out there tonight, I'm very glad we met them in 1957, NOT 1958. There absolutely was no comparison between the team we barely beat last season and this SC club. One was like a high school squad, the other like a well-drilled pro outfit," said John Michelosen, head coach, U. of Pittsburgh.

. . . "I don't like to comment upon another man's team, especially a team we will meet later on, but I have stated publicly since practice opened that I thought Don Clark's team would be one of the powers in the West this season. Obviously, after this performance against Oregon State, I have no reason to change my opinion," commented UCLA's George Dickerson.

L. B.'S WALLACE HELPS UPSET CAL

Gains 215 Yards; Wallace Scores

BERKELEY (AP) — Sensational halfback Dick Bass sprinted 78 yards for one touchdown and 22 to set up the winning score Saturday as College of Pacific upset the University of California 24-20.

The fast and shifty Bass personally accounted for 215 yards on 24 carries, most ever for a COP player, and passed for all three two-point conversions. It was his greatest football afternoon as a collegian.

His performance before an estimated 40,000 in Memorial Stadium was capped by the 22-yard jaunt to the one with less than 5 minutes remaining.

Overshadowed was another great day's work by California quarterback Joe Kapp, who scored twice—once on a 50-yard run and again going four after taking a lateral.

* * * *

THE LAST time the Tigers beat the Bears was in 1943.

It was a see-saw battle. The teams alternated in scoring and Cal led 20-16 midway into the last quarter. COP led 8-6 at halftime.

In the fourth quarter COP reserve halfback Tony Aflague intercepted a pass from Gus Gianullas and returned it to COP's 43. Bass and reserve fullback Henry Wallace in four tries went to Cal's 23. Bass's 22-yard around left end set up a diving touchdown by fullback Duane Scott, with 2½ minutes left.

Oregon Swamps Vandals

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—Oregon's Webfoots successfully opened defense of their Pacific Coast Conference football co-championship Saturday with an easy 27-0 victory over Idaho before 14,200 fans at Hayward Field.

Coach Len Casanova's team turned what had been a reasonably close contest into a rout in the final period with three touchdowns, two of them coming within 40 seconds.

Idaho failed to generate a serious threat. The closest Idaho came to the Oregon goal line was the 25-yard line in the third quarter when Bob Eyler intercepted a pass and returned it 36 yards.

* * * *

HERMAN McKINNEY, a sophomore halfback from Portland, and Willie West, a veteran of Oregon's Rose Bowl team of last year, thrilled the crowd with long runs in the final period. McKinney took a short pass from Paul Grover and scampered 59 yards to a touchdown. West returned a punt 42 yards to the Idaho 24 to start the fourth period and Charlie Tourville scored from four yards out.

Vandy '11' Winner in TV Game

COLUMBIA (UPI) — Vanderbilt University used straight football to defeat Missouri, 12-8 Saturday in a game played before a national television audience.

Vanderbilt scored in the first period and was never headed. Coach Dan Devine, making his debut as mentor of Missouri, did not call for the razzle-dazzle play that provided him with success at Arizona State.

David Ray, a second string halfback, scored for Vanderbilt late in the first quarter when he returned a Missouri punt 81 yards for a touchdown. An attempt to run the ball for two extra points failed.

* * * *

DANNY LA ROSE, second string end for Missouri, blocked a Vanderbilt punt shortly after the second period opened and fell on it for a safety.

A bad kick by Missouri in the third period put Vanderbilt in scoring position again. Quarterback Boyce Smith made the second score from the one-yard line. A pass attempt failed for the extra points.

Mel West, sophomore halfback, scored Missouri's only touchdown in the fourth period. A passing attack moved the ball to Vanderbilt's 13-yard line, where West scooted around his left end for the score. Missouri's attempt to run for the extra points failed.

Texas Defeats Georgia

AUSTIN (UPI) — Quarterback Bobby Lackey engineered a fourth-quarter scoring drive and kept Georgia off balance with booming quick kicks Saturday night to lead Texas to a come-from-behind 13-8 victory over the Bulldogs.

Coach Darrell Royal's scrappy Longhorns moved 72 yards on 17 plays to score the deciding touchdown with five minutes left in the game and wipe out an 8-7 lead taken by Georgia early in the fourth period.

Texas' winning marker was scored by Bobby Gurwitz, a speedy 165-pound sophomore halfback, on a one-yard scamper on a pitchout from Lackey.

UPSET GEORGIA TECH
Kentucky Posts Stunner, 13-0

LEXINGTON (AP)—Kentucky struck twice with lightning speed Saturday night and upset favored Georgia Tech 13-0 in a fumble-marred Southeastern Conference football tilt.

Power runner Bobby Cravens raced 45 yeards around end for one Kentucky touchdown and Lowell Hughes, catching Tech's defenses off guard, passed 31 yards to end Ronnie Cain for the other.

Poor weather and hard-hitting line play figured prominently in the bobbling ball act, and it was a fumble on an attempted pass that led to Kentucky's first touchdown.

* * * *

CRAVENS, No. 2 ground gainer in the SEC last year, looked like a man with his eye on national honors as he ripped and twisted for 153 yards on 20 carries.

Tech, using separate offensive and defensive platoons, was repulsed on its every bid and got no closer than the Kentucky 25.

Thomson Blast Nips Dodgers

By GEORGE LEDERER
(I, P-T Staff Writer)

CHICAGO — Bobby Thomson, the old Dodger killer whose historic playoff homer cost the Dodgers a pennant in 1951, was up to his old tricks again Saturday.

The former Giants star inserted in the eigth inning as a defensive replacement for Walt Moryn, homered with one out in the ninth to give the Chicago Cubs a 3-2 victor over the Dodgers.

The loss was the Dodgers' 10th in 15 games on this trip and dropped them back into a sixth place tie with the Cubbies. The season series also stands even at 9-9.

* * * *

THOMSON'S 19th homer came on reliever Johnny Klippstein's 1-1 pitch after Ernie Banks had flied to center for the first out in the ninth. Klippstein also was the loser in his last appearance Tuesday when Smokey Burgess of the Redlegs beat him with a pinch-hit homer in the 10th inning.

The Cubs came within one strike of missing their ninth inning turn at bat, for rookie pitcher John Buzhardt was working on a shutout with two down in the Dodger half of the final frame.

* * * *

BUT JOHN Roseboro came through with his second hit, a single, and Don Demeter followed with his second homer in two days to knot the score at 2-2. Demeter's homer was his fourth of the year and came on Buzhardt's 2-2 serve. It saved the Dodgers from being blanked for the fourth time this year and for the first time by the Cubs since Sam Jones applied the calcimine brush in 1955.

Buzhardt, 6-2, 195 pounder from Prosperity, So. Carolina, held the Dodgers to five hits. Roseboro and Bobby Lillis each had two. Lillis hit safely in his eigth straight game and raised his average 12 points to .345 during this trip, Lillie has hit safely in 10 of 11 games with 16-for-40, an even .400 mark.

* * * *

BUZHARDT, making his first major league start after four relief jobs, retired 14 Dodgers in order between the time Jim Gentile walked in the first inning and Lillie beat out an infield single in the sixth. He had a 9-11 record at Portland (PCL) with a 4.53 era.

Tar Heels Stunned by N.C. St.

CHAPEL HILL (UPI) — North Carolina State dashed Jim Tatum's "dream team" against a wave of fumbles and first-game frustration Saturday, defeating the North Carolina Tarheels, 21-14 before 41,000 stunned fans.

Sophomore center Bill Hill, a late-comer on State's patched-up varsity, snatched a fumble and a pass to set up a pair of touchdowns scored by halfback Ken Trowbridge on runs of 15 and 20 yards. Halfback Ron Podwicka scored a third after another fumble recovery.

The Tarheels woke up too late to the nightmare of their third opening game upset defeat by the Wolfpack. Quarterback Jack Cummings passed for one score and set up another, but even with a two-point pitchout conversion by fullback Don Coker, it was in vain.

U.S. Yacht Triumphs

ABOARD CUTTER OFF NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—The defender Columbia handed Great Britain's Sceptre a humiliating defeat Saturday in the opening America Cup race and virtually crushed England's hope of winning back the prized trophy snatched from her shores, 107 years ago.

When the white-hulled American sloop shot across the finish line in 5 hours, 12 minutes and 55 seconds the British challenger was just visible on the horizon. It was one of the most one-sided races in the history of the international yachting classic.

Yachtsmen were almost unanimously agreed that Britain had faint hopes now of recovering the famous old mug and there was a good chance that the Columbia would win the present competition in four straight races. The second race in the best of seven is scheduled Monday.

FINE PODRES FOR CURFEW VIOLATION

By GEORGE LEDERER
(I, P-T Staff Writer)

CHICAGO — Dodger pitcher Johnny Podres was fined $250 Saturday for violating the club's 12:30 a.m. curfew.

Manager Walt Alston assessed the fine when a routine bed check disclosed that Podres was not in his room at curfew time Friday night.

It was the second largest fine levied against a Dodger player this season. On the Dodgers' first trip to Chicago, pitcher Don Newcombe was fined $300, also for violating the curfew.

Podres pitched the final 1 1/3 innings Friday and was the first Dodger player to leave the clubhouse after the game.

Presumably Podres was nightclubing but he was unavailable for comment.

Baylor Trips Ark.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Baylor Bears, a so-so Southwest Conference contender by pre-season ratings, clouted Arkansas 12-0 here Saturday night with a big fast line and two hefty fullbacks.

The Texans' Larry Hickman and Gaylen Crain, both operating as fullbacks, jammed out consistent yardage, keeping the Razorbacks off balance through most of the contest.

* * * *

WHEN ARKANSAS rose to plug its sagging center of the line, Baylor quarterbacks Loyie Humphrey and Bill McMillen moved the Bears with passes. Baylor cracked over two second-period touchdowns, the first a 58-yard and the second a 52-yard drive.

Dick Clark scored the first from the two and Crain the second from the one. Ball control by Baylor was a key factor as the Porkers had but few chances to muster an offense.

* * * *

IN THE FIRST half Baylor ran 52 plays to 14 for Arkansas. The usually potent Jim Mooty and Don Stone, Arkansas backs, had tough sledding with the Baylor line, crashing into the secondary before play could generate.

Arkansas' tried futilely to run end sweeps by Baylor right end Albert Witcher, a defensive star of the ball game. Both Arkansas coach Frank Broyles, making his debut as head coach, and Baylor's Sam Boyd used second and third units freely because of the muggy 70-degree temperature.

Arizona St. Toys with Hawaii, 47-6

TEMPE, Ari. (AP)—Arizona State College at Tempe stretched its winning streak to 13 Saturday night with an easy 47-6 victory over the University of Hawaii.

The Sun Devils took command in the first three minutes of the game with a 63-yard touchdown drive and then toyed with the faded Rainbows.

Except for one breathtaking play, Hawaii was completely shackled by the Arizona State line.

That one play was a 95-yard kickoff return by left halfback Henry George. He took the ball on the five-yard line, went straight up the middle, cut to his right and outran the sun devil defenders.

Arizona State mixed a vicious running attack, led by halfback Leon Burton, with an occasional pass to grind out yardage and touchdowns at will.

Burton, last year's leading ground gainer and scorer, scored three touchdowns on runs of 24, 15 and 3 yards and nabbed a pass for a two-point conversion.

8th Ranked Frogs Rip Kansas, 42-0

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Texas Christian used four almost equal teams Saturday to wallop Kansas, 42-0, in the first football game of the season for both teams.

A crowd of about 20,000 persons saw the runaway game. The Texans are ranked eighth nationally in the Associated Press pre-season poll.

The Horned Frogs' showing didn't detract from their selection as favorites for the 1958 Southwest Conference title.

TCU started slowly but steadily picked up steam and by halftime had a 22-0 lead that looked as safe as government bonds.

Once Over Lightly

By DAVE LEWIS
Sports Editor

As we reminded readers last Thursday, on last January 1—less than a month after SC had closed out the worst football season in its history with a 1-9 record—we made the long-range prediction that the Trojans would represent the PCC in the Rose Bowl next New Year's Day . . . against Michigan State.

Even then we could see that the Trojans were going to have the "horses" to be a serious contender.

And even in the face of Oregon State's clear-cut favoritism over Troy the past week, we tabbed SC to upset the Beavers . . . basing the pick, as we explained Thursday, on the potential of the Trojan line, which came through with a magnificent performance.

You can be assured it turned out to be one of our most satisfying predictions in 25 years of hanging around the sports beat when SC rolled to an impressive 21-0 victory. The Trojans did it much easier than we anticipated.

SC's chances of coming all the way back to the top this season have been considered very slim, but by halftime Friday night, the Trojans had the press box savants stumbling over each other to get on the Troy bandwagon where we have been perched all by ourselves for the past nine and one-half months.

The Trojans still have a long way to go up the comeback trail this season. They'll lose some ball games and the odds are still against them making the grade, but there is no doubt now but what they have become vital factors in the Rose Bowl picture.

NOW THAT THEY ARE safely past the crucial opener with Oregon State, the Trojans have an excellent break in their schedule by playing non-conference foes the next two weeks before returning to conference action.

They play Michigan of the Big Ten at Ann Arbor next Saturday, then return home to meet rugged North Carolina, one of the leading Southern powers, the following Friday night before tackling Oregon at Portland on Oct. 11.

Even if they lose to both Michigan and North Carolina, they will still be in good shape bowl-wise if they come out of the two games without any serious injuries because the key sophomores in the SC lineup will be gaining valuable experience against two of the best clubs in the country that will stand them in good stead in their remaining conference tests.

Key to the SC season, of course, lies in its tremendous line. It was the potential of this unit that first led us to mention Troy as a bowl contender last New Year's Day. Regardless of how great your backs are, you have to have a good line to go anywhere in football.

The Trojans proved that Friday night when the feared Oregon State backs were virtually helpless as the SC line took complete command of the game and ground the opposing Beaver linemen to bits.

As Coach Tommy Prothro said . . . "they just picked us up and threw us back where we came from. They were eating us up on the line of scrimmage."

WHILE IT WAS Oregon State that was supposed to have the greater depth, it was the Trojans who kept pouring new men into the fray without appreciably weakening the line play.

The Trojans proved they were two deep in most line positions . . . three deep in some.

Walt Gurasich, Gary Finnernan, Lou Byrd, George Van Vliet, Bob Edwards, Mike Lewis, Ron Mix and Don Douglas strongly supported the brilliant play of the starting line of Hillard Hill, Monte Clark, Ken Antle, Frank Fiorentino and such sophomore stars as Dan Ficca and the sensational McKeever twins, Marlin and Mike.

As Oregon State's All-American candidate, Tackle Ted Bates, admitted . . . "we were so tired and beaten down by the fourth quarter that we didn't have anything left. Our line was outplayed all the way."

Center Bruce Hake said . . . "there is no doubt about it. SC's line won the game. And let me tell you, the middle of that Trojan line is positively brutal. We were stunned by the aggressive Trojan play in the first five minutes and never recovered. We finally realized that we just didn't have it when we still couldn't make a move early in the second half."

Veteran halfback Earnel Durden said "although the odds are still against it, SC could go all the way. The Trojans have lots of hustle and spirit. They're much better organized than they were a year ago. The McKeever boys in particular have made a lot of difference in the team."

OFFENSIVELY, THE TROJANS rolled up 21 points without the services of their "top banana," Angie Coia, the touted transfer from The Citadel. Although doctors gave him an O.K. to play, Coia was held out of the game because of a bad knee. Had it been close, he would have been unleashed against the Beavers. However, it wasn't necessary.

Coia is the one who could supply the spark that will carry the Trojans all the way to the Rose Bowl. He has the moves of an all-American . . . plus blazing speed. He reeled off a 9.5 century last spring in pushing Olympic sprint champion Bobby Morrow to a 9.4 clocking in the 100-yard dash.

The Trojans have all the other ingredients to nail down a bowl bid except a top breakaway threat . . . and Coia can give them that if his knee holds up.

The other halfbacks and fullbacks are "adequate" while the quarterbacking appears topnotch in the hands of Willie Wood and Tom Maudlin, who looked like pros on their touchdown passes of 38 and 23 yards to Hill and Marlin McKeever respectively. They also were effective on "keeps," running for a combined yardage of 77 yards.

As we said Thursday, the Trojan War Hoss would be off and running in the Rose Bowl Sweepstakes if they hung one on Oregon State.

Well, they came out of the starting with a bang and with great improvement expected as the sophomores mature later in the season, the War Hoss could be a real good "stretch runner," too!

Rams, Ryan Face Steeler '11' in Exhibition Finale

By JACK TEELE

The Los Angeles Rams, having proved that they have a most valuable piece of quarterbacking property in Billy Wade, hope to prove further today that they have adequate "insurance" to cover that property.

Opposition will be furnished by the Pittsburgh Steelers and kickoff time at the Coliesum is slated for 1:35 p.m.

If the Rams receive the kickoff, rookie Frank Ryan, the "insurance policy," will be at the quarterbacking controls at approximately 1:36 p.m.

* * * *

SAVE FOR one half of action against the Cleveland Browns three weeks ago, Ryan has rested his duff on the bench while coach Sid Gillman proved the shadow of a doubt that Wade is ready to hold down the No. 1 quarterback's job vacated by the trade of Norm Van Brocklin.

And, last Monday, Gillman made like George Washington, taking his little axe to No. 3 quarterback Bobby Cox.

So for both Gillman and Ryan today's sixth and final exhibition game of the season is most crucial.

* * * *

THE PROBLEMS confronting both are complex.

Gillman knows that if Wade is injured later in the season, Ryan is "it" . . . no ands, ifs or Cox. Today, he must give Ryan all the game experience possible (too little and too late though it may be), and he must also use Wade long enough to keep Vandy Billy sharp for next week's NFL opener against the Cleveland Browns.

Ryan will be confronted with a Steeler defense that has held five exhibition rivals to a total of 62 points or an average of less than 13 a game. The Rice rookie also will be confronted with a Coliseum crowd known for its less than benevolent attitude towards quarterbacks.

The Rams, who have won three of five exhibitions, have averaged 29 points a game in so doing. They are favored by seven points to notch their fourth victory today.

Absent will be regular linebackers Larry Morris and Dick Daugherty and reserve Bill Jobko, and center Bob Griffin. John Morrow will open at center, with only three days of drills behind him, while Jack Pardee and Roy Wilkins will team with Les Richter as linebackers.

* * * *

TOM WILSON, hampered by injuries, will attempt to work out some of the kinks today as he opens at left half in place of Jon Arnett, while rookie Jim Philips is expected to see lots of action behind Del Shofner at the slot back.

Probable offensive starting lineups:

Rams		Steelers
Lundy (235)	LE	(220) Jamison
Fay (236)	LT	(230) Sandusky
Putnam (231)	LG	(220) Krisher

BASSEY TKOs PEP IN NINTH

BOSTON (AP)—Featherweight champion Hogan (Kid) Bassey cracked Willie Pep's tricky defense with overhand rights to floor the two-time former king twice and earn a technical knockout at 42 seconds of the ninth round of a scheduled 10-round non-title bout Saturday night.

The champion, who idolized Pep as a boy, chased Willie across the ring and waited for the big chance. He found it and sent across another right which finished matters.

Bat Lead to Mays as Giants Win

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Three hits by B. G. Smith were all St. Louis could solve San Francisco's Ruben Gomez for as the Giants topped the Cards 5-1 Saturday.

Willie Mays cracked three hits in five trips and gained the National League lead at .340. Richie Ashburn dropped two points to .338.

Dodgers Larker, McDevitt at Elks' 'Baseball Night'

Two Dodgers will be featured guests of the Long Beach Elks Monday night at the group's annual "Baseball Night" program.

The players will be first baseman-outfielder Norm Larker and pitcher Danny McDevitt.

Beans Reardon is chairman of the affair and will serve as master of ceremonies, while Arthur (Red) Patterson, public relations chief of the Dodgers, will be the guest speaker.

Bob Kelley Says—

I'm hurt about what Hollingworth said the other day—that I'm stumping against collegiate football.

That cuts me right to the quick of my free Trojan and Bruin season passes.

Fact is, I took in both college games this weekend. If there had been a high school game around last night, I would have gone to that, too.

Fearing that I am getting a mother's complex toward pro football, I wanted to give the college boys every chance in the world to convince me that they, too, play entertaining ball.

I remember the old days in the Midwest when I used to get a charge out of seeing Tommy Harmon and Michigan. It was always a thrill to watch Notre Dame.

Am I getting old—or is collegiate football slower—or is the brand of play in the NFL picking up?

That's what I wanted to find out over the weekend.

Let me say I enjoyed the Trojan-Oregon State game, but wasn't at all happy when George Dickerson got off to a slow start in his debut against Pittsburgh.

I LIKED WHAT I saw Friday night because it finally vindicated a friend of mine, Hamp Pool. Several years ago, Pool told me about a young fellow at SC named Don Clark who would someday be a great coach.

True, the Trojans weren't spectacular in the wide-open style of the pros. But when they threw the ball, they made it count.

Out of four passes in the first half, SC completed three. Two went for touchdowns, the other took the ball to the OSC two-yard line, and set up a TD.

I hope, however, that somebody does something about the collegiate substitution rule. It slows up the game something fierce.

When a player, or group of them, comes into the game, they must line up in front of an official, and have their names checked off. This can consume an awful lot of time, especially when you're substituting on every play—like Tommy Prothro.

Right off the bat, Prothro was handed the goat's horns, when he let his team go for a first down with a fourth and four situation on the SC 39, the first time the Beavers had the ball.

PSYCHOLOGICALLY, this was a bad move. Technically, it wasn't. When the Northwesters failed to gain their first down, they gave the Trojans an emotional lift. Who knows what might have happened if SC hadn't stopped them in that spot.

Technically, however, there was nothing wrong with the call. So you miss the first down—you figure to turn it over to SC on about its own 36 or 37. Comparing that to a punt where the Trojans would take over on their own 20, probably, there really isn't a whole lot of difference.

Besides, Oregon State always had the chance of making that first down, and blowing the game wide open the first time it had the ball.

So I won't second-guess the fourth down call. But I will second-guess that horse and buggy offense Prothro sticks with.

FOR YEARS, on a pass play, the UCLA tailback would stand straight up before the snap.

Prothro has a new wrinkle. After his tailback gets the ball on a pass play, he ducks down low as if he's trying to hide his head in the ground.

Somebody near me remarked: "That's so he can't see his receivers."

But don't get me wrong. I sort of enjoyed the two college games this weekend—sort of.

If Hollingworth is such a champion of collegiate vs. NFL football, however, I'm going to keep tabs on him this fall. If he doesn't show up in the press box for every single college game in the Coliseum, I'll report him.

Think I'll report him to Carmen Basilio and John DeJohn—tell them not to hold any more nuclear physics discussions with him.

Hoeft's 5-Hitter Nets Tigers Split With Tribe

DETROIT (AP)—Bill Hoeft's first complete game triumph in nearly seven weeks earned the Detroit Tigers a double header split with the Cleveland Indians Saturday, Hoeft pitching a five-hitter for a 4-1 nightcap victory.

The Indians took the opener, 2-1, on a ninth inning rally.

Morgan, Bariteau in Final of State Amateur Tee Meet

By JERRY WYNN

PEBBLE BEACH — An attractive South vs. North finals was set up for today when medalist Dan Morgan of Bakersfield and former champion Eli Bariteau of Santa Cruz swept to easy semi-final victories Saturday in the 47th California Amateur golf championship.

Morgan, the husky 23-year-old who couldn't play golf until 15 because of polio, defeated George Galios of Monterey, 4 and 3. Bariteau, 30-year-old laundry operator and the 1948 champion, turned back druggist Steve Stimac of Concord by the same score.

Both matches were the scheduled 36-hole route as will be today's decider.

* * * *

ALTHOUGH playing below previous form, Morgan—who beat Joe Gallardo, 1 up, Friday by winning three of the last four holes — had no trouble with Galios. He was six up after shooting only a 77 for the first 18 holes and maintained that fat margin during the afternoon round in which he played even with par.

Long Beach players were involved in three handicap flight final matches Saturday and all lost.

Martin Joes of Recreation Park bowed to G. A. Lobenberg, Sacramento, 2½ and; Dr. Ed Neushutz of Virginia Country Club to Chick Patch, Daly City, 1 up, and Chris Christianson, Meadowlark, to Val Osborne, Tarzana, 1 up.

Trio in Sweepstakes Tie at Virginia CC

Ted Brown, Dr. Harry Jacob and Dr. Bob Blake tied for first in the Virginia Country Club Saturday sweepstakes with 67s. Results:

Low Net—Ted Brown, 80-13—67; Dr. Harry Jacob, 84-17—67; Dr. Bob Blake, 75-8—67; N. L. Millie, 81-13—68; Luke Foto, 79-11—68; Bill Cook, 77-8—69; Edwin Davies, 77-8—69; J. V. Evans, 78-9—69.

Braves Clinch Tie for Pennant

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Lew Burdette, who pitched the Milwaukee Braves to the world championship last season, hurled them into at least a tie for their second straight National League pennant Saturday when he beat the Cincinnati Redlegs, 5-1, with an abbreviated six-hitter.

The game was halted in the seventh inning because of rain. The entire game had been played in a steady drizzle that started a half-hour before game time.

* * * *

BURDETTE, who matched his previous high victory total for one season by scoring his 19th triumph, started the decisive rally with a single with one out in the fifth inning. Burdette was forced on Bill Bruton's attempted sacrifice but singles by Red Schoendienst and Eddie Mathews brought in Bruton and produced a 2-1 lead.

Fairly, Two Mates in Blair Field Game

Three Dodger baseball players will be among the galaxy of major and minor league stars who will take part in Long Beach's first annual homecoming game at Blair Field Oct. 12, game director Bill Feistner announced Saturday.

One of the players will be Long Beach's newest major league hero, Ron Fairly, who plummeted from the SC campus to a starting role with the Dodgers in less than three months. The other Dodgers will be announced when the team returns to Southern California this week to complete their regular National League season.

Feistner pointed out that many more Dodgers would be included in the game if it were not for a major league ruling limiting the number of players taking part in such a game to three from each club.

Among the players definitely pledged to participate are Cleveland's longtime pitching ace Bob Lemon, who will manage one all-star team, plus Washington's Rocky Bridges, Boston's Lou Berberet, Kansas City's Buddy Daley, Detroit's Tom Morgan, plus San Francisco's Hank Sauer and Eddie Bressoud.

Stuart Hits 16th, Bucs Cinch 2nd

PHILADELPHIA (AP) second-place and hung onto its slim National League pennant hopes Saturday with a 4-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Rookie Dick Stuart hammered his 16th home run of the season as the Pirates assured themselves of at least second place. It was Pittsburgh's seventh straight win.

Stuart's homer gave the rookie a record of at least one four bagger in each National League park this season.

Mitchell, Browns Rout Lions, 41-7

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland rookie Bobby Mitchell of Illinois went 73 and 83 yards for touchdowns Saturday night in a dazzling performance by the Browns' first-year men for a 41-7 exhibition victory over the National League champion Detroit Lions.

Mitchell, who also scored twice when the Lions took a 35-19 pasting by the College All Stars in August, opened the scoring in the first quarter by dashing 73 yards with one of Yale Lary's punts.

And Jim Ninowski, the rookie quarterback who shared the All Star glory with Mitchell, finished off the fireworks with two touchdown tosses in the fourth quarter.

Fleitz Battles Hard for Crown

Hamilton Richardson and Alex Olmedo won semi-final matches Saturday to gain today's final in the 32nd annual Pacific Southwest Tennis Tournament.

Richardson, of Arlington, Va., defeated Mal Anderson, of Australia, 2-6, 6-0, 9-7, 4-6, 6-2, and Olmedo, Peruvian born member of the U. S. Davis Cup squad, beat favored Vic Seixas of Philadelphia.

Darlene Hard of Montebello and Beverly Fleitz of Long Beach advanced to the finals of the women's singles.

Mrs. Hard defeated Maria Bueno of Brazil, 10-8, 6-4 in the semei-finals match.

* * * * *

MRS. FLEITZ completed the rout of Australians by beating Thelma Long, 2-6, 6-1, 7-5.

Mrs. Fleitz took a 3-1 lead in the final set. Her opponent rallied to win four games in a row and take a 5-3 lead. Mrs. Fleitz staged a counterrally, winning four straight games and the match.

In the semi-finals of girls singles, 15 years and under, Billy Jean Moffitt of Long Beach def. Linda George, Santa Monica, 6-0, 6-1. Moffitt will play Kathy Chabot of San Diego today at 10 a.m.

In the semi-final of girls, 18-years, doubles, Moffitt and Chabot were defeated by Helen Well and Karen Hantz, 6-1, 6-4.

Ski Race to Catalina Slated Today

Water ski champions from 11 western states will compete today in the Grand National Water Ski Race to Catalina Island-and-back across the finish line at Pierpoint Landing.

Patrol boats will be spaced all the way across San Pedro Channel to protect the skiers and keep the course clear, according to director Bill Williams. He said also a helicopter would be on patrol during the race.

Williams indicated that judges would follow the contestants to Catalina and back in fast patrol boats and helicopters. Judges also will be stationed at Catalina and at the finish line.

Hi Pardner Triumphs at Pomona

POMONA—Mr. & Mrs. Roy Kidder's Hi Pardner proved himself a champion "bull-ring" runner for the second straight year here Saturday afternoon, defending his 1957 victory in the $10,000 added Los Angeles County Fair Handicap in convincing style as he thundered down the short homestretch of this half-mile racetrack to overhaul the front-running Silver Sandal and beat him three lengths.

* * * *

A BANNER crowd of 21,312 sent Solid Son away as the even money favorite but the latter was in close quarters in the stretch and could get no better than fourth.

At the finish, it was Hi Pardner by three, Silver Sandal a head in front of Barbarian, and Solid Son another nose further back. In the mutuels Hi Pardner returned $12.10, $6.00 and $4.00 across the board, with Silver Sandal paying a whopping $15.30 to place and $6.70 to show. Barbarian got up to pay $5.70 to show.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

WISCONSIN DELLS, Wis.—While Mercury outboard motors have been the principal topic of conversation for several days at this famous resort, even Kiekhaefer Corp. officials themselves couldn't dismiss lightly another subject—BOATS.

Without boats, there would be no outboards, and, without outboards, there would be far fewer boats on the nation's waterways.

There's an important reason for the tremendous boom in outboards. The outboard industry sold 15,000 motors in Southern California last year. If that many inboards had been sold, there would not be enough slips in all the harbors and marinas of Southern California to hold them. And everyone knows that weight and size of inboards prevent easy storage in home garages.

That's why the outboard has become so popular with the great middle class of boaters. With the tremendous advances in design by both Fibreglass and wood manufacturers, boaters have discovered that the outboard allows more room in the cabin and cockpit areas.

Outboards as they are being built today are not clunkers that putt-putt a few minutes and quit. The motors are engineered like those in automobiles and, even airplanes. Give an outboard proper care and your troubles are ended.

AMONG THE BEAUTIFUL BOATS displayed here were several models of the Power Cat Co., of 13512 Lakewood Blvd., Paramount, Calif., so close to Long Beach that the Chamber of Commerce could easily make a mistake and claim the industry for our own city.

The Cats were here in all lengths and colors—and what colors! Mr. and Mrs. Ray Leger, founders of the Power Cat Co., attended the outdoor editors' session, and it was easy to see Mrs. Leger's influence in the color schemes—pastel blues, pinks and creams.

The Cat actually is a catamaran, a boat with twin hulls and an air space between. At first glance you might say, "Isn't it clumsy and hard to maneuver?" Far from it! Get into a Cat of any length, take the controls and you'll have the fastest, smoothest ride on water you ever experienced.

The twin hulls take all the slap out of waves and you hardly know that you are traveling on rough water.

This twin hull design came about mostly because Mrs. Leger always became seasick while trying to take trips with her husband on normal single-hulled boats. Ray started working on the catamaran design in his back yard. His slow, but painstaking progress resulted in what today is one of the fastest-growing boat concerns in the West.

PROOF OF THE POWER CATS' speed may be seen in the results of the Mississippi boat race earlier this year. Power Cats, equipped with Mercury motors, took 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 6th, 7th and 12th places. And Chuck Mersereau and D. Jones, of Whittier, second-place winners, would have taken first had they not smacked into a sand bar 150 miles from St. Louis.

All of the first 10 winners were equipped with Mercurys. Byron Pool and Lonnie Kirkpatrick, of Carmi, Ill., in a Crosby, took first place, averaging 36.2 miles per hour on the 1,068-mile course. Mersereau and Jones were only 10 minutes behind the Pool-Kirkpatrick mark of 29 hours, 29 minutes. And J. Wynne and R. Spellman were only 2½ minutes behind the Mersereau-Jones team.

There's no doubt that the Mississippi race was the most gruelling for outboards, as well as the men who handle the controls. The race went through one full night, the next day and partly into the second night.

Many of the drivers had never even seen the Mississippi until the day the race began. Ray Leger and his partner, P. Morenze, smashed into a log in the darkness, then repaired their Power Cat and finally finished in 12th position.

IN MAKING A CHOICE of an outboard, Mercury men from the corporation president down to a retail salesman attempt to match motor and boat for the customer so that he is satisfied. In other words, it isn't a good idea to buy a motor and hang it on any boat that you see. Best performance can only be obtained by matching weight and length of a boat with weight and horsepower in a motor, and, naturally, the use to which you will put it.

For instance, you can put two Mark 78As on a 14-foot Power Cat and get terrific speed in perfect balance. Yet, one Mark 78A will power some 21-foot cruisers for a family outing. Carl Kiekhaefer demonstrated a 78A by powering an old Army landing barge at 15 miles per hour, and he seemed to be having more fun than the racers doing 50 and 60 m.p.h.

SOME OTHER HIGH LIGHTS at our session here:

Elgin Gates, president of Seaboard Equipment Co., Surfside, Calif., leading western distributor for Mercurys, won the five-lap Flying Flivver race over several top racing drivers in the country. Among them were Charles Strang, Ted Jones, gold cup designer and racer; Jack Leek, who holds the outboard speed championship; Bob Spellman, holder of many world records; Ray Leger, who has many firsts in ocean outboard marathons, and Merlin Culver.

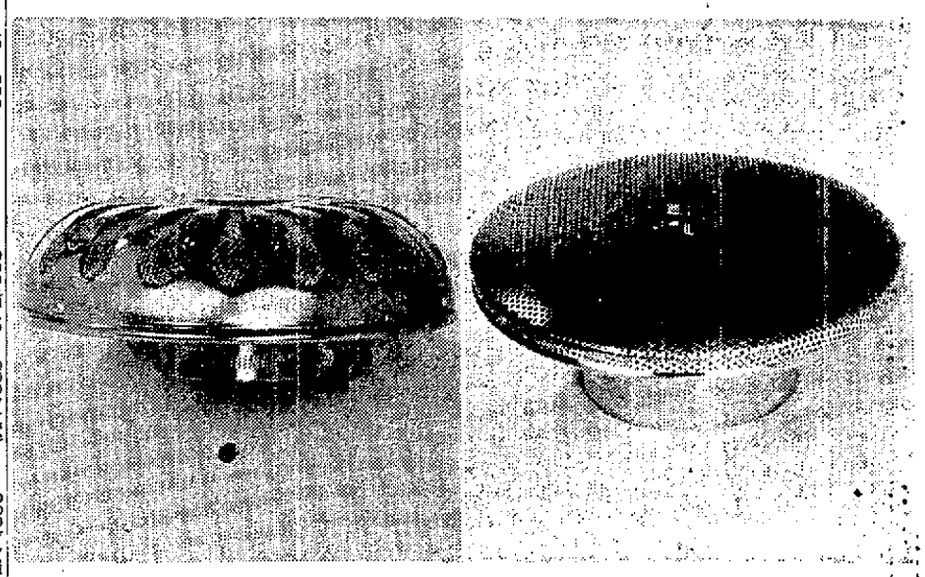

Funniest experience: Two men in a boat called the Whaler, powered with a 15A motor, roared in front of the grandstand, cut throttle and the one in the bow grabbed a power saw and in seconds sawed the Whaler in half. He floated away in the bow, while his companion in the stern raced away in the other half. The demonstration was to show the great buoyancy of the Whaler.

NOW! THIS AMAZING GAS-SAVER IS AVAILABLE TO YOU!!
THE FABULOUS
TURBO-X PAT. PEND.

MODELS TX-61, TX-62, TX-63 MODELS TX-64, TX-74, TX-75, TX-77

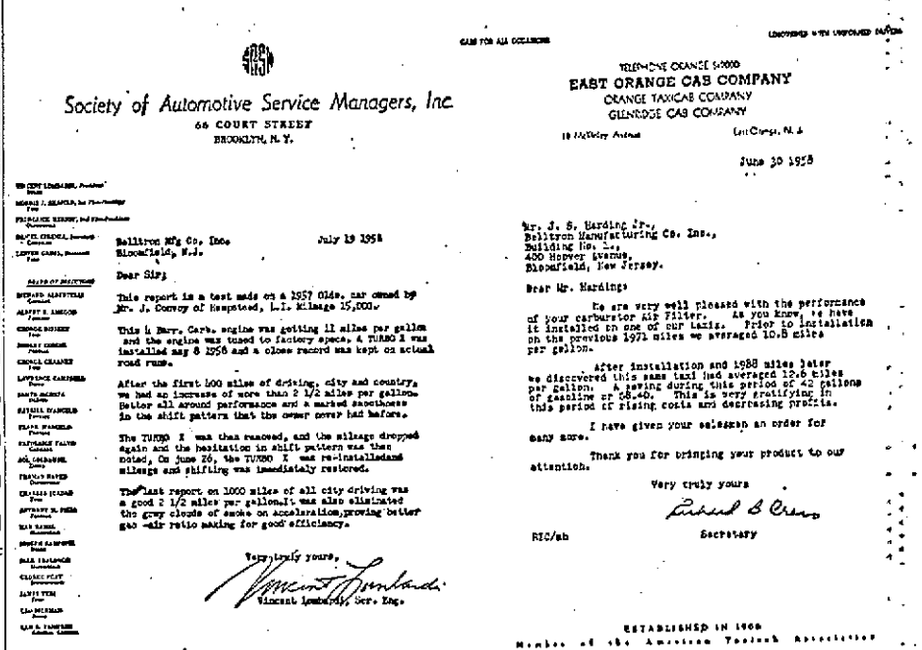

TURBO-X was designed and is manufactured in Europe by engineers associated with the world famous MASERATI racing and sports cars. It has now been patented in the U. S. and is being manufactured in this country.

WHAT'S THE STORY? Everybody knows that compressors (commonly called blowers) are the answer for increasing acceleration and engine efficiency. BUT compressors are cumbersome, difficult to install and service, and very expensive. While doing research on compressors it was discovered that by violently swirling the air before it mixes with the fuel inside the carburetor, the little drops of gas are broken down into infinitely smaller particles and therefore the gas will burn more completely and efficiently. TURBO-X, after extensive laboratory research and practical development, was designed to do just that.

THESE ARE FACTS!!! TURBO-X is guaranteed to give you far greater acceleration, clean burning gas (little or no carbon deposits, therefore clean spark plugs and valves), higher engine efficiency and at the same time increased gas mileage that will astonish you (up to 4 miles per gallon depending on the age of the engine). If you drive an average of 8,000 miles per year TURBO-X can save you up to $200.00 in gas and repair expenses IN JUST ONE YEAR. There is nothing extra to buy and no servicing for a full year. You simply remove your old air filter and install TURBO-X — it can't take you longer than 60 seconds — and FEEL the surge of new power in your car.

TURBO-X has not been available for the general consumers' market until now because the entire production was being taken up by fleet operators and commercial concerns. Increased production facilities have now made TURBO-X available to the general public.

HERE IS PROOF!!! Examine the test reports shown on this page. We have hundreds of testimonials from fleet operators, taxicab fleet owners and other power-with-economy minded users.

Dear Mr. Harding:

We are very well pleased with the performance of your carburetor Air Filter. As you know, we have it installed on one of our taxis. Prior to installation on the previous 1971 miles we averaged 10.8 miles per gallon.

After installation and 1988 miles later we discovered this same taxi had averaged 12.6 miles per gallon. A saving during this period of 42 gallons of gasoline or 58.4%. This is very gratifying in this period of rising costs and decreasing profits.

I have given your salesman an order for many more.

Thank you for bringing your product to our attention.

Very truly yours

Ballitron Mfg Co, Inc. July 19 1958
Bloomfield, N.J.

Dear Sir:

This report is a test made on a 1957 Olds. car owned by Mr. J. Convey of Hempstead, L.I. Mileage 15,000+

This 4 Barr. Carb. engine was getting 11 miles per gallon and the engine was tuned to factory specs. A TURBO X was installed aug 8 1958 and a close record was kept on actual road runs.

After the first 500 miles of driving, city and country, we had an increase of more than 2 1/2 miles per gallon. Better all around performance and a marked smoothness in the shift pattern that the owner never had before.

The TURBO X was then removed, and the mileage dropped again and the hesitation in shift pattern was then noted. On June 26, the TURBO X was re-installed and mileage and shifting was immediately restored.

The last report on 1000 miles of all city driving was a good 2 1/2 miles per gallon. It was also eliminated the grey clouds of smoke on acceleration, proving better gas -air ratio making for good efficiency.

Very truly yours,
Vincent Lombardi

DANGEROUS JIVING

Musicians Jam on Freeway

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—When traffic jams on the freeway that's one thing. But when a couple of musicians start jamming, that's out.

Police broke up a budding jam session on an emergency parking strip along the Hollywood Freeway Friday night. They said Alfred C. Proctor was manning snare and bongo drums and Richard C. Moreland was setting up cymbals when they cruised by.

Said Proctor: "My landlady kicked us out and we had no other place to practice."

Robert Young Lazy, Yearns for Old Days

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Robert Young, admitting that he is lazy, says he wishes he could have reversed his acting career.

"I started out in the movies and radio when I was young and had the drive and energy and then wound up at my age in television which is a man-killer.

Young, who started in movies in 1931, now is TV's "Father Knows Best."

"I work 60 hours a week and gross about the same money that I did in radio for four hours a week."

'Family of Year' Is Californian

CHICAGO (AP) — A California family of five Saturday was named "The Methodist Family of the Year."

Selected for the Methodist Church award were Mr. and Mrs. James I. Detweiler and their three children of Burbank. The children are Douglas, 17, a University of Redlands freshman; Jeanette, 15, and Richard, 11.

Named Princess

HOLLYWOOD (AP).— Actress Juli Reding writes from Verona, Italy, that she was named Princess Juliet of Verona during a festival there.

"I guess I'm the first American actress to become a princess without marrying a prince," she says.

JOSEF MANIAS AND MIRANDA
They'll Perform With Long Beach Symphony

AT POP CONCERT

Folk Singers Slated to Be With Orchestra

Maybe Ol' Satchmo Armstrong had something when he said "All songs are folk songs, I ain't never heard a horse sing."

But folk singers Josef Marais and Miranda sing different.

Long Beach will hear them in concert here for the first time Friday night in the Long Beach Symphony Guild-sponsored Pop Concert on the Lakewood Country Club grounds.

"A folk song is a song that people spontaneously want to sing, a number of notes strung together in just the right proportion," says South-African born composer - musicologist Marais. "It's not age, it's not melody. And it's not catchy lyrics alone."

* * * *

WORDS of a folk song, he says, are every bit as important as the music. "If you don't get the words, you've lost 50 per cent of the song's emotion."

The Marais think of themselves as modern minstrels.

"Our material is our own creation," says Miranda, "written by us for our own interpretation to the audience."

Accompanied by the Long Beach symphony orchestra, conducted by Lauris Jones, they will sing "Africana Suite," their own composition.

* * * *

IN ADDITION to Marais and Miranda, the program will feature virtuoso trumpeter Rafael Mendez and the Singers Workship singers presenting songs from their mid-October scheduled production of "Carousel."

The Long Beach symphony has scheduled "American Salute" (Gould) and works by Richard Rogers, Cole Porter, Leroy Anderson and George Gershwin.

Tickets to the concert at 8:30 p.m. and a buffet dinner at 6 p.m. at the Country Club can be purchased at Humphrey's Music Store, 130 Pine Ave. Proceeds go to the orchestra's general fund.

It Happened Last Night

BERLE LIKES TO WORK

NEW YORK—"You were a millionaire when I first met you almost 20 years ago," I said to Milton Berle up in the penthouse at the Hotel Warwick. "So why are you going back to work?"

"His brother Frank needs the money!" yelled Milton's gag-writer friend, Jay Burton, who was sunning himself on the terrace.

"Shut up!" commanded Milton. "You know me. I can't stay idle. I'm an actor."

BERLE

Through the smoke from a dollar cigar, Milton explained that after he was on the Academy Award and Red Skelton shows, "There were many, many letters—thousands of letters—saying they'd like to see me on the screen again. . . . All these notes and letters that the public'd be pleased were a big kick to me . . . and I decided to do it."

"You mean you've been drafted?" I said.

"Yes—drafted! Milton Eisenhower!" he laughed.

* * * *

BUT ON HIS NEW Wednesday-at-9 TV show starting Oct. 8, Uncle Miltie'll be sophisticated. And as though to prove he can do it, he said that his new producer-director-writer Hal Kanter had done one script. "It's in the Berle idom," Milton said. I was amazed at his using such a word as idiom . . . but I was in for a bigger shock when I asked why he'd decided to do the show mostly from Hollywood.

"I think the words are more important than the emanation," Milton answered.

What he meant was that Hal Kanter lived in Hollywood and didn't want to move to New York; hence the "emanation" from California.

"So Milton's going to the mountain instead of the mountain coming to Milton." He puffed vigorously on the cigar as he tossed off that literary allusion.

"Does this mean no seltzer bottles, no pies in the face, no long underwear?"

"I don't think so. I don't think it's clever. Where we kid it, it might be done," he conceded.

* * * *

"LET'S FACE IT, I just had a birthday. I'm 50 years old. Spasmodically there might be a few hokey bits. But the trend of guest stars exchanging with guest stars, I think, is getting a little shopworn, a little old hat. What Hal has in mind is to introduce new faces."

Milton had been intermittently posing for photographer Tony Calyacca.

"I'll do a pensive pose," Milton said. (Pensive yet! Egad, was there no end to the man's erudition?)

"Hal wants me to be me," Milton resumed. "He says it's a no-format format. Here's something he just tldo me—I only found it out two months ago. Hal said, 'Milton, when you were in the Ziegfeld Follies, I was in the Army, and I used to send you jokes and you sent me $10 apiece for them."

Recalling the titanic battle of the air that Milton had once had against Phil Silvers, I asked whom he'd be against this year.

* * * *

AT FIRST he didn't seem to to know, then he decided it was the Donna Reed series, "The Millionaire."

"I don't think it's important what's opposite you—there's room for everybody," he said.

I asked Milton if it was not more important for the star to romance the sponsor's sales conventions than work on the show.

"I don't believe it! I want to quote Shakespeare," the Sophisticated Berle retorted. "'The play's the thing.'

"Of course, I'm always at a client's disposal and do things not in my contract for them, but I don't believe you have to cater to the sponsor—to use the idiom."

Milton'll be living in the Gene Kelly home in Beverly Hills (Gene has taken over the Berle apartment in New York). Mrs. Berle "will be the homebody," not participating in the direction of the show as has been rumored. Berle will be working with a new set of NBC executives; why, when he went off the air in June 1956, just guess who was NBC president. Pat Weaver!

* * * *

NATURALLY, Milton hopes for a good press. One columnist did a review of a Berle program as he imagined it was going to be—and he didn't like it.

"Hal had a wonderful line about that," exclaimed Milton, pointing with his cigar. "He said, 'This is the only newspaperman I know who can reminisce about tomorrow.'"

* * * *

THE WEEKEND WINDUP . . "DON'T PRINT THAT!": A prominent recording star and her boy friend, a comic, postponed their wedding on the advice of a crystal ball gazer who said the planets weren't right. . . . Jimmy Dean (starting a CBS-TV show) bought a Conn. home but is keeping his Va. house too, because "I love those 75 acres of weeds." . . . Young Eddie Hodges will leave "Music Man" to film "Hole in the Head" with Frank Sinatra. . . . Dr. Harold Greenwald, lecturing at the Concord on "How to Save Your Marriage," got bigger crowds when he titled it, "How a Marriage Is Destroyed." . . . Pat Wymore (Mrs. Errol Flynn) is dating millionaire Hal Hayes.

Tom O'Neill, the General Tire tycoon, is getting ready to exit the N. Y. scene and go back to Akron; he's closing his local offices. . . . Buzz from Europe: Waiters say the new Aga Khan will remain a rich man—at least, he's not spreading any tips around. . . . Harry Belafonte's planning a one-man B'way show in March. . . . Singer Dick Roman, who was an unknown five months ago (till winning a Godfrey contest) is getting $1,500 a week for 39 weeks with Liberace.

One of the best known of the pop singers is staying away from his usual spots—he owes "the boys" more than $10,000. . . . Xavier Cugat, back from Europe, brought along expensive furnishings for his Casa Cugat cafe, opening next month.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: One reader thinks the western craze has now gone too far. The other day he saw a woman carrying her baby in a holster.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: A political spellbinder is a man who can talk for hours without having to stop to think.

The sponsor of a TV dramatic show insisted on a really happy ending—HE wanted to get the heroine. . . . That's earl, brother.

Greta Quit Films After One Flop

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Charles Boyer, who should know, says that the reason that Greta Garbo quit the screen was because she made on bad picture.

"It was 'Two-Faced Woman,' says Boyer. "She became very unhappy with the bad notices she got and she never made another movie. I know because she and I were to do another picture together."

Tele-Vues by TERRY VERNON

This is a good day for having two or three TV sets lined up so you won't miss anything and every member of the family will be pleased.

At 7:30 p.m. there's the debut of the "Jack Benny" perennial and his guest will be Gary Cooper. Also busting into the corral is "Maverick" for an hour that'll overlap two other spectacular shows.

"Ed Sullivan" and "Steve Allen" both host stars of their own networks in previews of programs to follow this fall. It's Berle—Hope—Groucho vs. Silvers—Gleason—Skelton . . . or Desmond vs. Fisher, and Gunsmoke vs. Wagon Train.

We'll give you the complete details under the proper time listing.

DAYTIME DATA

"Camera Three" (2) at 8:30 a.m. starts a three-part series dealing with Feodor Dostoevski's "Notes From the Underground." Michael Kane is seen in a one-man performance on this first episode . . . . Dr. Charles Malik, Lebanon, newly elected president of the U. N. General Assembly, will be on "U. N. in Action" (2) at 10 a.m. . . . High lights of the Southern California Trojans' 21-0 upset of Oregon State are shown on (11) at 1 p.m. and the entire UCLA-Pittsburgh game is on at 1:30 p.m. . . "Why Is It So?" gets the new time of 1:30 p.m. on (2) due to tennis tourney finals which start at 2 p.m. . . . Orange County Rhinos play the Tucson Rattlers on (5) at 2 p.m. . . . A. N. Mikhailov, minister of culture in Russia, is interviewed on "Youth Wants to Know" (4) at 2:30 p.m. . . Dr. Simon Ramo, rocket expert, on "College News Conference" (7) at 3:30 p.m. . . . Leo Penn stars as the heroic young atomic scientist Louis Slotin who gave his life to save seven colleagues during "The Day of Awe" (7) at 4 p.m. . . . Long Beach Art Museum paintings are shown in COLOR on "Feitelson on Art" (4) at 5 p.m. . . . Bennett Cerf is on the "Last Word" (2) at 5 p.m. . . . Robert F. Kennedy, chief counsel for the Senate Labor Racketeering Committee on "Face the Nation" (2) at 5:30 p.m.

6 p.m.

Madame Chiang Kai-shek will "Meet the Press" (4).

Time change for "Cavalcade of Books" (2) due to the tennis tourney.

6:15 p.m.

New tonight is the "Stuart Hamblen Show" (5) and with the famed singer-composer will be his wife, Suzy, with 15 minutes of music.

7 p.m.

Timmy and his friends hear that their teacher is leaving because of the school board's budget reduction, and thinking it's only a matter of $5, set out to earn the money on "Lassie" (2).

Our new American flag with either 49 or 50 stars is one item for "You Asked For It" (7).

7:30 p.m.

New season starts for "Jack Benny" (2) and his first guest is Gary Cooper, longtime holdout from TV appearances. Coop will join the Sportsmen in a song and turn comedian in the action with Benny.

Starting its second season on (7) is "Maverick" with James Garner and Jack Kelly as the brothers. A Wells Fargo agent is killed and Bret Maverick is framed for the murder and then hanged. What happens after the necktie party is best left for you to find out.

COLOR — "Northwest Passage" (4) tells of a British colonel who joins Rogers' Rangers for a foray against the French and seems to get the Rangers into much trouble by not following his orders.

8 p.m.

"Ed Sullivan Show" (2) introduces CBS stars: Phil Silvers and his platoon, Danny Thomas and family, Spring Byington and Co., Arthur Godfrey in a song-and-dance number, Garry Moore, Robert Young and the TV family, Red Skelton, Dorothy Collins, Johnny Desmond, Wayne & Shuster, Alan King, Gale Storm, Ed Murrow, Jackie Gleason and Art Carney. Gleason is on film and Godfrey on tape.

9 p.m.

Lou Costello stars on "GE Theater" (2) as new series starts. He is cast as a plumber who is called on in an emergency and told to wear a suit, not work clothes. He learns the reason when he meets some jewel thieves who need his services to get stolen gems from a bathroom sink.

COLOR—"The Chevy Show" (4) goes onto a skating rink and the stars don skates. Janet Blair, John Raitt, Edie Adams, Dorothy Kirsten, Eddie Foy and Carol Burnett are all billed for the "cool" show.

Movie on (11) is "Kathleen" starring Shirley Temple, Felix Bresshart, Herbert Marshall and Larine Day.

9:30 p.m.

Jessica Tandy, Tom Conway and William Shattner star on "Alfred Hitchcock Presents" (2) in a tale of shocking climax without the usual murder, missing bodies or any type of crime.

10 p.m.

Return of the "$64,000 Question" with Hal March on (2) also marks the visit of several of the persons who achieved national fame by being on the shows.

Pilot film of a proposed new series starring Darren McGavin is on (4) under the title "Man Against Crime." Ralph Bellamy was the first man against crime a couple of years ago. McGavin is currently "Mike Hammer."

10:30 p.m.

"Stargazing" (5) with Carroll Righter opens with Robert Cummings as the guest.

David Niven is guest panelist for "What's My Line?" (2).

11 p.m.

Sen. William F. Knowland, Gordon MacRae and his wife, Sheila, will "Greet the People" (5).

TV for L.B. Girls

Eight Long Beach dancers will appear in the Al Jarvis show at 2 p.m. Wednesday, Channel 7. They are Ernest Buck and Zona Lewis, Robert Taylor and Mary Elaine, Richard Hott and Phyllis Lund, Joe Fletcher and Marvel Childress.

Children's Benefit League Adds a D to Fun!

THEY MAY BE "ON THE FENCE" about some things, but Mr. and Mrs. A. Merritt Burns (left) and Mrs. J. M. Black are sure of one thing. They'll be on hand Oct. 4 when Children's Benefit League members and guests gather in Compton for cocktails, chuckwagon dinner and an evening of dancing. Mrs. Burns is chairman of the all-provisional committee for the event which aids Children's Clinic at Community Hospital. Mrs. Black is ticket chairman.—(Staff Photos.)

'Jamboree' Proceeds for Clinic

Children's Benefit League members and guests will frolic with philanthropic gleams in their eyes Oct. 4 when the group sponsors a chuck wagon dinner dance in Compton Rod and Gun Clubhouse, 1625 Sportsman Dr.

Proceeds for the gala informal event will help in the support of Children's Clinic at Long Beach Community Hospital.

Arranged by league provisionals under the leadership of Mrs. Robert H. Hartt, league chairman, and Mrs. A. Merritt Burns, chairman in charge, activities will open with a 5 p.m. cocktail hour. True western fare will be served chuck wagon style from 6 to 8, and dancing will follow until 1 a.m.

* * * *

GUESTS ARE invited to make reservations with the ticket chairman, Mrs. J. M. Black, 3440 Orange Ave.

Other committee members are Mrs. H. P. Perry, decorations; Mrs. Alexander Alex, entertainment; Mrs. William Fenwick, door awards; Mrs. J. T. Groat, refreshments; Mrs. James Streger, hostess; Mrs. Fred Russell, games, and Mrs. Everett Miller, publicity.

"WALL NOW, LEMME SEE . . . Yá jest get yore wagon a'rollin north along the Long Beach Freeway for a spell, and there she be—off to the right once the sign sez Compton." With that, William Crail snaps the reins and heads his wagon toward Compton Rod and Gun Clubhouse where his wife, (left) president of Children's Benefit League, and her League cohorts will entertain Oct. 4 with a real hoedown-type dinner and evening of dancing. Sharing the ride is Mrs. William Fenwick.

Alpha Chi Alumnae to Open Year

Altruistic Keynote in Meet Plans

Nimble Alpha Chi Omega fingers will set a flashing pace Tuesday when alumnae gather for their opening fall meeting in the home of Mrs. William R. Way, 1060 Burlinghall Dr.

Members will sew apron indicators denoting years of volunteer service and compile scrapbooks of used Christmas cards for the Exceptional Children's Foundation.

* * * *

THE WISE program planners arranged this speakerless meeting not only because of the sorority's interest in altruistic work but to afford members an opportunity to exchange summer reminiscences.

Mrs. Bruce Zacher, president, will conduct the business discussion when further philanthropic plans will be told, including the group's monetary pledge to Long Beach Memorial Hospital.

Cohostesses during the evening will be Mrs. Chalmers Bower and Mrs. Kermit U. Parker.

LONG BEACH 12, CALIF., SUNDAY, SEPT. 21, 1958 SECTION W

Sema Benefit Bridge Set

It will be North and South against East and West when bidding gets under way with convivial vengeance at the second annual Sema Club of Long Beach sponsored benefit bridge at 8 o'clock Monday evening in Lakewood Country Club.

Sema Club makes an annual contribution to an organization of its own selection which needs financial assistance. This year's philanthropic endeavors are directed in behalf of Cystic Fibrosis Fund. The benefit bridge is one of the group's newer projects of aid in the development of a healthier, happier community.

* * * *

A GLANCE at some of the club's members who have selected the event as an opportunity to entertain friends finds Mrs. James J. Gardner, Sema president, and Mmes. Earl A. Barnes, D. G. Horton, Leonard Brocks, Vernon M. Lewis, Daniel Roberts, Charles Quick, Robert Thompson, Richard Welker, Paul Beddow Jr., John V. Snider Jr., Philip Lyman, Douglas Watland, Don Lewis, Vance Thurston, Phil Paulen, James A. Cone, Robert Carver and Henry Belyeau. More than 200 members and guests are expected.

Fall Gathering

Mrs. Raymond Sites of Long Beach, president of the Congregational Women's Fellowship of Southern California and the Southwest, will preside at the group's first fall meeting Tuesday at the Church of the Lighted Window in La Canada.

To Host Bay Garden Club

Mrs. James Carroll, president of Alamitos Bay Garden Club, will open her peninsula home, 6815 Bay Shore Wk., for a meeting at 11:30 a.m. Thursday.

"Estate Planning for Everyone" will be subject of a talk given by William G. Riley, trust officer of First Western Bank.

Mrs. Donald B. Truitt will head the hostess committee for the dessert luncheon assisted by Mmes. Clarence A. Edgecomb, Harold Hackett, Leroy Jensen, George B. Knorr, Robert M. Mills, Minerva Romero and William J. Wagner.

Members of the club's philanthropy committee, headed by Mmes. Robert B. McKissock and Alice Cade, recently were entertained in the homes of Mrs. Ralph Robeson and Dorothy McNamara. Plans are being made for a men's clothing drive to provide clean garments for men patients at Rancho Los Amigos Hospital at Christmas.

Presentation of new members, Mmes. Fred A. Anderson and Charles Mullins, will be made prior to the "mystery member" contest by the program committee, Mmes. Max E. Nichols and Harold G. Appleton.

Plan Style Show

Women of St. Matthew's Parish Council will welcome the public to an autumn fashion show in the Parish Hall, 7th St. and Temple Ave., at 1 p.m. Sept. 30. Mrs. Willis O'Donohue, council president, says fashions will be from Michele's. Refreshments will be served.

Contemporary Works Slated at WMC Fete

"There Is Music in the Air" is theme for the pre-opening luncheon which will launch the Woman's Music Club on its 1958-59 season.

This event, which takes place Friday noon in Lafayette Hotel, is sponsored by WMC groups and designed to re-establish pleasant relationships of the current membership and to make new friends.

Mrs. Elvert E. Hermon, curator of groups, will head the reception preceding the luncheon to introduce the new group chairmen and to greet Mrs. Daniel B. Richmond, club president.

* * * *

THE AFTERNOON musicale will include a galaxy of the most important works of contemporary American composers, for whom the groups are named, through vocal, instrumental and ensemble numbers. Mrs. E. B. Leihammer will be program chairman.

Reservations are open to club members, their guests and prospective members. They should be made not later than Wednesday noon with Mrs. William H. Sanson, 5510 El Jardin, or with Mrs. Hermon, 830 Cherry Ave.

Red Cross Workers Mobilized for Spring

Twenty-one Long Beach women who will figure prominently in the 1959 Red Cross Fund Campaign were entertained recently at a coffee hour by Mrs. Ernest E. Belcher, women's chairman, in her home at 4201 Cedar Ave.

Honoring her two vice chairmen, Mrs. Vernon Williams and Mrs. Arthur Adkisson, and area chairmen, Mrs. Belcher's informal party launched the year's volunteer program for the Long Beach Red Cross Chapter.

All campaign leaders have been carefully selected, said Mrs. Belcher, with a view to making this the most successful campaign in many years. Funds are badly needed, if the local chapter is to continue and extend its services. The campaign will be conducted in March.

CHAIRMEN AND THE AREAS they will represent are: Mmes. Arthur Hagge and J. H. Brockman, east; Mrs. Malcolm Todd, central; Mmes. Dayton Boyson and Robert Hagans, west; Mrs. Ernest Lockwood, Bixby-Los Cerritos; Mmes. Emma Taylor and M. L. Bonnewitz, North Long Beach; Mmes. Eldon Sagehorn and Patrick Phelan, Los Altos-Plaza; Mmes. Earl Milton, H. G. Doody, Donald Leedom, Harvey Johnson, Lakewood City; Mmes. Arnold Romeyn, Myrl Ott and William Nesbitt, Northeast Lakewood.

Also included on the guest list were Mrs. Francis Heusel, fashion show chairman; Mrs. Frank Vessels Jr., fashion show ticket chairman; Mrs. Corliss Jones, public information chairman; and Mrs. Latham Brightman, table arrangements chairman.

Henry Viets Plan Party for Newlyweds

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Edwin Viets will open their 1550 Ramillo Ave. home from 4 to 6 this afternoon for an autumn themed reception introducing their son and his bride, Ens. and Mrs. Henry Granville Viets, to Long Beach friends.

The younger Viets were married June 14 at Oak Knoll Naval Chapel in Oakland.

Among the guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Scribner of San Leandro, parents of the bride.

Assisting will be Drs. and Mmes. Richard Matlock, Seibert Pearson, Robert Godwin, Philip Hartley, Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Yunker, and family members, Miss Nancy Viets and Mrs. Henry Little Viets, sister and grandmother, respectively, of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Viets is the former Dixie Lee Tinsley. She was graduated from Wilson High School and attended the University of California at Berkeley where she was a Gamma Phi Beta. Ens. Viets, a Kappa Alpha, was graduated from Stanford University in June and simultaneously commissioned in the Navy. He is assigned to the Walter H. Cunningham, currently in port.

QUEEN FREDERIKA TO VISIT

Illustrious visitor to Long Beach Nov. 20 will be gracious Queen Frederika of Greece who will be in this city to participate in flag raising ceremonies at the Naval Base transferring a number of U.S. destroyers to Greece. Accompanied by her daughter, Princess Sophia, she also will be honor guest at the Imperial Ball Nov. 22 in the Beverly Hilton Hotel. The ball is sponsored by Los Angeles Chapter of WAIF Division, International Social Service, which places homeless children through inter-country adoption.

The Wild Waves Say

By IOLA MASTERSON

DOWNTOWN Kiwanis members—being men of rare good sense and properly prudent—invited their wives to meetin' Tuesday in celebration of the big service club's 39th anniversary. It's been an uphill grind but at long last they're as old as the man from Waukegan.

Of the literally hundreds of members, past, present or transferred, there are only six men still active who claim charter affiliation: Dr. Bill Blount, John Chamness, Burt Galleher, Jesse Holton, Dr. Al Osborne and Dr. Burt Stevenson.

"Hail Kiwanis!"

Now the boys just didn't ask their girls over to the Lafayette Tuesday to blow out candles on the cake. They treated them to a fashion show, to prove they were operating in good faith, and to a songfest by a touring Army choral group from Colorado, whose appreciated appearance was arranged by Gen. Cliff Beyers.

To keep the coat and tie portion of the audience from growing restless, plenty of men's fashions were modeled by members Bud Holton (incoming prexy), Hal Horrocks, Bill Bennett, Ted Bowman and Bill Harris. Among those enjoying the styles and laughing at the informal commentary (especially when the men were on parade) were Eleanor and Chuck Vermillion, President Howell and Veryl Honeywell, Jetta and Jerry Jacobs, Jessie Lee and Dr. Don Malcolm, Ethel and Gif Hanson, Mary and Matt Simpson, Meriam and George Irwin, Marietta and Walt Jordan, June and Lyle Huggins, Virginia and Don Davis, Marie and Dr. Bill Todd, Betty and Bud Perry, Evelyn and Kenny Hemphill, John Farrell, Irv Jetter, Fred Kergen, Barbara and Sted Gould, Ella and O. W. Fisher (he was presented with his 30-year membership pin that day), Wings Sr., Mildred and Kenny, and Wings Jr., Kenny and Beverly, plus enough more names to fill a good sized roster.

NEXT SUNDAY Alamitos Bay Yacht Club staff and committee members will float off on a sea of pleasure, sailing through party hours as guests of Mary and Ted Matson, outgoing commodore. The Matsons will say "welcome aboard" to about 80 guests invited for cocktails in their home, 7019 Seaside Wk., between 5:30 and 8 p. m., one of the gala events preceding the club's annual change of command. A few of those whom we'd be willing to wager would rather be becalmed off Quemoy than miss this funfair are Margaret and John Graye, Ann and Sid Exley, Carrie and Al Vignolo, Betty and Palmer Wentworth, Adra and Charles Kober, Lois and Loyd Landis, Christine and Bert Wagner, Vivian and Robert Hoffman, Evelyn and Tom Thomas and Margaret and Dick Russell.

JUST TO PROVE that all that's fun on the ocean (or because of it) was not invented by those who hoist sails, leave us tell you a little about last weekend's seawhee for Long Beach Chapter members of the United States Power Squadron. A whole fleet of motor driven boats went on one of the organization's many annual rendezvous boating trips. This one was to the Isthmus in company with USPS Chapter members from the entire district. Among localites seen boat hopping around the harbor before munching 'em rare during the steak barbecue were LaNelle and Ray Fosholdt, Rae and Commander Clint Stickney, Bessie and Emory Neilsen, Beverly and Dave Coen, Vera and Dick Brookins, Florence and Julian Tarleton, Edith and John Cady, Gladys and Julien Charle, Ruth and Bert Foster, Betty and Morrie Barr, Mary and Paul McGinnis, Kay and Art Rudd, and Vivienne and Bob Elms.

HOPE SOMEBODY remembered to light a candle for Beth Williams Friday and then reminded her to blow it out! It's likely she was too busy to think about such inconsequental things as her own birthday because her natal date and the opening meeting of Chairman Beth's Ebell Club group collided, head-on, this year. Ebell won and Beth was hostess, instead of being the one feted, at luncheon at her home to mark the occasion.

Guests of the "honoree" (now, there's a switch) were Kay Nesbitt, Noan Le Lacheur, Virginia Faris, Rosemary Jackson, Gladee Jewett, Nancy Lough, Dorothy Montgomery, La Verne Maddux, Bea Scott, Bernice Stephens, Doris Sturgeon, Margaret Wackerle, Rose Schiffner, Bula Pearson, Margie Peizer, Eileen Lake and Dorothy Gordon.

HOME INSURANCE CO. doesn't give a whoop "if, in Spain, the rains fall mainly on the plains" next Friday. But they sure as Pluvius care if anything but sunshine falls in Long Beach that date because they have Sept. 26 insured against rain. Yep. A one-day policy written for Long Beach Symphony Guild for their Pops Concert at Lakewood Country Club when the wonderful music of Morton Gould, Richard Rodgers, the scores of "My Fair Lady," "Carousel" and the like will be played under the stars, Carolyn Raney, general chairman, made the "bet" and believe us, she's as anxious as the insurance bunch is that there won't have to be any settlement. Lauris Jones orchestra will play while guests sit at individual tables sipping a cold brew or a sparkling glass of wine in the informal good spirit of a continental music fest.

"Shine, Darn Ya, SHINE!"

FIRST CLASS passenger aboard the Storkline Ltd.'s special 10 p. m. flight terminating at Community Hospital last Sunday was Jeffrey Thomas Leebrick. Waiting at the baby depot for him were his parents, Suzanne and Bob. Jeff and his mom will probably complete the journey to their home in Rossmoor today with an honor escort of grandparents Beth Marichal and Irma and Bob Leebrick Sr.

"SING A SONG of slot machines, a pocketful of coins," was theme song last weekend for Jane and Bob Lemon and the Don Tosh' during a stay at the Desert Inn, Las Vegas. To their surprise and delight they bumped into Susie and Norm Meager, also guests at the Inn. Hope none of them stayed out too long at night. That neonburn can be painful.

Pair Wed at Twilight

The autumn-hued dresses of her attendants added brilliant contrast to the gleaming gown of white bridal satin selected by Anne Marie Kroll of West Linn, Ore., for her Sept. 13 marriage to John Louis Kelly Jr.

Mrs. John Louis Kelly Jr.

All Saints Episcopal Church was setting for the double-ring ceremony read at twilight by the Rev. Lester V. Wiley.

* * * *

PARENTS OF the young couple are Mr. and Mrs. William R. Kroll of West Linn, Ore., and Mr. and Mrss. John L. Kelly, 4225 Myrtle Ave.

The bride's gown was fashioned with an off-the-shoulder neckline bordered by Chantilly lace on the fitted bodice. The softly draped skirt was touched with lace and extended into a cathedral train. Holding her fingertip-length veil of illusion was a lace-covered satin cloche, and she carried white orchids on a white prayer book.

Fall shades ranging from light yellow through bronze and deep copper were used in the taffeta gowns of her attendants, Scarlett Roberts Skill, maid of honor, and Fern Marie Middough, Charlene Wilson, Patricia Renley and Rona Ruddach, bridesmaids. They carried cream colored spider mums with wheat shafts tied by copper ribbons. Lessley Laxson was flower girl.

Charles Sherwood Dresser was invited to serve the bridegroom as best man, and the 200 wedding guests were seated by Robert H. Middough, Donald Murdock, Robert Baehler and John Laxson.

* * * *

THE BRIDAL couple was serenaded on leaving the church by Delta Zeta Sorority members who sang "Dream Girl of Delta Zeta." Guests gathered later in Assistance League Clubhouse for a reception hostessed by Sally Wright and Mary Anne Murdock.

The newlyweds took a honeymoon trip to Las Vegas and are at home this week in Long Beach. Both will complete senior years of schooling at Long Beach State College this fall. The bridegroom was graduated from Polytechnic High School and attended Stanford University.

ANKLE DEEP IN ACTIVITY

Kermit Sadler, Associated Students president at Long Beach State College, proudly shows the 49er campus to Mrs. William H. Shea and her daughter, Maura, 5239 Abbeyfield St. Maura, a freshman this year, will be among the incoming students and their parents honored at a reception today.

New Year to Begin for Presidents Club

Presidents Club will open its fall season with a noon luncheon meeting Saturday in the banquet room of Apple Valley Steak House with President Helen Vind Ervin conducting. Assisting her at this first meeting will be members of the executive board.

Speaker will be David H. Crowther, local public relations consultant, thrice decorated Korean War veteran and a member of the select committee on small business for the House of Representatives in Washington, D. C. His subject will be "New Phases on Jobs for Long Beach."

* * * *

CLUBS AND THEIR presidents who participate this year are: Agassiz Nature Club, Mrs. Rose E. Berry; Allied Arts International, Mrs. Cornelia Pollard; Democratic Women's Study Club, Mrs. L. H. Jarnagin; Ebell, Mrs. Joseph M. Striegel; 18th Congressional District Republican Women, Mrs. John D. Bowler Jr.; WCTU, Mrs. Clara Gay; Friday Morning Discussion Club, Miss Stella Olcott; Kennyettes, Mrs. Walter D. Brown; Lakewood Women's Club, Mrs. Eugene C. Hamilton; Long Beach Council of Republican Women, Mrs. Logan H. Goodknight; Long Beach Grandmother's Club, Mrs. Ella May Brooks; Long Beach Story League, Mrs. L. J. Oberson; Long Beach Toastmistress Club, Mrs. C. L. Snyder; Long Beach Writers' Club, Mrs. Ervin; Los Altos Republican Women, Mrs. Irwin Mozingo; Los Altos Women's Club, Mrs. O. J. Elsom; North Long Beach Republican Women, Mrs. Sidney M. Marshall, and North Long Beach Women's Club, Mrs. Clayton F. Watson.

* * * *

OTHER CLUBS and their presidents this year are: Patrons of Long Beach City College, Mrs. Philip M. Thompson; Plaza Women's Club, Mrs. Melvin Kavin; Retired Teachers' Club, Miss Edith M. Hitchcock; Dr. Margaret Clark Sunshine Circle, Mrs. F. E. Faber; Woman's City Club, Mrs. S. F. Stipp, and Woman's Music Club of Long Beach, Mrs Violet Richmond.

The organization meets four times annually and traditionally concludes the year with a banquet in May at which time all past and present members assemble for a gala reunion and program.

Mrs. Ervin and Mrs. Oberson are in charge of reservations for the luncheon Saturday.

Jobs Propositions to Be Discussed

"Jobs for Long Beach" Propositions S and T will be discussed by Mrs. Cecil D. Willis at a coffee hour for Unit One of North Long Beach Democratic Women's Study Club Wednesday at 10 a.m. in the home of Mrs. Lynn Hutchins, 1245 Poppy, St.

Mrs. Willis represents the League of Women Voters Speakers' Bureau. She will be presented by Mrs. Jean Forker, program chairman. Interested persons are welcome and may make reservations with the hostess.

Sorority Moms Set Meeting

Sigma Kappa Mothers' Club will open the fall season with a tea Wednesday evening in the home of Mrs. R. J. Hoard, 2431 Chatwin Ave. Mothers of Sigma Kappa pledges will be welcomed.

Delegates Ardis Westerman, Pat Perry and Lyn Ellis will report on the national convention this summer in Biloxi, Miss.

Officers for the year are Mrs. Lloyd Baum, president; Mrs. L. Roy Fitzgerald, vice president; Mrs. Lelia M. Flynn, secretary; and Mrs. R. E. Schoonover, treasurer. Meetings take place the fourth Wednesday of each month in the homes of members.

Fierce Feud Flares for 'Gang' Seniority

The fat's in the fire and the feud's boiling in the pot. The Myrtle Ave. Mob held an indignation meeting last Sunday at the home of Jane and Everett Houser. Over pancakes and pineapple, served by Chef Houser, discussion centered on the claims of a rival congenial neighborhood organization, The Walnut Ave. Senior Citizens, whose claims to longer existence, aired in this column last Sunday, were hotly contested.

"Us Wuz Robbed"

Not only that, but the challengers are going high class and are assuming the loftier title of "Myrtle Ave. Improvement Association." Among accusations, the MAIA points to the fact that one of its member families has resided on Myrtle since 1933, at which time they say they can prove the 3900 block of Walnut Ave. was nothing but undeveloped farm land. It also claims to be the only Long Beach neighborhood party group with a branch in Hawaii. George and Bess Green have been delegated to reactivate this branch during their forthcoming trip to the islands.

Reception for LBSC Today

The executive council of the Associated Students and Long Beach State College President and Mrs. P. Victor Peterson will co-host upwards of 1,000 freshman students and their parents at a special reception today in the dining hall from 2-4 p.m.

Larry Lucas, Associated Students commissioner of publications, is the general chairman.

Assisting Lucas will be Associated Students President Kermit Sadler. Members of the Associated Women Students will serve as hostesses.

* * * *

THE COLLEGE'S division chairmen and department heads along with freshmen orientation counselers will be on hand to extend greetings.

The Petersens Saturday night welcomed old and returning faculty members and wives as well as distinguished citizens at the 10th annual president's reception in the dining hall.

Honored guests among the 800 included Long Beach and Orange County legislators, members of the State Board of Education, and the college's advisory board.

Women to Hear Political Editor

Robert Houser, Independent, Press-Telegram political editor, will discuss "California's 1958 Political Scene" when he addresses Plaza Women's Club at 8 p.m. Thursday in El Dorado Clubhouse. He will be presented by Mrs. Alden Sheets.

Plans also will be made for the group's "Hard-Times" dance Oct. 4 in the Signal Hill Club, 2269 Lemon Ave.

Patricia A. Watkins

Sets Jan. Date

Plans for a Jan. 17 marriage are being made by Patricia A. Watkins and Grant E. Schleker of Calistoga.

Betrothal of the pair was announced on a recent visit here of the prospective bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Schleker, former Long Beach residents now of Calistoga.

The bride-elect, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Watkins of Long Beach, was graduated from Polytechnic High School where she joined Pi Sigma Phi Sorority, and Long Beach City College, where she was a member of Mahabharata.

Her fiance was graduated from Jordan and served as vice president of Hammurabi while attending LBCC.

Carroll Corinne Shepherd

Miss Shepherd to Say Vows in 1959

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon V. Shepherd of Long Beach are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Carroll Corinne, to Richard Hochschild, son of Mrs. Paul Hochschild of Baltimore, Md., and the late Mr. Hochschild.

The pair plans to wed Aug. 2, 1959.

Miss Shepherd received the "Jeweled L" while attending Poly High School; was graduated from Pomona College and took graduate work at University of California, Berkeley. She is a teacher in the San Lorenzo School District.

Her fiance was graduated from Johns Hopkins University and received an MA degree from UC Berkeley. He now resides in Pasadena.

DAR Council Meeting Is Inspirational

Instructive and inspirational was the Southern Council Meeting of Daughters of the American Revolution Tuesday, when Los Cerritos Chapter with Mrs. Donald Madsen, regent, was hostess chapter. Mrs. Madsen was assisted by a committee of her chapter, and the regents of Susan B. Anthony, Western Shores, Long Beach and Gaviota Chapters.

Invocation was given at the luncheon by Mrs. H. P. Dunlop of Gaviota Chapter, state chaplain. Following the luncheon Mrs. James Dietrick of Los Angeles, state music chairman presented 12 members of State Choral Gorup in three numbers.

Feature of the day was the address, "Mental Robots," by L. A. Aleson, past president, California Medical Assn., past president L. A. County Medical Assn., immediate past chief of staff, L. A. County General Hospital, and present director of Freedom Club.

* * * *

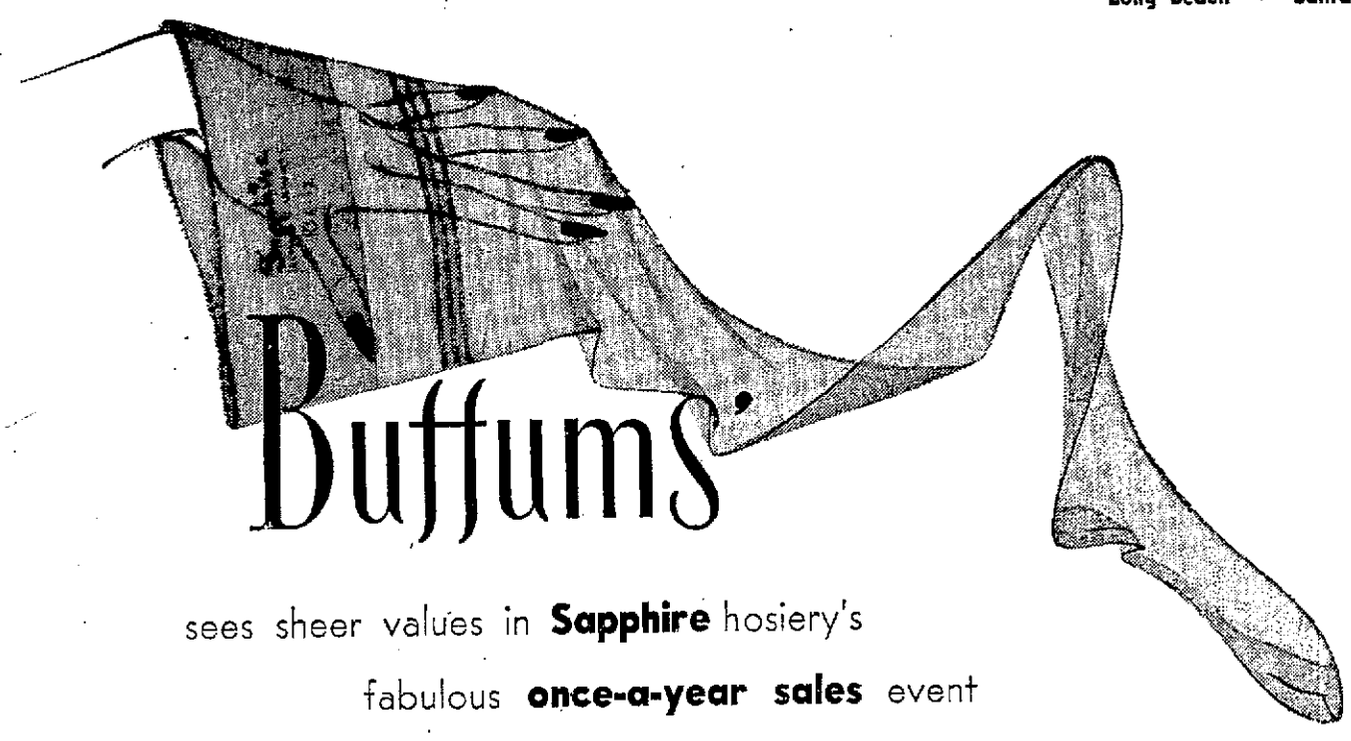

DR. ALESON opened his speech with a tribute to the Constitution and to the Bill of Rights passed in 1791, which added the necessary state and individual rights. Dr. Aleson cautioned the group of 250 to protect these rights, and told of the snares in the Short-Doyle Act.

Dr. Aleson concluded his remarks with commendation for two proposed bills for protection of mentally ill, namely: House Resolution 98 by Congressman Usher Burdick of North Dakota, calling for the investigation of all phases of the mental health program and a moratorium on further legislation until the results of the investigations were made public; and the California Senate constitution amendment introduced by Senator Nelson Dilsworth of Riverside County, subtitled "Bill of Rights for Mental Freedom."

Potluck Luncheon

Long Beach Chapter of American Gold Star Mothers will meet for potluck luncheon at noon Tuesday in Veterans Memorial Bldg. to honor members with September birthdays. Visiting Gold Star Mothers are welcome.

Simple Vows Unite Pair

Reverent simplicity touched the nuptial vows joining Miss Shelley Heath and Lt. (j.g.) Walton Scott Reid Jr. in Emanuel Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Howard Steward officiated at the service witnessed by immediate families of the young couple.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Wayland Heath of 5454 E. Ocean Blvd., and Smoke Tree Ranch, Palm Springs. Given in marriage by her father, she was radiant in a white princess style gown of Chantilly lace over taffeta. The portrait neckline was edged in pearls and opalescent crystals. Her frothy veil in fingertip length was caught to a crown of matching lace embroidered in pearls and crystals. She carried a shower bouquet of cymbidiums with stephanotis and lilies of the valley.

Attending the bridal couple were Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. Roger Morgan. Mrs. Morgan wore a sheath dress of dusty rose with a lace cap and carried feathered carnations and rubrum lilies.

* * * *

A RECEPTION followed in the Alamitos Bay Peninsula summer home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Heath selected a dress of pink chiffon and lace re-embroidered with pearls and rhinestones for her daughter's marriage. She carried a crescent bouquet of white bufferly orchids. Assisting as host and hostess were the bride's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Robert VanAnda of Encino.

The lovely bride was graduated from Chadwick Preparatory School in Rolling Hills and attended the Universities of Hawaii and Arizona. She is a Kappa Alpha Theta.

Her husband, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walton Scott Reid of Des Plaines, Ill., is stationed with the Naval Air Force aboard the USS Yorktown. A graduate of Gettysburg College in Pennsylvania, he took law studies at the University of Pennsylvania.

Miss Metcalf Joins September Brides

Carolyn Lee Metcalf joined the ranks of radiant, young September brides when she exchanged wedding vows with Wilbur Edwin Steuber in a recent ceremony solemnized in North Long Beach Methodist Church.

For her marriage, the bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Field Metcalf Jr., 5430 Linden Ave., wore a beautifully detailed gown of imported Chantilly lace and satin. A Queen Ann's bridal crown held her fingertip length veil of illusion and for her flowers she carried a bouquet of white orchids, stephanotis and butterfly roses.

Maid of honor Jean Charlotte Metcalf and bridesmaids, Sheila Kerivan, Carol Christian, Lynn Hannawell and Joyce Richie were all gowned alike in delicate pink chiffon dresses. Young cousins of the bride, Charlotte Ann and Gregg Halwick, served as flower girl and ring bearer.

Mrs. Wilbur E. Steuber

Harold A. Steuber Jr. was best man. The 300 wedding guests were escorted to their places by ushers Ron Steuber, Stuart Hart, James Christian and Malcolm Merchinson.

The bride attended Long Beach City College following graduation from Jordan High where she served as president of Girls' League and was a member of Anchor Club and the scholarship society. The bridegroom, also a graduate of Jordan High where he was president of the student body and played varsity football, continued his education at Long Beach State College.

The newlyweds are now at home at 221 E. 59th St. following a honeymoon trip to Crestline and San Francisco.

Blue Star Unit Lists Activities

Long Beach Chapter No. 1, Blue Star Mothers of America, will convene at 10 a.m. Monday at the home of Mrs. William H. Michael, 911 Pacific Ave. to make house slippers for hospitalized veterans in the Long Beach Veterans Hospital. Following sewing, members will have an informal sandwich luncheon at noon.

Next event for the chapter will be on Saturday when a ham dinner will be served in the garden of Mrs. Harry R. Gilbert's home, 2271 Mira Mar Ave. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Gilbert. Mrs. Harold Ludwig is president of the group.

HOME RITE

Immediate family members witnessed the marriage ceremony joining Paula Shaw and Walter A. Vinton Jr. in the Long Beach home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Shaw. He is the son of the Senior Vintons of Shelton, Wash.

Bachelor About Town

Winged Feet Pay Dividends

By IOLA MASTERSON

The judges voted him New York state's "Healthiest Baby" and Ray Cunningham, 9 months old at the time, couldn't have cared less. But apparently that self-same, contest-winning-type health has paid off because now, 26 years later, he still looks none the worse for wear.

But he's changed, though. Really he has. Now Ray stretches to 5' 11", weighs 170 pounds — physical attributes which would have disqualified "the kid from Rochester" in 1932 but make him highly eligible as a bachelor about town in 1958.

Ray "probably" is English and Irish, he thinks. The last of his ancestors, however, became Americans long before Wyatt Earp's first shot echoed through Dodge City.

IN 1941 the Cunninghams, their merry-eyed 9-year-old son firmly in tow, moved to Long Beach. Like it usually does, time passed and soon their boy had graduated from Poly High (he majored in journalism, was editor of High Life, began working part time for the Press-Telegram sport's department which he has continued to do sporadically ever since). After Poly he attended Long Beach City College for two years where he was editor of its campus paper, "The Viking." Then he toured the UCLA halls of knowledge (as a Kappa Sig) graduating with a bachelor's degree in business administration; and the kind of information he needs for his job as business manager for a local dance studio.

* * * *

HOW DID SPORTS reporter turn to terpsichore? Well, during City College days ol' Lightfoot Ray helped pay his way through school by giving dancing lessons. When he was in the Army he won the Indiana State Jitterbug championship. That was in 1953 and a sideline activity while he served as a U. S. Army propaganda analyst for the Bureau of Psychological Warfare; later as personal secretary to Gen. Arthur Roth, then commanding general of guided missiles for the northwest sector of the United States. In both capacities he traveled all over the country. Which is how he happened to see action in Indiana and win the battle of the ballroom.

* * * *

NOW AS IT happens, Ray is lightfooted in more ways than one. At LBCC the student body voted him outstanding intramural athlete of 1951 for his all around capabilities in everything from football to volleyball and basketball to track. "Sporty" all his life, he held a city record in the playground softball league during his junior high years for pitching four consecutive no hitters! Obviously, he's crazy about athletics and wherever there's a grandstand with something going on in front of it, that's where he's most apt to be—provoded he isn't water skiing (this newest favorite), golfing or being part of some kind of a ball team himself.

A Belmont Shore variety resident, Ray maintains his own apartment in that informal section of town. He doesn't have a favorite kind of girl. He likes all girls. Period. Just so they're sincere, curious about the world around them and willing to learn about it and, of course, enjoy sports.

* * * *

RAY CLAIMS he's an admirer of the "just anything to eat" style of cookery and his idea of real gourmet food is a chocolate malt. His taste in literature is more exact. He reads a minimum of 100 pages daily, preferrably on such subjects as English literature, philosophy and psychology. He hopes to acquire additional scholastic degrees and this enjoyment of weighty topics should help. When he was graduated from UCLA Ray had 222 units to his credit—40 more than is needed for a PhD but he had scattered his learning over so many topics he only had enough in one field to rate a BS. He hopes to complete work for an MA, when he gets around to it, and then his doctorate. For a fellow who considers the Harvard Business Review fascinating reading, this shouldn't be hard!

* * * *

THE IVY LEAGUE look in men's clothes suits our boy just fine. Musically he likes everything from classical to rock and roll and doesn't even mind having his ear bent by the hound-dog-in-great-pain type warbling made popular by Elvis. Only thing Ray doesn't like about music are the people who criticize any kind of music they don't happen to like personally.

This bachelor has no intention of remaining one indefinitely and is convinced married life, with the right Mrs. Cunningham, would be much more rewarding than single life, regardless of its envied freedom. But he isn't in a hurry to get married. Not yet. As he puts it, "I'm receptive to the idea but not panicky". Keep your eyes on him, girls. The day he starts "to panic", would be a lucky day to be nearby!

Ray Cunningham

Child Labor Laws Need Interpreting

By ANGELO PATRI

We are hearing from teachers and others interested in the schools that changes in the labor laws should be a great aid toward curing the delinquents who commit crimes and who, when in school, make teaching impossible. — But, I doubt it.

The boys and girls who are disorderly, and worse, in the schools are not of high or even normal intelligence. They are unable to accept the instruction offered. They will not be able if they are kept in the schools until they are grayheaded. They should not be in the usual schools at all. Their presence there is too expensive in the time and the instruction of the normal-minded pupils.

* * * *

IF THESE children are dismissed to go to work, what work are they to do? Who will accept them? Who needs such hopeless workers? Nobody that I ever knew. To dismiss them on the pretense that they can find work and will do so is to make a bad matter worse for they will then be on the streets free to go where they will and do what comes into their minds. Usually this is something destructive and leads to their arrest.

Now the judge is faced with an unsolvable problem. He has no place to send them for rehabilitation. If at all possible he dismisses them on parole to their parents and the social service worker. It may be that he was on parole when arrested. Nothing has been changed. He goes back to the home that bred him and his kind. Industry, business, labor, will have none of him.

The state must establish schools for such pupils and give them the training and instruction they can take. Sort out the irreclaimable and keep them in permanent custody. They must be kept out of the schools that are geared to the normal-minded, able children and young people.

Newlyweds to Live Here

Stately arrangements of white blossoms illuminated by candlelight banked the altar of Gloria Dei Lutheran Church for the afternoon marriage ceremony joining Sharon Lynne Stimson and Robert John Henry.

The Rev. Theodore Foreid read nuptial lines for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Jerome Stimson, 4495 California Ave., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin O. Henry, 5762 Campo Walk. More than 300 guests witnessed the vow exchange.

The bride's youthful loveliness was enhanced by a gown of white embroidered Swiss organdy fashioned with Sabrina neckline, fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. Her fingertip veil of frothy illusion cascaded from a crown of Alencon lace reembroidered in pearls and she carried white butterfly orchids and bouvardia. She was given in marriage by her father.

* * * *

WHITE SWISS organdy dresses embroidered in green were chosen for her two attendants, the matron of honor, Mrs. Dennis Stimson, and maid of honor, Miss Judy Clark. They wore green veil caps and carried bouvardia with baby ivy.

Dick Henry was selected as his brother's best man and ushering duties were performed by Jerry Stimson, brother of the bride, and Dale Sweat.

The white theme in church decor was echoed in reception appointments in the garden at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Stimson chose for her daughter's wedding a pale blue linen sheath with royal blue and emerald green cummerbund and side drape. Mrs. Henry was gowned in lavender blue with matching sequined hat.

A LONG BEACH home awaits the newlyweds on return from a honeymoon trip to Northern California.

Both young persons were graduated from Long Beach high schools and attended Oregon State College where she affiliated with Kappa Alpha Theta and he with Beta Theta Pi. They will continue studies at Long Beach State College this fall.

State College Seniors Wed

Long Beach State College seniors Leonard Roger Shea and Patricia Ann Dewey were joined in marriage in a double-ring service read by the Rev. W. I. Benson in Lakewood Village Community Church.

A reception for the 200 wedding guests followed in the Park Estates home of the bride's father, Lt. Col. Charles M. Dewey. The bride's mother is the late Isabelle Halton Dewey.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of bouffant white Chantilly lace accentuated by a Sabrina neckline embroidered with iridescent sequins and pearls. Her scalloped silk illusion veil was held by a small sced pearl crown and she carried white orchids in shower with rosebuds and stephanotis.

* * * *

HER COUSIN, Nancy Galbraith, was asked to attend as maid of honor and Daryl Jones and Shirley Lang were bridesmaids. All wore gowns of aqua taffeta. Miss Galbraith carried a cascade of watermelon pink carnations while the bridesmaids carried pale pink carnations.

The bridegroom, son of Mrs. James MacDonald, 5915 Clark Ave., asked his brother, Kenneth Shea, to serve as best man. Guests were seated by Clifford Schroeder and David Schappal.

Hostesses for the beautifully appointed garden reception were Kay Wilmot, Mary Burke and Beverly Farmer. Tiki torches placed throughout the garden cast a warm glow over festivities.

THEY LATER departed for a Northern California honeymoon trip, planning to be at home in Long Beach after this week.

Mrs. Shea received her early schooling in San Antonio, Tex., and attended Long Beach City College where she was president of Tammuz and a member of Kassai. She is affiliated with Zeta Tau Alpha at State. Her husband attended high school in Holyoke, Mass., was president of Thor at LBCC, and is a member of Phi Kappa Tau at State.

Shakespearean Romp

By ILKA CHASE

Well, we have been to Stratford-on-Housatonic and all I can say is the Swan of Stratford-on-Avon must be pretty pleased up there on cloud 1616. The play we saw was A Midsummer Night's Dream, an airy romp of a production that surely would have delighted Shakespeare...

I've often speculated how he must feel if he has been able to peer down through the centuries and watch the thousands of productions of his brainchildren. He must have got a rude shock if he saw your correspondent play Malvolio duly cross-gartered at the age of 13. And he would have been startled, I imagine, by the liberties taken with his material in the 18th and 19th Centuries. More than once he must have summoned up celestial lawyers to sue for libel and mayhem, but he must have had, too, some wonderful moments.

John Barrymore playing his Hamlet, Laurence Olivier in the unforgettable film production of Henry V, and the delightful moments in that peculiar new medium called television when Twelfth Night flickered so gracefully across the small screen.

* * * *

"WHAT WAY of doing me will they think of next?" the old boy must wonder often. The way they've thought of doing him at Stratford, Conn., is highly effective. Strange vehicles, Master, autos they're known as, and things called special trains, too, converge on the spot. The American Shakespeare Festival Theater, that's its name, and its structure is somewhat reminiscent of your own Globe on Thames. You can bring your luncheon if you want to and picnic on the lawn overlooking the river before the performance. It's advisable to bring your own coffee, too, in a thermos as that which is sold at the canteen in the entr'acts seems to have been brewed since the first performance of Hamlet.

Probably the most pleasant way to make the pilgrimage is the way we did. If going from New York leave in time to dine at the Red Barn or one of the other good restaurants near Westport and Wilton.

Leave a little extra time for traffic blocks later, however, as approaching the theater there's one juncture where culture and commerce clash head-on. The trucks are thundering down from the north on the straightaway and the drama lovers are making left turns in front of them. No traffic cops in Gov. Rippencoff's otherwise well-policed state and it's a free-for-all. Roll right up, ladies and gents, take a sporting chance! Once past dead man's corner, however, the reward is great.

The theater, a handsome building diagonal in shape and designed by Edwin D. Howard, was built in 1955 and stands on 12 acres of lawn. It is faced inside and out in French Guiana teakwood, a gift from the French government. Accommodates 1,400 people and its fine red seats are extremely comfortable. This is important for Shakespeare as, let's face it, in certain of the plays there are slight stretches where attention is apt to wander and it's nice to relax.

The playing area is capacious. A deep central proscenium stage and a forestage, a kind of blunt peninsula jutting out, over 90 feet wide. The decor is stylized. Slats like delicate Venetian blinds form the high rising walls. Airy staircases slip sideways and descend below stage level, allowing for effective entrances and exits and in A Midsummer Night's Dream grilled balconies and slender pillars and a gauzy flower-strewn backdrop form the court and that wood near Athens where the goings on become hilarious.

* * * *

BARBARA BARRIE plays Hermia. She is a small, coltish actress with a flair for antic comedy and the fight scene with Helena is a howl. The stars of the production, however, must be counted that crew of "mechanicals," Quonce, Bottom, Flute, Starveling, Snout and Snug. They are played by Morris Carnovsky, Hiram Sherman, William Hickey, Ellis Rabb, Will Geer and Serven Darden, and wondrous funny they are. Even the good Doctor, who is a man who can take Shakespeare or leave him alone, was rolling in the aisles. If he sees this piece he will claim I have libeled him, for "What I like to do is to read Shakespeare," he says. I eyed him. "When have you been reading him all so much?" "During the war I read him," he maintains stoutly. "All those months in the Pacific I read him a lot." I perforce subside, not having been there, but defeat comes hard and I mutter that Shakespeare wrote to be played and I bet in his reading he didn't dream up all those comical bits of business inserted by Jack Landau, the director, and the actors themselves.

To be honest, not all the actors are top-notch but the theater is only four seasons old and they are learning. Even the journey to perfection is rewarding, and how magical to hear the words written 400 years ago fresh and wise and funny to this day.

Mimi Murray Is Now Mrs. Chaput

A gown of white imported Swiss eyelet embroidery was selected as bridal attire by Mimi Murray for her Sept. 13 marriage to Robert Lee Chaput in St. Matthew's Catholic Church. The Rev. James P. Lynch read the afternoon service in the presence of 300 guests.

The bride completed her costume with a crown of seed pearls and tiny orange blossoms holding her brief tulle veil, and carried white orchids with lilies of the valley on a satin prayer book. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Murray of 510 Havana Ave., she was given in marriage by her father.

Mrs. David Baker, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Edward Diliberto and Nada and Nadeen Rafailovich. All were gowned in white organza over Dior blue taffeta and carried baskets of white blossoms.

* * * *

THE BRIDEGROOM, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar J. Chaput, 1434 Florida St., asked Robert Morrison to serve as best man. Guests were seated by David H. Baker, David Fagan, Edward Pittberto and Douglas Wood.

A reception followed in the church hall with Mmes. Edwin Kidd, San Hansen, George Sheppard and Misses Marietta Quinn and Georgia Stapleton as hostesses.

Members of the bridal party were entertained at a wedding supper in Virginia Country Club following the church reception.

The newlyweds planned a honeymoon in La Jolla and will reside in Long Beach while both continue studies at Long Beach State College. The bridegroom is majoring in physics and is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon. The bride also attended University of Arizona

Judith Bower New Bride

Wedding vows and rings were exchanged by Judith Ann Bower and Robert George Marmion in a recent candlelight ceremony witnessed by 250 guests in Lutheran Church of the Holy Trinity. The Rev. O. C. Mees read the marriage vows.

Both young persons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boyce E. Bower, 3812 Albury Ave., and son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Marmion, 3934 Brayton Ave., and grandson of pioneer Long Beach residents, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Marmion, are graduates of Polytechnic High. He also attended Long Beach City College.

The attractive bride was accompanied to the altar by her father and wore a dress of brocaded nylon organza over taffeta with matching jacket. A Chantilly lace tiara trimmed in seed pearls and sequins held her veil and she carried white orchids with stephanotis and lilies of the valley.

* * * *

PRECEDING HER down the aisle were Mrs. Duane Bryson, matron of honor, and Judy Russell and Sue Dangberg, bridesmaids. Mrs. Bryson was gowned in yellow brocaded taffeta and the bridesmaids wore aqua satin dresses. All carried baskets of autumn-hued chrysanthemums. Georgia Bower, in yellow taffeta, was flower girl.

The bridegroom asked William Marmion to assist as best man and Edward Bower and Donald Marmion to seat guests.

A reception followed in the church social hall hostessed by Betty Stanners, Pat Murphy, Janet Bower, Nancy Marmion, Lorraine Bower and Chris Stanners. The bride's mother selected for the occasion a powder blue dress of brocaded taffeta while the bridegroom's mother was gowned in honey beige lace over taffeta.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Laguna Beach and now are residing in Long Beach.

Stine-Wrench Rite Read in Heights

At home this week in Whittier where both will continue studies at Whittier College are Long Beach newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Stine (Marilyn Jean Wrench).

The wedding ceremony uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Wrench, 3539 Gundry Ave., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip E. Stine of Long Beach, was read by Dr. James H. Hughes in California Heights Methodist Church.

The bride selected a gown of white silk organza over pale blue taffeta styled along princess lines with chapel train. The bodice of Chantilly lace was trimmed in seed pearls and sequins. Her Chantilly lace headpiece held a fingertip length veil and she carried a shower bouquet of white butterfly roses with stephanotis. She was given in marriage by her father.

Preceding the bride to the flower banked altar were her sister-in-law, Mrs. Gary D. Wrench, matron of honor, Janice Foglesong Buxton, bridesmaid, and the bridegroom's sister, Phyllis Stine, junior bridesmaid. All wore gowns of pale blue embroidered sateen and carried baskets of white pompon chrysanthemums.

Candles were lighted by the twin sister and brother of the bridegroom, Jane and Ray Stine.

Paul Aschenburger was selected as best man and Thomas Winegar, Bernie Berger and Gary Wrench ushered.

A reception followed in the church social hall with Janet Dorrans recording names of the 250 wedding guests. Hostesses were Elizabeth Kirk, Elizabeth Kahler, Mrs. William Sippel, Mrs. L. J. Wrench of Alhambra and Mrs. S. L. McMillen of Chanute, Kan.

Both young persons were graduated from Polytechnic High School and the bridegroom also attended LBCC. She is a member of the Palmer Society and Home Economics Club on the Whittier Campus and he is a member of Lancer Society.

AMONG CAREER WOMEN

Will Assume Duties Friday

By ANNE GILCHRIST

Harriett Wallick (secretary in the offices of Attorney Everett Miller) will conduct her first formal meeting as president of Long Beach Legal Secretaries Assn. when members convene for the initial dinner meeting of the new season Friday at the Hawaiian Restaurant.

Commissioner Harry M. Hunt of Long Beach Superior Court will be guest speaker. He will discuss,

Harriett Wallick
—Louise Studio

among other things, points in connection with legal filings to assist secretaries in some of the intricate office procedures encountered in their work.

Governor Ruth Stuart of San Pedro will report on proceedings during the state board of governors meeting conducted last month at Santa Rosa.

Doris Anderson will be hostess for the executive board meeting Sept. 29 in her home, 220 Mira Mar Ave.

Altrusa Club

Stressing Altrusa International's goal of reaching a strength of 1000 clubs by the end of this year, the local Altrusa Club's dinner meeting at the Lafayette Hotel recently was, in part, a workshop conducted by Myrtle Seiler, membership chairman. President Louise Dixon officiated.

A pert back to school decorations theme was used by Ethlyn Johnson, assisted by Odette Gulley. An informal song session, conducted by Irene Trepanier and Marie Wood with Joyce Jacoubowski at the piano, opened the meeting.

* * * *

USING AN information chart prepared by Dr. Ethel West, Mrs. Seiler briefed Altrusans on the rigid requirements for membership, reviewed classifications, the importance of committee work for new members and, in particular, recognition of special abilities and achievements.

Betty Grobaty, program coordinator, presented an outline of plans for the year, discussing at length the biggest project, a tea dansant on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 19 at the Lafayette under direction of Helen Smith, chairman. Proceeds from this major fund raising affair will go to aid local health work and further assist the Psychiatric Clinic in treatment of children referred by the Juvenile Bureau.

Lakewood-Atlantic Soroptimists

Lakewood-Atlantic Soroptimist Club, among groups which have aided in the development of the Lakewood Community Center, had Mrs. Ann Howe as guest speaker at its Tuesday luncheon meeting at Lakewood Country Club. Mrs. Howe, one of the earliest, most energetic proponents of the center, explained progress of the worthwhile project.

Dedicated in May of this year, she told how greatly both junior and senior high school students have already benefited by participation. There are now approximately 500 members and by fall of 1959 it is expected the membership will reach about 1500. Mrs. Howe stressed the importance of clean, healthful pursuits for teenagers during the transition period from the junior high age into the senior high level; a time when the youngster is neither a little child nor advanced teenager. It is a critical age and one which needs special attention. The speaker said one of the ultimate satisfactions a community can have is knowing it has provided a place, like the Lakewood Youth Center, for its youth, where careful supervision and good times go hand in hand.

P-T.A. Council Opens Its Year's Activity

Long Beach Council of Parents and Teachers began its year's work last week at an executive board session in Burroughs School Auditorium with Mrs. D. A. Loucks as its presiding officer.

Mrs. Loucks, a graduate of Long Beach schools, has a son and daughter who are inspiration for the 15 years she has given to P-T.A. work. Beginning as a room mother, she became president of Starr King Elementary P-T.A.; sixth vice president of Long Beach Council; printing chairman, and served two years as northwest area director before being elected to the presidency.

* * * *

SHE IS an active member of First Baptist Church and is affiliated with Mar Vista Chapter 511, Order of Eastern Star, and North Long Beach Women's Club.

Mrs. Loucks' agenda for the first meeting included presentation of safety awards to units by Dr. Warren Boring, chairman of the School Safety Committee of Long Beach Safety Council; approval of the year's budget; final plans for the Football Carnival Sept. 27 in Memorial Stadium, and announcements from officers and chairmen concerning Sept. 23 roundtables at First Methodist Church.

Fall Meetings Resume Tuesday at Goodwill

Only five days back in Long Beach after an extended trip to Europe, Mrs. Stephen Hemmi is summoning members of the Woman's Auxiliary to Goodwill Industries to the first meeting of the fall season Tuesday at 11 a.m.

The gathering in Cassill Chapel will open with a devotional thought presented by Mrs. Carl Brenner.

Mrs. Ezra Garrett, chairman of the doll committee, will make a report, and Walter L. Case, executive secretary, will give a progress report and discuss future plans of the Goodwill Industries. Mrs. Bess Bulgin, executive secretary of the auxiliary and personnel director of Goodwill, will also report.

After introduction by Mrs. Raesella Klepper, program chairman, Mrs. Robert Yarger will talk on "The Touch of His Hand."

Final arrangements will be announced for the fifth annual friendship tea of the auxiliary Tuesday, Sept. 30, in First Congregational Church.

Meet Wednesday

McKinley Auxiliary 27, United Spanish War Veterans, will meet Wednesday in Veterans Memorial Bldg. Noon pot luck luncheon will be followed by a business session with Frances Dowd presiding.

DECEMBER VOWS

Popular Jordan High graduates Barbara Kathleen Honan, daughter of the William J. Robinsons, and George James Lauer, son of the George John Lauers, are revealing their betrothal and plans to wed in December. The bride-elect was active in school choral work; her fiance, an honorary Kappa Sigma Chi, earned his letter in varsity football and was a member of Key Club.

Nazareth Shrine

A ceremonial is scheduled by Nazareth Shrine 8, Order of the White Shrine of Jerusalem, at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Morgan Hall. Mrs. Gladys Jordan, worthy high priestess, and Arnold Mueller, watchman of shepherds, will preside. Mrs. Florence Martin is in charge of refreshments.

Bazaar Sewing

Mrs. H. L. Penney, 7037 El Paseo, will be hostess Thursday at 10:30 a.m. when members of the Ladies of the Fleet Reserve Auxiliary meet for bazaar sewing. Members are to bring a finished article or a donation for the forthcoming bazaar and county fair in December.

MOLLY MAYFIELD

Family Spurns Her Lover

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD: My parents refuse even to meet my boy friend. And for the stupidest reason—because he's a stranger.

This summer I met a boy from the city who is working here in my home town. We had to date secretly. We know all about each other, our interests, likes and dislikes. We love each other now and just hate to sneak out to date.

I've tried to talk to my parents but they just don't understand. We don't want to cheapen our love by sneaking around. It's beautiful enough to be out in the open.

FORCED TO SNEAK

DEAR FORCED TO SNEAK:

Real homey, your folks. Being a stranger they "take him not in." It's neither Biblically nor traditionally recommended.

If you call them on it sometime by having him come to the house, wouldn't they be hospitable? Also, see that he meets more of your friends and relatives — so he won't be a "stranger," after all.

M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Four years ago I met this wonderful young lady. We went together for two years, sharing the joys and troubles of young love. Our interests and ideals were the same. We were deeply in love, and wanted to be married but agreed it would be better if I fulfilled my military obligation first. So, I volunteered and was sent overseas.

We wrote daily about our coming marriage and how wonderful it would be. My time was just about up, and I was due to be sent home when it happened. I got T. B. Need I say more? I thought it could never happen to me, but it did. Now she won't have a thing to do with me.

She sends all my letters back unopened. To her, I'm just something to forget.

Sure, yesterday is gone — but what will tomorrow be?

ALONE

DEAR ALONE:

Let me tell you this much, that tomorrow is going to be a lot better for you, "Alone," as you call yourself, than it would have been with a girl who had such shallow affection.

Don't you realize that anyone who would break off so easily, with no hopeful words to spare, could scarcely have enriched your future? If she is the type she seems all I can say is, lucky, lucky, you.

M. M.

Major & Minor Notes

By RACHEL MORTON

As I browsed about among the booths at the Laguna Festival of Arts last summer, I came upon an exhibit of marine paintings which I thought were outstandingly fine. Indeed, in the whole exhibit there was only one artist whose work was even comparable and that was the painting of Burt Proctor.

In expressing my great admiration, I found that I was talking to the artist himself, Bennett Bradbury, a handsome man of 44. As we talked I learned of his interesting musical background. So, at his invitation, we recently visited him in his charming home in San Juan Capistrano.

High up on a hill overlooking the distant mountains we came upon what was once a farm house. Inside, however, it became the loveliest of modern homes; modern that is in comfort and decor, but filled with the most exquisite objets d'art dating back to an old Pompeian head done in marble.

There was a beautiful old Tudor chest elaborately carved, a Hindu group carved in silver within a frame; a lovely gallery table made of inlaid woods, a soft grey table of oak from Provence with carved decoration.

* * * *

ON THE BURLED walnut grand piano from Germany stood a fascinating carved figure made in Mexico long years ago which Mr. Bradbury called "Santa" or Saint. It was of wood, painted in black and gold leaf. SO many beautiful things there were in that little house. One felt at once the artistic soul of the dweller therein.

And here is a paradox! Bennett Bradbury, until he was 27 was seriously considering a musical career. And with good reason, when one considers his background. His grandfather was Alwin Schroeder, the famous cellist who for 35 years was solo cellist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Born in Germany of an illustrous father, Herman Schroeder, also a cellist, he conducted the Gewandhaus Orchestra in Leipzig before coming to America. He was a member of the famous Kneisel String Quartet and he founded the equally famous Flontzaly String Quartet. Retiring from the Boston Symphony he toured as cello soloist with such famous singers as Melba and Alma Gluck. A very fine life-size oil painting of Alwin Schroeder, with his cello, hangs conspicuously on one wall of the living room.

MUSIC WAS strong in the blood of this man's progeny. One daughter, Hedwig Schroeder, taught for many years at the New England Conservatory of Music, and it was from her that Bennett Bradbury had his first piano instruction. His mother, Alfreda, was a very fine singer. She studied with the great Mathilda Marchesi in Paris and sang leading roles with the Boston Opera Company. It is little wonder then that young Bennett, born near Boston, should be highly gifted artistically. While he was still in high school he won a four year scholarship at the Boston School of Fine Arts. But after only two years there the Navy claimed him for six years in Asiatic service. The Orient influenced greatly his cultural taste although his paintings are mostly marine.

Back in America he worked seriously at becoming a concert pianist and a composer. Had not a new job intervened at this time we might have had in Bennett Bradbury a great musician instead of a great painter. But Walt Disney offered him a job as assistant director of special effects animation. This drawing experience lasted for five years.

At the end of that time he sent 16 canvasses to an exhibit in Pasadena and sold all 16 of them! That decided it! The world of music lost a great pianist and the world of art gained a great painter. I have seen his superb marine paintings and I also heard him play one of his own compositions. If he is mostly self-taught, as he says, then we have indeed lost a great talent.

But there is one consolation—a pianist's music is gone with the playing but the pigment put onto a canvas endures for generations. As I talked with this talented man I thought of that other genius with two great gifts, the great painter of portraits, John Sargent, who also was a piano virtuoso.

Bennett Bradbury, like most artists, loves pets. Two sleek cats dozed in the patio chairs and "Sheba" the lovable dog sat by her master's side adoring him with her eyes. How akin to great art is the warm heart known so well to dumb creatures!

Date Told for Auditions by Leading Music Students

Plans for the annual student musician's competition held each year by the Long Beach Symphony Assn. were completed recently by the audition committee.

Date of the auditions is announced for Feb. 8, 1959 in the music building of Long Beach State College.

Entry blanks are being distributed this week through schools, studios, libraries and music stores.

Arthur Carah is committee chairman, assisted by Mrs. Gerald D. Kint. Mrs. Howard Coy will arrange for judges, and Nicolas Furjanick is general advisor to the committee.

In charge of the contest divisions are Miss Marie Lyman, piano; Mrs. Roy H. Wolfers, voice; Miss Ruth Grant, violin, and Mrs. Kint, wind section.

* * * *

PERSONS INTERESTED in helping enrich the music life of Long Beach by contributing to the fund which makes possible the student musicians competition are invited to call Mrs. John O. McDonald, executive secretary, 5336 Appian Way.

The competition has brought national recognition to Long Beach through its scholarship program for young artists. First place winners in four divisions are presented as soloists with the orchestra and given cash to further their education.

Between 30 and 40 contestants compete annually, and winners appearance with the orchestra is a major step to recognition.

Orchestras and schools throughout the United States as well as such international music gatherings as the Casals Festival include winners from the past 20 years of Long Beach Symphony contests.

In addition to public spirited music lovers who contribute to audition funds, local service clubs give generous cooperation.

Tickets are now available for the 1958-59 season of five concerts by the Long Beach Symphony under direction of Lauris Jones. They may be obtained from Mrs. Richard A. Matlock, 1560 Ramillo Ave. Opening concert will be Sunday, Nov. 2, in Long Beach City College auditorium.

Discussion Groups for Adults Slated

A 10-session course, "Introduction to the Humanities" will begin in Long Beach Oct. 1 as one of the many adult discussion groups of UCLA's university extension in Southern California.

John Nicholson of Long Beach and San Pedro will lead the discussion group each Wednesday evening in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Robert L. Buffum, 25 10th Pl. Nicholson received his BA degree in fine arts and design from the Chicago Art Institute, and his master's degree from Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene, Texas. He is a member of the American Institute of Decorators.

* * * *

PERSONS WISHING to enroll in the class may obtain further information from Mrs. Buffum or from Nicholson at Frank Bros. The two-hour discussion periods will cover such fields as literature, music, architecture, poetry and painting.

Color slides will be used in the advanced discussion course, "The Emergence of Modern Painting" offered Wednesdays beginning Oct. 8 at the Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd. Alan Lynch, MA in fine arts, Mexico City College, and art historian, will be discussion leader. Additional information may be obtained from the Museum of Art.

'Small Planet' Readings Set

Tryouts for "A Visit to a Planet" by Gore Vidal are announced for Monday at 7:30 p.m. by Long Beach Community Playhouse.

Art May, chairman of the casting comittee, announced that the new play has been released to the Playhouse for opening on Nov. 14, its first showing in a little theater.

Roles are that of the visitor from outer space popularized by Cyril Ritchard, a second planetary visitor, a middleaged husband and wife of affluence, their modern daughter and her lover, an American general and his aide, and two telephone technicians.

Gielgud to Tour U.S.

Sir John Gielgud, British star absent from these shores eight years, is planning a cross-country fall tour in his Shakespearean anthology, "The Ages of Man."

Myriad Activity in Art Realm

"Good Fashions — What Women Should Wear" will be the theme of a fashion design show by Marjorie Vanderlip opening with a reception from 2 to 4 p.m. Sept. 27 in the Dana Branch library, 3680 Atlantic Ave. The reception is open to the public.

Miss Vanderlip will display 20 fashion sketches, many of them couturier designs, together with advertising copy and layouts. She will answer questions on fashions and will discuss clothes and accessories for various types of figures.

MARJORIE VANDERLIP

The exhibit will remain in Dana library through Oct. 15.

Miss Vanderlip, 1123 E. Ocean Blvd., taught costume design and fashion illustration at Chouinard Art Institute and the University of Hawaii. She was editor and publisher of California Stylist Magazine and developed it into a world-wide trade publication. She was designer and sketch artist for Paramount Pictures, Warner Bros. and MGM, and couturier designer for Don Loper and Tiana Pittelle of Honolulu. She edited and sketched a full-length book on fashions for John Leslie Productions. The book included everything pertaining to women's fashions from clothes to make-up, hair styles and accessories. She has lectured on television on the importance of fashion and correct styles.

THEIR IDEA THE BEST

For originating Twill and Twirl, the jester personalities present at every Long Beach Children's Theatre performance, the local group won the silver trophy displayed above by Mrs. Douglas McFarland, Children's Theatre president. Presentation was made at national convention in Seattle. Mrs. J. Allen Sprague portrays Twirl. Twill, diminutive counterpart, was still in Seattle exhibit when picture was taken.—(Staff photo.)

Children's Theatre Is Top Award Winner

Proud possessor of the Charlotte Chorpenning award cup is the Long Beach Children's Theatre. The silver engraved trophy was presented at the recent annual national convention of children's theater groups in Seattle, Wash.

The trophy is awarded to the theater group whose convention exhibit best exemplifies the theme of the year. This season the theme, "Our Very Own Idea," gave the Long Beach Children's Theatre an opportunity to explain its pixie personalities, Twill and Twirl, who greet children at performances, teach them good theater manners and sing with them.

For several years Mrs. J. Allen Sprague has portrayed Twirl. On her hand perches the puppet, Twill, dressed identically, who entrances his audience with flashing eyes and bells that jingle from his jester hat.

Twill and Twirl were introduced in 1951 and have entertained thousands of Long Beach children who annually attend Chidren's Theatre performances.

The convention display featured a cutout model of Twirl holding Twill and a giant scrapbook explaining their theatrical duties.

Committee responsible for the exhibit was composed of Mmes. William V. Artman, Ray O. Gould Jr., C. Frederic McKinney and Misses Charlotte and Kay Shuman.

The award was established in memory of Charlotte Chorpenning who was a children's theater director at the Goodman School of the Theatre in Chicago. She adapted the majority of classical fairy tales to play form.

School Menus

Tasty Fare for Students

The following menus will be served in Long Beach Elementary Schools in the week of Sept. 22-26:

MONDAY: Hot dog, garden peas, fruit gelatin, ½ cheese slice and milk.

TUESDAY: Italian spaghetti, mixed vegetables, tomato wedges, peanut butter sandwich and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Hot meat loaf, mashed potatoes with gravy, chilled cantaloupe, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

THURSDAY: Chili beans, buttered fresh carrots, applesauce, cornbread and butter and milk.

FRIDAY: Macaroni and cheese, green beans, fruit cup royale, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

The above items make up the elementary children's lunch, 25c. Soup and salad from the junior-senior high school a la carte menu are sold in the elementary schools, but they may be purchased by the children only after they have purchased the tray lunch.

MONDAY: Spaghetti, southern style, cut green beans, fruit gelatin salad, peanut butter sandwich and milk.

TUESDAY: Chopped steak on mashed potatoes, peas, fresh plums, egg salad sandwich and milk.

WEDNESDAY: lasagne, whole kernel corn, garden salad with egg garnish, toasted French bread and milk.

THURSDAY: Hamburger with pickle chip, potato salad, chilled cantaloupe and milk.

FRIDAY: Baked haddock or Mexicali pie, mixed vegetables, tomato wedges, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

Something for the Boys

Clowns on Street—Is Circus in Town?

By TED KREC

A letter just received from a reader in Wilmington points out something that even I, a constant crank on the subject of men dressing properly, have failed to notice.

My correspondent says that it's pretty discouraging to go to church on Sunday mornings and see men who have the audacity to pass the collection plate while garbed in unclean "tail-out" shirts cut so low that the churchgoers can see the hair on the villains' chests.

Furthermore, this writer says, too many women attend church with bandannas tied on their heads when the rule should be "best outfit always" for church.

"I have long since become thoroughly disgusted with the sloppy attire of Southern California," my reader continues, "not only by the men, but the women as well. From my window in the business district I am in a position to observe the clientele of a business across the street, and I'm telling you I wouldn't even want to be seen within my home or yard in the clothes they wear (or don't wear) into that public business office. I am actually ashamed for them. What a terrible impression these people must give to people of discernment who are visiting Southern California.

* * * *

"YOU COULD walk up and down streets day in and day out and I'll wager you would never find one well-turned-out woman. Hats are absolutely taboo, and if a lady should wear gloves, she's considered 'snooty.'"

All of which brings us to the topic for today's column—people who frequent the streets, stores and business offices while dressed like freaks.

I have been working in this newspaper office for more than 10 years now, and let me tell you, friends, I think I've seen 'em all!

Of course, a good number of the comical characters who parade in and out of a newspaper office are odd-ball publicity seekers who affect bizarre garb merely to attract attention for their particular causes.

But many of them are ordinary, good citizens who should know better than to run downtown without dressing up.

It's true—when you visit a strange city and drive through, what do you notice? The stores, buildings and parks, yes—but the people, too! What must it seem like to a stranger to ask directions from one of these ice-cream-cone-sucking apparitions we see lounging around on our street corners and attired in those goofy, flowered, open-neck shirts? It certainly does nothing for our civic dignity.

I think I've mentioned this before, but when I visited Mexico City I was gratified to see that it just is not proper for a man to be out on the street without a coat.

* * * *

IT'S THAT way in all the important cities—New York, Philadelphia, Boston, San Francisco. In many of the big business offices in the East, when the thermometer soars (and it soars a heck of a lot higher than it does here), the men will remove their jackets in the office—even then they wear neat white shirts and ties. But when a man goes out on the street, he wears his coat. And please don't hand me that jazz about it being too hot. When it's hot, it's hot—and a little suit coat isn't going to make that much difference.

The women, too, are guilty of this same type thing. A friend here in the office reports seeing many women in stores trying on fur stoles while attired in pedal pushers or shorts. How can they tell what the fur will look like? A fur is one of the most formal pieces of apparel women can wear. It looks great over shorts! And, my friend says, she's seen women in stores shopping for clothes and nothing will look good on them. Then, she says, these gals will go home, put on the proper foundation garments, return and look like a mililon dollars in practically everything in the store!

As I said before, we've seen 'em all in this office. People come in to give you a serious piece of news — and it's hard to keep from laughing when they're dressed like clowns.

But they're comfortable, some diehards will say. To which I reply: "Baloney!" A person can't be comfortable if he knows he looks like a goof. Psychologists always tell us that when we feel our worst we should dress our best—it gives us a lift.

Try it the next time you go down town.

Cards Monday

Good Sports Club of Long Beach will sponsor a noon luncheon and card party Monday in Mottell's and Peek Garden Room with the public welcome. Proceeds will benefit the Indoor Sports.

Hear Classics Again, Again

Classics can stand repeated hearing. The Long Beach Public Library suggests these new LPs for your listening.

They represent music from the 18th to the 20th century. Bach, "Concerto in D Minor for Two Violins and Orchestra" (Kogan and Elizabeth Gilels violinists); Barber, "Concerto for Violin and Orchestra" with Vaughan Williams, "Concerto Academico"; Beethoven, "Nine Symphonies" (the Toscanini collection).

Dvorak, "Concerto in A Minor for Violin and Orchestra" (Milstein, violin); Kabalevsky, "Symphony No. 4" (composer conducts) and Mozart, "Quintet in E Flat Major for Horn" with Rust, "Sonata for Viola" (solos played by members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra).

All recordings may be borrowed for two-week periods from the Main Library.

Installation Set by Sorority

Eta Pi Chapter of Kappa Delta Phi will stage installation of officers Sept. 30 in the Palos Verdes Estate home of Mrs. John L. Sainsevain, 2404 Via Riviera.

New officers, headed by Elaine Brogan, president, are Doris Robertson, vice president; Doris Moss, secretary; Rosalie Barker, treasurer; Joanna Caldwell, mistress of ceremonies; Della Camm, historian; Nancy Hanania, monitor; Barbara Vatter, guard; Doris Robertson, Jolene Decker and Margie Jensen, board of directors.

Luncheon will follow at Marineland Restaurant.

Hard Luck Is Too Much for Bidder

Hard luck Joe is usually cheerful and happy when the dummy hits the table. He beamed and said, "Nice bidding, partner!"

The play started out simply enough. Joe went up with dummy's ace and cashed his ace and king of spades discarding a club from dummy.

Now he was ready to start ruffing out losers. He ruffed the three of spades low, returned to his hand with the ace of clubs and ruffed the nine of clubs with dummy's six spot.

At this point, the roof fell on him. East overruffed with the queen and led another trump. Now Joe had to lose his queen of clubs and the contract.

As usual Joe had hard luck and as usual Joe could have avoided the hard luck by proper play.

Once the ace of clubs held he had a spectacularly, but completely safe way of playing out the hand to make his slam. He should have ruffed the nine of clubs with dummy's ace of trumps. Then back to his own hand by ruffing a diamond with the king of trumps.

Now he would ruff his queen of clubs with dummy's six spot and concede a trick to the queen of trumps.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

Speaking of Big Decisions--

By MILDRED FLANARY
I.P-T Home Economics Editor

Decisions—big decisions come hard at best for any of us . . . but the decision as to whether or not your own home should be bombed, is as rare as it is horrible. Such was the position in which today's Chef of the Week, Dr. Manuel (Mike) Mayuga, found himself. It's one of the most unusual wartime stories ever told.

Dr. Mayuga, now principal geologist in the Long Beach Harbor, did while serving as a target intelligence officer with the U. S. Army Air Corps during World War II, plot the destruction of his own home. At staff headquarters of Gen. George C. Kenny at Leyte, Capt. Mayuga was called upon to designate military target areas from aerial photos taken at the battlegrounds in Manila. His family home, he knew, was in the strategic enemy installation area and should be bombed. All the nostalgia of happy boyhood memories; all the love he had for his family, came to the fore. Nevertheless, his training and his loyalty to country staunchly stood him well. The area was demolished.

* * * *

THERE IS a happy ending to our story, however, for his decision to bomb was right. The Japanese HAD made an important supply center of the area, and his old family home had become their headquarters. But his father, brother and several sisters all were safe, for they had been evacuated to nearby provinces at the outbreak of hostilities. Following the liberation of Manila, there was a bang-up family reunion, you may be sure.

Born in the Phillipines, Mayuga, as a lad, planned to follow in his Dad's footsteps and become a medical doctor. He arranged his courses with pre-med in mind. At just the right time, however, a mining boom hit the Island, and overnight, he decided to become a mining engineer. So he attended the Mapua Institute of Technology in Manila, and was graduated with a degree in 1938. He took his masters degree in geology in 1940 from University of Arizona. Two years later that same university conferred on him the degree of doctor of philosophy.

At the close of the war, Dr. Mayuga became connected with the Long Beach Oil Development Co. as geologist and petroleum engineer. He moved to the Harbor Department two years later, 1948, and here he has remained. He supervises all geological work pertaining to exploration in the local harbor oil properties.

Mayuga planned and supervised the geophysical seismic survey of offshore areas in 1954 for the city. The survey revealed the extent of the vast oil pools yet undeveloped beneath the city's tidelands. It was while attending the 20th International Geological Congress in Mexico City, however, that he had the opportunity to inspect the "sinks" caused by withdrawals of water from certain areas in the city.

The year 1951, and the Korean incident, found Mayuga back in the uniform of an Air Force major. He remained on active duty at the Pentagon as Chief of Photo Intelligence Section until 1952. He presently is very active in the Air Force Reserves, and wears the insignia of a lieutenant colonel.

* * * *

IF VARIED interests make for an interesting person, our "chef" will charm you. He speaks three languages, English, Spanish and Tagalog, and has a reading proficiency in French and German. He can, and does, carry on all the advisory and active duties of a Boy Scout, being chairman of the pack and institutional representative for the John Muir School. Yet he can define, explain and declaim all the facets of subsidence in a manner even the most fuddlebrained can understand. He'll go fishing anytime or anyplace with his two sons, 12 and 10—swim with a gusto and even camp. Although camping is usually Mrs. Mayuga's idea . . . usually. As a famiy, the main hobby is collecting rocks, fossil and minerals.

A Downtown Lion (a Lion Tamer and a past veep) he is very active in the American Association of Petroleum Geology, the American Society of Photogrammetry and of the American Petroleum Institute. He also teaches a night class at Long Beach State.

Extremely consistant . . . he indulges in the same level-headedness at home as he does at the harbor . . . but his cooking propensities are rather nebulous. His recipe today is Chicken Adobo.

CHICKEN ADOBO
1 3-lb. chicken fryer
½ cup vinegar
1 clove garlic
½ bay leaf
2 cups water
Salt and pepper to taste

Clean the chicken and cut into pieces. Add salt, minced garlic and pepper to chicken. Place in kettle and add bay leaf, vinegar and water. Cover and let simmer until the liquid has practically evaporated. Add one-half of one cube of butter and fry until golden brown. Serve hot with chive garnish.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Children Get Bored at Meals, Say 'No'

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Though it may seem impossible, it is true that eating gets to be a bore to children. They haven't the self-consciousness that adults have of eating for nourishment. They also develop temporary likes and dislikes which bother the parent.

Having discovered that they don't want vegetables, they use their all-powerful, no, turn their faces away, spit out any put in their mouths and completely thwart the parent.

Right now Mrs. F. U.'s little 2-year-old says when he sees a vegetable, "no vegetable," and heretofore he has loved them. "If I put them on his plate," writes his mother, "he throws them on the floor.

* * * *

"IN FACT he has come to use, 'no sleepy,' and 'no bath,' as well as 'no vegetables,' as an effective way to stymie me. He's quite a little man otherwise and what worries me is whether this refusal of vegetables will upset his good nutrition?"

No, it won't. Vegetables do have valuable minerals and vitamins, some of them have good proteins and some are high in carbohydrate. But you can substitute for all of these elements.

Milk, eggs, cheese, nuts, gelatine, all are high in protein so don't worry that he isn't getting that element in peas and beans.

He probably eats lots of bread and butter, crackers, cookies, cereals and maybe potatoes and bananas, all of which are carbohydrates.

Fruits are rich in minerals and vitamins and during this period when he is nursing his dislike for vegetables, just double the quantity of fruits, both raw and cooked, which he gets, and you'll have provided all the elements lost in the vegetables.

This "no" period is a good time to show the child that you respect some of his decisions. This frees him from the necessity to keep on being a "no" person, just because he has no exercise in the privilege of choice. But when he has to go to bed or have a bath—just see that he does. All children go through this between 2 and 4—and happily, if treated rightly, they outgrow it.

LONG BEACH STATE COLLEGE EVENTS
by PLACER MINER

The "tens" have it as Long Beach State College classes begin tomorrow morning. A total of 10,000 students (round numbers) are enrolled as the college begins its tenth year.

And Ol' Placer Miner ventures the opinion that there will be 10,000 times ten sighs—or worse—of frustration, as auto-riding seekers of knowledge seek also for that little parking spot that isn't there. For this is the time of the year when, seemingly, half the cars in Southern California try to park on our campus.

A VARIETY OF OFFERINGS get the LBSC activities calendar off to a fine start this week.

One is the "Hello Dance" in the patio of the cafeteria on Friday night. This traditional event honors new students, and the accent will be on getting better acquainted. School clothes will be the proper attire, and The Refreshments Combo plays for dancing which begins at 9 p. m. Something new will high light this year's festivities: the crowning of Freddie and Fanny Frosh, two first-year students chosen at last Wednesday's freshman outing.

Earlier that same day, students will gather in the year's first pep assembly. Purpose is to give the LBSC footballers an enthusiastic send-off for their Saturday night game at Sacramento. The new State band will play, cheer leaders and song girls will cavort, of course, and a jazz concert by the Lighthouse All-Stars will climax the show.

THE FOLLOWING NIGHT, in the college dining room, more than 125 beaming sorority pledges will make their LBSC debut at the annual Panhellenic Presents Ball. Girls from State's six sororities—Delta Gamma has arrived on the scene since you last heard from us—will be presented in their respective reception lines. Dancing will follow, and traditionally, the first dance is reserved exclusively for the new pledges and their partners.

Moving from the future back to the present, we note this afternoon at the Silver Saddle Inn in Downey, Omega Alpha Delta, professional women's honorary (and a real live wire outfit) initiates its social season with a rush luncheon.

Dear Abby

Do Kids Wear Lipstick?

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a man who was married once before.

He has two children by his first wife and he is crazy about them. Now I love my husband, Abby, and I think he loves me as much, but he goes to his first wife's house twice a week. He says he goes there to see his children, but he doesn't come home until way past midnight and when he gets home he has lipstick on his face and clothes. He swears there is nothing between him and his first wife. Should I believe him?

ABBY

—SECOND WIFE

DEAR SECOND: If the kids are old enough to wear lipstick—believe him!

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a fellow, 19, who just bought a used car with my own money. Every time my mother rides in it she checks the ashtrays to see if I have been smoking. I do not smoke, but many of my friends do and I can't empty the ashtrays constantly to remove the evidence. When I tell my mother that the cigarettes were smoked by my friends and not me, she doesn't believe me. Smoking is greatly condemned in our home. How can I get my mother to believe me? —ACCUSED

DEAR ACCUSED: If you are truthful in all other matters your word should be good enough.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a man who has had only an eighth grade education. I married a woman who graduated from college. Our marriage is as good as most of them, but my wife never lets me forget that she is smarter than I am. What can a man in my position do?

—UNEDUCATED

DEAR UNEDUCATED: Your wife may have had more schooling than you—but she is not smarter than you. If she were—she'd never let you know it.

Real Estate and BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Local Realtors Pushing 'Buy Home First' Drive

With the advent of fall, the Long Beach Board of Realtors is stepping up the tempo of its "Buy a Home — First" campaign, Larry Miller, president, announced.

Joining the move among members of the National Assn. of Real Estate Boards throughout the nation, realtors locally will stress the advantages of home ownership during the coming months when families in most sections of the country start spending more time indoors, he explained.

Activities of the campaign will include advertising, display of posters and window stickers, distribution of helpful pamphlets to the public, and National Home Week and open house throughout the area.

* * * *

"NO OTHER PURCHASE will bring you more lasting pleasure and security than a home," Miller said in explaining why the average American should "Buy a Home—First."

"Your home is the place—perhaps the one place in the world—where you can be you," he added. "You check the face you show to the world, if you wish, at the front door. In your home, bounded only by the law and the normal courtesies of neighborliness, you do what you want to when you want to.

"For example, what's your hobby? Collecting and playing bongo drums?" he asked half facetiously to illustrate his point. "Put some insulation in the game room and go to it. Making ceramic tile in the oven? Fine, it's your oven. Collecting and hanging surrealistic art? Where are your hammer and nails? Your walls are all around."

* * * *

MILLER LISTED several other advantages of home ownership:

1. The security of home purchase as an investment is proverbial. Real estate values, more than any others, hold their own whether it is the day of the declining dollar or the era of hard money. With the growing population and the fixed supply of land, if you choose your property wisely, there is only one long-range way for real estate value to go—up!

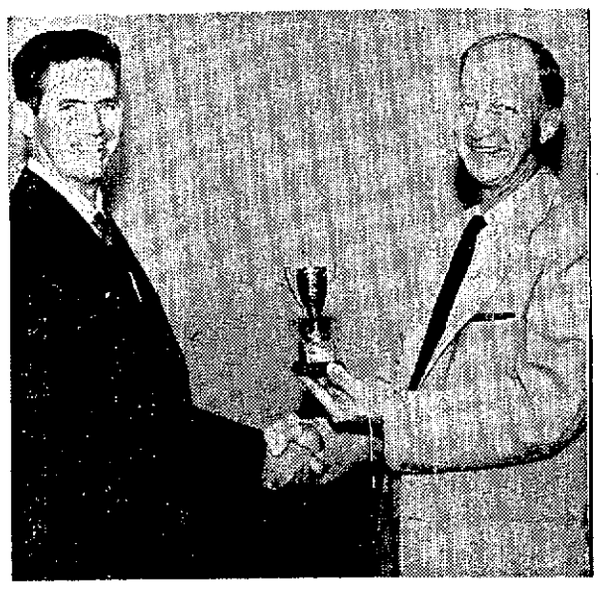

Home purchase should be the cornerstone of your investment program. Your down payment represents your equity in the property, and as you make the monthly payments — just like monthly savings account deposits—you increase that equity at the same time you are enjoying your home.

* * * *

2. A HOME is an unselfish contribution to your children. Few will deny that children develop best in areas in which there are more baseball diamonds than pool halls and in the company of friends they make early in life. A residential neighborhood of homes is where these desirable conditions flourish best.

3. Both you and the community benefit from home ownership. You become better citizens and feel better if, after you buy your home, you become active in the P-T.A., the neighborhood improvement association, or the Red Cross.

"In purchasing your home," Milled advised, "use the same common sense you do in the purchase of any other item—consider the reputation of the merchant. In real estate, realtors have reputations for technical skill, integrity based on the golden rule, and professional standards of customer consideration. A realtor is not just any real estate broker but a member of the Long Beach Board of Realtors and of the National Assn. of Real Estate Boards. By this affiliation he is pledged to conduct his business in accord with a strict code of ethics."

SALESMAN OF MONTH

Dwayne Van Lizzen, winner of the Salesman of the Month Award of the Long Beach Board of Realtors, receives his trophy from Hilbert Adema, chairman of the multiple listing committee. Each month a multiple listing sales contest is conducted by the board. Van Lizzen, who lives at 54 W. 51st St., works with Joe Hodge, Realtor, 1433 South St.

FHA Sets Record Month in This Area

The Los Angeles Insuring Office of the Federal Housing Administration had a banner month for August, according to figures released by Director Norman M. Lyon.

A total of 7111 home mortgage applications were received and 5,971 home insurance commitments were issued. The total of commitments issued exceeded any previous month and was only 102 behind the record-setting July for applications received. It was far ahead of the business for August 1957, when 2,664 cases were taken in and 2,506 were issued; and it likewise exceeded by more than double the figures of the previous heavy year of 1956 for the same month.

* * * *

INSURED CASES JUMPED, according to Director Lyon, to 1,541,400 more than July 1958 and double August 1957. The intake for the Los Angeles Office of FHA (which includes all of Southern California with the exception of San Diego and Imperial Counties) for the months of June, July and August 1958, for both existing and proposed construction homes, was 20,341 as compared with the figure for those three months of the previous year 1957, with a total of 6,988, nearly trebling the intake for those months this year over last year. Also, the commitments issued for those months in 1958 totalled 16,582 versus a total of 5,852 for the same period in 1957.

"With the passage of the Supplemental Appropriation Bill the end of last month, Commissioner Mason took immediate steps to aid the Los Angeles Office in processing this remarkable increase in business," Director Lyon stated.

* * * *

"WE WERE ALLOTTED 11 additional employes, again permitted to use overtime, and given an increased allotment for per diem personnel. We now have 30 of these working in the Los Angeles jurisdiction and are using overtime on Saturdays and evenings," he further stated. The Los Angeles Office, it was reported, continues to lead the nation in intake and outgo of all of the 75 offices of the FHA and has increased its participation in the over-all business to between 8 and 9 per cent of the entire national business.

"With the steps taken by the Washington Office to assist us in processing and with further relief indicated by assignment of more employees, we are hopeful that the Los Angeles Office will be able to give the speedy processing of 2 to 3 weeks, to which the users of the FHA insurance method are accustomed from this office, in a short period," Lyon concluded.

More Investment Classes Are Set

The Spring classes on the fundamentals of investing conducted by Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis, 201 East 4th St., Long Beach, were so successful and the demand so great for more that it was announced by Howard Booth, manager, a new series will commence Thursday evening, 7:30 p.m., Sept. 25.

The investment banking firm will stage six weekly Thursday classes the features of which will be: "How to Read the Financial Pages of Newspapers;" "How Stocks Are Bought and Sold;" "How to Choose the Right Stocks" and "How to Plan an Investment Program."

"These classes are absolutely free to the public and it is suggested that advance reservations be made to insure being accommodated," Booth stated.

New Battery Assembly Used in Anaheim Plant

The Delco-Remy Division of General Motors has demonstrated a new development in the automotive storage battery field at Anaheim—the complete mechanization of assembly operations in the manufacture of batteries.

On hand to view the newly completed facilities at the Division's Delco Battery plant in Anaheim were automotive magazine representatives and business news writers, along with officials of Delco-Remy and General Motors' United Motors Service Division, distributors of Delco Batteries throughout the United States.

J. H. Bolles, director of engineering and sales for Delco-Remy, termed the new facilities "the answer to a long felt need in the industry for a fast, automatically controlled, completely dependable battery assembly process." He added, "To the car owner, the benefits become immediately obvious for this new manufacturing concept makes possible quality control which has been unattainable in the past."

Automatic inspection units are integrated in the "line" at strategic points. These stations check for electric resistance, search out short circuits and acid leaks and probe for other substandard components. If a defect is found, information is instantly relayed to a "memory circuit" drum and the defective or suspected battery is locked out from subsequent operations.

The unique assembly facility operates on the indexing principle. Basically, it consists of a waist-high conveyor line, above which a variety of specially constructed work stations are mounted. Battery cases are indexed along the line, pausing for exactly the needed amount of time beneath each station. All the work stations and electronic inspection stations are electrically interlocked by a maze of "memory circuits" which mastermind operation of the entire assembly process.

MARCH, England (AP)—The council of this Cambridgeshire community plans to use publicity to make tenants of municipally-owned houses pay their rent promptly. A list of defaulters will be posted outside the town hall at regular intervals.

State Retail Board Will Meet in L. A.

Directors of the California Retailers Assn., representing more than 5,000 retail stores, will convene at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles Monday to elect officers and hear reports on problems affecting the retail industry, according to Philip Corrin, vice president of Bullock's, Los Angeles, president.

Vincent D. Kennedy, managing director of the association, will report on latest developments in taxation, transportation costs and shoplifting controls. Retailer participation in various community improvement programs such as off-street parking, mass rapid transit and urban revewal is expected to come in for considerable discussion.

Legislation designed to impose reasonable charges on credit sales will be studied. Recently, California Retailers Assn. took the lead in urging adoption of legislation designed to protect the public.

In addition to concerning themselves with merchandising problems, the representatives of retailing will consider various legislative policies.

Members of the board include Harry Buffum, president of Buffum's, Long Beach and Santa Ana.

New Models of Income Units

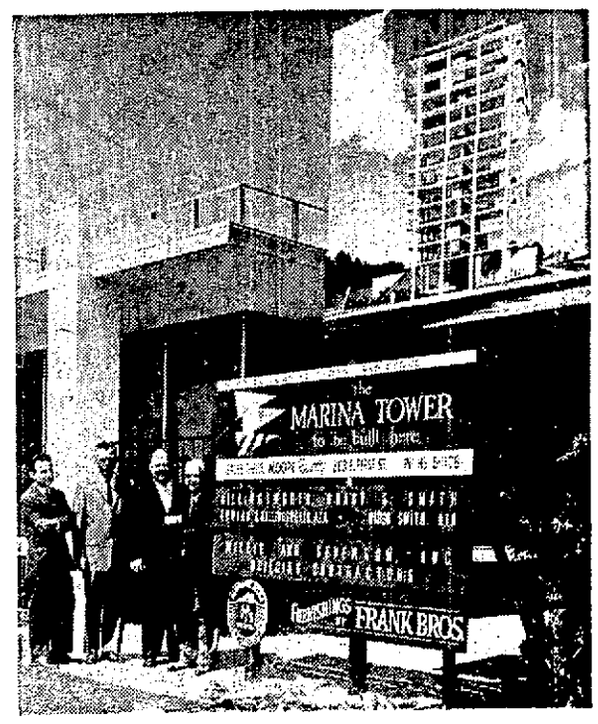

A series of new models of income units will be shown the public, starting today, by Constructive Homes, 234 S. Atlantic Blvd., Compton.

The company specializes in "on your lot" construction of income units throughout the Southland.

COMPLETE MECHANIZATION

Complete mechanization in battery building is now a reality at Delco-Remy's new plant in Anaheim. Here workers are shown roller painting the Delco name on the batteries as they travel along the assembly line. Absolute quality control is now assured at the General Motors divisional plant through the newest automation methods put into operation recently.

MODEL UNIT OPEN

Long Beach Assemblyman William S. Grant flew in from meetings in Sacramento to attend the recent opening of the Marina Tower display residence, which attracted 3,000 visitors on the opening weekend. Shown above are three officials of the development, Ed Killingsworth, Noble Millie and E. T. Moore, with Assemblyman Grant, right. Killingsworth is architect, Millie heads the building firm and Moore will direct sales of the huge own-your-own apartments on E. Ocean Blvd.

Lakewood C. C. Estates Building Shows Upswing

Lakewood Country Club Estates homesites surround and look out upon the rolling greens and beautiful fairways of the famous Lakewood Country Club 18-hole tournament golf course.

One of the very last really close-in prestige locations available, Lakewood Country Club Estate homesites afford the discriminating homebuyer a quiet, beautiful and secluded environment combined with the convenience of being close-in to the hub of business and social activity.

Gene Nebeker, exclusive sales agent for Lakewood Country Club Estates, reports that several more custom builders of large, estate type homes are making plans now to start construction immediately in Lakewood Country Club Estates in order to beat what seems to be a sure trend toward steadily increasing costs per square foot.

* * * *

IN A RECENT interview with O. J. Warren, prominent local builder, several remarks were made to the effect that "rising building costs and a general tightening of the money market should be a signal for case.

the wise investor to get his construction plans and financing arrangements underway as soon as possible."

O. J. Warren and Associates are now building or starting nine luxury, custom-type homes for prominent Long Beach business and professional people on choice homesite properties at Lakewood Country Club Estates. Located at Harvey Way and Lakewood Blvd., Lakewood Country Club Estates is easily reached from Long Beach by driving north on Lakewood to Carson and turning left at the first signal north of Carson.

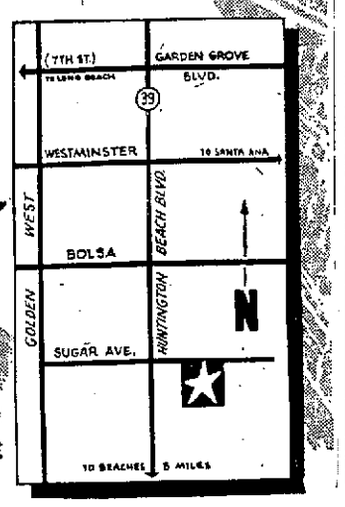

All improvements on this choice property are in and paid for and restrictions protect the investor. Terms are available and prices range from $8450 to $26,000.

Walter Havekorst Busy for Man Who Is Retired

After 36 years in a banking career, Walter B. Havekorst announced, upon retirement, that he planned to do plenty of hunting, fishing and travelling.

Enjoying such a life for two and a half months, Havekorst intends to carry on the activities. However, he has decided to add a few duties to help pass the time.

WALTER B. HAVEKORST
Becomes Man of Many Talents

Just back from an extended vacation in Northwestern United States and Canada, Havekorst has accepted a full professorship status at Long Beach State College and will teach classes in corporation credit on a part-time basis.

* * * *

AND, HAVEKORST, who was vice president and manager of Bank of America's First and Pine Branch until July 1, has passed his real estate broker's examination and received his license.

As if these two occupants weren't enough to keep a man, who is supposed to be retired, busy, he is also serving as consultant and advisor to a few business firms.

Also he recently accepted an appointment from the Mayor of Long Beach to serve on the Metropolitan Study Government Commission, further evidencing his desire to remain active in civic affairs.

* * * *

WHILE ATTENDING Kansas University, as a young man, he helped pay his way by working in the insurance field. At college he studied law and was admitted to law practice in Kansas.

With this background in both law and insurance, and 36 years of years of banking experience, he will also turn his talents to the insurance field, specializing in the group, "Major Medical," tax and pension insurance plans. In this endeavor he is re-associating himself with Frank Stivers, also a former bank officer.

Havekorst said this week that he only hopes to keep comfortably busy, "sans the pressure of deadlines," and believes this program will still leave him time for some god fishing and hunting and travelling with his wife, Margaret, as a campanion. The couple live at 790 Terraine Ave.

LOCATION BIG FACTOR

Homes in Windsor Greens, such as this model, are on large lots adjacent to Lakewood Country Club. This location has a big appeal to buyers of the luxury homes priced at $28,750 and sold for $3,975 down.

Windsor Greens Offers Luxury Living Close to Country Club

Realization of the value offered by Windsor Greens new $28,750 purchase price accounts for the enthusiastic response by luxury minded home buyers, according to James Pelton, builder developer.

Set on Country Club Estate sites appraised at a minimum of $10,000 for site alone, a Windsor Greens home may be purchased with a down payment of only $3,975.

The Windsor Greens location in Lakewood Country Club estates boasts a picturesque city-suburban site, as well as easy accessibility to shopping, schools, churches and recreational facilities. Right in the heart of Lakewood's fashionable section, Windsor Greens is adjacent to the Bixby Knolls shopping center and only a few short minutes' drive from Lakewood Center. Bus service to all metropolitan points is just blocks away.

* * * *

EXECUTIVE ELEGANCE and comfort found in unexpected degree in both interior and exterior appointments. An example of exterior luxury is the enclosed private entry court that contains a secluded garden. The interior is enhanced by such features as stone or brick floor-to ceiling fireplace, fully panelled living room wall, sliding walls of glass, and new ideas in lighting fixtures. The feeling of luxury is carried out in the bathrooms, which contain marble pullmans, colored fixtures and ceramic tile.

Luxury also is said to describe the Windsor Greens kitchen, which is fully equipped with over $2.000 worth of built ins. They include electric oven and range in color, automatic dishwasher and disposal, coppertone range hood and fan. Natural wood cabinets and ceramic tile with matching grout add a decorator flair to kitchen decor. A separate service porch adjoins the kitchen, which also contains an extra large breakfast area.

POINTED OUT as examples of the builder's attention to details in Windsor Greens homes are the hardwood floors with full 2-inch sub-floors, completely insulated ceilings, heavy shake or rock roofs, genuine lath and plaster throughout, carrier forced air heating, and an inter-com system linking all parts of the home into one immediately available whole.

Windsor Greens is located on Carson St. between Lakewood Blvd. and Cherry. Visitors may enter through the golf club gates, and will find the two furnished models on display daily.

Artesia Park Terms Eased to Veterans

Requiring only a low down payment to cover closing costs, homes in Artesia Park are available to veterans for only $72 per month, Jim Young, vice president of Brighton-Bilt Homes announced.

"A low down payment will cover necessary costs and impounds while low monthly payments from $72, principle and interest, make owning these quality 3-bedroom, 2-bath, 2-car garage homes less expensive than paying rent for an apartment," he said. Artesia Park Homes are also available on FHA terms for non-vets.

* * * *

OVER $256,000 WORTH of homes were sold in the first two weeks of sales at Artesia Park as a result of the strong combination of low monthly payments, luxury features and extra-large lots, in a convenient location.

Combining a feeling of spaciousness with a minimum of wasted movement, the all-gas "Freedom-Kitchens" feature built-in range and oven with quiet exhaust fan over the range, deluxe silent garbage disposals and natural finish cabinets. Luxury construction features to note are: Large stall showers, decorator-selected hardware and lighting fixtures. Dolomite rock roofs and real mahogany doors and cabinets.

To reach Artesia Park, drive north on Lakewood to Carson, right on Carson to Pioneer then left (north) on Pioneer to Del Amo and furnished models.

FURNISHED MODELS ON DISPLAY

WHY HAVE WE posted a new price sign on Windsor Green homes, more than $2,000 under the original figure recently announced in these pages? And how honest was the original price to begin with?

The original price [from $31,000] was an eminently honest one. It was based on the impartial appraisal by a very fine lending institution, which is actually making loans to Windsor Greens residents on the basis of that appraisal. What's more, a later appraisal indicated that these homes had actually increased in value with the continued development of the Lakewood Country Club Estates, in which Windsor Greens is located.

My decision to lower the purchase price, effective immediately, to $28,750 for the same model is simply a wise business move on my part. I am a builder. Where you pay interest money on your one home, I must pay interest on all homes I build, from the day construction starts until the day they are sold. True, property surveys indicate that rather than lowering my prices, I could command five or six thousand dollars more for my few remaining Windsor Greens homes in the near future. But it just isn't good business to let completed homes wait for buyers, even for a few weeks. To continue my building activities, both in this area and elsewhere, it is to my advantage to forego future profits for instant cashout.

Strangely enough, experience proves that home buyers who take quickest advantage of a profit situation like this are persons who need the savings least. I feel certain that I could run this ad in the Wall Street Journal and dispose of the few remaining homes quickly to investors in search of potential profit. This I have no desire to do. The many Windsor Greens residents, who paid me full price for their homes, selected this community for its lovely, pleasant living values — not for quick speculation. I respect this trust. I prefer to be the one — not some speculator — to decide what families qualify to be their neighbors.

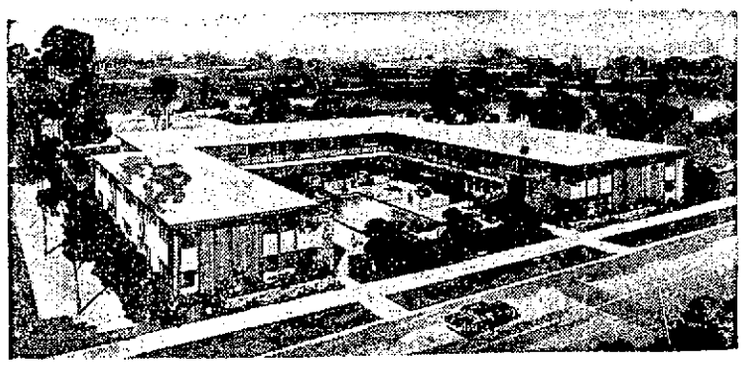

So I address this message to families who seek the finest home and the nicest suburban environment possible. I invite you to select a Windsor Greens home for these most important reasons. Let the $2,000 you save be a happy windfall, to make your family's living at Windsor Greens all the more pleasurable.

Mesa Highlands Opening Costa Mesa Homes Today

BUILT BY KOLL

Here is an interior view of one of the K. W. Koll Mesa Highlands homes in Costa Mesa which will be shown at the grand opening today. Low terms are provided on these homes.

K. W. Koll, builder, and Walker & Lee, exclusive sales agent, announce the grand opening of Mesa Highlands, smart new 3-bedroom, 2-bath development in Costa Mesa.

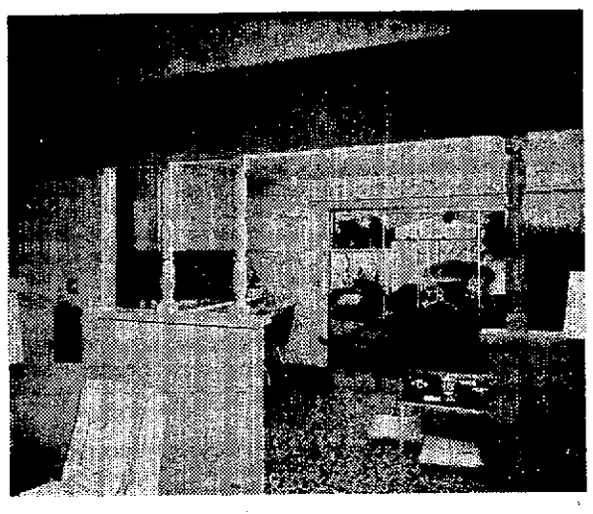

Many choice homes are ready for occupancy today. Excellent terms of $495 down include all costs and impounds with 30-year FHA loans, and have already resulted in a number of advance sales.

Located in fast-growing Costa Mesa, this latest KOLL development is easily reached by driving two miles north from Newport Harbor on Newport Blvd., then left two blocks at Wilson St.

* * * *

COOLED BY SEA BREEZES, Mesa Highlands is conveniently situated within walking distance of a new high school, an elementary school, and a $13,000,000 planned shopping center. Sailing, water skiing, and beautiful white sandy beaches are just moments away at picturesque Newport Harbor.

Mesa Highland homes give the bargain-conscious homebuyer a value package. Prices start at $13,500 and luxury features include wall-to-wall carpeting in living room and hall, huge brick corner fireplaces, built-in brick planters, large family room, 16'2" master bedroom, extra large built-in wardrobes, and spacious walk-in linen closets. Bathroom includes full ceramic-tile showers with oramental glass doors and smart decorator colors.

CHARM IN PAGEANT HOME

So great was the turnout for the opening of Pageant Homes near Anaheim that W. R. Sant & Sons, builders, will continue the preview again today. Here is a view of a portion of the interior of one home looking out toward the patio.

Opening Continued

Turn-away crowds and record sales at Pageant Homes have been the determining factors in repeating the preview another weekend, according to Bill Schulz of the McCarthy Co., sales agents.

Pageant Homes is a safety-planned community of 250 homes located at Chapman and Stanton Aves., just south of Anaheim.

The development is comprised of 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath homes priced from $14,100 and may be purchased on FHA terms with as little as $550 down. Veterans can qualify for only 2 per cent down, plus impounds.

With over 20 years experience in building quality homes, officials W. R. Sant & Sons, builders, stated they feel there was nothing in this price range that could compare with Pageant Homes.

Just a few of the outstanding features include: Select Oak Hardwood floors, expensive Vinyl flooring in kitchen, real wood burning fireplace, Pullman lavatory, colored bath fixtures, oversized mirrors, extra electric heater in bathroom, enormous stall showers, natural Ash kitchen cabinets with magnetic latches, plus many more quality extras.

From Long Beach drive east on 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) to Stanton Blvd. (Hwy. 39) then left to Chapman and furnished model homes.

Long Wait for Reimbursement

HONOLULU (AP) — A former member of the Army's 27th Infantry asked the commanding officer for reimbursement for a trip he made from Manila to San Francisco.

The trip was made in 1904.

Anniversary for McMahan Stores

Another chapter in the unique success story of McMahan's Furniture Stores unfolds this month with the celebration of the company's 38th Anniversary.

From a modest beginning in a small store in Bakersfield, in 1919, inspired by the enthusiasm and foresight of the founding brothers, James I. and John L. McMahan, McMahan's Furniture Stores have kept pace with the phenomenal growth of California and today have over 100 stores serving families all over the state.

Now "the largest group of independently owned retail furniture stores in the world" each store is owned by a member of the McMahan family.

U. S. Firms Ponder Small Car Problem

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Automotive Writer

DETROIT (AP)—General Motors, Ford and Chrysler are not irrevocably committed to production of a smaller, lower priced car on their U. S. assembly lines.

Each has hand-built an experimental smaller car. Each could have it ready for introduction in the 1960 model year. But should there be any slowing down of demand for the foreign-built small cars, production could be deferred indefinitely.

Introduction of a smaller car to compete with the foreign-built lower priced vehicles would involve a combined investment of upward of 600 million dollars by General Motors, Ford and Chrysler. Some of this already has been spent in prelminary engineering and styling. More would be needed for tooling, promotion and merchandising.

* * * *

AND, AS OF RIGHT NOW, GM Ford and Chrysler are not convinced the market for smaller cars is big enough to justify the huge investment. What happens to the smaller car market early in 1959 is likely to determine whether General Motors, Ford and Chrysler put a competing model into production next summer.

The smaller, lower priced car and its place in America's overall transportation scheme have been the subject of more speculation in recent months than the industry's forthcoming 1959 model cars or its contract problems with the Auto Workers' Union.

Conjecture has been fanned by mushrooming growth of smaller car demand, satisfied chiefly by foreign-built vehicles. In 1955, the year the industry sold nearly 7¼ million cars in the U. S. market, foreign cars accounted for fewer than 52,000 sales. This year they are expected to sell 300,000 units, or nearly 7 per cent of the indicated total U. S. new car market.

* * * *

THIS YEAR'S TOTAL will include a sizable share by Ford's imported English and German cars and two lines of General Motors cars also built in England and Germany. Chrysler recently purchased a substantial interest in Simca of France, which produces several models with port of entry prices below $2,000.

The upsurge in demand for lower priced European cars came suddenly. Some experts have said it developed simultaneously with the start of the 1957-58 recession. They cite this to support the view that low price and operating economy have been major factors in the expansion of smaller car demand.

* * * *

SOME INDUSTRY analysts have said U. S. auto makers cannot produce a smaller car that will compete in price with the lowest price European makes. They say higher labor costs prevent this.

Biggest sellers among the imported cars are the Volkswagen, Renault, English Ford, Hillman and Fiat. They accounted for about 90,000 of the 160,000 imported cars sold in this country in January-June this year. Most of these carried port-of-entry prices below $1700.

The cars reportedly being considered by GM, Ford and Chrysler to compete with imported models are understood to be built on 108-inch wheelbase chassis. This raises a question of whether they properly may be called small units.

The larger selling European cars are built on wheelbases of less than 100 inches.

A MARINA VIEW HOME

Here is an interior view of one of the new Marina View Homes located at Seal Beach, close to the Marina and the beach. Over 40 of the homes were sold the first week.

Marina View Homes Making Fast Sales

Record sales, during the grand opening of Marina View Homes, were reported by officials of Bradley Estates, builders of the development.

Boasting "year-round resort living" within walking distance of the beach, the new multi-million dollar planned community is located only two miles south of Long Beach on Pacific Coast Hwy. In spite of the high cost of beach property and the many latest home innovations included, Marina View will feature 3 and 4-bedroom homes priced from $18,485. Over 40 homes have been sold, according to the spokesman, an indication of the tremendous values we are offering, he commented.

* * * *

QUALITY CONSTRUCTION features included are: Built-in O'Keefe and Merritt gas range and oven with triple rotisserie, oak hardwood floors on conventional raised foundations, distinctive brick fireplace with Crown-Sandran vinyl flooring in kitchen and bath, expensive ceramic tile appointments. In all, 77 bonus features are included.

Nearby bathing beaches and the Long Beach Marina contribute to the ideal living conditions available within walking distance to schools and the proposed shopping center site, or downtown stores, make this one of the choicest residential areas in all Southern California, the developer fels.

Qualified veterans need no down payment, with only low costs and impounds needed to move in. Three furnished models are open daily at Marina View Homes and may be seen from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Drive south on Pacific Coast Hwy. just south of Long Beach.

Low Terms to Veterans Boost Sales

Attracted by the low terms, many veterans are buying homes in Park Westminster, the Brighton-Bilt Homes development, Jim Young, vice president, announced.

"Qualified veterans may move into the Park Westminster Homes at absolutely no down payment other than the $190 necessary for closing costs and impounds," it was announced by Young. Low monthly payments to veterans will be $66 principal and interest. Non-vets, or vets who have used their GI privileges, may avail themselves of FHA terms.

* * * *

OVER $128,000 worth of these 3-bedroom, 2-bath and 2-car garage or car-port homes were sold during the first two weeks of sales.

Real construction value may be noted throughout the Park Westminster Homes, priced from $12,495.

To reach Park Westminster, drive down Garden Grove or Westminster to Hwy. 39 then right on 39 to 29th St. and left (east) to the Sales Office. Furnished models are open from 9 to 9 daily.

Starlite Is Opening New Unit

Indicating the popularity of Starlite homes, the opening of a fourth unit is announced to accommodate new buyers, and is 50 per cent sold, according to Gilbert J. Hayes, sales agent. He added that sales activity surpassed expectations and compelled the opening of this fourth unit a month in advance of schedule.

Buyers may examine three exclusive floor plans to be constructed at the new unit. These models display wall-to-wall carpeting, harmonizing interior finishes and selected hardware for the moderate full price of $11,350 to $12,750. Expansive living rooms with large dining areas open onto ultra-modern kitchens with ceramic tile sinks, disposals, natural ash cabinets and snack bar. Three to four big bedrooms and 1½ or 1¾ tiled baths are included in each plan.

* * * *

HIGHLIGHTING the appeal of these lovely Starlite homes are the easy monthly terms of $79.50 including principal and interest. Immediate ownership is completed with $295 down and only $55 move-in costs. Located in beautiful Westminster, Starlite homes offer suburban freedom with convenient commuting distances to all metropolitan areas. Nearby shopping centers and fine schools accommodate all daily living requirements and excellent swimming beaches are only minutes away.

To visit Starlite homes and inspect their quality of construction and design just drive out 7th St. in Long Beach which becomes Garden Grove Blvd., turn south on Hwy. 39 to Sugar St., turn east to Starlite homes.

Halecrest Estates New Unit Popular

Success of previous units of the Hale Co.'s Halecrest Estates in Garden Grove is being repeated in the final section of the community, it was announced yesterday by a spokesman for Walker & Lee, Inc., sales agents for the 3-bedroom, 1½ and 1¾ bath houses.

With more than $1½-million worth of homes sold in the earlier groups of homes, initial sales and large throngs of interested prospective buyers who have visited the model homes at Westminster Ave. and Brookhurst in recent weeks indicate that the current unit will more than fullfill its builders' expectations.

VA TERMS calling for nothing down beyond costs and impounds are available on these homes, which are priced from as little as $13,625. Monthly payments on the VA terms are from just $74.69, including principal and interest while under FHA financing requiring $700 down plus costs and impounds, monthly payments are from $80.25, including principal and interest.

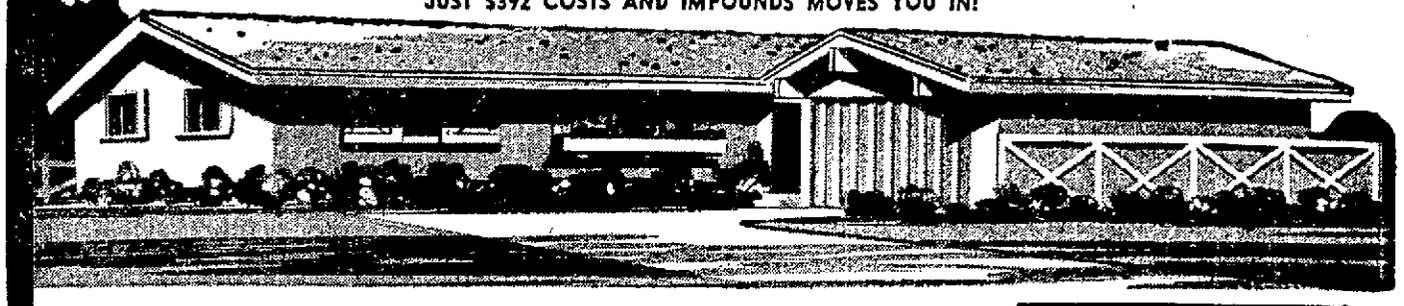

Halecrest homes are rising on large lots, with at least 7200 square feet, across the street from a city park site, in a planned community of safety-planned streets near major shopping centers, churches and schools of all grades.

INCLUDED in the quality construction features of this development are fireplaces, lath and plaster walls, sliding glass doors, asphalt shingle or colored crushed rock roofs, natural mahogany slab doors and hardwood floors.

To reach the community from Los Angeles drive east on Santa Ana Frwy. to Brookhurst and turn right to Westminster Blvd. and the models. From Long Beach take Seventh St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) to Brookhurst, then turn right to Westminster and the model home display.

DE LUXE HOMES OFFERED

Three outstanding customized de luxe homes will be opened for showing and sale today in Park Estates. Built by Lloyd Dale Whaley and C. C. Mitchell, with Walker & Lee sales agents, the homes are at 1170 Bryant Dr., 1470 Bryant Dr. East and 1490 Bryant Dr. All three feature wood and stone paneled rooms which flow to the outdoors through walls of glass. Besides having the latest in architectural styling and planning these homes have been given the Medallion Award by the Southern California Edison Co. for "Better Living Electrically." Jack E. Motsinger and Janice Duff of the Edison Co. will be at the 1490 Bryant Dr. home today to demonstrate electrical living and to serve refreshments. Pictured is one of the three homes.

DOW JONES

Average Talk on Wall St.

By ELMER C. WALZER

NEW YORK (UPI) — One figure stands out in Wall Street talk these days — the Dow-Jones Industrial Average.

That average along with most of the other market measurements has been cussed, caressed, and coddled according to the whims of the critics and adherents of the Dow theory.

Wall Street tries from time to time to switch into other averages or indexes but somehow the tradition swings it back to the Dow, the basis of a theory of markets developed way back when stocks were quoted in percentage of par rather than in dollars and cents.

* * * *

WHAT IS the Dow-Jones Industrial average? It is an "average" of 30 representative stocks—blue bloods of the market. It really isn't the kind of an average you've been taught in school. To calculate it you add up the prices of the 30 stocks and divide not by 30 as you've been taught but by 4.257.

The reason for a divisor of that size is to provide for stock splits and stock dividends over the years.

The first Dow-Jones average used a different method of compensation for splits—a multiplier for the various split issues.

That was discontinued on Sept. 10, 1928. On that day the former method had involved multiplying American Can by six, American Car & Foundry by two; American Tobacco by two; General Electric by four and Sears Roebuck by four.

* * * *

THE FIRST average set up in 1897 included 12 stocks—American Cotton Oil, American Spirits Mfg., American Sugar, American Tobacco, Chicago Gas, General Electric, Laclede Gas, National Lead, Pacific Mail, Standard Rope & Twine, Tennessee Coal & Iron, and U. S. Leather preferred.

A long series of substitutions continually changed the components. On July 31, 1914 they were Amalgamated Copper, American Car & Foundry, American Sugar, Central Leather, General Electric, National Lead, Peoples Gas, U. S. Rubber common and preferred and U. S. Steel common and preferred.

In 1916 the calculation was charged from percentages of par to dollars and cents.

* * * *

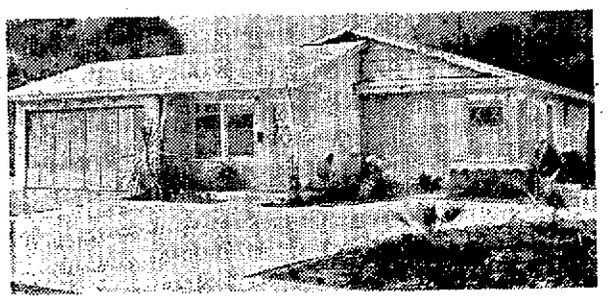

TODAY THERE are 30 stocks in the average—Allied Chemical, American Can, American Smelting, American Telephone, American Tobacco, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, Corn Products, Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, General Electric, General Foods, General Motors, Goodyear, International Harvester, International Nickel, International Paper, Johns-Manville, National Distillers, National Steel, Procter & Gamble, Sears Roebuck, Standard Oil of California, Standard Oil (N. J.), Texas Co., Union Carbide, United Aircraft, U. S. Steel, Westinghouse Electric, and Woolworth.

Dow-Jones & Co., publishers of the Wall Street Journal, calculate three other stock averages—20 railroads, 15 utilities, and the 65 stocks used in the three averages. The 20 railroad divisor is 5.601; the utility, 8.53; and the 65 stocks, 20.47.

The daily calculations are hourly and at the close the calculation includes the openings, highs and lows of each average. The highs and lows are called intra-day highs and lows. The closing average is the one used in most calculations by chartists.

* * * *

THE DOW theory uses the averages to measure the market trend. There are three movements involved—the major or primary movement (bull or bear), the secondary movement which involves sharp rallies in bear markets and sharp reactions in bull markets; and the day to day fluctuations.

IN VIEW OF MOUNTAINS

Homes such as this in Park Capri are located in sight of the mountains yet are not far from the beaches. They are priced at $15,395 with terms as low as $285 down.

Park Capri Homes Offer Semi-Rural Atmosphere

The fresh semi-rural location of Park Capri Homes coupled with their reasonable cost in an area of more expensive homes is attracting many buyers, states Gilbert J. Hayes, sales agent. The quiet dignity of living in view of "Old Saddle-back" mountain where your family can enjoy the freedom from city noise and traffic is further enhanced by Park Capri Homes and their family planned living areas.

Priced at $15,395, floor plans contain spacious wide living rooms with fireplace and sliding glass doors overlooking a roofed patio. Big central family rooms are adjacent to the new work-flow kitchens equipped with built-in range and oven, fan ventilator, disposal and streamlined counters. A choice of large individual dining room or combined kitchen-dining area is available. Spacious master bedrooms included in a choice of 3 or 4 bedroom arrangements. Two family baths are found in both plans.

* * * *

SAVAGE CONSTRUCTION CO. calls attention to the construction throughout with natural finish maghogany doors, acoustical plaster ceilings, thermostat heating and durable cedar shingle roofs. According to Hayes, sales agent, attractive monthly terms are arranged with $285 down and $90 move-in costs.

Driving from Long Beach go east on 7th St. which becomes Garden Grove Blvd. to Hwy. 39, turn south to Westminster and east on Westminster (17th St. in Santa Ana) to Tustin Ave. then north to Fairhaven and east to Park Capri model homes.

ON LOW TERMS

Models such as this are offered in Magnolia Manor's newest unit on terms as low as $195 down. They are priced from $12,050 to $12,350.

Magnolia Manor Called Dream Home of Americans

Teh American dream home is available at Magnolia Manor, states Frank H. McFarland, sales agent.

More than 1,300 sq. ft. of living area in a well planned 3 or 4-bedroom, 2-bath home located on an extra wide lot is what Laramore Construction Co. offers at Magnolia Manor, added McFarland.

The low down payment of $195 with only $90 costs and full price of $12,050 to $12,350 is possible because you get more livable space for less money.

McFarland adds: "No balloon payments and no due dates are involved with these excellent terms."

* * * *

LIVING AREAS are the open, circulating hall plans designed for more living freedom and spaciousness with front or back living rooms, some with adjoining study and bath.

Beautifully appointed exteriors are in 16 elevations with a choice of rich redwood sidings, lovely brick planters, diamond windows with shutters and flower shelves.

To visit the models drive out the Santa Ana Freeway to Hwy. 39, south past Knott's Berry Farm to Westminster then east to the models or turn south at Disneyland on Harbor Blvd. to Westminster and west to models.

Ocelot Proves He's No Hepcat

NEW YORK (UPI)—A three-month-old ocelot named Lancelot, the pet of a New Yorker named Stanley Sherman, ran away from home recently when his owner started playing a record with the music of a Marine Corps band.

Lancelot leaped from a window of Sherman's third-floor apartment and into a restaurant's cellar. Police spent an hour and a half before the ocelot was coaxed from its hiding place.

Shopping Center Is Growing

The vast building and development program of Tietz Construction Co. of Garden Grove includes a number of shopping centers in Orange County, where the Tustin-Collins center in Orange is nearly completion. Consisting of 10 acres, and costing a total of one and a half million dollars, the new hub is bounded on three sides by Tustin Ave., Collins Ave., and Lincoln St.

Already open and in operation for a year is a 24,000 square foot Alpha Beta Market. Costing a half million dollars, the market is the first of 15 stores to comprise the shopping center, also being leased by Tietz Construction Co. Louise McCain, leasing agent, announces opening date as Nov. 1 for the remainder of the stores.

* * * *

THESE INCLUDE a drug store, variety store, beauty salon, cleaners and laundry, barber shop, liquor store, ladies' sportswear, record store, jewelry and a complete women's ready-to-wear shop. Yet to be negotiated are leases for family shoe store and men's wear. The corner of Tustin and Collins has been purchased by Douglas Oil Co. for a super service station and plans are also being made for a restaurant to be built at the center.

Strong evidence of the growth and prosperity of the city of Orange, and the Tustin-Collins Shopping Center is the opinion of a research firm employed by Tietz Construction Co. that the Tustin-Collins location will be the hub of both the residential and business population of Orange.

* * * *

ANOTHER shopping center being built and developed by Tietz Construction Co. is the Gateway Center in La Habra at Hwy 39 and Central. More than 30,000 square feet of shops is planned, with Gateway Market already leased.

Skylark Plaza, a third center underway, will be built at the corner of Garden Grove Blvd. and Dale St. in Garden Grove.

SEES BOOM AHEAD

New Home Inflation Hedge

A new home bought today is the American family's best hedge against inflation in the years ahead, a noted building authority stated this week.

James M. Lange, editor of Practical Builder magazine, wrote in a current editorial that the United States is pulling out of a recession and heading for a boom, and "smart people build or buy before a boom."

"Prices are comparatively low now, but they're going to increase rapidly," the trade journal editor predicted, "When the boom comes, the man who was smart enough to buy a house in 1958 or 1959 will find the value of his property rising even faster than the general economy."

* * * *

LANGE'S "BOOM" prophecy was based on a study by the University of Denver Bureau of Business and Social Research, in collaboration with Practical Builder.

The University of Denver report estimated that new home demand, plus increasing inflation, will force the price of today's $18,000 home up to $21,500 by 1963.

The Denver study indicates that consumer savings, income and purchasing power are high and will stay high. This, plus rapidly increasing population, insures increased demand, and higher prices, for housing.

New household formations—677,000 in 1957—will increase by a total of 2,000,000 by 1960. By 1965, the new-family rate will be 1,000,000 a year. At that time, Lange pointed out, the "bumper crop" of babies born during World War II will reach marrying age.

* * * *

THE REPORT ESTIMATED that the average family income (after taxes) will rise from the 1956 level of $5.300 to $7,100 in 1975. At the same time, the value of the dollar will decline each year: in terms of today's buying power a dollar will be worth 87 cents in 1968, 75 cents in 1975, the report predicted.

"The situation," Lange said, "is similar to the period just before World War II. We all know someone who bought a house in 1940 for, say, $5,000, and is able to get $20,000 for it in 1958.

"Cold calculations lead to one inevitable conclusion: the period 1958-1960 is the time to build or buy a new home. It's a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity," the editor said.

'Comrades' No More in Miss.

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi American Legion members used to address each other as "Comrade" but by recently passed resolution they now are supposed to use "Legionnaire" as the salutation.

HOME OWNERS' QUESTION BOX

Q—Can cork tiles be applied to floors subject to water spills, such as bathrooms and kitchens?

A—Certain kinds of cork tiles, yes, but not all. Newly developed types are available from various manufacturers especially designed for kitchens and baths. These are impregnated with wax or vinyl.

* * * *

Q—When our central air-conditioning system was installed, we economized by foregoing ductwork to two bedrooms, then unused. Now both rooms are occupied, but are uncomfortably warm in summer when the doors are closed for privacy. Any suggestions beyond new ductwork?

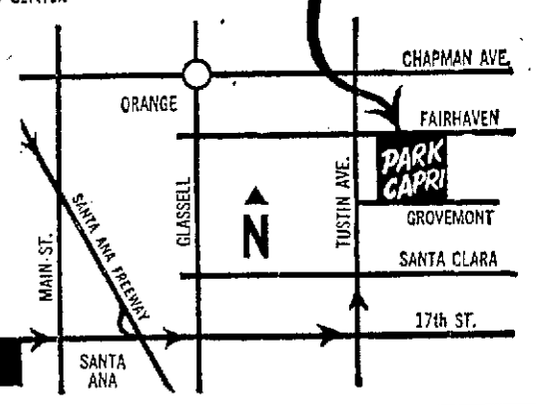

A—Switch to louver doors on the two rooms. These can be kept closed for privacy, yet air still can circulate through the louvers. If your cooling equipment is big enough, the rooms will be more comfortable.

* * * *

Q—If we do the work ourselves in converting our attic to living space do we stand a chance of getting a cash return for our labors if we ever sell the house?

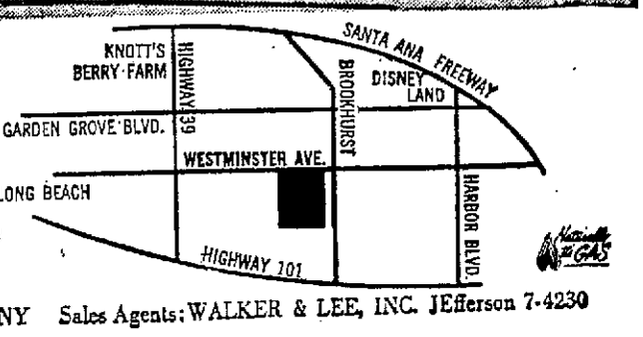

A—Absolutely. In many parts of the country today appraisers add as much as $2 to the cash value of the house for every dollar spent on specific improvements, such as porches, converted attics, recreation rooms, and the like. A recreation room that costs $500, for example, could add $1,000 to the resale price of the house.

OUR COVER

Which one? Mitch Atkinson, 7, has almost completed his symbol of undying love when he finds himself trapped by his TWO girl friends (when you are 7, you may or may not remember, it is not uncommon to have a half-dozen or more sweethearts). Now Butch is trying to think up a way to get out of his predicament, though he doesn't appear to be too much worried. But like many a man before him, he is finding out early that one must be careful—very careful—what he puts in writing about a doll, especially in wood. Shyly waiting for him to make the choice when staff photographer John H. Neagle snapped the picture are Janet Taylor (left) and Maureen Dugan, each of whom also is 7 years old. All three youngsters live in the romantic 3000 block on Eucalyptus Ave.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: I have wondered about the nationality of SHEPHERD and SHEPARD.—H. S., Mrs. V. R., Long Beach.

H. S., V. R.: There are a dozen spellings of SHEPHERD (Shepard, Sheppard, Sheperd, etc.), an English name that originated in the occupation of sheep herding. Walter Le (the) Schepherde lived in Cambridge, 1273. One of the many family coats-of-arms symbolized the name meaning, with two gold shepherd's crooks crossed between three silver lambs, on a green shield. Edward Shepard of England whose oldest son John was born in 1627 was among the founders of Hartford, Conn.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please print analysis of SHERWOOD. —R. E. S., Lakewood; W. E. S., Long Beach.

R. S., W. S.: SHERWOOD was taken from the name of the familiar Forest of Sherwood in Nottinghamshire, England, where Robin Hood and his band of Merry Men hid.. Here he made his attacks on wealthy, unsuspecting travelers, later distributing their money to the needy. Sher-Wood originated as "Scir-Wood, meaning "boundary-line forest." Sherwood was the boundary of the ancient Saxon-English kingdom of Mercia. The Sherwood coat-of-arms has three black spur-rowels and a black chevron on a silver shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please interpret the Scotch and Irish names McNEIL and McNIEL. —MRS. B. J., M. M., Long Beach.

B. J., M. M.: The Scotch Clan MacNeill (sons of the champion) had two branches, one living on the Isle of Gigha off the southwest Scotch coast, land received from Robert the Bruce in the 1300s; the other branch owning the Isle of Barra since 1427, located in the Outer Hebrides Islands. The clan name became McNeil and McNiel in the 1500s. The MacNeill coat-of-arms is a shield divided into four quarters, the upper left showing a gold rampant lion on a green background; the upper right a castle tower on silver; the lower left a black galley ship on gold; the lower right a red human hand wreathed with nine fetterlocks on a golden background. Descendants of the Scotch MacNeills settled in Counties Derry and Antrim, north Ireland.

DEAR MISS RULE: We would like brief history on BUTLER.—W. B., MRS. J. B., H. E., Long Beach.

W. B., J. B., H. E.: Centuries ago the warden of an English baronial castle's wine cellar was called a Boteler. This position of prestige led to the surname Boteler, later Butler. Adam Le Buteler was a Hereford resident in 1273. The Butlers achieved many English titles such as Marquess of Ormonde, Lord Dunboyne, Viscount Galmoye and Earl of Carrick, Lanesborough and Glengall. The ancient Butler coat-of-arms has a blue band across the top of a gold shield, with the motto "Comme je trouve," meaning "As I find it." Richard and William Butler of Braintree, Essex, England, were among founders of Hartford, Conn., in 1635.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you tell about BARTON?—E. B., J. B., Long Beach.

E. B., J. B.: One foundation of the ancient English BARTON was "Bere-Ton" meaning "barley farm." Another name source was Bartholomew's Ton" shortened to Bar-ton. There are towns named Barton in the English counties of Bedford, Devon, Lancaster, Lincoln and Stafford. The family coat-of-arms has three bear heads on a silver shield. Members of the lineage were Lords Mayor of London in 1416 and 1430.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give genealogy on ROSS.—MRS. D. L., Long Beach.

MRS. D. L.: The Clan ROSS of Scotland has used the Latin motto "Spem successus alit" (Success nourishes hope) for 500 years. They were among the earliest Scotch nobility. Malcolm, the clan ancestor, was created Earl of Ross in the mid-1100s. The location-name Ross means "the peninsula." Most of the present Scotch county of Ross-shire once formed the family estates. The Ross coat-of-arms, granted in 1367, has a checkered black and silver band across a gold shield, with two water-sacks above the band and a spur-rowel below it. John, William and George Ross were south Pennsylvania land owners in 1771.

DEAR MISS RULE: Could we have genealogy of AMES.—MRS. J. A., Buena Park; V. A., C. T., Long Beach.

J. A., V. A., C. T.: The English surname AMES was first carried to England by 11th century French-Norman conquerors. The Normans wrote ballads about a warrior here called Amyas whose name meant "Loved by God." English spelling converted Amyas to Ames by the 13th century. The Ames lineage of Somerset were honored by a coast-of-arms having the upper half of a red rampant lion issuing from a black stripe across the center of a gold shield.

For E. R. and C. G. R., the surnames RAY and REA were included in this column for May 26, 1957.

For G. J. G. and J. C., the surname GRAHAM was included in this column for Apr. 7, 1957.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly inform us on HOGAN.—Mrs. H. B., D. H., Long Beach.

H. B., D. H.: The Irish HOGAN family trace their ancestry directly to an uncle of King Brian Boru (reigned 1002-1014), a famous Irish ruler. The original, esteemed clan-name was O'Hogain meaning "sons of the young man." The Hogans resided for centuries in Tipperary. Their coat-of-arms has three silver birds on a black chevron across the center of a silver shield.

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

Ingenuity helped to create this wood-paneled study and playroom in Washington, D.C., home of Rep. John E. Moss.

For Extra Living Space

DARNED CLEVER these Congressmen, especially Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif). Moss proved how ingenious a lawmaker can be, whether in the halls of Congress or elsewhere, when he tangled with a special problem right in his own home recently.

While Congress is in session Moss lives with his wife, Jean, and daughters, Jennifer, 12, and Allison, 8, in a new Colonial-style, row house in historic Alexandria, Va. For all its compactness (18x33) feet) the house has three bedrooms, all modern conveniences and what would be ample storage space for most families.

And there was the problem. Trunks, packing crates, suitcases, toys and what not were stacked everywhere throughout the Moss home leaving no place for a hard-working Congressman to do his homework. Unlike most families, the Mosses travel back and forth across the continent by automobile twice a year and that takes a lot of luggage. Too, youngsters like Jennifer and Allison need a playroom—they accumulate an amazing amount of playthings.

MOSS SOLVED his problem, the National Lumber Manufacturers Assn. says, with a bit of chalk, the judicious use of wood and the help of his wife.

He didn't have much space to work with but, with the help of Mrs. Moss, he simply figured out how the basement could be put to maximum use.

The Mosses plotted storage areas, playroom and den by running chalk lines around the basement.

With the chalk lines drawn, they called in carpenters and had them use vertical board paneling around the three sides of the utilities, extending back to the cinderblock basement wall. A door was built into this newly-created utility-storage area and the luggage was out of the way once and for all.

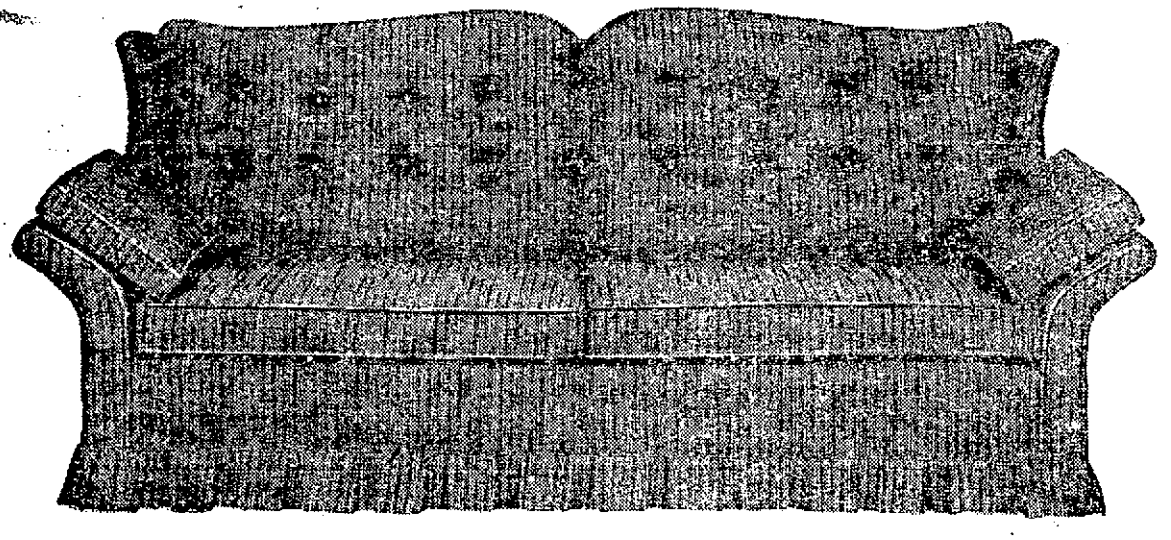

THIS, IN EFFECT, created two other rooms connected by a hall. In the south room which was wood-paneled when the Mosses moved in, they had a large bookcase built into the wall.

Next they had built on one side of the hall a large sliding-door closet with drawers at its base and on the other side several cabinets framing the clothes-washer and dryer.

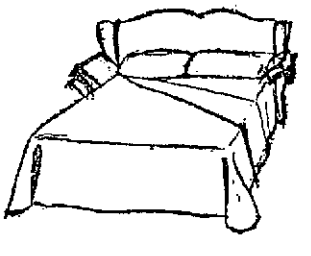

That left the other unfinished room—a natural for the girls' playroom. Paneling this room, the carpenters built in a desk along the back wall and more storage cabinets. That completed the work and the girls had a playroom of which they could be proud.

And the house, adds the Congressman, is "so much more liveable now."

California's Air-Conditioned Valley

By John Beckler

Associated Press Writer

A FEW DECADES ago, sandy Coachella Valley, 100-odd miles east of Long Beach, was a virtually waterless wasteland simmering in summer temperatures up to 120 degrees and supporting only rodents, reptiles and 76 hardy Indians.

Now it is an incredible oasis of plush prosperity led by the famed desert resort of Palm Springs where well-heeled thousands—beginning this month -- will spend vacations and weekends—in defiance of an unrelenting sun.

All over the west the wide-open spaces where once the deer and the antelope played are being invaded by pleasure-seeking man. But nowhere else have the simplest lures of nature—sun, scenery, solitude and clean air drawn so many so fast.

The metamorphosis of Coachella Valley is a triumph of air conditioning—in homes, autos, hotels, restaurants—water from deep wells and the powerful, stark appeal of the timeless desert.

Once the visitor makes peace with the sun and learns to ignore the sand-laden winds up to 60 miles an hour, the setting is irresistible. The desert nights are cool, and velvety soft.

THE MEANING OF AIR CONDITIONING to the once deserted valley is expressed by a resident sitting dapper and cool in the dining room of his luxury hotel. He began:

"I left my air condioned house, got into my air conditioned car and drove to my air conditioned hotel."

Palm Springs, the unofficial capital, lies at the head of the 50-mile-long, 15-mile-wide valley, which stretches southeast along a chain of resort and agricultural communities to the shore of the Salton Sea. The big body of water is below sea level.

On weekends—winter and summer—thousands of sun lovers flock to Palm Springs, where tap beer costs 50 cents a glass and the number of swimming pools, about 1,600, probably is the highest per capita anywhere in the world.

Property only a few blocks from mesquite-studded wilderness sells for $2,000 a front foot and demand is high. So high, in fact, that it threatens cramped Palm Springs' standing as the center of desert migration.

PALM SPRINGS IS ONLY 100 MILES as the Cadillac flies from Hollywood. The approach, especially in winter, is magnificent. On the left, soars 11,485-foot Mt. San Gorgonio, brilliant with snow. On the right, the snowy snow-capped, 10,805-foot Mt. San Jacinto, rising almost vertically from the desert floor.

At first sight, the city appears a modern Baghdad. Well manicured palms line the streets. Smoke trees and thick shrubs veil homes costing up to $250,000. The main street, Palm Canyon Drive, boasts multimillion dollar hotels and the most exclusive shops. There's a golf course a block from the center of town.

A typical day in the life of vacationist, described by a long-time resident, goes like this:

"He gets up fairly early because it's pretty quiet here at night, and he's usually out at the pool by 10. He lies out in the sun until he's nice and hot, and then goes in the pool.

"He's in and out like that the rest of the day. Even has his lunch by the pool. He'll come in and get dressed about 5 and then have a few drinks. Everyone eats dinner at 8."

Although the influx of Hollywood people in 1920s put the tiny spa on the map, it now draws well-to-do sun seekers from every section of the country and parts of Canada.

HOLLYWOOD IS still represented, with more than 50 stars owning homes. Dozens also have business interests like Alan Ladd's hardware store, Claudette Colbert' gift shop and Desi Arnaz' hotel.

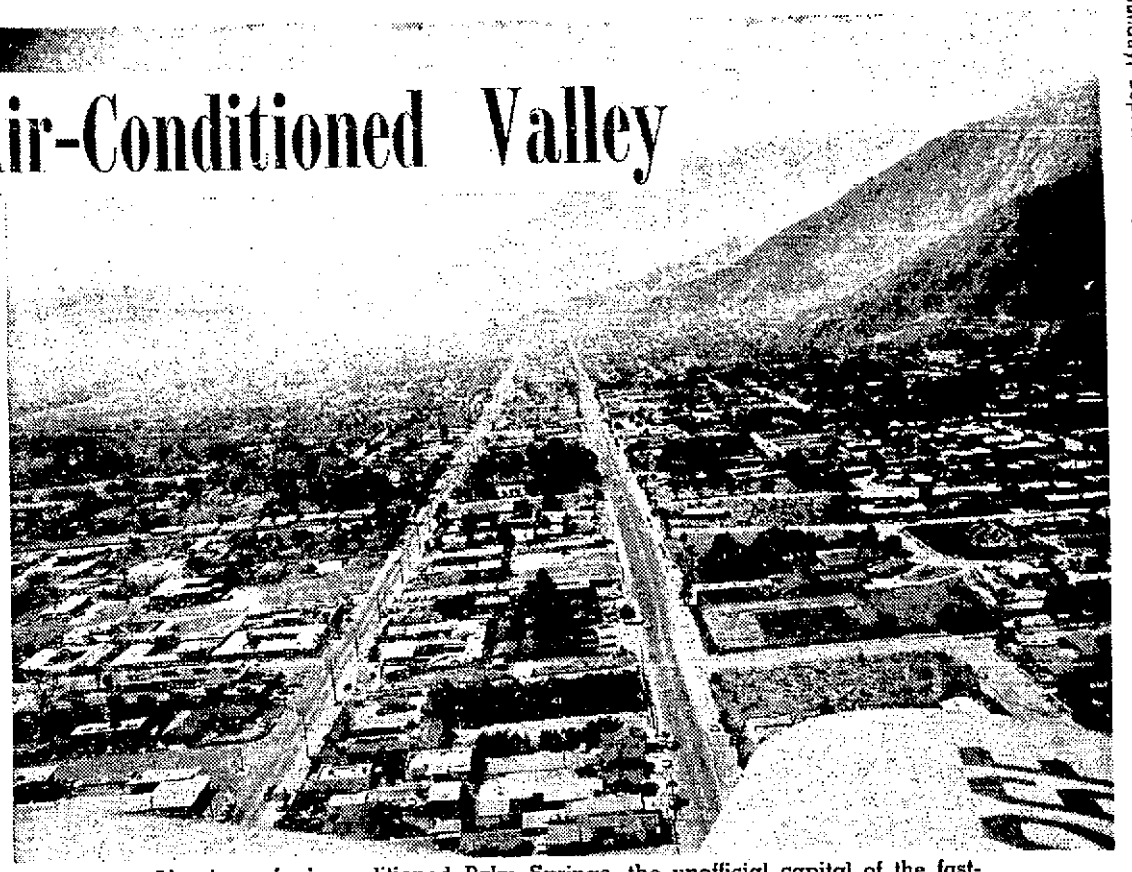

There is another side to Palm Springs. Hidden from the eyes and consciences of the rest of the town is a rank-sweltering slum which is home to more than 2,500 of the 12,250 permanent residents. They're the men and women who cook, serve, clean up and generally make possible the kind of life others come to Palm Springs to enjoy.

The slum and the land it occupies are the twin vexations of the spa, which aspires to a year-round population of 50,000.

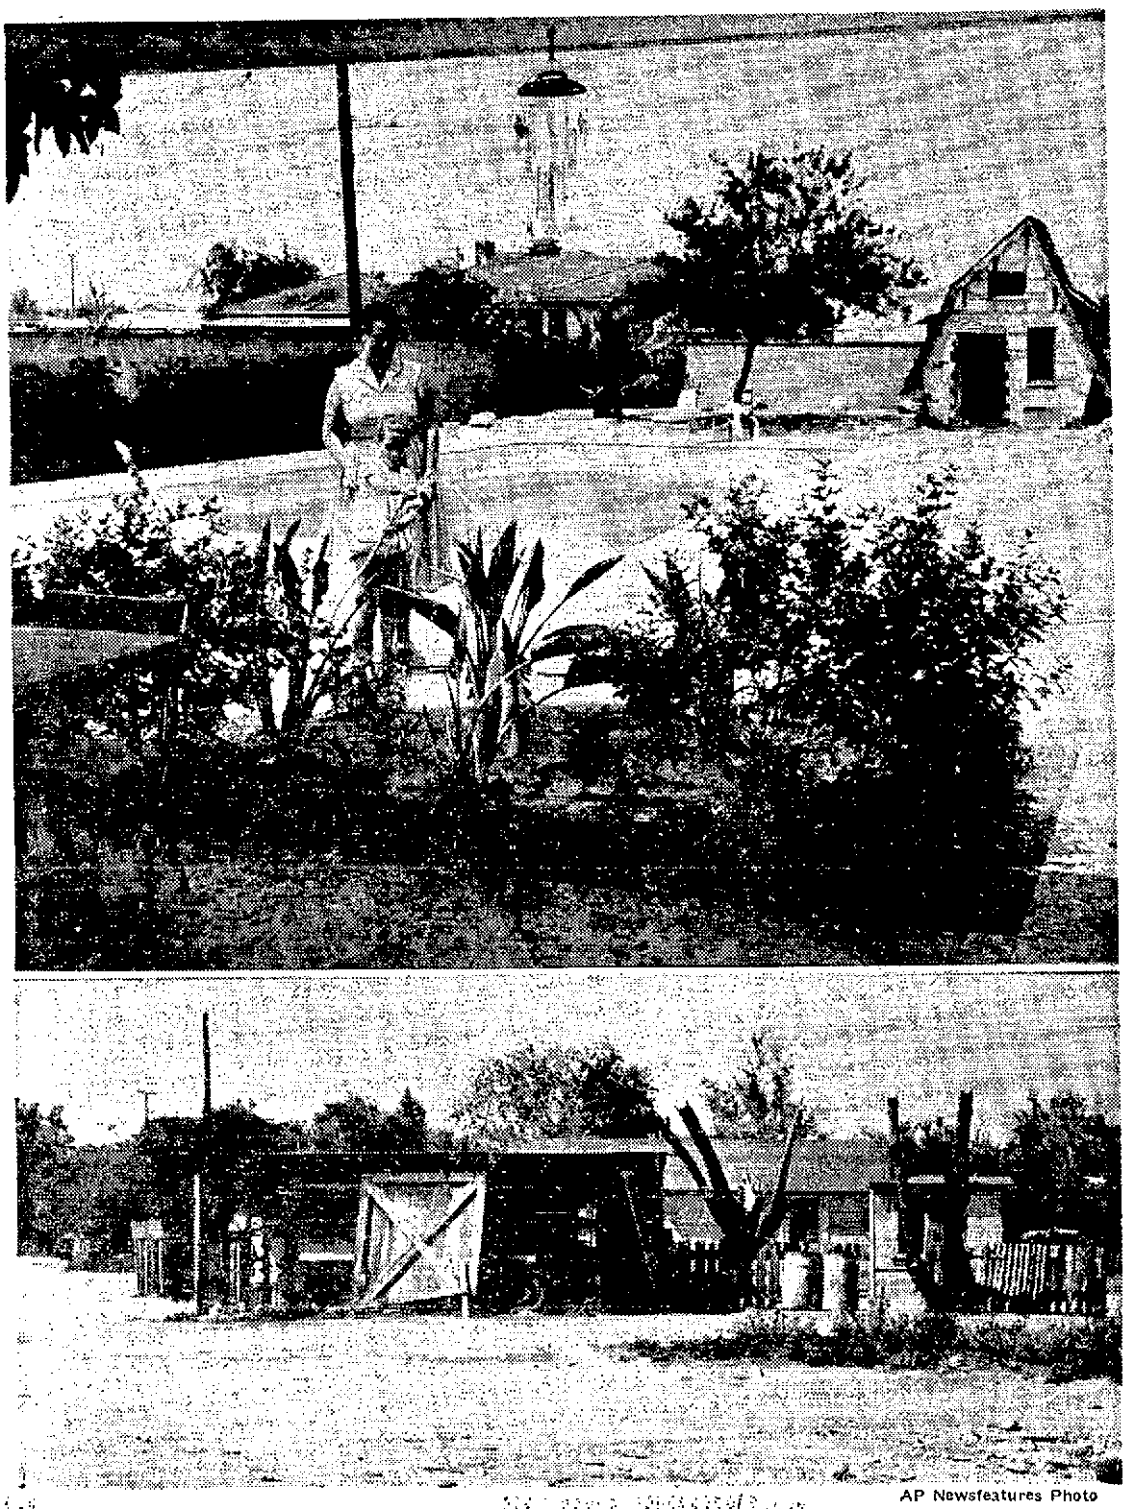

PALM SPRINGS NOW finds itself pinched between the mountains and large areas of undeveloped land owned by the original Indian settlers, who now number 92. The Indians own 31,000 acres - 6,616 inside the city limits.

The prime square mile, the one containing the slum, adjoins the downtown district. It recently was appraised at 13 million dollars. Government lease re-

He Keeps the Armed Services Moving

By Vera Williams

John D. James, resident inspector of naval material, U. S. Navy, and Lt. Nicholas H. Nikotsaras (left) discuss a problem in fuel control.

Photos by Joe Risinger

James' supervision includes tiny containers of 4 ounces of oil to giant tankers like Orion Star (above), 10,480,000-gallon capacity.

WHEN YOU pour a couple gallons of gas and a quart of oil in the family bus you've made a small deal in petroleum products and you haven't much worry about the quality. The old bus will eat just about any gas you pour into her.

But consider the case of John D. James who operates from an office at 703 Federal Bldg. He hasn't made much of a deal until the petroleum products he's dealt with have run into the 100-million-dollar bracket.

What's more, he's responsible for the quality of every drop of that 100 million dollars worth!

James is resident inspector of naval material, U. S. Navy, and is responsible for the quality control of all petroleum products used by all the armed services -Navy, Army, Air Force, Signal Corps, Army Engineers and Marines in Southern California, all of Arizona and part of Nevada. And those complicated machines of Uncle Sam's defenses are cranky at times about the super-quality of the petroleum items they use!

LAST YEAR James was responsible for the quality of upwards of 170 million dollars worth of petroleum products. The first seven months of this year the total was 105 million dollars.

The local office covers the largest area and has the highest efficiency rating of any Navy quality control office in the United States. It twice has received Superior Accomplishment awards from the Navy Department.

In emergencies, the office supervises quality and shipment of petroleum products for all branches of the federal service, including the Foresty Service and the Department of Agriculture.

"Petroleum products" cover 1,200 items, ranging from propane gas to asphalt.

Roughly the government's petroleum dollar is broken down this way: 37 cents, jet fuel; 27 cents, aviation fuel; 14 cents, heavy fuels; the remainder miscellaneous, such as distillates, lubricating oils, asphalt, etc.

JAMES' OFFICE is responsible not only for the quality of the products, but for their transportation which means the containers in which they are shipped, and schedules.

"The best gasoline in the world is of no value if it doesn't reach its destination when needed," he points out.

His office maintains 75 different inspection points, largely refineries, suppliers, producers of petroleum products.

His office supervises a network of pipelines—their number and locations of course are classified information, but he admits that the Los Angeles-Long Beach area is "honeycombed" with petroleum pipelines, government-owned or leased.

The largest is the Southern Pacific pipe line from Wilmington to El Paso. The local office supervises its quality control as far as Tucson, including Phoenix and El Centro.

CONTAINERS RANGE from a four-ounce can used for special oils to 10-million-gallon tank ships for gasoline, jet fuel or diesel fuel. In between are barges, tank trucks, tank cars and 55-gallon drums.

Not only must constant quality checks be run before shipment, but storage and containers must be supervised to prevent deterioration or contamination. Some products deteriorate when they are long stored. Another problem is hastily cleaned containers. A tank that contained diesel fluid, for instance, must be cleansed thoroughly before gasoline is put in it. And if a tank ship contains several products, supervision is required to keep one product from contaminating another.

ALL PETROLEUM products for the Department of Defense are procured by the Military Petroleum Supply Agency in Washington, D. C., with quality control offices at strategic locations over the United States.

James has been in charge of the local office since 1945—the first year as a Navy lieutenant, and since then as a civilian. He served four years in the Navy and is in the Navy Reserve.

On Aug. 1, James received an "outstanding performance award" presented by the supervising inspector of Naval Material, Western District.

The staff has 31 members—six clerks, two technical engineers, and the remainder inspectors. Key men include Ralph M. Berg, quality control director; Robert E. Conn, technical and engineering director; D. W. Baker, training coordinator; Robert W. Mevert, ship loading supervisor.

THE OFFICE IS USED by the Department of Defense to train military personnel for the United States military forces and reserve officers and officers of foreign countries in quality control procedures.

Lt. Nicolas H. Nikotsaras from Athens, an officer in the Greek Navy, for instance is being trained in the office now. Last year six representatives of the Spanish government were trained--one from the Spanish Air Force, one from the Spanish Navy, and the other four from government technological offices. Two years ago, two Greek naval officers were trained.

"We consider this a two-point program—training the men in basic technology and showing the foreign students how people in the United States live and work and play," explains James. He and his wife, Dorothy, entertain the foreign students in their home, 3424 Montair Ave., they take them sightseeing, they take them to Hollywood TV and radio broadcasts, they take them to Disneyland.

"Graduates" from the office now are stationed around the globe, and they write to James telling their quality control problems and frequently asking advice.

JAMES GETS SUCH letters from Abadan on the Persian Gulf, Aruba off the coast of Venezuela, Europe, Africa, Japan, Guam, Hawaii.

"I know only a smattering of foreign languages," he says, "but they know some English and the language barrier isn't serious in transmitting technical information, anyway."

James feels his finest compliment came when he put a foreign student on a plane after he had finished his training here. The student took his hand and said "You will always be my friend."

Another said "You Americans are friendly with everyone. . . . We come from older countries and we know better. A person must earn our friendship to have it."

In line of duty, James has gone to Point Barrow, Alaska, when the temperature was 52 degrees below zero, and he recently went to Phoenix where the thermometer stood at 116.

After he was graduated in 1930 from Cornell, James became a chemist with the Atlantic Refining Co. of Philadelphia. When he entered the Navy, he was placed in charge of independent refineries of the West Coast, and then was made resident inspector of Navy material control in Long Beach.

Some 150 men have been trained in his office.

"The work is stimulating—and challenging," he says.

Santa's Domain Keeps Growing

By Morry Rabin

SANTA'S VILLAGE, a refreshing fusion of the world of Santa Claus and the lore of children's story books, is expanding into a national recreational phenomenon.

The dream-come-true of Glenn Holland, a 39-year-old businessman from Compton and San Pedro, Santa's Village (No. 1) has branched out from its mountain haven at Sky Forest, on the Rim-of-the-World Hwy. near Lake Arrowhead, to Santa's Village (No. 2) on Highway 17 between Santa Cruz and Los Gatos, 70 miles south of San Francisco. And, under the same banner of childhood wonder, excitement and enchantment, a third Village will come alive at East Dundee, Ill., near Chicago, in May 1959.

Already more than 100,000 adults and children visit the Sky Forest Village monthly, while the Santa Cruz Village entertains almost as many. Both are growing because Holland and his associates built their castles of day dreams on sturdy foundations of common sense, avoiding the commercial misjudgments and indiscretions of similar enterprises.

PARKING AND MANY of the attractions are free, admission cost is nominal and no money changes hands inside the Village. Each visitor receives a card, which is punched when used for a purchase or pay ride, and the total "tabs" are figured and paid on departure.

Movement in the Village is gentle and leisurely, a pace personified by a welcoming committee of 100 or more friendly animals—baby goats, lambs, ducks, geese, deer and burrors—which are petted by visitors.

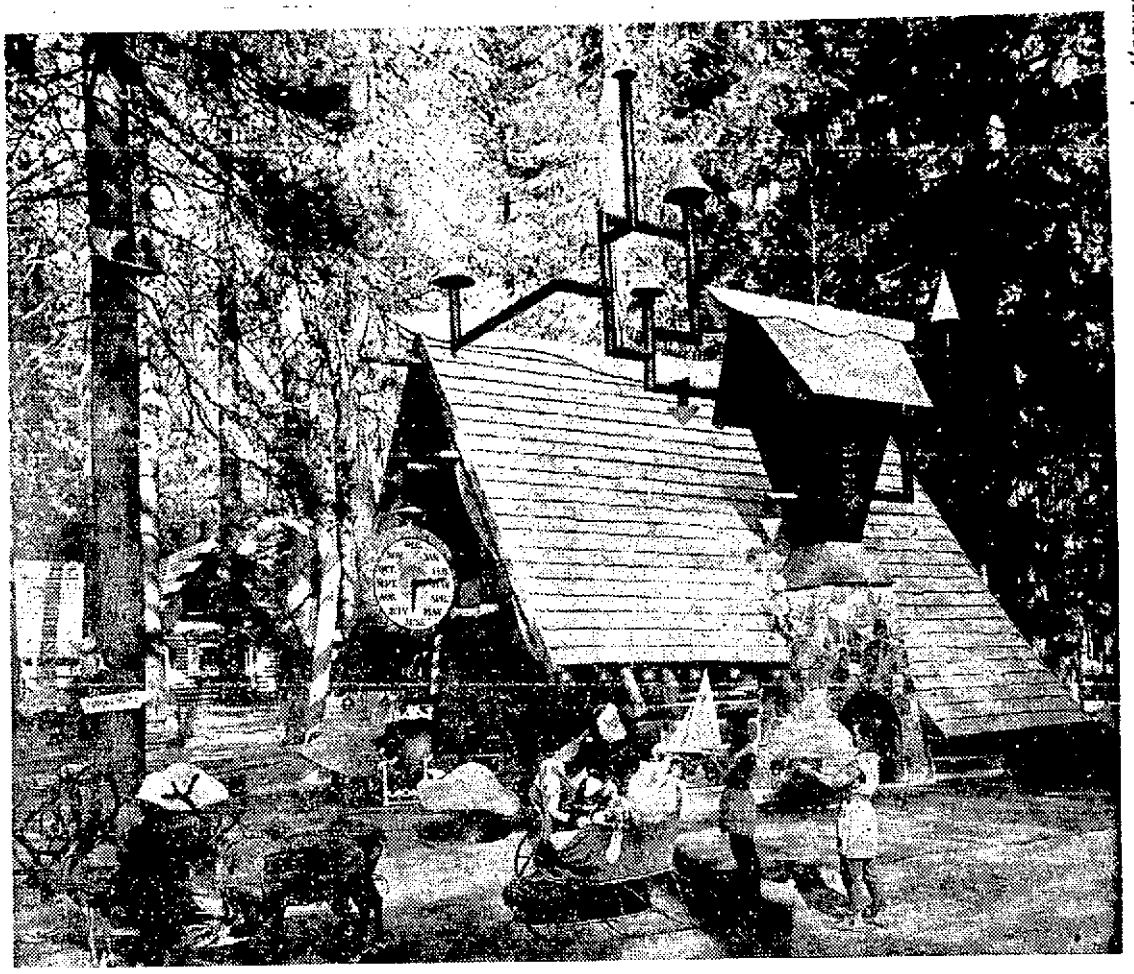

Assisting and guiding are Santa's Helper, employes including a bevy of teenage girls who could well be the winners of the county's beauty contests.

With his North Pole of solid, never-melting ice and his lollipop tree bearing an endless supply of free suckers, Santa Claus, in the person of Del Bond, greets little people all day, 364 days of the year. He has other business Dec. 25, the only day the Village is closed.

BOND PROBABLY is the nation's premier Santa. He has been at it 25 years and, moreover, his wife is the Village Mrs. Claus, in charge of the kitchens, where jams, jellies, spices, candy, taffy, gingerbread, tarts, cookies and doughnuts are produced fresh in tremendous quantities daily in quaint, story-book buildings. Maximum output in the assembly-line spice factory alone is 4,000 jars a day.

Rides for children are recreations of the Christmas legend or Mother Goose. A 20-passenger sleigh is pulled on tracks through the Enchanted Forest by spans of reindeer imported from the Arctic by Grady Carothers, a former Texas rancher now known as the "Reindeer King of the United States." He keeps most of his herd at Sky Forest and supplies reindeer for parades and celebrations throughout the nation.

Children ride Cinderella's Pumpkin, pulled by four white horses; or a train through Mother Goose's domain; or a train of pack mules; or in ball-shaped seats around a whirling Christmas tree. Latest additions to the Village, mechanical tractors driven individually by children on a winding pathway, will be equipped in the winter with snowplows and used by employes to clear the Village walks.

Santa's Village at Sky Forest, some 95 miles from Long Beach, is an expanding recreational phenomenon. Here is Santa, reindeer, sleigh, and a pair of helpers.

"LOST" CHILDREN are easily located inside the fenced Village. They usually wind up at Santa's Home, where the time on the huge clock is any old time, or on the slide from the Crooked Man's Crooked House in the Tree. The sliders plop onto a big air mattress.

For shop-browsing women there are colorful emporiums with displays of china, antique brass, cookie jars, tree decorations and souvenirs and gifts. For little women, the Doll House claims the finest collection under one roof.

For fun for all, the Wee Puppet Theater, operated by Don and Ivy Wilson of Laguna Beach, stages the ad libbiest and livelist puppet show anywhere. A monstrous Jack-in-the-Box overlooks a children's juice bar and the Mill Wheel Toy Factory turns out gadgets almost as quickly as youngsters carry them off.

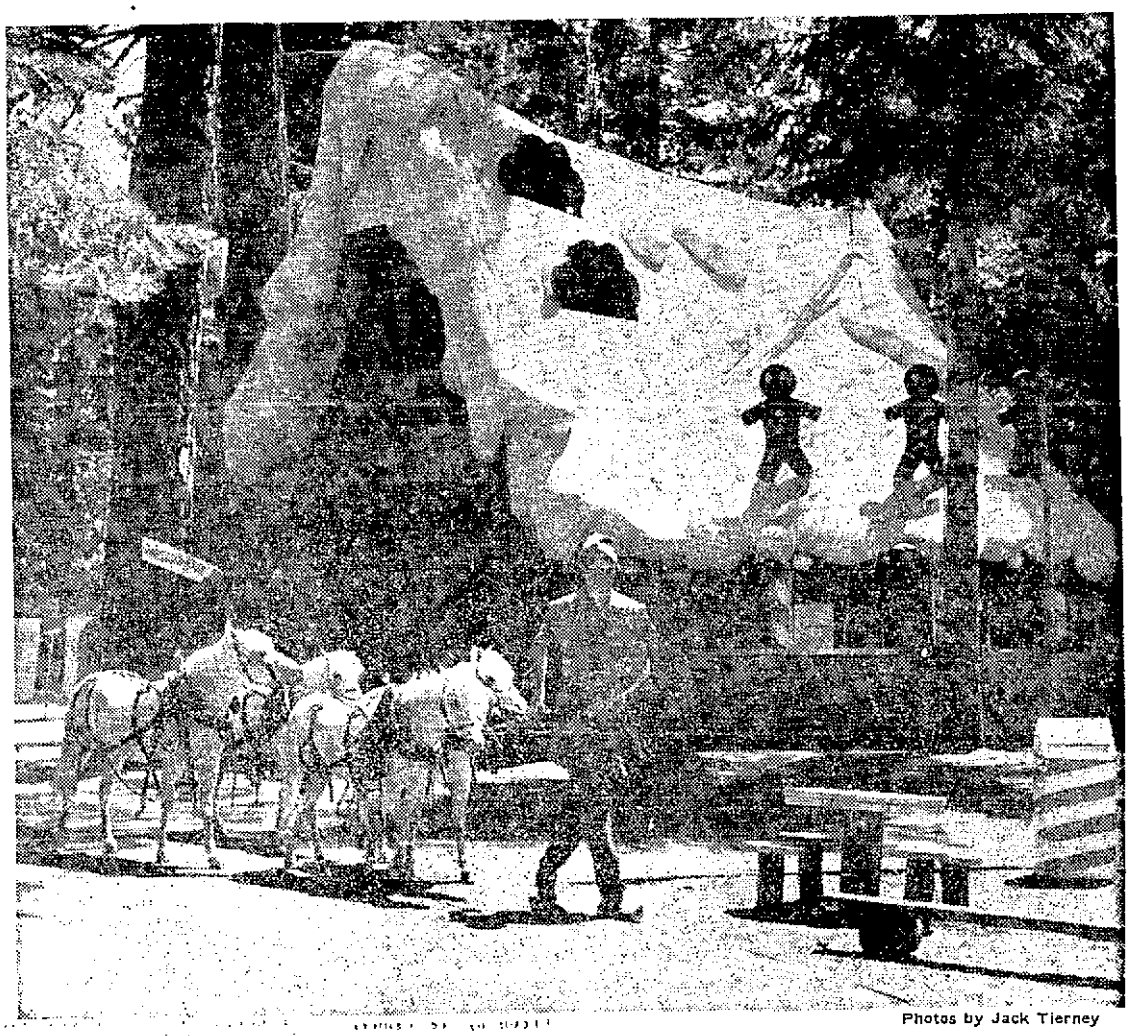

IN CONTRAST, the Chapel of the Little Shepherd provides a retreat for meditation and reverence.

Story-book characters appear with the seasons. Jack Pumpkinhead, Alice in Wonderland and Little Bo Peep will emerge this autumn. A man-sized bunny will emcee an Easter festival in the spring.

Tip to parents: Try to get in a word with Del Bond before your children do. He's quite a promiser.

"Ma! He got my gingerbread!" Patron of village finds this goat sharing goodie.

Gingerbread House at Santa's Village is a source of wide-eyed wonder for the youngsters. The four white ponies will pull a replica of Cinderella's Pumpkin.

Coachella

strictions have until recently prevented improvement of the land. Now the Indians plan a coordinated development program that will remake the map of the spa.

Challenging the future of Palm Springs is the fantastic growth of other resorts to the south. Barren Federal land leased under the Small Tract Act is going so fast they've had to stop taking applications until they catch up with book work.

EVEN SWANKIER than Palm Springs is Palm Desert, 12 miles southeast. That's where President Eisenhower once vacationed and where Bing Crosby has a new home. Just north of Palm Springs, the community of Desert Hot Springs is growing fastest of all—a tenfold population increase since the war.

But the attraction that may dwarf all others is the Salton Sea. The first city on its banks was laid out last May. And calls for a 50-million dollar investment.

The sea, 50 miles from Palm Springs and 230 feet below sea level, is actually a lake, 30 miles long, created just 50 years ago when the Colorado River burst its banks and poured into the dry bed of an ancient lake.

In the Coachella Valley, the new symbols of the desert are the fluttering flags of real estate salesmen. Desert wayfarers, whose predecessors made haste through the wastes as a place of peril, now come just for the fun of it.

When Dave Garroway raises his hand and speaks closing line, he's following old custom as well as novel idea.

TELEVISION

'Peace!--and Some Love'

By Terry Vernon

Independent, Press-Telegram Television Columnist

IN DAVE Garroway's mail recently was a letter from a viewer asking with whom he was patching up his differences at the end of his "Today" program on NBC-TV.

As the "patching up" referred to the raised hand and the traditional, but new to this viewer, closing "Peace!—and some love," it became necessary to explain why Garroway says "Peace."

It has been his sign-off to the radio and TV audiences since his Chicago broadcasting days in the '40s.

"Peace," explains Garroway, "is a word that has been used as a farewell for many centuries. It is something I started to say and it has become my trademark.

"When I came to television and said "Peace!" I raised my hand, which also has been a universal symbol of peace for generations.

THE FINALE of the Garroway salute, "and some love," is yet another story. Garroway says it was something "an old girl friend" used to say to him, "It places love within some reasonable limits — a definite amount of love, which is what she used to wish me. After all, people can't go around giving away all their love to everyone.

"We save the best part of our love for those who are closest to us. So when I say 'and some love' it is just what I mean."

Gomorrah Is Gone

In most minds, the Dead Sea calls up only awesome images of doom and destruction—a stagnant sea surrounded by blasted shores, a lifeless wasteland. The ancient site of the Cities of the Plain which fell in ashes under the fire and brimstone of a wrathful God, has suffered an unappetizing reputation since the time of the Old Testament.

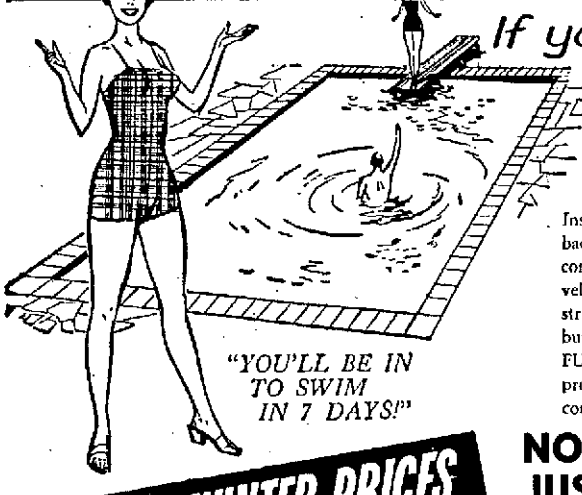

No landscape has been more unjustly defamed. The Dead Sea is of an intense blue. And the surrounding landscape has an austere and dramatic majesty, with scarped slopes broken by deep shadowy gorges, and the famous salt mountains rising in raw beauty against the sky. The atmosphere, far from poisonous, is pure and refreshing, and all around the shores, the scenery is ruggedly romantic.

Besides its beauty, the sea is one of the world's great curiosities. It is the lowest body of water on earth, lying 1,300 feet below the level of the Mediterranean. And while the salinity of ocean water is only 4 to 6 per cent, the Dead Sea contains 23 to 25 per cent of salts.

If Gomorrah is gone, on the shore of the sea still is the little jewel of an oasis town dating from Biblical times called Engedi. Only recently, Engedi has returned to its Biblical glory. In 1956 a group of young pioneers established a permanent agricultural settlement on the site, planting cotton, and cultivating flowers, grapes and vegetables. The excellent winter climate and the water from pure springs in the area bring forth a harvest at a time when no other part of Israel is flowering. The mild temperatures, the sun, the sweet water springs, and its ancient associations make Engedi an ideal resort.

Visitors coming to see Israel's historical and scenic wonders are reaching unprecedented peaks during the festival year. Airlines have increased their schedules to the country, cruise ships are calling in greater numbers than ever before, and travel agencies are offering many new package trips for tourists. El Al Israel Airlines in cooperation with American Express offers three tours of 22, 28 and 34 days. The 22-day tour spends eight days in Israel and also visits Paris, Rome and Capri for $1,237.

Man Underground

By Owen Rhodes

THE CONTRACTING firm for which I worked so many years built many tall structures in Los Angeles. The view was good up top and the air exhilarating in those days before the smog. But through it all much of my interest lay in the excavations and what they would bring to light.

Did anyone ever tell you that one downtown building is placed directly over a bottomless pit of quicksand? We drove friction piling there for weeks in order to assure a stable foundation and used lightweight cinder concrete just in case.

Out at the Southwest Museum we sank a shaft 300 feet deep, from building site to street level, and installed a circular staircase up the length of it. There was a job! We asked Curator Charles Loomis for permission to include a center handrail, but he turned us down. "Nothing doing," the noted authority on Indian culture told us. "I want it fixed so I can stand here at the top and spit clear to the bottom!"

AND ON A JOB for the County Hospital we uncovered the complete skeleton of a prehistoric dinosaur. I was responsible for the much publicized tale about it having gold fillings in its teeth.

Few people now know that there was once a spring at the north end of Spring Street which gave the thoroughfare its name in the old days and furnished drinking water for the tiny pueblo of Los Angeles. When we put in the foundation for the Hall of Justice Building in 1924, it cost the firm $2,000 to seal off this still abundant water supply. We moved down the hill four years later to build the Los Angeles City Hall where we kept a centrifugal pump toiling away at this same stream for months, until we worked out methods of diverting it from the basement floor.

Years afterward I received a frantic call to go to the new Times Building at First Street and Broadway. There, 60 feet below the street level, I found a two-inch stream of water jetting out of the concrete wall of the hydraulic elevator shaft. It was my job to shut off the ancient pueblo water supply again!

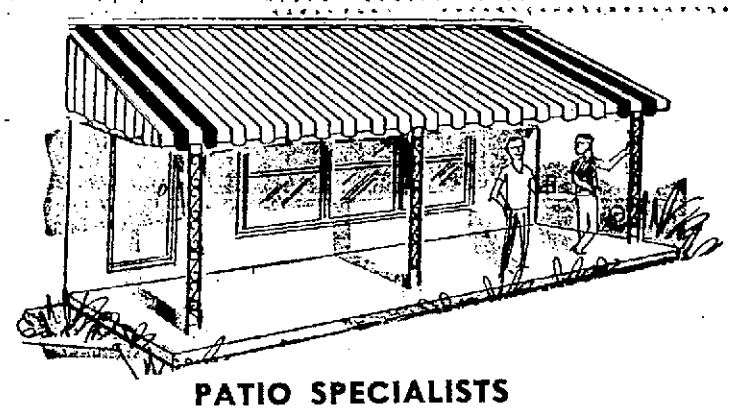

The most intriguing of these incidents took place back at the City Hall. While excavating below the basement floor line for conduit installations we broke through the primitive roof slab of a sealed room. It was commodious in size and well-appointed in the style of the last century. A decanter and glasses, the liquor long since evaporated, stood in the crumbling center table. An ornate kerosene lamp still gave off a feeble glow when a flame was applied to it. Fragments of a newspaper were found bearing an 1887 date. There was nothing to indicate the devious and obscure uses to which this underground chamber had been devoted, or why it had been closed up and abandoned. Just silence and the dusts of time.

We were practical construction me, not archaeologists or explorers. We filled up the place with rubbish and poured a concrete slab over it.

Tours Renewed

Travelers to Berlin are now offered sightseeing excursions to Potsdam and Dresden not available since pre-war days, according to the Berlin Tourist Office. The bus tours to Potsdam leave every Wednesday and Saturday at 10:30 from the Kaiser Wilhelm Memorial Church and cost $5 per person plus a 35-cent reservation fee, and include the cost of lunch.

Visitors tour the city in the morning and in the afternoon see the Neue Palais and the Caecilienhof, returning to West Berlin at 5 p. m.

He Recalls Long Beach When...

Ray S. Julian in front of Lincoln Park Hotel, formerly Julian Hotel, which was built by father, Mike Julian.

By Caroline Coleman

HIS GRANDFATHER built the first house in Long Beach.

His father built the fourth hotel in Long Beach.

He bought the first jitney bus franchise in Long Beach — or anywhere else for that matter, he thinks.

The other day Ray S. Julian, who was born on Christmas Day, 1879, in Downey, and knew Long Beach when it was a barley field beside the ocean, came to Long Beach from his home in La Habra to look the city over.

Julian stood at the southeast corner of 1st St. and Pine Ave., where his grandfather, William E. Skidmore, in June 1873, built the first cabin in Long Beach, a two-room redwood structure, 18 by 25 feet, to house his family while he threshed grain for Jotham Bixby.

HE WENT to the old Julian Hotel, now the Lincoln Park Hotel, 45 Cedar Ave., which his father, Mike S. Julian, built in 1897. It had two stories and 20 rooms in those days, and Julian says it was "mighty fancy."

He stopped at the southwest corner of 6th St. and Pine Ave., where in 1888 he attended the third grade in the old Pine Ave. school.

He didn't walk out there, but he pointed to 8th and American where he was graduated from the Long Beach High School in 1898 in a class of two boys and five girls.

"There was a grand jury investigation to see why the high school was built so far out of town," he commented.

Julian related that his grandfather, William Skidmore crossed the plains from Texas in 1869 with six wagons and 36 mules. In 1872 he moved to Los Nietos Valley (now Downey). The next year he contracted with Jotham Bixby to thresh grain.

Julian drove Shilling's general store delivery wagon in 1898. Here he is with father at the Julian Hotel.

THE HOUSE he built at 1st and Pine was used as a dwelling for several years, then in 1886 was moved over a little and became the barn for the White House lodging house. It was torn down in 1903.

Julian recalls that his parents (his mother was the former Maggie Skidmore) and the three sons, Will, Ray and Ed, spent the summer of 1886 camping in a tent at the northwest corner of Ocean and Pine. "We went swimming every day —all the time every day."

In the summers of 1888 and 1889 their tent was pitched at 1st and Locust.

The Julian family officiallly moved to Long Beach in 1892, and the father built a house on Ocean near Lime.

"THEN MY FATHER thought the town should have another hotel," he said. "The first was the Iowa Villa, 1st and Pine, built in the early 1890s. In 1896 a 'boom' building was moved from the flats between Long Beach and Wilmington to 1st and Pacific, and became the Seaside Inn.

"There also was another hotel, built in the '90s, on the ocean bluff at the end of Lincoln Park. It burned down. I don't remember the fire but I remember looking at the ashes."

The Julians ran the Julian Hotel until 1899, when they sold it. Julian remembers the price of meals—any meal, breakfast, dinner or supper—was 50 cents. Rooms, he thinks, were $1 a night; they might have been $1.50.

(In 1945, the Julian was changed to the Lincoln Park Hotel. Present owner and manager is C. J. Tryon. It now has three stories, 38 rooms, all transient trade.)

JULIAN RECALLS that about the turn of the century his father built the Colonial Hotel, next door to the First Congregational Church, 3rd and Cedar. It was a 16-room structure—and cost $3,500!

"On Oct. 31, 1916 I paid $6,700 for the first jitney bus franchise ever sold by any city anywhere. We had to write the franchise from scratch — nothing to go on," Julian says.

Julian had Ford buses, that traveled on 4th St. to Termino, and Atlantic to Hill. Bus fare was 5 cents. Service was every 5 minutes during the day, he thinks, and 10 minutes at night. He had 16 buses to start.

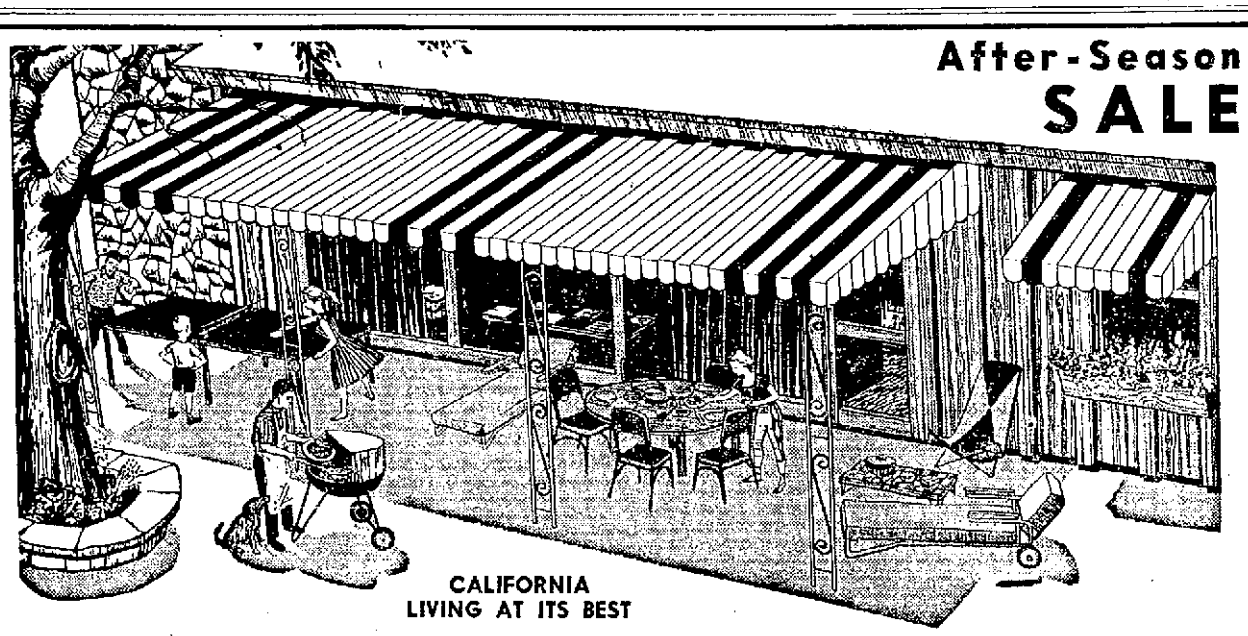

In 1919, John Betts paid $21,000 for a bus franchise on Ocean, 10th and Anaheim, and Julian became traffic manager for him. Betts sold out in the late 1920's.

HERE ARE other Julian recollections in chronological order:

1891: Los Angeles Terminal Railroad was built through Long Beach to Rattlesnake Island, later called Terminal Island, and East San Pedro.

1895: J. C. Nichols trained his hounds for rabbit hunting. But he was never able to beat

SOUTHLAND HOMES

Out of a Dream and Under a Roof

By Eileen Ball

Kitchen-dinette area is an inviting spot to chat, relax or dine. The padded window seat overlooks garden.

TAKE A DREAM — add ingenuity, determination, and a willingness to put patience ahead of impulsive possession—and what is the result in the way of a home? Little short of sheer perfection, if the one built by Mr. and Mrs. Al Smith is any indication.

Working against more than a usual set of obstacles, this enterprising young couple managed to get their dream castle out of the clouds and onto the ground with a real roof on it! It is located at 2220 Earl Ave., and what it stands for is much more than just another good looking house. There's a story behind it, and a challenging one it is.

It all started when Mrs. Smith's mother, who owns a home on the front half of the lot, offered to let her daughter and son-in-law build on the remaining half of this choice property. Naturally, the young Smiths were intrigued. Here was a building site situated right in the heart of a residential area where unoccupied ground is as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth. They could scarcely resist—but how they were to get a house of the caliber they wanted on such a small area of ground, a plot that, to complicate matters, already had a garage on it presented a major problem.

How the Smiths achieved their goal is one story, what they did is another—and the result is the story here.

The Smith's new, two-story, early American home is a far cry from the typical house-in-the-back sort of dwelling. With its outstanding architecture and picturesque country garden, it could well grace the cover of any home magazine.

Small, diamond-paned windows overlook tree-shaded garden paths curving through informal beds of ferns, azaleas, begonias and old-fashioned pinks. A low, white, picket fence with brick posts separates the Smith's yard from the front portion of the lot. A tiny swinging gate opens to a walk leading to the front door.

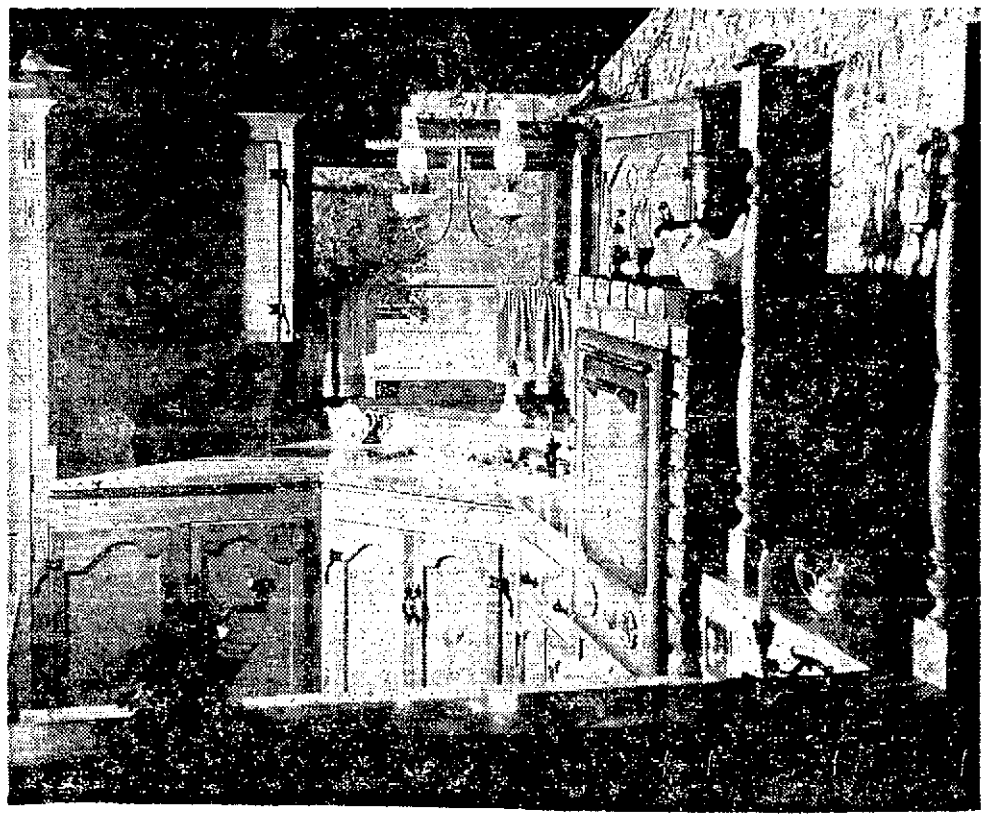

A steeply pitched roof adds a story-book dimension, rising to a majestic, 24-foot height, then sweeping long and low to within a 7-foot clearance of the ground. The lower story of the house is wainscoted on the exterior with used brick. White, band-sawed architectural details define the second story's siding of rough-sawed redwood board and battens.

A DOUBLE-SECTIONED Dutch door features an antique Victorian stained glass panel in a stylized pastel floral design. Inside, a curved entry of waxed green slate is one step higher than the adjacent living-dining area. The latter is floored, by way of contrast, with imported, Danish tongue-and-groove cork squares.

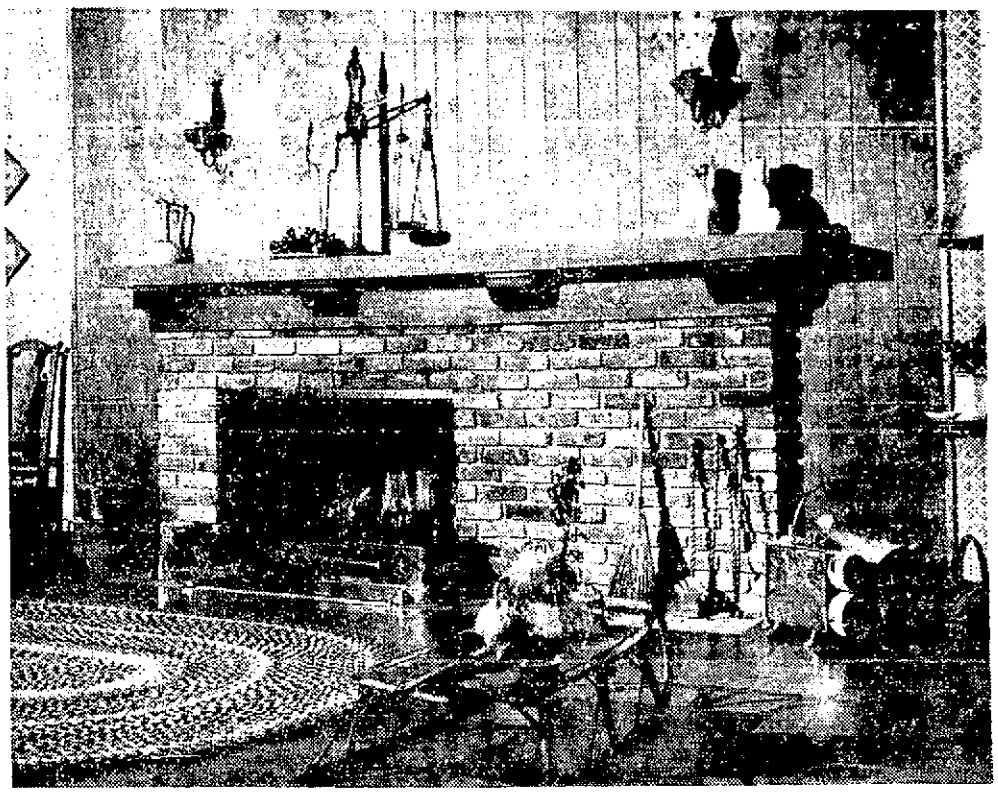

Beyond the entry, the living area spreads out spaciously, topped with a handsome ceiling of fir planks and heavy exposed beams.

To the right of the entry is a kitchen-dinette outstanding for its lavish marble-topped counters and quaint light fixtures.

Everything about this house reflects a certain and unmistakable luxury . . . an aura

Cabinets in kitchen, seen here across a bar-partition of used brick, have raised panels of clear birch. Countertops have pink marble installations.

In early American style, a fireplace of used brick centers living room of Al Smith's home. Sled "coffee table" is one of many antique furnishings.

showcased in the outstanding quality of its workmanship and materials. Both relate directly to the Smiths' philosophy of house building. To wit, "if it can't be done right, it hadn't better be attempted at all." Consequently, every inch of their house is every bit as top-notch as time and ingredient could make it. The house isn't large—consisting of a minimum number of rooms.

A kitchen-dinette, living-dining area, master bedroom and bath make up the plan in its entirety. But every room is spacious, with the result that the number of square feet exceeds that of many homes numbering more rooms. This plan was ingeniously devised to encompass the existing garage on two sides, the whole structure being topped with what appears to be a single sweep of roof. From the front of the house, it is impossible to tell that the two units were thus merged.

ADJACENT TO THE ENTRY is the area designated for dining. Here, wallpaper is a tiny medallion of soft brown and pale gold. Antique pine shutters are installed in the front window. Standing against the wall of the dining area is a simply styled, antique, pine dropleaf table, accompanied by fine, old country, Queen Anne chairs, dating back to 1780. Over the table hangs a French lavabo of earthenware, delicately patterned in pale green.

Waxed, vertical, birch paneling provides appropriate background for the living area assembly of charming and valuable early American and Victorian antiques. A large open fireplace is faced with used brick and spanned with a heavy wood mantel. Overlaying the soft sheen of the cork floor is a hand-made, oval braided rug of wool that splashes a rainbow of color underfoot. Relating to the fireplace is a three-cushion sofa upholstered in unglazed chintz and employing autumn tones of cranberry and olive green on a deep chocolate ground. Before it stands an ingenious and amusing antique that serves the function of a cocktail table. This is in the form of a little pre-Victorian, iron-runner sled that still bears honest "distress" marks incurred years and years ago in the line of active hillside duty. Carefully refinished with bar varnish and hand waxed, it provides a conversation starter.

At the far end of the room, double glass doors open to a grapestaked fern garden. Inside, soft butterscotch casement draperies harmonize perfectly with the wallpaper, the same used on this wall as on the opposite dining end of the room.

Near the French doors stand a good looking wing chair upholstered in sculpture-quilted fabric of olive, gold and brown. Next to it stands a pretty little Victorian sewing table.

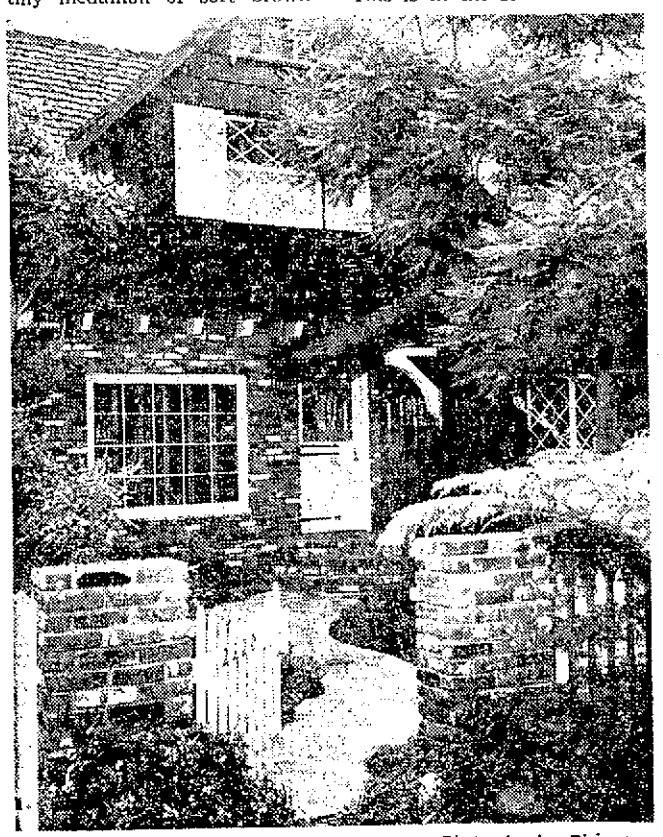

THE KITCHEN - DINETTE elaborately showcases the soft pink Palestine rose marble that tops all work surfaces. Cabinets of natural clear birch feature raised panel doors in the styling of French provincial. The oven is built into a column of used brick; the same material faces the counter-high petition separating the dinette from the preparation area. Into this brick partition has been installed the cooking unit—the whole thing topped with a curving polished copper hood.

Birch, raised panel wainscoting runs the length of the room on one side. Above it—and going all the way to the lofty, pitched, exposed-beam ceiling—is provincial wallpaper in orange, brown and olive against saffron background. In the dinette, a window seat is padded in cocoa and sprinkled with multi-colored pillows. In both areas of the kitchen, antique, Victorian angle lamps light the room.

At the head of the stairs in a little landing that dances with the softly reflected pastel lights of another Victorian stained glass window. To the left of the landing is the bath. Here again, pink marble steals the scene. This time Norwegian rose was the variety selected to top the birch, Pullman cabinet. Inset in this delicate pink and white material is an oval bowl in pale pink. A long plate glass mirror is illuminated by a satin glass, antique light fixture. Wallpaper of soft buff, overpatterned with a provincial medallion in pink, cocoa and sand, tops birch wainscoting that delineates the walls.

SOUTHLAND'S SHORT SHORT STORY

The Anger of Brother Placid

By Lorna Callahan

Illustrated by Clyde Winslow

PLUMP Brother Placid whistled as he walked along the colonnade, his sandals slapping the brick walk which the years had rendered uneven. It was going to be a good day. Strictly speaking, of course, all days were good. Did they not come from God?

Brother Placid nodded his round head in answer to his own question. All days were good because they brought a new chance to serve the Lord, and a fresh opportunity to prove that a man could conquer his ruling passion. Brother Placid's was anger. It was the one vice that had kept him from being a truly great fighter in the days when he was in the world.

Still smiling, Brother bent to examine the wooden bench set under the colonnade for the refreshment of the visitors. The bench had been made by the venerable founder of the mission. And now there was a fresh splinter taken from it.

"AH, WELL." The words escaped Brother Placid's lips like a benediction. Perhaps it was not so much vandalism as the desire to possess a part of something so rich in history.

Brother Placid nodded. That was the pattern his thoughts must take. To do otherwise would be to feed the fires of anger, carrying the unreasonable desire for revenge by inflicting some punishment upon another. Brother Placid's smile broadened, making pink mounds of his cheeks. He would never yield to anger again. His name in Religion was Placid, and placid he would be.

He nodded cheerfully at Brother Cajetan who was proceeding to the vestibule where he would endeavor to sell his wares to the mission's visitors. Brother Cajetan was hollow-cheeked and sunken-eyed, and he had the look of a martyr. Indeed, he was very pious, spending long hours at prayer. His cell was next to Brother Placid's and sometimes he waxed so fervent that his prayers were extraordinarily loud, making concentration impossible for others. At first Brother Placid's anger threatened to rise from the past and thwart his purpose. But at last he controlled his emotions. Brother Cajetan could now shout his prayers if he so desired, for all the effect they had upon Brother Placid.

"QUITE A NUMBER of cars driving in, Brother Cajetan," Brother Placid remarked pleasantly. "It should be a good day."

"I hope so, Brother." Brother Cajetan's voice was weary as he crossed the threshhold of the vestibule and Brother Placid knew what was in his heart. All moneys went into the fund for the restoration of the mission, and the cashbox of the religious goods counter contributed so little.

"Ah, well," Brother Placid smiled, "no labor is lost when done for the love of God." And Brother Cajetan was most zealous in his work.

As for Brother Placid, his task was that of showing the visitors through the mission and his contributions to the Restoration Fund were more substantial.

BROTHER PLACID went into the narrow, high-ceilinged church, which once had known the barefoot tread of Indian neophytes, and proceeded to the altar rail. There, surrounded by age-old statues, old-world pictures and sputtering candles, he knelt and murmured a brief prayer. He begged God's pardon for the defiler of church property, whoever he be, and he asked for continued perseverance against the cardinal sin of anger. Especially he asked for a bestowal of that opposite virtue, meekness.

Refreshed in spirit, Brother Placid went to the vestibule to start off the first guided tour.

The last tour of the afternoon was crowded. Among the busload of tourists Brother Placid recognized a familiar face, though not one he had seen in recent years—not, in fact, since he had left the fight game. Benny Stanofski! Same old crooked nose, same furtive look in his green eyes as if he didn't quite trust his neighbor. The mission was the last place Brother Placid expected to see Benny.

BROTHER PLACID checked his uncharitable thoughts. Only the good Lord was capable of judging the character of Benny Stanofski. In any case, Benny could come to no grief in these sanctified walls. He might even, Brother Placid smiled, get some good out of them.

The tourists proved to be an intelligent group, quickly appreciating the mission and its works of art. And in response to Brother's simple but eloquent explanation of how donations were used, purses opened right and left until quite a pile of bills lay in the basket in Brother Placid's hands. He had never seen such generosity. To each donor he murmured a fervent "God bless you" as they went out of the mission's walled garden.

Setting the basket down, he took a rubber band from the pocket of his brown habit and snapped it around the bills. The Provincial would certainly be pleased, he thought. Restoration was so costly and every dollar helped.

"ALL RIGHT, PADRE, hand it over!"

"I'm not a Padre." Brother Placid turned to explain. "I'm only a humble Brother—" It was Benny Stanofski, and he was holding a gun. Benny did not recognize him. But then, of course, Brother Placid had gained considerable weight since the old fight days.

"Pretty good racket yuh got, Padre. Must be a hundred bucks in that pile." Benny's green eyes devoured the money in Brother Placid's hands.

"It's the Lord's money," Brother Placid told him firmly. "It's not mine personally. Of my own, I have nothing, for I have taken the vow of poverty. But if hunger drives you to do this thing," he eyed Benny's thin cheeks, "I beg you to put away the gun and come with me to the refectory. This is Thursday. Brother Cook will have

The Sportsman Is Beckoned

By Owen Callin

BAJA CALIFORNIA'S northern section is looking forward to what promises to be one of its best hunting seasons this fall and winter because an over-average amount of rainfall during 1958 stimulated the desert peninsula's vegetable and animal growth.

In addition, fishing now is at its peak in the ocean and in the mountain streams. Barred perch are being taken on every sandy beach and anglers who have packed into the high San Pedro de Martir Mountains report that the trout in the abundant creeks are so many and so hungry they are hitting every kind of bait!

That's the condition we found as the result of a recent 10-day swing down the coast as far as El Rosario, visiting our favorite fishing spots and talking to operators of hunting lodges and guest ranches.

FOR THE FINE Baja fishing one may choose any number of spots between Rosarito Beach, a dozen miles below Tijuana, to El Rosario, more than 200 miles farther, where the long road to La Paz leaves the proximity of the ocean to wander into the interior of the peninsula.

Between Rosarito Beach and Ensenada the fisherman will find any number of rocky vantage points or beaches where cabazone, bass, opaleye, perch, croaker and corbina abound. There are thousands of camp sites to park a trailer and let the family have outdoor fun while he's busy wetting his lines in the surf.

At Ensenada he may catch white sea bass and yellowtail by taking one of the many fishing boats which leave the docks daily at 5:30 a.m. and return around noon. The fare is usually $5.

Southward, some seven or eight miles beyond Ensenada, is Estero Beach. Here are excellent places to camp and a modern motel where he may stay while fishing the productive backwaters of Todos Santos Bay.

A ROAD FROM Maneadero, another mile south along the main highway, leads westward a dozen miles to Punta Banda, the outward tip of the mountains which form the southwestward side of the bay, where he may fish from rocks into water 75 to 200 feet deep and expect to catch anything within a wide variety.

Here, however, he must be on the lookout for giant waves which in the past have swept many unwary anglers to their death.

Accommodations from Maneadero southward to San Quentin Bay are mostly along the main highway 10 to 12 miles from the ocean so it is important that the fisherman or hunter take his own camping gear, food and water in pickup truck or trailer. And the paved highway stops at Arroyo Seco. From there on to El Rosario the roads are extremely rough.

First of our favorite fishing spots is Santo Tomas port, reached by a 13-mile road from the highway just north of Santo Tomas. A rocky shoreline where fish lurk in deep holes right at the angler's feet and a sandy beach provide fine fishing. There are some sand crabs and mussels here for bait but it is wise to take along some shrimp, sardines or anchovies.

At Kilometer 181 on the main highway an 11-mile road takes off westward of Erendira, an agricultural village on the ocean's shore marked on maps as San Isidro. North and south of the village are hundreds of camping sites and the coastline is a mixture of reefs and sand beaches. Fish of almost every kind along with lobster, abalone and clams are available. Remember, however, that it is illegal to take lobsters in Mexico from March 31 to Oct. 1.

AT ARROYO SECO one may drive down the river valley to the sea 13 miles away on a good dirt road. A stony coastline here holds more good surf fishing.

San Quintin Bay, 184 miles below Tijuana, has a motel and boats may be rented. Fishermen are taken out to San Martin Island, a few miles off the coast, where banks provide school after school of game fish.

A few miles farther on is the Santa Maria Sky Ranch, where there are fresh-water lagoons bulging with bass up to 18 inches. Luis Collins, our host at the ranch, drove us the mile to the lagoons. From there it is only a couple of hundred yards to the 12-mile Santa Maria Playa, a hard-sand beach which more than equals the famed Daytona Beach of Florida.

In the lagoons we used sidewinders and wobbler-type lures for the bass, hooking them on an average of every third cast. As far as we could learn, approximately 20 years ago some Southern California businessmen planted bass in the lagoons, which are several miles in extent, to build up a good fishing spot in a place where crowds were unknown. Eventually, the anglers lost interest, but the bass thrived and today the quarter-mile portion of the lagoons where they are confined is a hot-spot for the lure fisherman.

AND SHOULD HE TIRE, finally, of this sport he can walk over on the beach and catch as many barred perch and spotfin as he desires from the mild surf, or if his taste is for clams, he may pick up as many Pismos as wants at the water's edge during low tide.

The operators of the Sky Ranch charge a fee of $2 per day for fishing the bass lagoons and $1 a day per car for camping near the fine beach. Or one may stay at the Sky Ranch in modern quarters where the American plan is in effect.

At El Rosario a 13-mile road, extremely rough, rambles out to the tip of Punta Baja where fishing usually is good. However, this trip we found the off-

Typical rocky fishing point along the Baja California coast. Angler here uses a 3-pronged hook baited with mussel for lobsters below undercut reef.

to Baja shore water full of kelp and the angling poor.

The hunter's time began Sept. 1 when the whitewing and mourning dove season opened and continues until March 15 when the duck and geese seasons close. Mexicans are wont to change the dates without notice but here is the present lineup:

Wild turkey, Nov. 1 to Feb. 1; whitewing and mourning dove, Sept. 1 to Dec. 31; duck and geese, Nov. 16 to March 15; pheasant, Nov. 1 to Nov. 30; quail, Dec. 1 to Feb. 28; white-tailed deer, Oct. 16 to Dec 31; Mule or black-tailed deer, Nov. 16 to March 15.

WE CAN TESTIFY as to the plentiful game. Around the turns on every road we traversed we would flush quail or doves. Field rabbits and jacks were everywhere.

According to Collins at the Sky Ranch, where cement blinds have been built along the lagoon which doubles as a duck pond, the sprig, teal, bluebill, ruddy and butterballs come in the earliest, about Oct. 15, followed in November by the brant.

Deer hunting is best towards the mountains, of course, and the hunter may find good guides and accommodations at the Meling Ranch, 31 miles into the hills from the main road on a rather rough trail which bears to the east eight miles south of Arroyo Seco; the Hamilton Ranch at Colonia Guerrero or the Sky Ranch at Santa Maria.

Obtaining a hunting license and permission to take guns into Mexico is an involved procedure. First stop is the local sheriff's office for a certificate that you have no criminal record. Next take the certificate, photos and proof of U. S. citizenship to a Mexican consul's office where to obtain a hunter's certificate (on which is listed make, model and serial numbers of your guns) and a tourist permit.

At a port of entry to Baja, which would be Mexicali (Tijuana is not), you must present your documents at the office of the Secretaria de Agricultura y Ganaderic, 1000 Avenida Reforma, and receive an authorization to pay for your license. Payment is made at the Department of Impuestos Diversos, Oficina Federal de Hacienda, 743 Avenida Madero.

With the receipt of payment you return to the Secretaria, get your papers which have been processed, and take them to an army post where the military will stamp approval. Total cost for everything will be between $25 and $30.

Many Americans who hunt often in Baja leave their guns with friends below the border so that only the easily obtained hunter's certificate is necessary once a year.

One final warning to both fisherman and hunter- the rattlesnakes, too, seem to have increased. Watch wherever you walk.

Hearty Upside Down Breakfast

When heartier first meals of the day become more attractive in the cooler months of the year, Upside Down Breakfast becomes a tempting starter dish.

By Mildred K. Flanary
Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

HEARTIER breakfasts begin to assume more appeal as cooler mornings mark the arrival of the fall season, making summer's roll-and-coffee breakfasts seem to be not quite enough.

Upside Down Breakfast may be the key to a change in fare. It's a combination of meat, fruit and corn bread in one tempting culinary ensemble, and here's the how of it:

In the bottom of a cake pan, arrange pan-fried pork sausage links and apricot halves, making an interesting pattern. Pour the corn bread batter made of enriched corn meal over the meat and fruit and bake exactly like an upside down cake. These three favorites, corn bread, pork sausage and apricots, are a natural for good flavor combination.

TO SERVE this unusual Upside Down Breakfast, turn the corn bread cake out on a platter. The pattern of the sausage links and apricot halves makes this meal truly picture pretty. Let the family cut generous squares of Upside Down Breakfast, add generous portions of golden syrup—then eat. Complete the meal with a combination of orange and pineapple juice plus a favorite beverage. This is a one-dish breakfast that the family will ask for often.

Upside Down Breakfast

Topping:
- 1 pkg. precooked pork sausage links
- 12 cooked apricot halves
- 1 cup enriched corn meal
- 1 cup sifted enriched flour
- ¼ cup sugar (optional)
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 egg
- 1 cup milk
- ¼ cup shortening, soft

Pan-fry pork sausage until lightly browned; drain. Arrange sausage links and drained apricot halves to form a pattern in lightly greased 9-inch square pan.

Heat oven to hot (425 degrees F.). Sift together corn meal, flour, sugar, salt and baking powder. Add egg, milk and shortening. Beat with rotary beater until smooth, about 1 minute. Do not overbeat. Pour batter over sausage links and apricot halves. Bake in preheated oven (425 degrees F. about 20 minutes. Invert on platter; serve warm with syrup. Makes 6 servings.

Cheese Baked Egg Cups are popular and palatable, too, and here's how you do them:

Cheese Baked Egg Cups

- 6 slices bacon
- 4 slices toast
- 4 eggs
- Salt and pepper
- ⅓ cup shredded sharp Cheddar cheese

Fry bacon until half done. Cut toast rounds to fit the bottom of each muffin pan cup. Brush with melted butter. Line the sides of each muffin cup with 1½ strips bacon. Break an egg into each ring and season with salt and pepper. Top each egg with 2 tablespoons grated cheese. Bake in a 325 degrees preheated oven for 20 minutes or to the desired firmness. Remove from pan carefully with a spatula and serve at once. If cinnamon toast is desired, toast one side of bread. Brush the untoasted side with melted butter. Sprinkle with a mixture of sugar and cinnamon and broil for 2-3 minutes or until top is brown and bubbly. Serves 4.

New England Boiled Dinner

- 4 pounds corned beef brisket
- 6 medium onions
- 2 turnips, cubed
- 6 carrots, cut in half
- 6 potatoes, quartered
- 1 head cabbage, cut in wedges

Cover corned beef with water and simmer until fork-tender. Do not boil. Allow about 3 to 4 hours. About 1 hour before serving time, add onions. Thirty minutes before serving, add turnips, carrots, and potatoes. Cover and continue cooking. Fifteen minutes before serving time, add cabbage. Uncover, continue cooking until all vegetables are tender. Arrange vegetables around corned beef on warm platter. Yield, 6 to 8 servings.

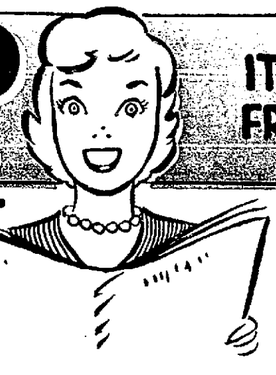

SERVE WITH: Fruit juice, hot French rolls, head lettuce, Cherry Tapioca.

Short Story

baked a most delectable dish of beans—"

BENNY'S TIGHT LIPS curled in a sneer. "I ain't eatin' none of your chow. It's the dough I want. Hand it over before I get careless." He leveled his gun at Brother's ample middle.

Brother Placid stiffened. He was not frightened. But he felt his anger rising, in spite of his noble resolutions. The very idea of this little punk trying to steal that which belonged to the Lord.

Benny's hand suddenly reached out like a claw to snatch the bills. "Awright, now, Padre," he waved the gun, "get out o' my way. I'm going through that gate, and if yuh let out a peep I'll plug yuh."

Brother Placid's lips tightened. Benny Stanofski was still fighting a dirty fight. That last time in the ring it had been with a piece of lead in his glove. Nothing had ever been proved, but Brother Placid knew. Only this time, it was the Lord who was taking the count.

BROTHER PLACID'S anger erupted savagely. His plump fist shot out from his wide sleeve and landed with a thud on Benny's chin. With a cry of surprise, Benny flew backward, the gun scattering in one direction, the money in the other. A roar in his throat, Brother Placid jerked Benny to his feet and hit him again. Hard.

Picking up the gun, Brother Placid flung it over the wall. Then he yanked Benny to his feet again. "Get out of here," he ordered. Benny got.

Brother Placid reached for the bills just as the sandaled feet of the Provincial entered his line of vision. Brother looked up into those gentle eyes. And then he realized his sin. He had given in to anger!

"Brother, I saw the whole thing," the Provincial smiled. "You did right in protecting the interests of God."

WITHOUT A WORD Brother Placid put the bills into the Superior's hands. Then he hurried into the church. Kneeling, he searched his soul. Was I thinking of God when I struck those blows, or was I actually getting even with Stanofski for past injuries? Words from the Meditations came into his mind to accuse him: "A person sins by anger who seeks to punish, not from zeal for God's honor but from a motive of personal hatred or private vindictiveness."

A candle sputtered and went out, and Brother's whole being shuddered. With two angry blows he had wiped out all of his spiritual progress.

HE WAS DIMLY conscious of footsteps coming up the aisle and then someone knelt beside him. There was a self-conscious sniffle, and then: "Padre, I gotta admit I've been having some tough luck lately. But I been thinkin'. How low can a guy sink, robbing the church?"

It was Stanofski. He held out a crumpled five-dollar bill. "Here's one yuh missed."

Brother Placid took the bill knowing that it was Benny's own money, maybe his last. He turned his round face to Benny's hawklike profile and suddenly realized a great truth. One may falter, but one can always start over.

Old L. B.

Herb Wilson's old hound who only came home to eat and sleep and ran for pleasure.

1895: First high school started with 28 pupils in chapel of Methodist Church, 3rd and Locust. 1896 and 1897 classes were held in the Chautauqua Bldg., 4th and Pine, with one graduate—Earl Shaul—in 1897.

1895: Los Angeles River mouth filled with sand from Ocean. You could ride a bicycle or drive your horse from Alamitos Bay to East San Pedro at low tide. The river then emptied into San Pedro Bay.

1895: There was an Edison phonograph, with ear phones, in a tent at 1st and Pine. Price of listening to the cylinder record was 5 cents.

1897: The power launch Point Loma was moved from San Diego to Long Beach. It would take fishermen out all morning for 25 cents.

1897: First inkling that Eastern residents would come here for the winter. Only 600 or 800 people stayed through the winters; in summer residents stayed in tents in their back yards and rented their houses. In summer the beach was covered with tents. In fact, tents were everywhere. It was about 1900 that Iowa decided to move its capital to Long Beach.

1897: San Pedro breakwater was started by Helmeyer & Neu. They were to build it for between 2 and 3 million dollars. They figured to use Catalina rock. The government claimed the rock was not hard enough. Southern Pacific finished with rock from Declez near Colton. It cost twice as much as the original. Helmeyer and Neu went broke.

1897: Long Beach was disincorporated because a councilman supposed to be wet voted dry. It took two years to find out in court if it was really disincorporated so it could incorporate again. Weeds in the gutters and chuck holes in the streets.

1898: Oliver Amsbury brought his sailboat, San Clemente, with auxiliary motor, to Long Beach for fishing and pleasure.

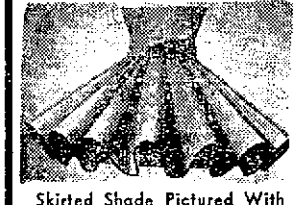

1899: Long Beach voted $100,000 bonds to build a new pier and pavilion for dancing.

1903: Mrs. Chadbourne (first name not recalled) bought the corner of Ocean and Cedar for $12,000. She said she was going to hold it until she could get $30,000. Everybody thought she was crazy.

1904: Pacific Electric paid $17,000 for a franchise to come to Long Beach.

Julian's wife, Eleanor, to whom he had been married 54 years, died last June. He has a son, Dr. Robert S. Julian, of Fullerton, an optometrist; two grandchildren, four great-grandchildren.

Tight Rope!

IRONICAL was the hanging and final words of an early-day Californian.

A self-execution by a man condemned to die is recorded as taking place at Placerville in 1850, when it was a roaring gold mining camp.

A jovial son of Erin, known as Irish Dick, killed a gambler who he believed had cheated him at cards. He had waylaid the gambler after the game, accused him of cheating and, in the altercation that followed, shot him.

Irish Dick did not deny the killing. Given a trial before an improvised court of miners and gamblers, he was found guilty and condemned to die. But he had been a jolly good fellow about town, and no one could be found to perform the execution.

BUT IRISH DICK solved this problem by agreeing to hang himself. He was permitted to arrange all details, even selecting the tree from which he was to swing.

The miners provided the rope and the signal of death was to be given by the sheriff by dropping a silk handkerchief. The sheriff, too, had been a close friend of Dick.

With the noose properly adjusted and carrying the loose end of the rope, Irish Dick climbed the tree and, on a high limb, securely tied it.

Standing on the limb he made a brief speech in which he bade his friends goodbye.

"SO LONG, FELLOWS," he shouted in a clear, steady voice.

"This has been a fine old world and I guess a fellow doesn't really realize it until it's too late. I have loved Placerville. It was a fine compliment you all paid me by refusing to string me up. You are all my friends—I know by your action. However, you've got to have some law and order these days, even if I have to be the example. I killed a skunk who cheated me. He got what he deserved and I believe I would do the same thing again. But the Good Book says we shouldn't kill. The jury said I should die—and I will like a man. Hope to meet you over yonder at the place my mother used to sing about when I was a kid at her knee. So long guys . . ."

Then he indicated he was ready.

THERE WERE TEARS in the motley crowd as the sheriff slowly drew the handkerchief from his pocket, held it poised for a moment while he counted three, and then reluctantly let it drop.

As it fluttered in the air Irish Dick jumped. Like a meteor his body shot into space and stopped with a sudden snap as the rope jerked taut. His neck was neatly broken in the drop.

Loud cheers greeted the heroic maneuver.

The body was cut down and given a respectable burial by his host of friends.

BOOK REVIEWS

The Search and the Discovery

"SO LOVE RETURNS" (Knopf, $3.50), the latest novel by Robert Nathan, concerns itself mainly with a man's search for someone to take the place of his much-beloved wife who has died not long before the story opens. His need is filled by the mysterious, wise and beautiful Kathleen who appears to him on the seashore.

But whether Kathleen is a real person or a figment of the bereaved husband's imagination is left to the reader.

The tale itself is an entertaining fantasy with a Southern California setting. Mr. Nathan, author of some 36 volumes of poetry and prose, now resides in California.

In the book, the main character is a writer of children's stories, and the writer's two children figure prominently in the action. Were it not for the adult viewpoint of the novel, it might be considered a "juvenile," although it deals briefly with the motion picture and television industries in some rare touches of satire.

All in all, the book has beauty of language and thought, and is written in a style which is Robert Nathan's own.

"THE SWORD OF PLEASURE," by Peter Green (World, $3.95); Why did Lucius Cornelius Sulla, Roman dictator before Julius Caesar, resign in his moment of triumph and retire to private life with his work half done? Was it because of the mental agony for the purple birthmark smeared across his face? Was it because he wanted time for life, for love?—he had four remarkable wives. Was it, perchance, because he was sick to death of war? Peter Green, exceedingly promising young English writer, tries to write this historical novel as Sulla would have written it. He sees deeply into the complicated mind of the ruler, he goes with him in his campaigns under Marius, he is at his side in his duel of wits with the African king Jugurtha, he travels with him across Greece and Asia Minor to his momentous meeting with Mithridates. And he tries to understand his strange decision, which has baffled generations of historians. This is Green's first novel published in America.

TAKE A PERSONABLE young daredevil, three luscious women, mystery, blackmail, a murder plot and a lot of information about flying jets.

Stir well, toss onto the typewriter and if you are as lucky as Tedd Thomey you come out with a book as good as his "Jet Ace" (Avon, 35 cents).

Thomey, Independent, Press-Telegram copyreader and "Stepping Out" columnist, utilizes his spare time writing. He has had articles in practically any magazine you name, and he now is finishing his seventh book.

Barth, who hides behind him the memory of service in the German Luftwaffe, must fly 50,000 feet above the earth the new F-120 Super-Jet which already has claimed two lives, one of them the life of his best friend. He thinks of three women: Frederica, Dulcie and Geraldine, all of whom may be had for the asking. And he knows that in some way he must even scores with a maniac who knows his secret and will betray him or kill him.

Thomey plots intricately and at breakneck speed. He condenses all this into 160 brief pages. And pilots admit that he is one of the best in the field in writing about planes that fly at Mach 3 or more.

"THE DAY ON FIRE" by James Ramsey Ullman (World, $5.95): Here we go on a vagabond journey through two continents with a boy poet. He is Claude Morel, whose seamy adventures were suggested by the life of the French poet Arthur Rimbaud. And, like Rimbaud, Morel was for four years—in his late teens—simultaneously "a poet of genius, a visionary idealist and a deliberate wanderer in the gutters of depravity perhaps unmatched in all human experience." For the next half-dozen years, having cleansed himself of writing and debauchery, he continued his tramping through Europe and Asia; and, during the last 12 years of his short life, he was a trader, explorer and gun-runner in the mysterious Near East. Mr. Ullman, while also wandering to tell a different tale, nevertheless comes up with story of a man who has little but contempt for the human race. It is a long book, but it is good stuff all the way.

"HORIZON" (American Heritage, $3.95 a copy, $18 a year): Four years ago James Parton, a publisher, brought out "American Heritage," a magazine in hard covers devoted to American history. "Horizon" is its twin. It carries no advertising and follows the same general format, but within its bright red hard covers it spans mankind's cultural activities, past and present. Says Parton: "'Horizon' will continue to present, in the kind of setting they deserve, great art from all ages and the thinking of good contemporary minds on a variety of cultural subjects." The first edition contains more than a score of topics — cultural, feature stories, odds and ends of all sorts—how to travel by balloon and how by wheel, photos illustrating the Genesis account of the creation, why climb a mountain, the Dutch Republic in its heyday, who likes what kind of art, and what's wrong with the "beat generation." In the 152 pages are 54 pictures in full color, 135 more in black and white. Among contributions are Irving Stone, Igor Stravinsky and Marquis W. Childs. The magazine is an exciting new venture in publishing, and in reading, too.

ADVENTURE AT SEA: Two new books tell the heroic stories of ships and their brave crews. In "ABANDON SHIP!" (Holt, $3.95), Richard F. Newcomb relives the greatest tragedy at sea in the history of the United States Navy—the sinking of the U.S.S. Indianapolis, flagship of the Fifth Fleet, by a Japanese submarine on July 25, 1945 with a loss of 880 men. "THE GREY SEAS UNDER" (Atlantic-Little, Brown, $5) is a stirring Conrad-like story of the small, ocean-going tug Foundation Franklin and its rescue work to save ships crippled by wind, storm and sea in the North Atlantic. Author Farley Mowat spent two years aboard the tug before attempting to write its story.

Big books in small capsules:

"THE TROUBLE WITH LAZY ETHEL" by Ernest K. Gann (William Sloane, $3.95): The author of "Twilight for the Gods" and other classics of suspense and comedy spins another jimdandy with the same

EDWARD STREETER, reporter-turned-banker-turned-novelist, whose "Father of the Bride" is still rolling them out of their easy chairs or into the aisles, has done it again. This time it's "MR. ROBBINS RIDES AGAIN" (Harpers, $3), in which, with the same belly-busting brand of humor, he tells the story of a man who wanted to devote his dude ranch vacation to his young grandson but in making the try found himself in the rough most of the time. But because Mr. Robbins is such a nice guy, he survives every distasteful experience, much to the satisfaction and merriment of the reader. Pity you if you miss getting acquainted with Mr. Robbins!

Iran: Victory Bridge

By C. A. Buch

IN WORLD WAR II American troops used Iran, called the Victory Bridge, to defeat Hitler. If there is another war in the Middle East, Russia will use the same bridge to march into Lebanon, Jordan, Syria, Iraq and Saudi Arabia.

That is the information received by A. Hooshang Zahedi, 220 Quincy Ave., Long Beach, Calif., from his father in Tehran, Iran.

Hooshang's father is in the finance department of the government and, through marriage, he is related to the king of Iran. Hooshang is in this country to get his doctorate as an agriculture engineer at Long Beach State College and Pomona College. He is 28 years old and understands that even though Iran is 6,000 years old, is not Communistic, has a good Army, and 95 per cent of the people are Moslems, they would be helpless without the Bagdad Pact of 1955.

IRAN IS OFTEN confused with Iraq, because of the similarity in names, but Iran is six times as large as Iraq and was called Persia until 1935.

Oil is Iran's major product and the oil industry centers around the Persian Gulf. In 1951 oil was the issue in a dispute between Iran and England. The case was finally settled with help from the United States.

Today, oil is not the major problem. It is the threat of communism.

Hooshang believes that if the United Nations would help the Middle East to build up her health and educational programs and adopt a better tax system, there would be no worry about wars. "That would take the beggars off the streets, raise the standard of living and insure peace," he said.

THERE are 3,000 of Hooshang's countrymen studying in the United States and they like American freedom and the workings of democracy. They attend adult education classes and enjoy the privilege of working. Hooshang thinks that Long Beach is the friendliest city he has ever visited, and next year, if the hostilities have ended, he hopes Iran can send a representative to the Miss Universe Contest.

He also likes New York cut steaks and turkey, but misses Iran's most famous dish: Chicken, Rice and Eggplant. Here is the recipe:

One chicken for 2 persons. Cut up chicken and boil in salted water. Add 1 large onion and juice of 1 lemon for each chicken.

Peel and fry eggplant in butter.

Combine eggplant with the chicken (remove bones) in casserole or large pan. Put eggplant on top.

Add 1 can of tomatoes, salt and saffron. Bake in 350-degree oven.

One cup of rice for each chicken. Boil in remaining chicken broth until dry. Serve.

"THE NEW TESTAMENT IN MODERN ENGLISH" translated by J. B. Phillips (Macmillan, $6): Four tremendously popular translations by an English student of God's word combine to make this easy-to-understand volume: "Letters to Young Churches," "The Gospels," "The Young Church in Action" and "The Book of Revelation."

"BRAUDE'S HANDBOOK OF HUMOR FOR ALL OCCASIONS" by Jacob M. Braude (Prentice, Hall, $4.95): The publishers call this one "a fresh and funny arsenal of 1,363 brief, bright stories and 2,141 humorous definitions—carefully cross-indexed to help you find a story for any audience and any occasion." They were never so right: The man who frequently is called upon to speak is cheating his listeners out of many a good laugh without it.

"REDWOOD CLASSIC" by Ralph W. Andrews (Superior Pub. Co., Seattle, $10): Much has been written about California's big trees but no one has done a more thorough job, and with greater competence, than Mr. Andrews in this 100-year panorama. In addition to digging into just about every know historical archive for his material, he interviewed old-timers whose on-the-spot tales give the book a treasured freshness. The text is augmented by literally scores of photographs, many of them very old and reproduced here for the first time.

NEW PAPERBACK originals (first time to appear in book form): In "The Case of the Strangled Starlet," by Jones Hadley Chase, a clever killer is on the loose with a scarlet cord (Signet, 35c); a man wants excitement and gets it in "Damaron's Gun," a Western by Wesley Ray (Signet, 35c); a witty philosopher entertains royally in "Bertrand Russell's Best," edited by Robert E. Egner (Mentor, 50c); three complete texts make up "The Oedipus Plays of Sophocles," a new translation by Paul Roche (Mentor, 75c).

TOUCH OF Beauty METHOD

Sandra Campbell, NBC-TV actress, admires wall art of fish eluding lazy angler, an easy project in plywood.

Fish Story in Plywood

By Steve Ellingson

IT HAS been said that the highest triumph of art is the truest presentation of nature.

It is upon this premise that we exhibit the masterpiec shown here with N B C television actress Sandra Campbell. The title of this picture is The Poor Fish. It's a good picture because it's an excellent presentation of nature. It depicts a relaxed easy-going fisherman and the big one that got away. How much truer to nature could an artist get?

Everybody wants to be an artist, but as Rembrandt once said, "Would that we could paint with the eyes! In the long way from the eye through the arm to the brush, a great deal is lost."

But we have fixed that. We've come up with some ideas that Rembrandt didn't know anything about. It's a means whereby the pupil can capture and perpetuate the expressions of the master.

THE METHOD IS very simple. All that's necessary is to get a couple of pieces of plywood. Upon these pieces of plywood you trace the full size picture patterns.

Next paint over the tracings. After that connect the two pictures with a string from the pole to the hook and you're ready for the unveiling. You may choose to use copper for the art rather than wood. In either case, the results will be good.

Rembrandt further said, "never judge good art by it's defects." That's fine with us too. We feel that decorating a home is to enhance living—not to kill it with perfection. In any case, this is the kind of picture everyone enjoys. After you have made one, you will see. The pictures make excellent gifts.

To obtain the full size fishing picture pattern No. 84 send 25 cents in coin to Steve Ellingson, Long Beach Independent Press-Telegram, 15155 Saticoy St., Van Nuys, Calif.

quaint comforts of the typical early American home. Tongue-and-groove Douglas fir plank flooring — a full two inches thick— provides the floor for the bedroom and the ceiling for the living room below. Every plank has been hand pegged with walnut dowels . . . again exemplifying the fine attention to detail that keynote this unusual home.

In a wall of white paneling is a small fireplace faced with used brick, its raised used-brick hearth displaying an antique, polished-copper fender.

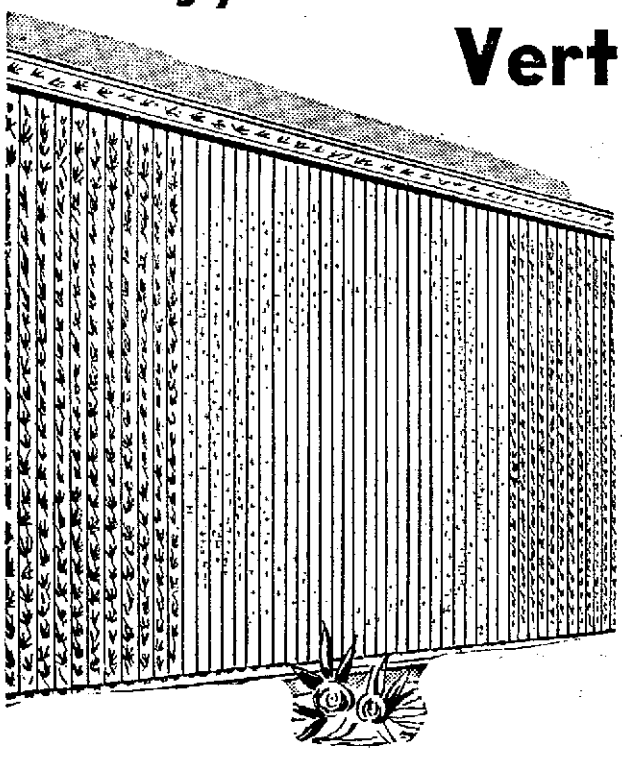

Window dressings are composed of pine louvers and cafe curtains of old-fashioned lace. Wallpaper of pale cocoa patterned thickly with tiny stylized gold and yellow daisies contributes a sure touch of sunshine to this room that adjoins a dormer dressing area.

In the latter, white, louvered doors open to twin wardrobes lined with a romantic cedar. Between the two, and overlooking the garden below, is a deep window seat.

HOW TO Fit Air Conditioner Into Room Decor

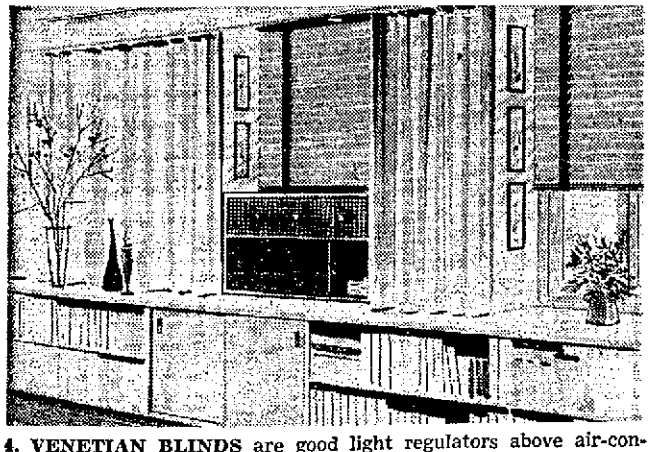

1. SHUTTERS HIDE THIS small-window conditioner when it's not in use; cafe curtains above regulate light and privacy when unit is on or off. You could reverse the treatment or use all shutters or all curtains. Note that furniture is kept to one side so air can flow freely in and out.

2. FABRIC OR WOOD SLAT shades and draw draperies adjust to the season. Here, three separate shades regulate light, give warm-weather privacy. (Use opaque shades on south or west windows to insulate.) Draperies can draw across all three windows when air-conditioner is turned off.

3. EXTRA LONG BRACKETS set rods out from wall so draw draperies can cover conditioner that projects into room. Cornice board adds neat appearance. Short draperies operate on separate rod to close above conditioner. Shallow table was selected to use next to extending window treatment.

4. VENETIAN BLINDS are good light regulators above air-conditioners. They are next to glass on these inset windows. When conditioner is turned off, draperies draw over outer wall, completely covering windows and unit. Bookcases flush with window ledges give the wall a finished look.

This Gadget Tricks the Eyes

By Jack Taylor

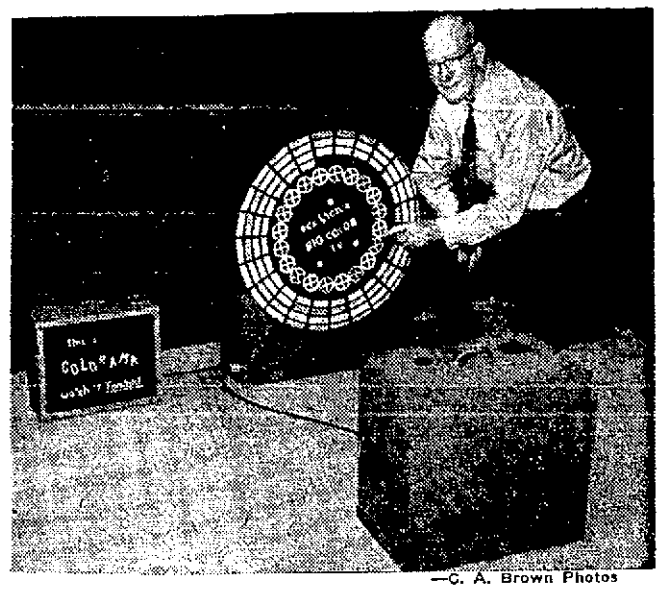

WHAT MAKES a wagon wheel seem to turn backward on your TV screen while the wagon is actually racing forward at top speed?

An inquiring mind, plus a wide engineering and advertising background, were applied to this problem by Jack T. Jones, as far back as 1947, when he first came to Long Beach from New York City.

The answer, of course, is what scientists call "persistence of vision" which plays astonishing tricks on one of the most important of our five senses—vision.

Gaze at the sun for a very short time and then close your eyes. "Persistence of vision" paints a perfect portrait of the sun on your closed eyelids. The "picture" of the sun persists in your mind.

STUDYING THIS phenomenon, Jones reasoned that if he could harness these same principles to store window displays, he would have a new and uniquely effective attention-getter.

—C. A. Brown Photos

Jack T. Jones explains his invention he calls "Colorama," which tricks the eyes.

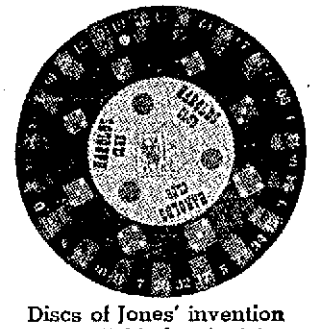

Drawing upon more than 20 years of advertising experience with large agencies in the East, plus M.E. and E.E. degrees from Cornell University, Jones went to work on basic research in "persistence of vision."

His experiments, conducted during the past five years in his workshop at 5304 Brittain St., covered many types of light sources and numerous compositions of color and form. Neon, fluorescent and tungsten filament lamps were used in various shapes and sizes. Scores of colorful rotating advertising discs were built.

OUT OF THESE years of study and experimentation has come what Jones has named "Colorama," a brand new idea in display of movement and color. He says that complete patents and copyright protection is under way and that prominent advertising executives who have marvelled at the spectacle of Colorama have stated that it could bring a booming new industry to Long Beach.

Basically, Colorama is fairly simple: A special ultra-hi-speed light generator that emits a series of powerful light flashes of incredibly short duration (about 2,000 light flashes per minute, each lasting about 1/3,000th of a second). These flashes are projected upon a whirling disc, upon which the advertising design has been painted in brilliant colors. The ever-changing movement of the pattern is extraordinary.

FOR EXAMPLE, one disc carries large colored, spoked wheels which circle, reverse direction, double in number, change color constantly—while a trademark performs a mad dance in the center and gradually comes to a momentary stop. On another disc, a cartoon face appears to wink his eyes, smile broadly, change color of his nose and puff a cigarette—merely by whirling a disc and spraying it with light. Each disc is entirely different and each demonstrates a different application of "persistence of vision."

Discs of Jones' invention play all kinds of tricks.

To confirm his belief that Colorama will be a crowd-stopper in store displays, he is testing its value for the first time in the window of Dooley's Hardware Mart, 5075 Long Beach Blvd.

A Nose Nobody Knows

Here is Tony and his too-perfect nose — the nose that got him his start but had to be made over.

Tony Curtis, who made his climb to stardom in "pretty-boy" roles, has suddenly discovered that he is too handsome! It happened in the early stages of United Artists' "The Defiant Ones." Tony had the lead role, playing an escaped convict. But rush takes showed Tony was just a bit too smooth looking—he just didn't look like a man who had lived the hard life of the wayward.

UA's bigwigs of production went into an immediate huddle and came up with the decision that, if Tony's nose were changed, he'd be their man. But smashing a valuable property like Tony's nose wasn't in the cards, even if Tony would hold still for it. So, do the next best thing—make him a false nose. Presented here are Tony's nose, a putty nose and the nose nobody knows—and we leave it to you if Tony doesn't look more rugged with the putty schnozzle.

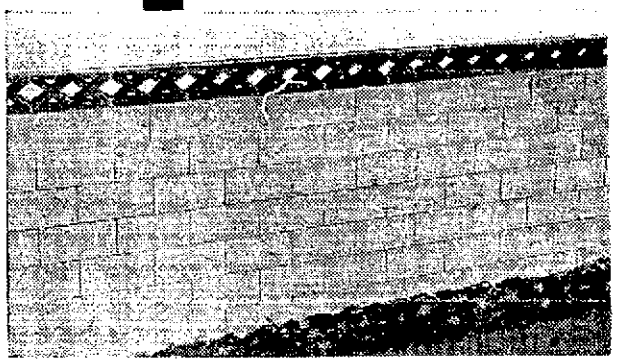

Don Cash, studio make-up man, applies the putty that's due to revolutionize the good-looking Curtis profile.

You'd never know the nose, but Tony Curtis is under it—and, by the way, Cara Williams seems not to mind.

Fido Should Be Kept Quiet

Gaines Photo

Boy and dog, a famous combination. As school days are renewed, children coming home from school should give dogs attention, making up for summer play now missed.

By Eleanor A. Price

NATIONAL Dog Week starts on the third Sunday of each September shortly after school has reopened. Usually this means the dog has a lot of readjusting to do.

The boys and girls he has enjoyed all day through the summer are suddenly no longer around much of the time. Perhaps even the mother of the home has taken a job.

This is an excellent time to observe Dog Week because many dogs need reassurance and help if they are not to sit at a locked back door and cry all day or bark at every leaf that autumn breezes skip across the yard.

Undoubtedly, many working parents have no idea how much the family dog is stirring up the neighborhood with his racket, and, of course, there are some who actually do not care.

The dog is blameless for the trouble he creates. So teaching him to be a respected part of the community is one of the best things you can do for him. A dog with nothing more to do than yap or cry is an unhappy one.

If the dog is to remain in the yard, every effort should be made to teach him not to bark incessantly. A capable person should "play like" he isn't home, then when the dog barks needlessly, he should dash out and give sharp commands of "No! No!"

IF THIS DOES NOT work, remove the tops and bottoms from three or four tin cans and tie them loosely together with stout cord. When the dog barks, toss the cans at his heels. (Try not to let him see you.) The clatter, repeated as necessary, usually gets the lesson across.

Provide your pet with several objects which he can chew. Avoid those toys with dingle bells inside that can easily work out and perhaps be swallowed. Don't give the dog bones, as they wear off enamel on the teeth, and, if fresh, draw flies. A teething puppy, however, may have a knuckle bone large enough so it can't possibly get lodged in his throat.

Give your pet a cool, dry resting place and a plot of ground in which to dig and "nose out" all those wonderful imaginary gophers.

As soon as children come home from school, they should romp with the dog to let it know it hasn't really been forgotten.

And, if you want good relalationship to exist between you and close neighbors, tell them that you want your dog to be well behaved and that you do not object if they give sharp "No! No!" commands if your dog is annoying them.

BOTH THE GERMAN Shepard Dog Club and the Poodle Obedience Club are holding admission-free shows today at North Hollywood Park.

SANTA ANA Valley Kennel Club presents its AKC plan B sanction obedience match and all-breed dog show (dogs from two months old up are eligible) at La Palma Park in Anaheim on Sept. 28. Entries close at noon of the show day.

Reduce air swallowing with the new Curity Rib Nipple
(PATENTED)

Scientifically designed to fit baby's mouth—new hollow side ribs provide continuous flow of formula

Here at last is a nipple that significantly reduces air swallowing.

The Curity Rib Nipple is the result of years of development and hundreds of clinical tests. Heartily endorsed by obstetricians and pediatricians.

This new nipple helps make finicky feeding a thing of the past . . . end those long-night vigils due to colic.

As you might expect, the Curity Rib Nipple costs slightly more than others (35¢ for 2 nipples or complete nurser). When it comes to your baby, don't you want the very best?

Hollow side ribs make feeding easier because they:
- provide continuous flow despite biting
- fit the mouth, reducing air intake
- permit use of naturally pliable rubber —more like breast feeding

"Anything we can read beforehand that will make our trip to Mexico more enjoyable?"

Your bookstore should have some of the books by Frances Toors who really dug into Mexico by town and fiesta.

Personally, I am an aficianado of "The True History of the Conquest of New Spain by the eyewitness soldier of Cortez—Bernal Diaz and Castillo.

This is a pretty thick volume. But there is a recent one called "The Bernal Diaz Chronicles" that prints just the high-light chapters.

The best city guide book I ever saw listed is printed in Mexico—John Wilhelm's Guide to Mexico City. Available everywhere in Mexico City and well worthwhile.

"What sort of clothing for a trip to Rio de Janeiro this winter?"

VERY light! Rio is broiling in the winter. City type dressing. Men wear suits downtown even though it is shirt-sleeve weather. I think these tropic weight drip-dry suits are the best.

New Version of an Old Favorite

By The Shutterbug

REVOLUTIONARY changes have taken place in the 4x5-inch press camera field. The familiar Speed Graphic, long the symbol of the newspaper photographer, has reached the end of its trail. In its place emerges the all new "Super Graphic 45" in a heroic effort to maintain the position of the 4x5 camera to counter a trend toward smaller cameras.

The new look and drastic changes start with the basic box of the Graphic and affects almost every working feature of the camera. The body is now made of aluminum to give lightweight durability and is finished in charcoal and gray for a two-tone smart look.

The old focal plane back has been completely eliminated and in its place is a revolving back which goes a full 360 degrees in any direction with click stops for proper positioning. This will appeal to left-handed photographers and make it easy to change horizontal or vertical format while the camera is on a tripod.

GONE IS THE DISTANCE scale at the front end of the focusing track. It has been relaced by a focusing scale on the top of the camera for easier visibility. In addition, a flash calculator has been combined and coordinated with it so that the act of focusing on the subject automatically gives the correct lens opening for a flash photo. It is first necessary to set a dial to the correct guide number for the flash and film being used.

Internally, the Super Graphic has an electric disposition. It has a built-in BC circuit with self-contained batteries and internal connections to the lensboards and for flash synchronization. When any of the interchangeable lensboards are locked in place the electric hookups are completed. A button on the camera, located under the thumb when holding the camera, trips the shutter electrically. Or it can be operated from the flash accessories which are connected with the camera and fired in synchronization either on or off the camera.

TO ASSURE PROPER connections, a new "Y" cord is provided with a 3-prong polarized plug at one end which fits on the camera body in only one position. At the other end, the two 2-prong plugs are marked for insertion in the proper outlets on the Graflite battery case. No other wires are necessary or can dangle in front of the lens or viewfinder and the camera can be closed with the flash cord still connected.

Greater flexibility has been engineered into the front lensboard. It tilts forward and back, rises and falls, swings right and left and shifts to either side. Either singly or in combination along with a drop in the track bed, these activities accommodate extreme wide angle lenses, correct optical distortion, maintain parallels and increase the depth of field when shooting from an extreme angle. They are especially valuable to commercial or architectural specialists.

In handling, the camera seems to have a nice balance and "feel." And one notices other touches of precision engineering—like opening and closing the camera by turning either of two knurled knobs. Actually these are the focusing knobs and a slight movement of the focusing track is what closes or opens the camera.

THEN THERE IS the quick slide-off release of the focusing panel of the revolving back to accommodate other accessories. These, like the film pack adapter, roll film holder, Graflex magazine and Polaroid back, slide on and click into place and become part of the revolving back.

The focusing hood can be snapped off to reveal the full groundglass for critical study with a magnifying glass. It snaps back into position. A metal clip across the bottom of the focusing hood holds the dark slide conveniently while a picture is being shot with cut film.

Another clever convenience is the Presslok tripod mount. This fits any tripod permanently yet a simple, two-finger pressure either mounts or unlocks the camera instantly. Two pins on the accessory fit into two keyhole locks on the Super Graphic to assure safety and rigidity.

All of these features add up to a shot in the arm for the large camera in bucking the shift to 35-mm. and 120 roll film cameras.

Lightweight, internally wired new Super Graphic 45 is bid for return to popularity of old 4x5 press camera.

Start Now for Better Stocks

By Joe Littlefield

Stocks grow faster, bloom earlier, are less likely to suffer stem rot if they're planted early in the season.

WE USED to think stocks and snapdragons shouldn't be planted until mid-October when weather is cool to cold, but we've had good luck with stocks blooming earlier when planted out now. Brompton type stocks are low growing, and about the earliest blooming. Mild weather encourages faster growth.

Another advantage in planting stocks earlier is that just about the time they've reached their peak, the snapdragons bloom. That way, there's a longer period of flowering from these two types of plants set out in combination, each group by itself but planted in the same flower bed.

Keep the plants moist to cushion the shock of transplanting from pony pack or flat into the garden, while the weather still is hot.

Keep chrysanthemums watered well, and bathe the foliage early in the forenoon. Plants with flower buds not showing color yet should be fertilized with a complete plant food.

Camellias, fuchsias, azaleas, and rhododendrons, should have the foliage bathed several times a week, while the weather is hot and dry.

FRUIT TREES should be watered well. Generally, after deciduous trees have finished bearing fruit they are more neglected than the evergreen trees. Deciduous trees need watering because they still are developing new growth.

Dichondra lawns tell you when they're thirsty and need a drink of water. Walk over part of the lawn. If the stepped on leaves don't pop back into position, its time to water them!

Our dichondra lawn, planted in 1942, grows in a medium to heavy soil. It is watered for about half-hour periods about three days apart.

Oxalis weed is one of the sneakiest of weeds to control in a dichondra lawn. Unless carefully eliminated it gets well started before it is noticed. By then, it is much harder to root out. Runner branches spread out, like an octopus, twisting in between the dichondra leaf stems and making it difficult to pull up the runner branches.

THERE ARE SEVERAL oxalis weed killers on the market that may be used safely to control oxalis in dichondra lawns, provided you apply the chemical material carefully.

Several of our garden column readers tried the materials, and reported they had good luck with them. Some mature crab grass weeds already are scattering the weed seeds to grow in the lawn next year. During the winter they lie dormant, awaiting warmer spring weather to sprout.

Head off the younger crab grass from maturing and scattering seeds by killing the weeds now. Your local nurseryman will recommend crab grass weed killer to use.

GRASS LAWNS badly infested with weeds may be more easily renovated by simply killing off the whole lawn now, with a weed killer that doesn't permanently sterilize the soil. They sterilize the soil for perhaps three weeks or so, then you're ready to sow grass seed, dichondra seed or plant dichondra clumps.

Killing off the badly weed-infested grass lawn with a safe weed killer saves lots of heavy work raking over the lawn, mowing it close before sowing seeds and top dressing with steer manure.

Approximately three weeks after application, simply scratch up the soil with an iron rake, sow the seeds, cover with steer manure, moisten down well, and keep moist until the lawn is mowed the first time.

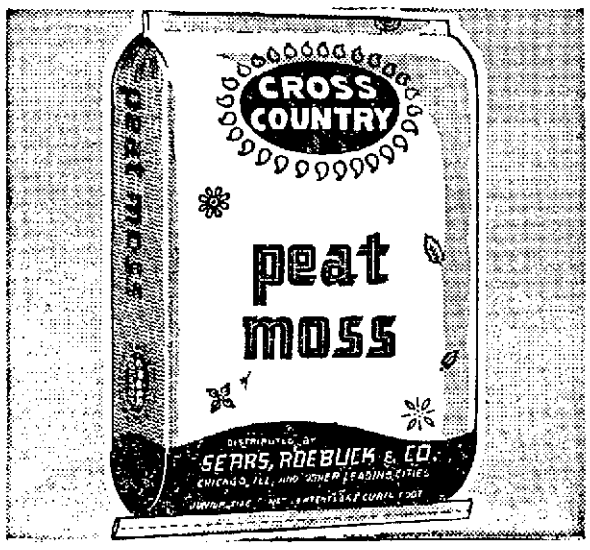

Gardening Tips

GARDEN TIPS for the week . . . Chrysanthemums are now growing actively, and should be watered about once every ten days. Feed the plants at three week intervals until the buds show color; then discontinue feeding but continue watering.

Subtropical plants such as citrus, avocados, hibiscus and bougainvilleas may be planted at this time and as long as warm weather continues. After planting keep the soil sufficently moist to encourage rapid development of the roots. Plant the subject at the same level it occupied in the nursery.

Keep after the insects, spraying or dusting about once every 10 to 14 days. As long as the weather remains warm you can expect plenty of bug activity.

Vertical Accents for the Garden

Juniper variety twisted provides an interesting and different effect to accent points in the landscaping.

By Bob Gilmore

When the leaves on your rose bushes or on any of your plants or shrubs begin to turn pale in color as the season draws toward a close, spray or sprinkle them with common everyday epsom salts fixed with water in the proportion of 4 ounces epsom salts to 3 gallons water.

The foliage absorbs magnesium from the epsom salts through the breathing spores of the plants; and the residue runs off into the soil and is accepted by the little fiber roots. Lack of magnesium is one of the principle reasons for pale foliage. An additional measure of correction is to pour a good trace element product into the soil to correct the condition on a more lasting basis and to fortify plants for the remainder of the fall.

This is just about your last opportunity to treat camellias and azaleas in this way for finer blooms in the coming season. When the buds start to swell, it will be too late.

VERTICAL ACCENTS are necessary in every landscape. Either trees or tall growing shrubs may be used. The latter are highly valuable for producing pleasing effects at the corners of buildings or in angles formed by the structure of a house.

Before purchasing any plants that are to be used for vertical accents you should obtain their size at maturity.

Your nurseryman will be able to give you this information. The point to keep in mind is that these ornamentals must blend attractively with their surroundings when they attain maturity. If they remain dwarfed or, on the other hand, grow out of bounds, you will have accomplished nothing.

A RATHER NOVEL but extremely popular vertical accent plant for this area is juniper variety twisted. There are many junipers available for landscape purposes, but this is one of most interesting. The branches are tufted and twisted, a characteristic that gives the plant its name.

This juniper attains a height of eight feet at maturity, and thus fits admirably into even small landscapes. It is extremely hardy, tolerating cold down to five degrees below zero. It does well in either sun or half shade.

Another variety that has an aspiring habit of growth is the arborvitae, variety thuja orientlais Beverly Hills. This plant is perhaps better known as the golden column arborvitae.

The foliage is a delightful shade of golden-green and for framing doorways or as a specimen plant this is one of the best. Keep in mind that a maturity it may grow to a height of 21 feet.

EUGENIAS are one of our most prominent landscape plants, thriving generally throughout Southern California. One fairly new variety is eugenia Armstrong, which reacts favorably to pruning and is not quite as tall growing as other related varieties. Thus it is possible to keep this subject clipped back to whatever height seems most advantageous for low buildings.

Eugenia myrtifolia is also quite popular for vertical accents, growing to 30 feet or more. Also tall growing is variety hookeri, which is extremely hardy and produces leaves considerably larger than those of eugenia myrtifolia.

All eugenias enjoy a very easy culture and once established thrive practically without any attention from the caretaker. Due to the tremendous foliage production they do require fairly regular waterings.

THE ITALIAN CYPRESS, cypressus sempervirens, makes a tall, slender accent and is quite valuable for formal patterns. This variety grows to a height of from 30 to 40 feet.

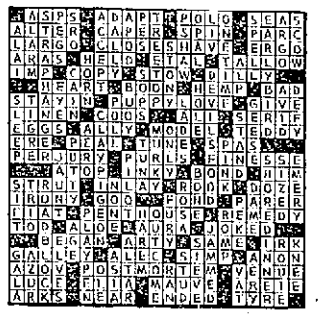

The tecate cypress is an aggressive grower and may put on 10 or 12 feet of growth in just a few years. The foliage is quite attractive, being a beautiful silvery green. Other plants for vertical accents include; ficus, Irish juniper, podocarpus and the Ellwood cypress.

Kill Crabgrass

Gardeners can now take advantage of the invigorating fall weather by doing lawn care work usually considered as one of many Spring jobs.

Fall applications of PAX Crabgrass and Soil Pest Control, the pre-emergent crab grass control, should be applied now to assure next Summer's lawn free of ugly crab grass. Available at all leading garden supply dealers, it is an arsenical and chlordane combination that not only kills crab grass seeds but provides ample nitrogen for the Fall lawn feeding. The manufacturers say PAX will also kill annoying lawn pests such as lawn moth larvae, ants, grubs, earwigs and cutworms.

Columbia forces Vim to yield in final elimination for America's Cup series which began Saturday at Newport, R. I. Vim heeled far over, missed collision by inches.

BOAT TALK

For the Owld Mug!

By Bob Ruskauff

WEATHER (always!) permitting, over an ocean roadstead out from Brenton Reef lightship off the coast of haughty old Newport, R. I., the greatest series of races in the world witnessed by the fewest people, is under way today.

Britain has sent over Sceptre to meet America's best in the four-out-of-seven series, and America's best is Columbia which beat out Vim in final trials. The Cup series began Saturday.

Should any care to lay it on the line (and plenty will or have, fret not), the odds should slightly favor the American 12-meter sloop to beat the Britisher, which carries the first challenge in 21 years for the 107-year-old America's Cup.

In 1937 Harold S. (Mike) Vanderbilt's half-million-dollar Ranger won four straight races from aircraft builder T. O. M. Sopwith's Endeavour II, over a windy Block Island Sound course.

THAT "HALF-MILLION" above is significant, for that 1931 series was probably the last ever to be sailed for the historic "owld mug," as the most sporting and colorful of all the challengers, Sir Thomas Lipton, called it, by the big, costly J-Class sloops.

The 12-meters by over-all rule of measurement, would appear in relative size about like a two-bit piece to a silver dollar.

It would be prohibitive to build the J-sloops and race them any longer in quest of a bauble said to be intrinsically worth about $100.

Besides, as canny Matt Walsh pointed out to the writer years ago, the 12-meters will present much more fair competition. They can be carried across the sea on a steamer deck, yet are big enough to represent the epitome of yachting.

Somehow, though, it seems the grandness of America's Cup competition was built, not by a class of boats, but the unflagging zeal of one man:

Sir Thomas Lipton—big, red-faced, mustached—who spent 30 million dollars and made 14 unavailing tries, between 1899 and 1930, with his fleet of Shamrocks. Sir Tom, a sportsman to the core, made of the America's Cup performance something truly epochal.

BOAT HOOKS: In the Southland today, stock outboards race at Carlsbad; final Whitney Trophy competition; Los Angeles Yacht Club's Santa Barbara Island race is under way; Alamitos Bay YC's long summer series continues.

Tony Guillen Fond of Beef Too

LOTS OF AMERICANS are pretty much convinced that the Mexican diet is restricted to tortillas, enchiladas, tamales and other starchy items.

Well, it ain't necessarily so.

Actually Mexicans are great beef eaters. Mexico has many famous ranches which grow fine cattle, and you will find splendid steaks featured on the menus of Mexico City's better restaurants.

The foregoing notes help to illustrate why Tony Guillen features steaks at his good-looking El Patio No. 2 Cafe, 3503 Atlantic Ave. He has found that more and more Americans are learning to appreciate the pleasure of steak eaten with Mexican side dishes.

The outstanding steak on Tony's menu is a generous-sized T-bone. Tender and juicy, nice and thick, it is grilled exactly like a T-bone you will find in any other good American restaurant. The enjoyable difference, of course, is the fun our American taste buds have as the steak flavor is complemented by alternate mouthfuls of super frijoles and Spanish rice. (For those who prefer their steaks a la straight American, Tony offers French fried potatoes in place of the frijoles and rice.)

EL PATIO No. 2's T-bone is only $2 on a large dinner which includes delicious albondiga (meat ball) soup and a crisp green salad with cream French dressing. The steaks are garnished with tomatoes, lettuce and olives and the price also includes hot corn tortillas, coffee and assorted excellent desserts. For $1.50 the restaurant offers a Steak Ranchera which is a more typical Mexican item. This steak is covered with a Mexican sauce. The price includes the same complete dinner as previously mentioned.

The cafe offers a tremendous variety of other Mexican items, all modestly priced, including Tony's famed Special Combination plate for $1.45. Equally excellent are the dinners at his El Patio No. 1, 337 Pacific Ave. (closed Sundays) and his La Casa de Fiesta cafe, 8562 Garden Grove Blvd., Garden Grove. —TEDDY THOMEY

He Didn't Even Kiss Me Goodnight!

A DRAMATIZED STORY ABOUT A WIFE WHO WORRIED ABOUT HER HUSBAND

Posed by professional models.

NIGHT after night my husband came home from work all tired out. He was nervous, irritable — and barely touched supper. Most of the time he'd just sit around for a while — then drop into bed, asleep as soon as his head hit the pillow. Often he didn't even kiss me goodnight . . . and yet I knew I had a good man — one who really loved me.

I know a man's tired after a day's work — but my husband was simply "dead on his feet"! You'd think he'd forgotten all about me!

Then one day we saw a Vitasafe ad in a magazine. It told about other men like my husband who had once felt tired and run-down, who had lost their pep and energy. It said that this condition may be caused by an easily corrected vitamin-mineral deficiency, and that thousands of people had experienced a feeling of increased vitality and strength through the famous Vitasafe Plan. It offered to send a trial 30-day supply of powerful Vitasafe High-Potency Capsules so we could discover for ourselves whether my husband could be helped.

We had nothing to lose, so we sent the coupon. And believe me, it was the smartest thing we ever did. Now my husband's like a new man. He feels stronger and peppier than he has for a long time!

If you want to help someone you love get rid of that tired, run-down feeling, due to a vitamin-mineral deficiency, send for a 30-day trial supply of Vitasafe capsules as we did. Just mail the no-risk coupon today.

EACH DAILY VITASAFE CAPSULE FOR MEN CONTAINS

LIPOTROPIC FACTORS, VITAMINS AND MINERALS

Safe nutritional formula containing 27 proven ingredients: Glutamic Acid, Choline, Inositol, Methionine, Citrus Bioflavonoid, 11 Vitamins (including blood-building B-12 and Folic Acid) plus 11 Minerals.

To prove to you the remarkable advantages of the Vitasafe Plan . . . we will send you, without charge, a 30-day free supply of high-potency VITASAFE C.F. CAPSULES so you can discover for yourself how much stronger, happier and peppier you may feel after a few days' trial! Just one of these capsules each day supplies your body with over twice the minimum adult daily requirements of Vitamins A, C, and D . . . five times the minimum adult requirement of Vitamin B-1 and the full concentration recommended by the National Research Council for the other four important vitamins! Each capsule contains the amazing Vitamin B-12 — one of the most remarkable nutrients science has yet discovered — a vitamin that actually helps strengthen your blood and nourish your body-organs.

Glutamic Acid, an important protein derived from natural wheat gluten, is also included in Vitasafe Capsules. And to top off this exclusive formula, each capsule now brings you an important dosage of Citrus Bioflavonoid. This formula is so complete it is available nowhere else at this price!

POTENCY AND PURITY GUARANTEED

There is no mystery to vitamin potency. As you probably know, the U.S. Government strictly controls each vitamin manufacturer and requires the exact quantity of each vitamin and mineral to be clearly stated on the label. This means that the purity of each ingredient, and the sanitary conditions of manufacture are carefully controlled for your protection! When you use VITASAFE C.F. CAPSULES you can be sure you're getting exactly what the label states . . . pure ingredients whose beneficial effects have been proven time and again!

WHY WE WANT YOU TO TRY A 30-DAY SUPPLY — FREE!

We offer you this 30-day free trial of valuable VITASAFE C.F. CAPSULES for just one reason. FRIGIDAIRE ADVANCED APPLIANCES... DESIGNED WITH YOU IN MIND

ROYAL DEFENSE by Queen Elizabeth took form of a hasty rendezvous following a four-month absence by Prince Philip.

APOLOGIST for baseball's Leo Durocher, wife Laraine Day "explained" his famous remark that "nice guys finish last."

Should famous men's wives go to bat for them?

by MARYLIN BENDER

It's happened again. A few weeks ago, the Navy held a ceremony to celebrate the under-ice voyage of the submarine Nautilus—and failed to invite Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, "father" of the atomic sub. Whereupon a stung Mrs. Rickover, following the example of wives throughout history, came out of her kitchen with adjectives flying.

"The stupid windbags who run the Navy," said she, "they are really out to hurt my husband. It would have been nice if once—just once—they'd have let George enjoy the fruits of his success."

The Admiral (his wife is probably the only person who calls him "George") is no slouch at speaking up himself. But when reporters asked him to comment on Mrs. Rickover's outburst, the response was feeble:

"You can't control your wife."

Men in the limelight have been embarrassed by self-willed wives for a long time, but wives have remained wives. Back as far as Biblical times, when husbands were slighted, snubbed, insulted or otherwise done dirt, wives have gone to bat for them. Sometimes the weapons were words, sometimes actions, sometimes a gesture. And often they were harmful, not helpful.

One of the first cases in history of a wife interceding in her husband's career was that of the Biblical matron, Jael, who went to bat—literally—for her husband, Heber the Kenite. Jael considered Sisera, the Canaanite general, a menace. She invited Sisera to her tent and lulled him with a bottle of milk and a blanket. Then, at this cozy moment, she snatched up a club and creamed him, fatally.

Other wives have been much less direct, much more dignified—but just as effective, in their own way. Probably the most eloquent instance of a wife coming to her husband's defense—and without a word—came just last year. At that time, London rippled with rumors about a rift in the royal family. Prince Philip had been off on a cruise for four months; there were nasty rumors of afternoon parties and another woman.

The Lipstick Defense

Publicly, Queen Elizabeth said nothing. But one day she boarded a royal plane and flew to Lisbon to meet Philip's yacht. When the plane landed, Philip dashed up the ramp and the door stayed closed several minutes. Then both emerged—the Queen wearing a happy smile, the Prince a smudge of lipstick.

It was a dramatic defense of a husband under fire—but delivered in a dignified and queenly way.

But other high-level intervention by wives in history has been a good deal less successful. Thus Marie Antoinette's naive retort, "Let them eat cake," has been blamed for starting the French Revolution—and losing her and her husband both their thrones and their heads. Mary Todd Lincoln kept her husband in constant hot water: she called Secretary of State Seward a "dirty abolitionist sneak," and wrote snappish letters to newspaper editors. On the other hand, Madame Chiang Kai-shek has made almost a career of speaking up for her husband—and with results.

On Parade

We never realized until Aug. 17 how many of our readers are experts in Arabic. PARADE on that date told how to speak three key phrases in 12 languages, one of them Arabic. Seems we're a bit rusty in that language. Readers point out that "Ah-nah SAH-heh-bahk" means "I am your friend," and "Sah-AH'eed-nee" means "I need your help." We had them vice versa.

Next lesson: Esperanto. Grace Randolph of St. Petersburg, Fla. takes us to task for not including that language on our list. She tells us how to say our three phrases in Esperanto: "Mi estas Amerikano" (I am an American). "Mi bezonas vian helpon" (I need your help). "Mi estas via amiko" (I am your friend).

Ever bake Anadama bread? Now's your chance. PARADE's food editor Beth Merriman gives you the recipe on p. 26. She says Anadama may have this origin: A Maine fisherman, tired of the corn bread his wife Anna made, took the bowl from her and tossed in some new ingredients. While baking the mixture, he muttered, "Anna dam'er. Anna dam'er."

True or not, Miss Merriman baked a batch and says the man was a real chef. In fact, she and her staff sample all her recipes in PARADE's test kitchen. When photographers come to take pictures, there's a big feast—afterward. Author of 10 cookbooks, Miss Merriman says half the fun of her work is sleuthing for new recipes. The other half? Sampling them.

Want a trip abroad? With all expenses paid? You can win one with one word: a name for the Republican elephant or the Democratic donkey. See p. 12 for details.

Help us find a name for Betty Crocker's new kitchens!

We've moved! And look what's happened to our Betty Crocker kitchens! Just as you feel about your kitchen, we feel that ours are the heart of our home. They're sparkling new. Bigger, too – because you've liked our new products and new recipes so much, we just had to have bigger kitchens to keep up with you!

Do come see our new kitchens! And even if you can't come, you can have the fun of helping us find a name that fits them. A name like "Betty Crocker's Friendship Kitchens" . . . or "Betty Crocker's Cookery Corner" . . . or "Betty Crocker's Kitchens of Tomorrow." What name can you think of? Study the pictures on these pages to get ideas. The more ideas, the better—because you can enter our "Name the Kitchens" Contest as often as you please. You may win the home of your dreams—I hope you do!

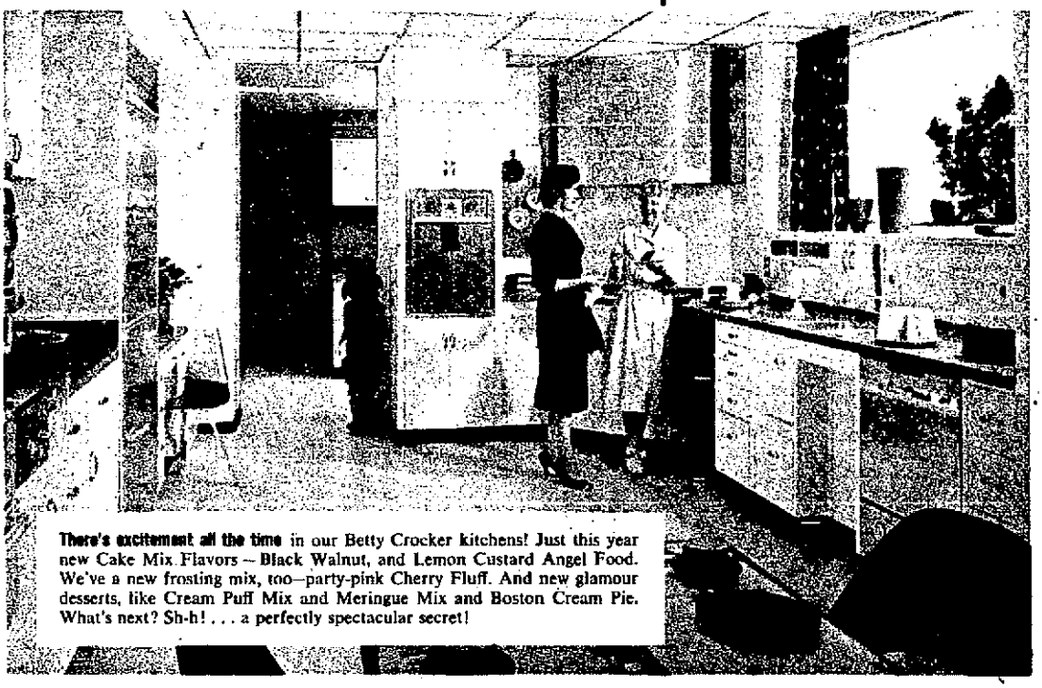

Betty Crocker — General Mills

Here's where we create new recipes to help you have more fun with our Betty Crocker products. We test our mixes, too—here and in hundreds of home kitchens like your own – to make sure each recipe in a box will come out perfect for you. Pictured, a test of our Angel Food Mix.

Our Early American dining room has a new coat of yellow paint. Except for that, it's hardly changed since 1750, when much of it belonged to an old New England farmhouse. This room and its treasures help remind us all that old-fashioned hospitality is never-changing, too.

There's excitement all the time in our Betty Crocker kitchens! Just this year new Cake Mix Flavors – Black Walnut, and Lemon Custard Angel Food. We've a new frosting mix, too—party-pink Cherry Fluff. And new glamour desserts, like Cream Puff Mix and Meringue Mix and Boston Cream Pie. What's next? Sh-h! . . . a perfectly spectacular secret!

The kitchen you'll love most, perhaps, is carefully planned to save space, save work, save steps. Everything you need is right in the spot where you can reach it easily to do each job —cupboards for cooking pans close to the range, salad-making utensils by the sink. You'll find lots of ideas here that you can use right now, in your own home. If you win the grand prize in our "Name the Kitchens" Contest, you might even have a kitchen patterned after this one – as modern as tomorrow!

Charles Wilson gets kiss from wife, who said Ike's remark was "uncalled for."

Some loyal wives just can't keep quiet

In view of this checkered record, is the wife's place in the kitchen or on the soapbox? In the opinion of personnel consultant Jules Z. Willing, Mrs. Celebrity — or any other wife — should stay aloof and be quiet, no matter how much it hurts.

"A wife can play an effective role behind the scenes," Willing says, "but for her to step into the limelight is to displace her husband from his rightful role. It intimates she has the courage to say what he dares not say.

"In Mrs. Rickover's case, the remarks are based on emotional grounds, and these are considered a woman's province. But even so her husband, openly or by implication, must disassociate himself from them."

One of the more emotional pop-offs came last year when then Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson implied National Guardsmen were draft-dodgers. President Eisenhower labeled his remark "very unwise"—and that brought Mrs. Wilson into the fray. Ike's comment, she said, was "uncalled for." And she went on from there:

"I think the President should have stood back of Mr. Wilson, instead of spending his time commenting on how wonderful Foster Dulles has been. Mr. Wilson has been trying to do a good job. I think Foster Dulles is a good man, too, but I don't think he has done any better than a lot of others."

Mrs. Wilson Flies High

The next day, however, the President sportingly gave the Wilsons a lift in the Presidential plane, and finally Mrs. Wilson decided she "wasn't mad at anyone any more."

At the other extreme are wives who speak only through actions. Thus the case of Lilli Palmer and Rex Harrison.

One day in 1948, Harrison bounded into the Hollywood home of Carole Landis to find the actress dead by suicide. Gossip linking the two burst loose. Lilli flew across the continent, squelched tales by tagging Carole "our friend," stayed quietly by Harrison's side and saved his career.

Her defense, however, had an ironic ending: in the divorce courts. Today, Rex and Lilli are married to others.

The Big Backfire

In the sports world, where men are forever subject to boos and criticism, wifely defenses are common. The most notable, however, backfired—loudly—against Mrs. Chuck Dressen, wife of the ex-Brooklyn Dodger manager (now a Dodger coach) Dodger President Walter O'Malley had offered Dressen a one-year contract. His missus helped him write a letter asking a better deal. The result: he got no contract at all.

Laraine Day, married to the outspoken Leo Durocher, has worked quietly to tone down her husband's more acid remarks. Occasionally, however, she has felt called upon to defend him, as when she explained his famous crack that "nice guys finish last."

"Leo," said Laraine, "didn't mean that an intrinsically nice guy can't win. What he meant was there isn't time to be nice when you're playing to win and Leo never plays except to win. Leo's nice guy is someone who doesn't care if he wins or loses."

And in 1956, when Ed Price resigned as football coach at the University of Texas, his wife shot this barb at his critics:

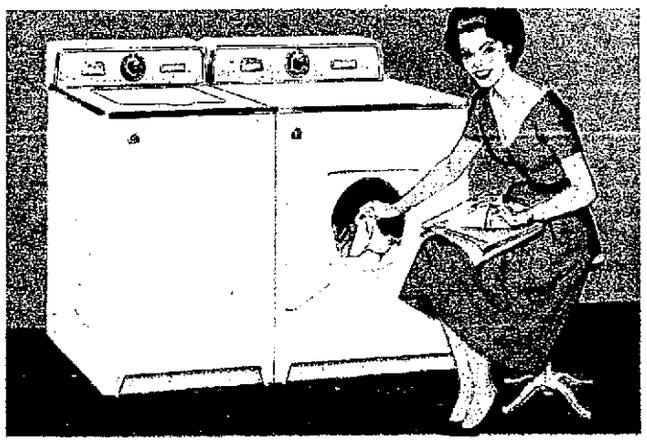

"This season I sat in the children's section, and I made an interesting discovery. Children don't criticize the coach. They don't quarterback every play—and they're always for the home team."

It was a different twist on a wife's defense of her husband, leaving more unsaid than said. But even Jael, the old clubwoman of long ago, would recognize a kindred spirit. ■

AN AUTOMATIC FOR EVERY BUDGET

Sooner than expected—

THE JETLINERS ARE HERE

In flight, a Jet Clipper heads for Paris, a mere 7-hour hop from New York.

by LLOYD SHEARER

Parade West Coast correspondent

Jet travel begins in November when the Boeing 707 goes into regular passenger service. What are the new planes like? What can you expect? Here are some basic, first-hand answers

SIX MONTHS ahead of schedule, the jet airliners are here.

By early November, you'll be able to fly from New York to London in six and a half hours, and by January from Los Angeles to New York in four and a half hours.

Pan American World Airways and American Airlines already have taken delivery of their first Boeing 707 passenger jets. Reservations for jet travel this year are now being accepted at Pan Am ticket offices. There will be no extra charge for jet travel. Prices will be the same as for propeller-driven aircraft.

What you'll get for your money, generally speaking, is a faster, smoother, more vibration-free, 600-m.p.h. ride in the most thoroughly tested airplane-type in the history of aviation.

By the end of next year, United, Continental, TWA and other airlines will be operating a pure jetliner fleet of approximately 90 planes. These will consist mainly of Boeing 707s and Douglas DC-8s. Passengers will then begin to regard prop-driven aircraft as old-fashioned. They'll be saying, "Who ever heard of spending nine hours flying from Newark to Oakland?"

By 1960 when the Convair 880s, which cruise at 615 m.p.h., are delivered to the airlines, there will be a total of some 400 jet transports (including the British Comet IV and the French Caravelle) flying the air routes of the earth. It will then be possible for you to fly pretty nearly anywhere by jet, or around the world in 40 hours.

Take the scheduled time for any air trip today. Reduce it by 40 to 50 per cent and that's how long the same flight by jet will take.

The first thing you notice about the Boeing 707 is its tremendous size. It's almost 50 yards long from tip to tail, half the length of a football field. It seats 124 first-class passengers or 150 in tourist class.

When you enter the cabin through one of two doors located at the front and rear of the plane, the length of the cabin will surprise you. it is 104 feet long. Stride up and down a few times, and you've taken a healthy stroll.

Best Seats Forward

The cabin is 25 feet longer than that of the latest long-range propeller airplane now in service.

You'll notice two lavatories and a galley in the front section of the plane, two lavatories and a galley in the rear. The lounge is forward, as are all the first-class seats, in contrast to prop-driven aircraft where tourist passengers are seated up front and first class aft.

The reason is that the most comfortable seats in a jet transport are up front. In the rear you can hear the whine of the engines. Up front, once your plane achieves cruising altitude, you are almost completely noise-free.

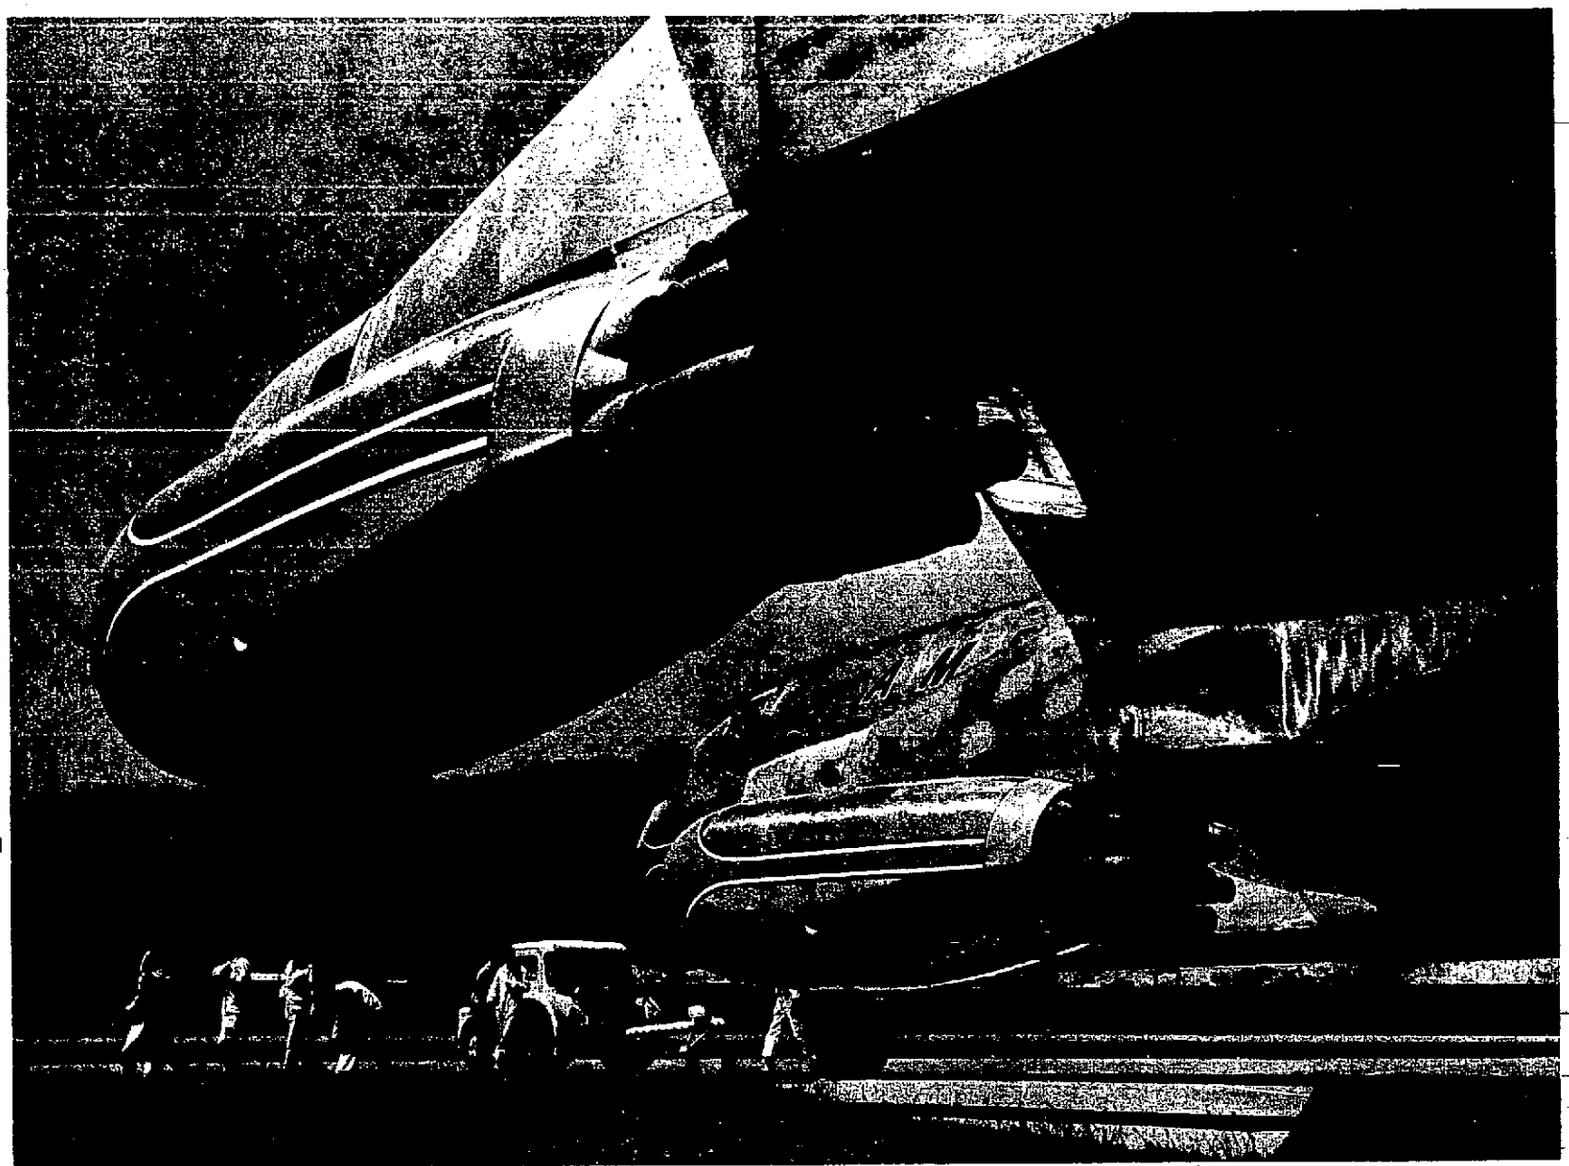

The 707 is remarkably light and airy. This is largely because it has 98 passenger windows, more than twice the number of any prop-driven aircraft. Each window is made up of three panes, two pressure panes capable of withstanding 8.6 pounds of pressure per square inch, and one lightweight inner pane. The cabin is 12 feet wide, a good 4 feet wider than most of today's planes, and can seat as many as six passengers abreast.

It's scientifically air conditioned, with the air rising between the inner and outer sidewall of the plane and passing between the panes of each window. This prevents any view-obscuring condensation on the windows, which are clear all the time.

As you seat yourself in the 707, you'll find a passenger service unit above your seat rather than on the wall as it is in the prop-driven aircraft. The unit contains the customary "No Smoking—Fasten Seat Belt" sign, a stewardess call button, individual reading lights, individual forced air inlet, emergency oxygen system outlets and a passenger address loudspeaker. The jet interior has been constructed so well acoustically that "music to travel by" is practical. Most of today's prop-driven aircraft are too noisy for really satisfactory hearing of music. In a jet one listens to music well and comfortably. There also is talk of showing movies on long distance jet trips. (This is already being tried by Air France.)

SPACIOUS CABIN of the B-707 can seat nearly 150 in tourist class (above), about twice as many as today's DC-7C.

Sound suppressors, tubular attachments on each engine, help solve noise problem, especially acute in takeoffs. The B-707 has undergone rigorous testing since 1954.

The jet takeoff is markedly different from prop-driven takeoffs. The noise from outside is shattering. Inside you hear the engine whine, but it is not disturbing. The pilot, cleared by the control tower, opens his throttles, checks his instrument readings and down the runway you go. You need 30 per cent more runway for a jet takeoff because the acceleration rate of jet engines must be sustained for a longer period of time in order to get off the ground.

Steep Takeoff

At the correct air speed (about 170 m.p.h.) the pilot pulls the nose up. The jet can climb 3,000 feet or more per minute. Present-day propeller airplanes leave the ground in takeoff at a nearly level altitude. The Boeing 707 noses up from the ground at a steeper angle. Before you know it, you're shooting up at a 45-degree angle to a height of 30 or 35,000 feet.

The comfort of most air journeys is determined by the weather. At 35,000 feet you're flying above the weather. You're in the earth's troposphere, which is virtually clear of cumulus clouds or thunderheads. At 10 miles per minute there is no speed sensation, since there is nothing relative to measure your speed by.

You sit back in specially constructed foam-rubber chairs and relax until the stewardess waits on you. Most jetliners will employ from three to five cabin attendants to serve you. These will have to work at one-meal-per-minute speed to take care of a full passenger load. (On short trips of 400 to 750 miles there is talk of serving snacks instead of full-course meals because of the time element, but this hasn't been decided yet.)

If the weather below is clear, you'll enjoy a 200-mile view of the terrain below. Landscapes, mountains, cities, deserts—all of these pass in miniature, as if you were looking down upon a set of small toys. At 30,000 feet the sky ahead is clear blue. At 40,000 feet it deepens to indigo, and when the sun starts to go down, you'll observe that night doesn't "fall," as the poets say; rather it drifts upward from the ground until it envelops the plane in darkness.

The best thing about a jet ride is that it is enormously comfortable. If you've heard stories about how you can stand a half dollar or a pencil on the edge of a table or your arm-rest while in flight, they're true. The ride is free of the tiring vibration you feel in propeller-driven aircraft. The jet engine, smaller and simpler than the piston engine but more reliable and three times as powerful, provides more speed and comfort by making possible the construction of larger, more spacious transports.

The landing of a jet is no more difficult than the landing of a prop transport. As a matter of fact, landing requirements for jets are less than takeoff field requirements, which means that the 707 can put down, if it has to, in pretty nearly any major airport. The plane is equipped with two sets of ailerons, four-wheel main landing-gear units instead of two, and thrust reversers which are used after landing to brake the airplane to a smooth stop. The 707s also are equipped with "wing spoilers." These are flat plates on the upper surface of the wing which can be raised or lowered hydraulically from the cockpit. They slow the airplane or check its descent.

Trouble-free Engine

Test pilots tell me the 707 has more flexibility in the rate of descent than prop-driven aircraft.

Says test pilot Lew Wallick, "Jet transports handle easier than piston-engine aircraft. A pilot doesn't have to worry about propellers going sour which has always been the most dangerous part of the piston-engine plane. He doesn't have to worry about his engine since jet engines are relatively trouble-free. He doesn't have to worry too much about the weather because his altitude range takes him above it."

Unfortunately, jet engines on the ground are noisy, and this poses a huge problem. I have heard the Boeing 707, the Douglas DC-8, the Comet IV and the Russian Tupelov 104 all warm up prior to takeoff, and the whine of their engines is sharp, piercing, throbbing, loud, frequently painful—and infinitely more annoying than the noise from propeller-driven aircraft.

Experts say jets are safest planes built

When I mentioned this to a jet transport manufacturer recently, he handed me charts showing that the noise range of the jet engine and the piston engine were similar. "How come," I asked, "that all the members of the ground crew servicing your jet are equipped with ear plugs or helmets or both?"

At that moment the No. 1 engine on a jet transport started up. "I can't hear you," the manufacturer shouted.

How the airlines are going to lick this noise problem has yet to be solved.

One suggestion is to have jet aircraft towed out to runways by tractors before the engines are started. Another calls for the erection of glass canopies over the ramps leading to the planes, to help filter out the high-compressor whine.

Jet engines must be accelerated to almost full capacity before the aircraft takes off. Because of this, the takeoff noise is considerable. People who live near airport approach paths are sure to complain.

Jet noise can be reduced by sound suppressors, but when a sound suppressor is added to an engine tailpipe, it reduces the thrust of the engine which in turn reduces the payload, the cruising range and the overall safety factor of the aircraft.

So where are we?

New Era, New Problems

As one airline executive points out, "We are standing at the front door of a new age, the jet age. Each time a new era begins, there are problems to be worked out."

In addition to the noise problem, what are the others? From the industry point of view, there's a financial problem. The airlines are having a tough time borrowing money to pay for their new transports which cost from $4 to $6 million each. They have to pay $4 billion by 1962 for new jet equipment and are shy $763,700,000 in financing.

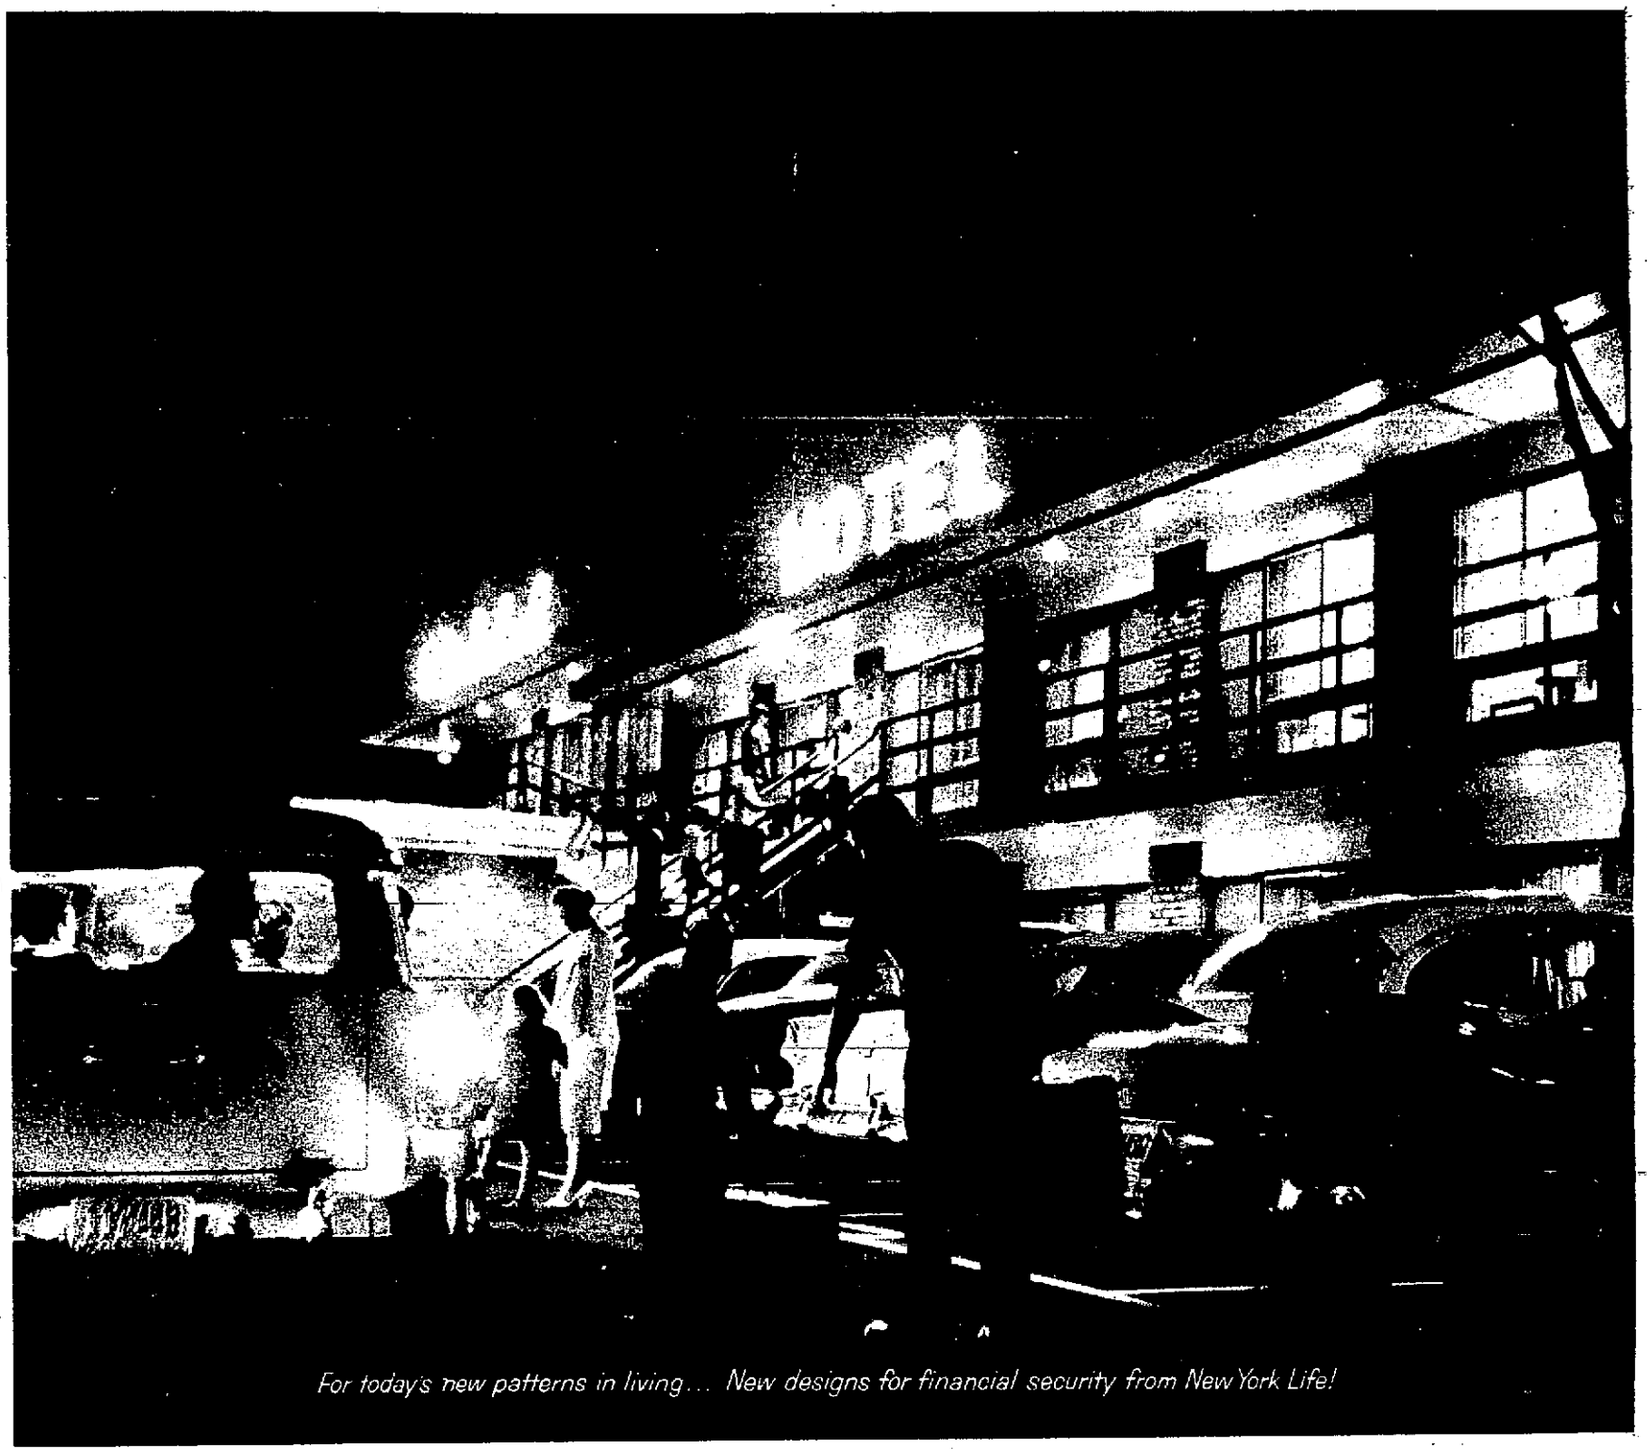

How safe are these jet transports? Aeronautical engineers, test pilots, airline pilots, military pilots all agree that they're the safest aircraft ever built. What worries operations men, however, is the air traffic problem. How do you prevent mid-air collisions when jets are flying between cities at 600 m.p.h.? At such speeds you cannot avoid collisions on the "see and be seen" principle currently used by pilots. The tremendous speeds at which two jets approach each other make evasive action virtually impossible and the altitude between 20,000 and 40,000 feet is used by military jets, which constitute an omnipresent hazard.

Fool-proof Corridors

Congress is about to legislate a new federal air agency into existence, and it will be the job of this agency to set up a system of fool-proof air corridors through which the jets can fly regularly. Already the Civil Aeronautics Administration has set up three trans continental air corridors 10 miles wide, and no plane can fly in these corridors unless it is in contact with ground traffic centers.

Another problem bothering airlines officials is that of passenger service. How do you handle 150 passengers checking in for the same flight? Right now most airports' counter space, baggage facilities, parking space, ticket personnel are all limited. What happens if, say, Idlewild Airport in New York is socked in, and six trans-ocean jets have to put down at Logan International Airport in Boston? This could mean 1,000 passengers de-planing within an hour. Can Logan handle the situation? Can these travelers be rushed through customs and immigration? Or will they have to hang around all day waiting for baggage and clearance?

These problems constitute the obvious difficulties. In time many more may present themselves. Only a few jets will go into operation within the next few months. Come 1959, however, business at the airports will be frantic. ■

For today's new patterns in living... New designs for financial security from New York Life!

New Life Insurance Plan helps families accumulate money for a fuller life!

Modern families enjoy living in ways undreamed of not long ago. But the times have also created a difficult problem: how to budget income to enjoy living today, yet set aside substantial funds for possible emergencies or future retirement. New York Life's new Assured Accumulator Policy was designed to help meet this important problem.

This new plan covers you with a minimum of $10,000 life insurance to protect your family, if you should die before its endowment date. If you live, you can receive the face amount in cash on the endowment date. Or you can use it to provide a regular monthly retirement income. Meanwhile, the growing cash value is available in an emergency. Thus, the Assured Accumulator combines the security of life insurance with a systematic program for accumulating money.

In addition, your policy offers you four valuable options—any one of which you may use to broaden the program to fit changes in your needs. So take advantage of this opportunity to invest in your future. Ask your New York Life agent for details. Or mail the coupon at right.

Pin the name on the donkey/the elephant

A Niagara of names is cascading into the PARADE office as everyone takes a crack at the big contest to name the Democratic donkey and the Republican elephant.

Have we heard from you yet? Remember, the contest closes at midnight, September 29.

Here's what a clever name will bring: First prize winners (one for each mascot) will fly to Copenhagen on a Scandinavian Airways System DC-7C, then to the French Riviera or to Alpine ski resorts for 10 days, all expenses paid. (Special note: winners now have a wider choice of travel dates — December 1, 1958 to May 15, 1959.) Runner-up prizes (118) are special desk sets, by Arlen Trophy Co., Inc., plus scrolls from the American Heritage Foundation.

Worth shooting for? Read the rules below and enter now.

1 All entries must be legible, postmarked not later than Sept. 29, 1958. In the event of duplicate entries, the earlier postmark shall take precedence.
2 All entries become PARADE property and may be used for editorial and promotional purposes, whether winners or not. No entry can be returned. PARADE assumes no responsibility for any entry.
3 All entries must be on the official entry blank. No others can be accepted.
4 The decision of the judges is final.
5 This contest is not open to PARADE employes and families, nor to employes of distributing newspapers and families.
6 This contest is being conducted only in the continental U.S., Alaska and Hawaii, and only in any state or locality not prohibiting, taxing or licensing such contests.
7 This contest is subject to cancellation at any time.
8 All entries must be accompanied by the contestant's name and address and name of this newspaper.

makes the grade

THREE YEARS AGO when Elvis Presley burst forth on the show-business horizon, a red-hot ball of flame, I flew to Memphis to interview him and his parents.

They had just moved into a spanking new home, celebrating the first fruits of Elvis' zooming financial success. But in contrast to most nouveaux riches, they were polite, self-effacing and down-to-earth.

This was especially true of Gladys Presley, Elvis' mother, a stout, sad-eyed woman whose recent death was a crushing blow to her son.

I asked Gladys Presley about the family. She told me she had married Vernon Presley when she was 15 and he was 17. She described life in Tupelo, Miss., as hard and unrewarding. Vernon had farmed cotton, worked as a day laborer and a WPA carpenter.

"We lived," Gladys recalled, "in a li'l ole two-room shotgun house Vernon built hisself. The plumbing was outdoors." Two years after they were married, they were blessed with the arrival of identical twins. One died at birth. He was christened Jesse Garon. The other twin was Elvis Aaron. The doctor charged $25 for the delivery.

When Elvis was 14, his father decided the family would have a better chance in Memphis, so the Presleys moved north, this time into one rented room. Eventually Elvis' father got a job with a tool company. His mother served coffee in a Memphis cafeteria. Elvis mowed lawns.

"Back then," Mrs. Presley told me, "we just hoped that when Elvis grew up and got out of high school—that he might earn as much as $85 a month. We reckoned that with $85 a month, Elvis'd be able to look after hisself and also help out at home."

Elvis did better than "look after hisself." Last year before he entered the Army, his income reached $1,200,000. His recording contract with RCA guarantees him $1,000 a week for the next 20 years. The boy is set for life.

But the financial goal of $85 a month which his parents set for him lingers in my fancy. I thought of it again a few days ago. It was announced that Pvt. Elvis Presley was scheduled to be transferred from Ft. Hood, Tex., to the 3rd Armored Division in Germany. Presley's current salary in the service, the announcement said, was $85.20.

I thought of the Presleys and our talk in Memphis, and I was saddened to realize that Gladys Presley wouldn't be around to enjoy the financial security her son had earned.

REAL CHILI...

made by Hormel for people who can tell the difference

Real chili is made in small batches. Preferably by chili-lovers who demand and get juicy beef chuck meat, whole, perfect Idaho beans, a careful blend of spices, and all the time in the world to do the job right. That's us.

Real chili has one of those elusive flavors you have to coax along. Most people find it a chore to make, which is one reason we're in the chili business. You need all those ingredients pictured up there, plus a lot of experience and patience that show up in the eating. We have them.

The other reason why we're in the chili business is that nobody was putting real chili into cans until we started. The real thing is still rare enough (even in home kitchens) to keep Hormel Chili far and away the biggest seller in America.

Hormel Chili is not too hot, not too mild, not too thick, not too thin. It's just too good to miss. It's real chili . . . and once you taste it, you'll never forget it.

This is the real thing... this is real chili

MCMURDO SOUND, ANTARCTICA. How do you go about having fun when you're stationed at the bottom of the world in the bleak, bitter-cold Antarctic? For the 600 U.S. scientists and servicemen posted here, the solution is simple. You go "parasledding."

This new variation of risking your neck was dreamed up by parachute rigger George R. Gowen, Jr., of Philadelphia. By attaching a 24-ft. parachute to a 6-ft. plastic sled, he came up with a novel vehicle that skims over the ice at wind speed—60 m.p.h. or more

The course is tough. Besides bumps in the ice, 700-lb. seals sometimes loom in the way. Biggest thrill comes when the sled leaps high over a large fuel hose in the path. Dangerous? Maybe. But fun comes hard here.

What you should know about cuts

by DARYL P. HARVEY, M.D.

This is the seventh in a series prepared by family doctors for PARADE families. From time to time, doctors like your own discuss everyday problems of health. Today's article is by Dr. Daryl P. Harvey, of Glasgow, Ky.

CUTS, OF COURSE, are breaks in the skin, that amazing protective covering Nature has given our bodies. They also can involve the mucous membranes, tissue which lines the cavities and channels of our bodies.

Generally, cuts are classified as minor or superficial, major or deep. Serious cuts always should be seen by your doctor. He will treat them to prevent: 1) infection; 2) blood loss; 3) disfigurement and 4) loss of function of the damaged area.

Luckily, most cuts are minor and are not likely to be treated by a doctor, but rather by simple first-aid measures. With minor cuts, you should follow these steps:

Cleanse the wound with soap and warm water. Apply a sterile dressing and bandage loosely. If dirt, splinters, glass, metal, etc., get into the wound, don't try to remove them unless they work out easily during cleaning. (See a doctor if foreign materials remain in the wound.)

Do not blow or breathe on a wound. Do not allow handkerchiefs, hands or soiled material to touch it. All these may cause infection. Change the bandage often enough to keep it clean and dry.

The Serious Wounds

Major cuts require quick medical attention. How do you spot them? If the edges of the wound refuse to fall together, stitches may be required.

Also, the doctor should see deep-penetration wounds; all cuts about the head and face; cuts in which you know foreign materials are present; cuts where mild pressure or bandaging does not control bleeding; cuts in which the area around the wound becomes red, painful or swollen; those in which an organ around the wound does not look or function properly.

If bleeding cannot be controlled easily with a bandage, apply pressure with the fingers, or use a tourniquet. Here are the chief pressure points:

- For bleeding of the head above the eyes, apply pressure against the skull, just in front of the ear. Bleeding of the face is controlled by pressure about one inch forward from the angle of the jaw. To control bleeding of the neck, apply pressure on the side of the windpipe—back against the backbone.
- Bleeding from the shoulder and the upper arm can be controlled by pressure behind the inner end of the collar bone, down against the first rib. By pressing on the body side of the upper arm, halfway between the shoulder and elbow, bleeding from the lower arm, forearm and hand can be controlled.
- Press down in the middle groin just below the pelvic bone to control bleeding of the thigh, leg or foot.

If pressure itself cannot control bleeding, use a tourniquet made from a strong piece of cloth. (Consult a doctor or Red Cross manual for its proper use.)

Signposts for Treatment

There are several important factors in setting up the treatment for cuts.

1 Is the cut more than six hours old? If so, it requires treatment for infection.

2 What caused the cut? The answer helps the doctor to determine the amount and types of medication he gives to prevent blood poisoning, lockjaw and other infections. (In this connection, iodine never should be used on cuts. It produces tissue damage.)

3 What is the location of the cut? Those that penetrate deeply are more likely to become infected. Also, they may require surgery for complete repair.

4 Is your appearance involved? The "cosmetic" and psychological factors surrounding cuts cannot be overlooked. It is tragic, indeed, if an individual's face or body is permanently disfigured by cuts. Thus, an aim of prompt treatment is to minimize unsightly scars.

5 Has a tendon been severed? This, too, is a vital question. Deep cuts which sever tendons (especially of the hands, feet, arms and legs) can affect the proper funciton of these organs through life.

To summarize: Cuts may cause infection, blood loss, disfigurement or loss of function of body parts. A serious cut requires your doctor's prompt attention.

Such attention may well save you from pain, worry and permanent effects which could have been avoided. ■

HOW TO BUY A CARPET WITH CONFIDENCE

...look for a trusted name from a trusted dealer

Your carpet is an important purchase to you. Yet no one can judge carpet by looking at it. It takes knowledge of fibers, weaves and textures. That's why we suggest that you go to a dependable carpet dealer — one who knows carpets expertly, is both able and willing to help you buy carpet that is exactly suited to your needs.

Lees dealers, listed on the adjoining page, are such men — carefully selected to be your trusted advisers.

For the very reason that they know carpet quality and value, these men appreciate the merits of "those heavenly carpets by Lees"®. They know that for beauty of design, for heavenly colors and wonderful long wear, you can't buy better carpet.

When you go to your Lees dealer, ask to see the Lees famous "best buys" shown above. They offer remarkable variety in texture and color selections: Starglow, a plush, in 10 colors; Virginian, figured, in 14 patterns; Western Star, famous Lees rugged tweed, 8 colors.

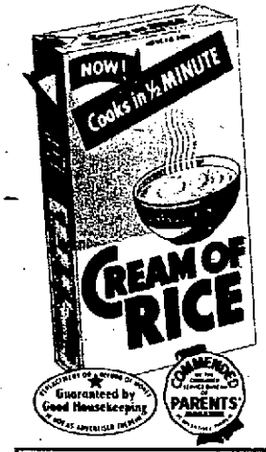

Lees prices give you a welcome variety, too: from $5.95 to $25.95 a square yard. (You can budget if you wish.) And no matter what price you pay, when you buy a Lees, you can be sure you'll get the greatest possible beauty and value for every dollar you spend.

When one parent

by JANET FRANK

On February 23, 1957, the following advertisement appeared between the lost-and-found and death notices on the back page of a metropolitan newspaper:

PARENTS WITHOUT PARTNERS

Whether you have your children full time or "on visitation" — wouldn't you like to know others in the same position — to talk over common problems, to develop a fuller life for both yourself and your children, to hold group discussions with psychologists, lawyers, etc.? We'd like to hear from you.

The ad drew more than 30 replies.

Today the organization that grew from this appeal, Parents Without Partners, Inc., has more than 800 paid-up members. Seven regional groups have been formed in New York and New Jersey. And two small groups, Parents Without Partners of Miami and the Single Parents Society of Philadelphia, are following in its footsteps.

But this is only a beginning. Each year American marriages, involving more than 200,000 children, hit the rocks; death claims either mother or father of many more.

Curiously, not much is known about the problems of parents without marriage partners. Once a divorce is granted, little is done to help people adjust to a new way of life. And so it is, too, when death takes one parent.

Earnest hoofing youngster keeps pace with Jim Egleson at Parents Without Partners outing.

is missing

. . . bringing up children singlehandedly imposes special burdens. This is the story of how parents—separated from their marriage partners by death or divorce—join forces to solve common problems

For single parents, as much concerned with bringing up happy children as parents in "whole" families, Parents Without Partners offers a means of solving together what has been a "do-it-yourself" dilemma.

Behind the idea that led to the creation of PWP are two single parents from New York City: James D. Egleson, a commercial artist, and Jacqueline Bernard, a writer. Jacqui has custody of her son, Joey; Jim's two boys live with his ex-wife but spend many weekends and vacations with him.

One July morning about two years ago, Jacqui and Jim sat on a beach talking over their mutual problems. Married friends listened, pointed out the difference between their problems and those of a "whole" family and suggested that single parents might learn a lot from each other. The idea seemed attractive, but no such group existed. For the time being the subject was dropped.

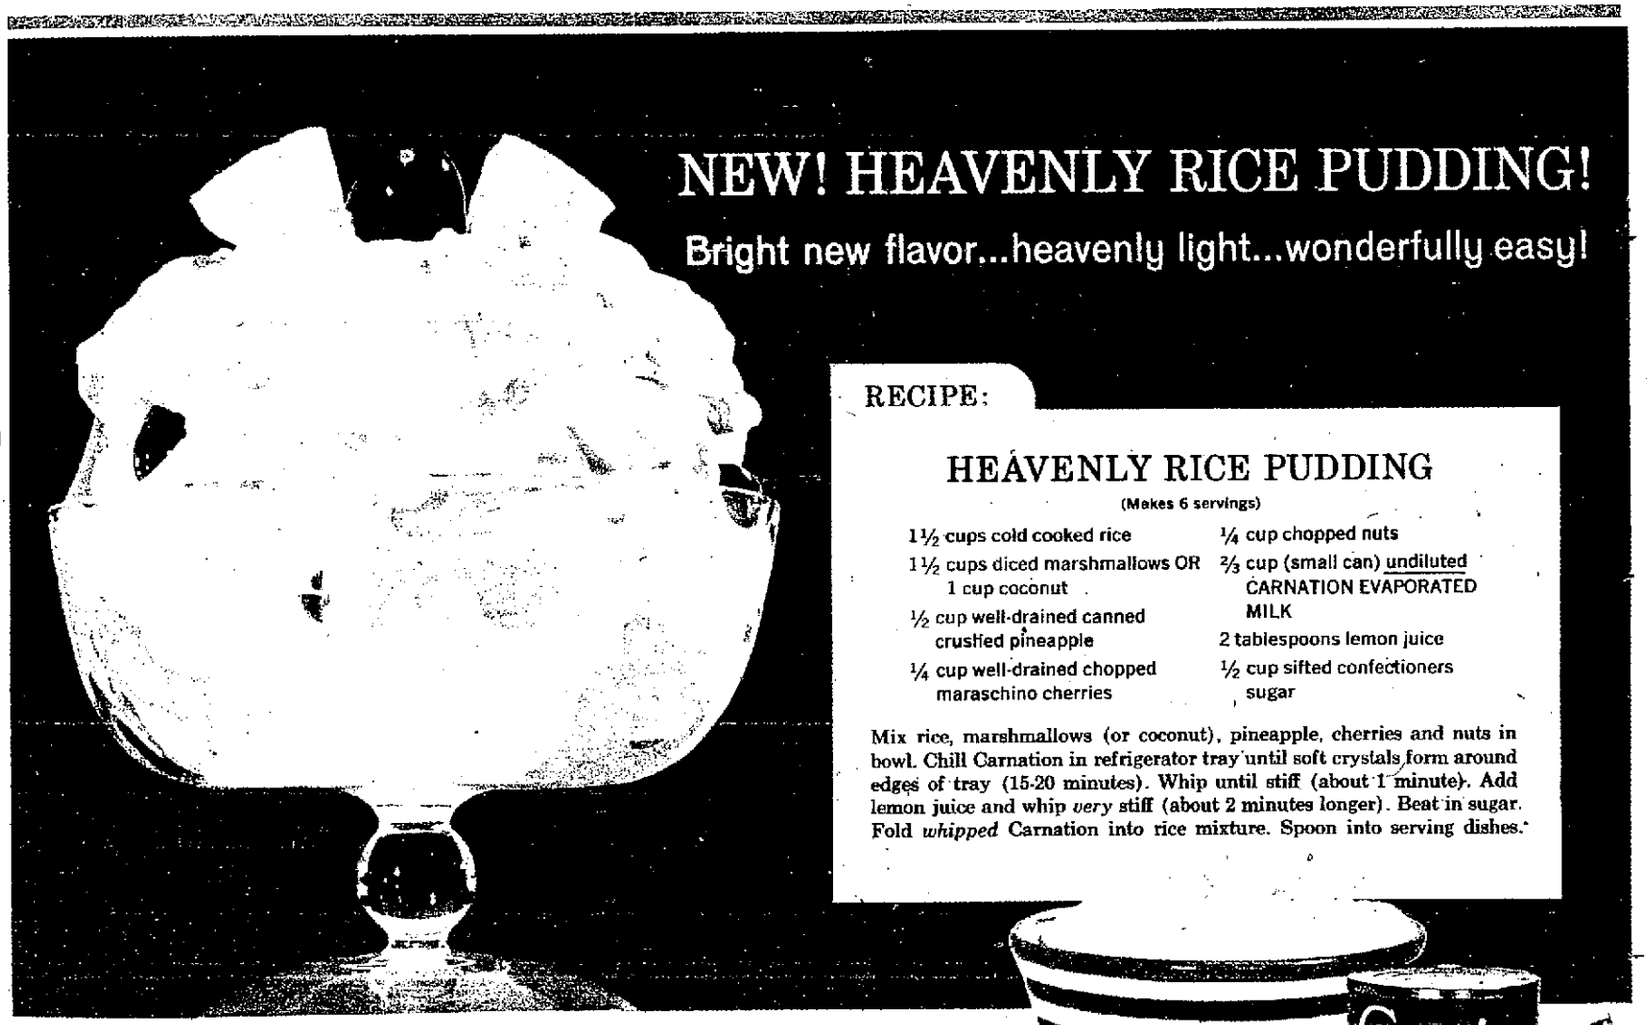

But in the months that followed, the idea cropped up again and again. Finally, overcoming their qualms, Jacqui and Jim decided to try an experiment. One ad and one meeting later, Parents Without Partners was born.

Within a few short months over 100 single parents were getting together regularly, and Jim Egleson and Jacqui Bernard had been elected president and vice president of the infant organization. Meetings quickly developed into a lively exchange of ideas and information on the special problems of members. Widows and widowers as well as divorced parents welcomed the opportunity to talk things over with others who understood.

Profiting from each other's company, single

"When I joined PWP," one member confesses, "my ex-husband and I were having a running battle over his visits to my daughter. He was supposed to come every Sunday, but frequently he broke the date at the last minute. My little girl was unhappy, and I was furious. I threatened, consulted a lawyer, accused him of being selfish and irresponsible. Then a PWP father set me straight.

" 'Look,' he told me, 'your ex has one day off a week. He's entitled to spend some time with his friends, too. Why don't you work out a visiting schedule that's more realistic? Every other week, for example.' "

She did. And it worked like a charm. The father hasn't missed a visiting day since.

The Fifth Wheels

Single parents tend to be "fifth wheels"—belonging neither to the single nor the married group in our society and somewhat suspicious of every person of the opposite sex. As one PWP member expresses it, "You feel as if you're not allowed on the Ark." But through the PWP's program, members grow to know each other and to develop a new and more satisfying kind of life.

Sabina Holland, a widow with two sons, 11 and 15, explains: "Before I joined PWP, I thought I was being a good mother, 'devoting my life to my children.' Actually, it wasn't healthy for any of us. I remember sitting up one night, thinking about this, while my older boy was at a party. When he came home we started to talk about it. 'I don't like to go out and leave you just sitting around here, Mom,' he said. 'You should have more friends of your own and do things, too.' And he was right."

One of PWP's first planned activities was a series of talks by guest speakers. As a group, members could get expert advice which most of them could not afford as individuals. They invited specialists in fields such as psychiatry, human relations, social welfare, pediatrics and law to address meetings. In the question period following each lecture, members and guest speakers explored the uncharted subject of single parenthood — together.

"One of the subjects we are all concerned with, naturally enough," says Inge Hardison, mother of a 4-year-old girl, "is remarriage. I confess that I used to be unrealistically romantic. But listening to specialists in human relations and talking with other PWP members has made me weigh my expectations. I'll probably always be a bit of a romantic, but I think I'm taking a more sensible view of the future now."

Many of the experts, commenting on the uniqueness of the group, said that these meetings were valuable for them, too. Dr. Philip Zlatchin of New York University frankly admitted he'd like to have a group discussion first. "You are your own best experts," he said. "We psychologists can only guide you."

PWP also has set up a discussion-group program in which members meet in small groups under the guidance of trained counselors. Lou Heidelberger, a textile converter (who unlike most PWP fathers, has custody of his 12-year-old son), and Miriam Proctor, a psychotherapist (who also is a member of PWP), devote their spare time to organizing this part of the program. One woman who recently returned to her ex-husband credits her discussion group with helping to save her marriage.

But PWP members don't spend all their time talking over problems. Soon after the first few meetings they began to plan parties and picnics for themselves and their children. Joe Jagda, an engineer, took over the social committee. Vince Fuccella, a divorced father who maintains a home for his three children and runs a shoe-repair business, heads childrens' activities. Between them, in the past year, they have organized picnics, a Halloween party, square dances, dance classes, a concert and the first annual dinner. On their own, individual members of PWP exchange visits and share sports and hobbies.

These activities are organized for pure fun; but they have had their educational aspects, too. One PWP mother, for example, lived in a neighborhood where there were no other single parents. "My 6-year-old used to feel different," she says, "and at 6 that isn't a good feeling. Then we came to PWP parties and she made PWP friends. It was a great relief to her to learn that she wasn't the only child whose parents were divorced."

The Single Father

Proof of the social program's success can be seen in a statistic: two marriages between members have taken place.

Educating fathers who do not live with their children is one of PWP's major goals. Many men who are divorced from their wives feel divorced from their children, too. Often, they simply don't know what to do with them on visiting days.

PWP's fathers hold regular Monday-night bull sessions and talk things over together, make suggestions to each other. Since much of what they have to say is of interest to women, too, a "father's column" in the monthly PWP Newsletter gives the gist of these discussions.

Until last October, most of the growth of PWP membership could be credited to word-of-mouth advertising. Then a newspaper story appeared. Letters poured in from every corner of the globe. A Dayton, Ohio, lawyer volunteered his services to any chapter that might be started in his area. A professional librarian in Ithaca, N. Y., offered to help in research. A priest in South America asked for full details. A doctor contributed $20 to be used in any way PWP saw fit. A Stamford, Conn., woman wrote: "Congratulations on parents lose their sense of being 'fifth wheels' starting one of the most brilliant moves ever to hit the unhappy subculture of the thousands of do-it-yourself parents."

PWP's Goals

In the future PWP plans to help organize groups in other areas: As a national organization, they feel that they can accomplish serious goals more effectively than a sprinkling of similar but unrelated "clubs." These goals include:

- Setting up an advisory group to help divorced, separated and widowed parents through the difficult period of marital breakup, with minimum harm to their children.
- Studying current practices of awarding custody and arranging visiting privileges, to find out which methods work best for the children—and for the parents.
- Drawing up a "code of behavior" (with the help of professional advisers) to guide single parents in handling problems affecting their children.
- Working as a "friend of the court" with judges and lawyers to give them the benefit of PWP's cumulative experience and knowledge.
- Finding out more about the role of the single father.
- Examining the problems of remarriage so that members may learn to avoid difficulties that may lead to a second marital breakup.

These are ambitious plans for a group that began without precedent less than two years ago. But looking back on the work PWP, Inc., has accomplished so far, Jim Egleson now answers the earlier remark of one single parent: "We have built ourselves an Ark." ■

Partners in song, members of Parents Without Partners celebrate the organization's first anniversary with close harmony. Group meets often to hear experts, trade advice.

A hearty New England meal

by BETH MERRIMAN Parade food editor

Mary Margaret McBride

AS MANY THOUSANDS of Mary Margaret McBride's admirers know, no one appreciates good American cooking quite as much as this famous and personable radio commentator. For years she avidly has been seeking out special regional dishes of treasured goodness. She has collected the recipes—and the lore that goes with them—from every section of the country. And now Miss McBride has put them into a book, The Harvest of American Cooking (G. P. Putnam's Sons, $7.50). It tells through anecdotes, history and 1,000 recipes, a very special story of 48 states. "But the tang of New England cooking and the charm of New England lore are things that stay with you forever," she says. And here are two recipes to prove it—a hearty bean pot stew and a New England bread that's a perfect companion to it.

BEAN POT STEW

2 lbs. stewing beef
¼ cup flour
2½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. pepper
3 tbsp. salad oil
1 garlic clove, minced
1 qt. boiling water.
6 medium carrots, halved
10 small onions
½ tsp. paprika
5 stalks celery, cut in 2" pieces
1 tbsp. lemon juice
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
2 bay leaves
1 tsp. sugar
Dash cloves

Cut beef in 1" cubes. Combine flour, salt and pepper; roll meat in flour mixture to coat. Brown meat on all sides in hot salad oil. Add all remaining ingredients. Turn into 2½-qt. bean pot or casserole. Cover. Bake in moderate oven (350°) 2½ to 3 hours. Makes six to eight servings.

ANADAMA BREAD

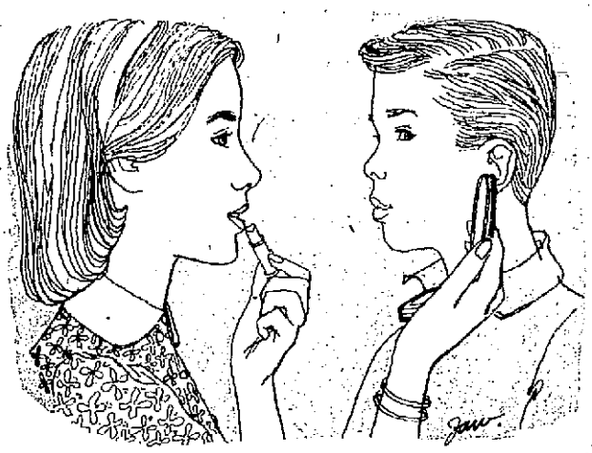

2 cups water
½ cup yellow corn meal
2 tbsp. shortening
½ cup molasses
1½ tsp. salt
1 pkg. active dry yeast
½ cup warm water (110°)
5 cups sifted flour (about)

Boil water. Stir corn meal very slowly into boiling water. When thoroughly mixed add shortening, molasses and salt. Pour into large mixing bowl; cool to lukewarm. Sprinkle yeast on warm water; stir until dissolved; add to corn meal mixture with enough flour to make a stiff dough. Turn dough out on lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl; cover; let rise in warm place until double in bulk; about 1 hour. Cut dough in half and shape each half into a loaf. Place in greased bread pans 7½" x 3½" x 2¾". Cover with cloth; let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Bake in hot oven (400°) 50 to 60 minutes. Brush top with melted butter.

HOPE BENNETT talks with teenagers

Lipstick– at what age?

"I'M 13, and in the seventh grade. I want to wear lipstick to school and to parties, but my mother doesn't think I should. My girl friends all wear it. What do you think?" — Barbara B., Montgomery City, Mo.

Since lipstick, high heels and other adult fashions seem to be the bone of contention in many families, I asked PARADE's panelists, representative teenagers from all over the country, for their comments.

Norma Cazares, 16, San Diego, Calif.: "Since girls want to be admired by boys, I asked boys what they thought. They said high school is soon enough for both make-up and heels. They also said that girls should practice wearing heels in private before stepping out in them in public."

Florence Goldman, 19, Chicago: "It depends on the maturity of the girl. A junior-high student with heavy make-up and high heels doesn't look older. She looks like a girl playing grownup."

Marcia Moore, 17, Alexandria, Va.: "I personally believe eighth grade is soon enough for lipstick, I wanted to start sooner, but now I realize how silly I would have looked. Of course, a lot depends on the community. If most of the girls in class wear heels and lipstick, the girl who can't feels abused."

Others agree. And, they add, most parents seem to be guided by general practice, as well as their daughters' good taste.

If you are having trouble on this point, it may be a good idea to get together with your friends and follow the Greenville, S.C., rule. There, by long-standing and traditional practice, every girl in the eighth grade is expected to wear a touch of very light lipstick the day before Christmas holidays. Next, on the day before Easter vacation, she wears low French heels (by far the easiest to start out with). Parents seem content with this arrangement; arguments are avoided — and everyone is happier.

Sure winner! New Football Meat Loaf made with Evaporated Milk. It's tender and juicy and so smooth slicing. Evaporated Milk stars in lots of smooth dishes like this Football Meat Loaf with celery sauce. Try it soon!

FOOTBALL MEAT LOAF WITH CREAMY CELERY SAUCE

Serves 6 — Preheated 350 degree oven

- 1½ lbs. ground beef
- 1⅓ cups (1 tall can) Evaporated Milk
- ½ cup fine bread crumbs
- ½ cup chopped onions
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ teaspoon oregano
- 1 10½ oz. can cream of celery soup

Mix ground beef lightly with ¾ cup of the Evaporated Milk and the remaining ingredients except the celery soup.

Place meat mixture in a shallow baking pan. Pat lightly to form oval resembling a football.

Bake about 45-50 minutes.

Remove from oven. Garnish with strips of Cheddar Cheese and pimiento for football "lacing."

Return to oven 2-3 minutes.

Heat cream of celery soup with remaining Evaporated Milk to make smooth cream sauce.

Irish hands claw at him from three sides as ball-carrying Anderson bolts into clear against Notre Dame last fall on 81-yard touchdown sprint.

The Army's Mr. Anderson is a gentleman but . . .

He hates everybody on Saturday

by JOHN DEVANEY
Parade sports editor

WEST POINT, N. Y.

YOU MEET CADET BOB ANDERSON and you're struck by his collar-ad handsomeness, his shyness with strangers, his patient politeness. But to those who meet halfback Bob Anderson on the football field these coming Saturdays, he's a different sort —a hot-eyed 200-pound ram who'd butt the skull of any poor soul blocking his path to a half-yard gain.

Last season Anderson butted his way to a new Army rushing record of 983 yards (breaking legendary Glenn Davis' mark), was the nation's second best at piling up touchdowns (14) and became one of college football's rare ones: an all-American in his sophomore year. "Anderson," says Army coach Earl Blaik, "could be one of the great running backs of this decade."

Such talk makes "Andy" Anderson (see cover) wince. Honestly fearful he'll be thought conceited, he calls almost everyone "Sir," modestly points out to interviewers he's slower than Davis, with whom he's often compared. Pleads the shy, almost bashful Andy: "I just want to be known as another one of the starters on the Army team."

How can he be so easy-going and shy off the field, so violent every Saturday? "Sir," says Anderson, "some football players are naturally aggressive, the kind who are always banging their way around. I'm just not made that way. But in high school my coach told me I would have to get tougher on the field. Out there, he used to say, 'you've got to feel that nobody is your friend.' "

Jekyll and Hyde

Since Anderson by nature feels everybody is his friend, he has had to become someone else—at least on Saturdays. Before each game he deliberately works himself into a fury of teeth-grinding aggressiveness. "I become so filled with fight," he says, smiling, "I don't hardly even know myself."

This sort of Jekyll-and-Hyde behavior, though not banned by the NCAA, isn't the best of all tonics for football players, admits Anderson. "In high school," he says, "I would get so aroused sometimes I'd be sick before a game. And even now, after building up my emotions, I go on the field a bag of nerves."

But football still delights him. He lined up for the first time while still in grammar school at Cocoa, Fla. (His parents had moved there from Linden, N. J., after the war; his father is now a civilian employe at Patrick Air Force Base.) Big for his age, he played on the high-school team while still in grammar school. In his senior year at Cocoa High, he dashed 96 yards for a touchdown — it's still a Florida record — and made All-State halfback.

Wanted Man

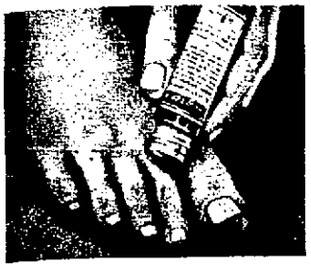

Running to his door were scouts from some 20 colleges. They flew him thousands of miles to inspect fabulous campus facilities and promised him everything except the bell in the student union. They dangled fancy cars and a weekly salary, even a high-paying job for his dad.

Instead, Anderson chose West Point. Here he gets a free education, room and board, $111-a-month cadet pay—and nothing else. Where he could have basked in the pampered life of a football hero at any other college, here he suffered silently through the punishing hazing of plebe year. He rises at 5:50 a.m., is in bed by 10 at night. He drills smartly under the spit-and-polish discipline of the Point, spends over eight hours a day — including every weekday evening — at knuckledown studies.

Even Anderson isn't 100 per cent sure why he came here. "Sometimes," he says frankly, "I'm almost sorry I did." But all in all, he believes the Point gives him and other football players who come here what they most want: 1) one of the country's finest educations; 2) a start in a profession—the military—that stands high in prestige and security.

"Oh yes, sir," says Anderson, "I could get a good education at many other schools. But at some places it's pretty tough going on a football scholarship. You hear that the players are called The Animals by

NEW WAY TO STOP HEADACHES FAST WITHOUT ASPIRIN!

READ THE FACTS ABOUT NEBS—FOR PEOPLE WHO SHOULD NOT TAKE ASPIRIN

Nebs

The most important discovery for headache relief in over sixty years, Nebs is the only leading headache tablet to contain no aspirin. Nebs is pure Acetyl-p-Aminophenol. It works more efficiently than aspirin, buffered aspirin, or "3-ingredient" tablets to give you the fastest possible relief from pain.

If you find aspirin doesn't give you fast, complete relief, or if aspirin upsets your stomach—you should try Nebs. Nebs is safe, won't upset your stomach because Nebs contains no acid ingredients to cause upset.

This is especially important if you are the one person in five who, according to scientific research, should not take aspirin. For these people, aspirin may be more harmful than helpful. So why not play safe? Get Nebs, the one tablet that contains no aspirin, no acid ingredients of any kind, and get the fastest possible relief.

the student body and herded off by themselves. A player might be highly intelligent and really want a good education, but how can you study when you're isolated like that? Pretty soon you'd give up and become another one of The Animals."

The prestige of being a West Pointer (to some, it means the finest of our youth) has been most important to Anderson. His parents, though not poor, never were able to give him and his older brother all the things that come to many kids.

"When I left Cocoa for West Point," he recalls, "a few people said I wouldn't make it, either at football or in the classroom. During plebe year, when I wanted to quit, I thought what it would be like to go home a failure and it scared me. It still does. When I went home on leave after my first year here, my dad met me and I'll never forget the look of pride on his face. He took me into a corner and whispered, in a special way he has: 'You dood it, son, you dood it.'"

Rah-Rah Is Downgraded

Such pride among parents, says Lieut. Col. Francis Roberts, graduate manager of athletics here, is one of the big reasons West Point has long attracted top football players. "But today," he adds, "we're finding that the high-school football player himself is wiser. Raised during troubled war years, he has no illusions about the Joe College rah-rah life. Among the most intelligent ones—and they're the only ones by law we can admit—we find they want an education first, a chance to play football second."

This week, though, football is king here as Army's Black Knights, led by Anderson and running-mate Pete Dawkins, prepare for their debut next Saturday against South Carolina. After such a sensational sophomore year, does Anderson fear opposing teams will gang up to stop him, ruin his chances for All-America?

"Any good college team," he says, "can stop one man if it wants to. But I hope teams do try to bottle me up. That will spring loose Pete Dawkins or Harry Walters. Then they'll find," says Anderson, with typical modesty and menace in his voice, "that Army has more than one good ball carrier." ■

Heated mattress: Now you can get a mattress with a built-in electric heating grid. Because the heat penetrates the body, it's said to help relieve rheumatism, muscular soreness, other ailments for which heat brings more comfort. The grid works automatically on body contact, a bedside switch controls temperature. Twin or full size: $99.50. Winfred-Eldridge, 666 N. Lake Shore, Chicago, Ill.

Down-spout disperser: Is the rainwater from downspouts gouging your lawn and eroding soil? A new attachment should help: a coiled, flat hose (48" long, 7" wide) that uncoils when it rains, dispersing water in a gentle sprinkle along its length. $4.95. Down Spout-O-Matic, 431 S. Princeton, Villa Park, Ill.

Stick-on shade pulls: To eliminate dangling cords and add a decorative note to your window shades, you can apply self-sticking plastic tabs to hem centers. They lie flat, don't gather dust or break and are luminescent. In gold, silver, chrome, many colors. 4" to 6" widths: 24¢ up. Herco, 1510 S. Pulaski Rd., Chicago 23, Ill.

For your car: A new battery, said to save up to half of operating costs, is made of inter-locking, replaceable 2-volt plastic cells. Most times when you must buy a new battery, it's because of a failure of only one cell, maker claims. Easy to unlock and replace individually, the new cells are guaranteed 40 months. $9.96 each. For full details: Aut-O-Cel, Box 220, Des Moines, Iowa.

Hang-up cart: When not in use, you can fold this serving cart (r.) flat, hang it in a closet. It's 29" x 21" x 32½", rolls easily on 8" wheels, 3" casters. Trays have rolled edges and black, baked-on enamel finish. Legs are gold anodized aluminum. $24.95. Trimble, 100 Wren, Rochester 13, N. Y.

He uses only GLEEM - the toothpaste for people who can't brush after every meal

JUST ONE BRUSHING
destroys decay- and odor-causing bacteria

PROOF – destroys decay bacteria

Mouth bacteria, chief cause of decay, build up overnight (shown at left). One Gleem brushing destroys up to 90% of these bacteria (shown at right).

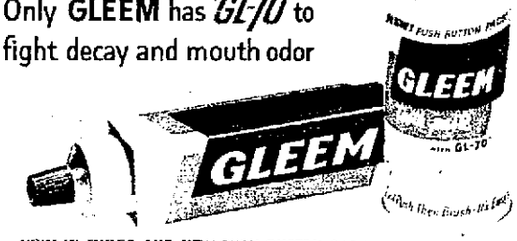

PROOF – stops mouth odor all day

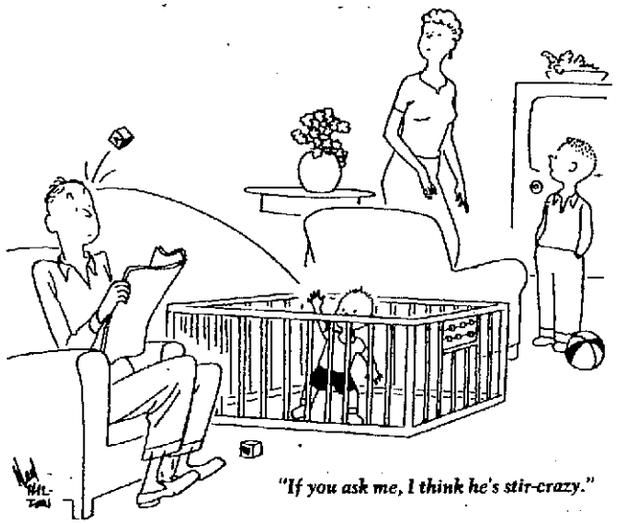

Tests prove that one morning brushing with Gleem destroys odor-causing bacteria so effectively mouth odor is stopped all day for most people.

If you, like Steve here, can't brush after every meal—even though it's best—take a tip from Steve's mom. She knows food combines with mouth bacteria to cause decay and mouth odor. So her family uses Gleem—the toothpaste for people who can't brush after every meal. You, too, can depend on refreshing Gleem, with exclusive GL-70, to destroy most mouth bacteria with just one brushing.

Only GLEEM has GL-70 to fight decay and mouth odor

Hay Fever Patients now open Nose-Sinus Zone with New 3-Layer Tablet

Clear, free breathing restored in minutes as congested nasal zone is decongested—stops sneezing, watery, itching eyes

Chicago, Ill. (Special) Observers here are hailing a remarkable new advance against the most unrelenting misery of hay fever—congestion in the nose-sinus zone.

A way has been found to decongest this congestion. This is the central fact which has aroused so much interest on the part of hay fever sufferers who have never found satisfactory relief from other medications.

Up to now, nose drops, eye drops, inhalers, sprays and antihistamines have given some measure of relief. But today you can expect much more complete comfort. This new compound reaches all the congested nasal areas from all sides, through the blood stream. It opens stuffed-up, blocked nasal passages. Free breathing is restored in minutes. Stops unpleasant sneezing; watery, itching eyes are cleared.

New Tablet Discovery

It took a new kind of tablet—made in three separate layers—to combine the special ingredients which make this formula so amazingly effective. Among them is a new decongestant substance so effective it has become the single ingredient most prescribed by doctors for relief of congestion in the nose-sinus area.

Available without Prescription

Now available without prescription—this new 3-layer tablet is called Dristan®. Its unique combination of ingredients—(1) opens up blocked breathing, (2) stops unpleasant sneezing, (3) clears red, watery, itching eyes. At the same time, Dristan helps the body meet the great demands put upon it by the stress and strain of hay fever, and bolsters the body's resistance to infection.

Hay fever sufferers who want faster, more complete relief than they have ever before obtained are advised to try Dristan Decongestant Tablets—satisfaction guaranteed, or money refunded.
